It is probable that after the plans have been submitted to the local military authorities some changes may be suggested, and Mr. Hall has already noted one fact, namely that in the plan there is no provision made for a corps of engineers, which it is expected will be established here in the near future, and he will represent to the Minister of Militia the desirability of providing accommodation for this most important branch of the service.

Those who have so far seen the plans seem to be satisfied that the building will be one which will be a credit to the city, and to the militia service, and with the completion, which will be at as early a date as is possible, Peterborough will possess one of the most handsome and best appointed armoury buildings in the Dominion, for which fact great credit is due Mr. Hall for the energetic manner in which he has presented the claims of the military interests of his constituency.

Canadians Claim the Northland

Dominion Authorities Will Keep Americans Out.

Hudson Bay Region May Become Important by Railway Extension and the Discovery of Gold.

The New York Tribune of a recent date remarks as follows regarding the step taken by the Dominion Parliament last March regarding the Northern Canadian domains:—

The question of the ownership of Hudson's bay and the sub-arctic wilds beyond it is revived now by the foundland sealer Neptune, which has been sent with a body of the Northwest Mounted Police to the Baffinland coast. Commander Low of the Canadian Geological Bureau is in charge of the expedition on behalf of the Dominion Government.

This step has been taken because in the parliament last March the Government was urged to take more vigorous measures to prevent the Americans from acquiring a foothold in the far north. One senator demanded prompt action "to avert the process of gradually dismembering the dominion of which the Alaskan award was the most recent instance. This may be repeated and we be obliged to part with slices of our territory." He also said:—

"The next possible arbitration may be concerning Hudson bay, for the United States has already put forward claims to that territory, and we cannot but feel that, however unfounded these may be, if they get them before an arbitration tribunal we may have to part with some of our lands again. It will be a mistake if we allow the Americans to get possessions of the whole of the Arctic regions, and thus surround us on all sides."

Sir Wilfred Laurier replied that "the Government was aware that the Americans were exploring in the north and giving names to regions which were British territory, but the Government was taking steps to put an end to that, and had already dispatched an expedition there to hoist the British flag over all the northland and enforce Canadian authority there."

Hence the enlarged scope of the present expedition, which will establish itself over the areas even north of the bay. In that inlet itself there is already another Canadian cruiser, the Arctic (formerly the German Pole seeker Gauss), purchased by the Dominion last summer for permanent service here. It is under control of Major Wendle, commanding the police there and holding a commission as lieutenant governor of Hudson's Bay.

Early in 1903 Canada, when preparing her case for the Alaskan boundary tribunal, awoke to the necessity of her tenure in Hudson's Bay, and at once chartered the Neptune and sent her there with Commander Low and some scientists to explore and annex the frigid wastes. Major Moodie and a detachment of police also went along to establish a post.

There is room for a serious dispute between Canada and America over this northland. Canada claims it by the charter of the region to the Hudson Bay company by the British king in 1670, French acquiescence by the treaty of 1763, wherein she renounced all claim thereto, American recognition of the "exclusive rights" of the Hudson Bay Company by the convention of 1818, Canada's purchase of all rights and liberties of that company in 1869 and the cession to her by Britain in 1870 of all Arctic America which British explorers had discovered. Against this it is contended that England has no power to convert into a mare clausum (closed sea) abody of water only exceeded in area by the Mediterranean and Caribbean seas, and that the discovering and naming of lands by American and Norwegian explorers gave the countries they represented a right to these lands. The fact that American whalers have frequented Hudson's Bay for nearly seventy years without objection also seriously challenges Canada's claim to the explorers of eminent domain there.

Important as was the problem two years ago, it has become still more so for Canada now, as her new transcontinental railway project is taking shape and the extension of a branch to the shores of Hudson's Bay is being advocated in order to serve as an alternative outlet for the rapidly increasing grain products of the region. This is certainly the shortest and cheapest way of transporting grain from the West to Europe—a short rail haul from Manitoba to the bay and then a speedy steamer trip across the northern seas, the total mileage being about eight hundred less than by way of Montreal, Boston or New York, a fact not to be minimized in these days of keen competition. By this route also the preservation of perishable freights in summer would be greatly aided by their conveyance across these chill northern waters. The diversion of traffic to this area would stimulate the development of the now unpeopled areas through which the new railway is to run. Settlers are already pouring by thousands into this country, so that in a short period Canada will have to devise a special means of getting her products to market.

The feasibility of the Hudson Bay route is one of the minor purposes of the expeditions which Canada has sent out.

The explorations of the Canadian Geographical Survey through the Hudson Bay region, the last few years, have shown that it possesses land and fishery wealth of great variety and immense importance. In the Bay itself the chief prize is the northern whale or bowhead, which contains whalebone twelve to fifteen feet long, and worth $5 a pound. A single cetacean is worth about $10,000 to $12,000. These whales are the prizes which attract the New Bedford whalemen, who have been fishing there some seventy years, and whose operations Canada is endeavouring to terminate by restrictive regulations, so that she may retain absolute possession of the whole area. Other marine creatures which are hunted there are white whales or grampus, which yield hides and fat from which oil is obtained; walrus, whose ivory tusks and thick skins, have an assured market; narwhales, whose curved tusks are much prized; porpoises, the hides of which make a fine commercial leather; seals of several varieties that supply excellent skins and a high class oil, and about thirty kinds of edible fish, including salmon, cod, perch, grilse, char and trout.

The vast territory contiguous to the bay is the theatre of the greatest fur trade in the world, having made the Hudson Bay Company, both famous and prosperous. So large are the returns from this industry that rival concerns are even now venturing into competition there with this powerful corporation, and Lord Strathcona, presiding at the quarterly court of the Hudson Bay Company directors, in London, on July 3rd, warned his associated that these rivals, inexperienced though they were, possessed unlimited capital, and could do much injury. He told the directors and shareholders that they need not look for as large profits in the future as in the past.

The coast and hinterland are known to contain gold, copper and iron. The exploration of the gold reefs is to be undertaken by the Neptune party. They lie to the west of Baffinland. Mr. Low is an experienced Arctic traveller, and should he find these auriferous areas to be of any extent and richness the discovery would be most important and the significance of Canada's occupation of the territory doubly marked. The existence of a second Klondyke on this North Atlantic seaboard, with a week or ten days' run of the principal European and American ports, and accessible for several months every year by steamers like the Newfoundland sealing fleet, would mean that the rush for the Klondyke, which was witnessed in 1897 and 1898, would be repeated here on probably a larger scale. The possible finding of another gold belt inspires Canada with the greatest uneasiness as to her future hold on the region, and the need for emphasizing her ownership as much as possible now. She fears that in such a case Americans would be advancing claims to the region, and seeking to obtain a strip of territory there, as in the Alaska boundary dispute, which would enable her to shut off Canada from access to the seaboard, and make this a constant menace to Canadian progress in the far North, and perhaps from properly developing the region altogether. Unlike Alaska it is almost impossible to build a railway line up the western side of Hudson's Bay, across the barren lands, to the northern wastes where the gold exists.—New York Tribune.

Deserted Her Hubby and Is Arrested

A Butte, Montana, 20-Year Old Wife Went to Live With Neighbour

Is Now Under Arrest for Bigamy—Peculiar Conduct of Young Wife.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—A despatch from Butte, Mont., says: "Two weeks ago the 20-year-old wife of George Melville, a miner, told her husband she was going out to attend the wedding of a friend. Yesterday it was discovered that she was the bride, and had married Harry Northey, a young man living less than half a mile from her home.

Mrs. Melville had told Northey that Melville was her uncle, and she did not want him to know of her marriage for a while, as she feared he would cable to news to her mother, who, she said, is an invalid in London.

So she went back and lived with Melville for a week, then returned to her younger husband and remained with him until yesterday, when Melville succeeded in finding her.

She denied him, and declared he was her uncle, and nothing more. Northey believed her, notwithstanding the records of the courts, which show that she married Melville in August, 1903.

The girl, four years ago, was married to a man named Walbridge, who abused her, and was killed by her father near Phillipsburg, Mont., for which crime the father, Carlisle Hunter, is serving a sentence in the state penitentiary. The young woman was arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Ontario Y. P. Societies Will Convene

Meeting to be Held at Belleville in October.

Strongly Desirable That Large Delegation of Peterborough Representatives Shall Attend.

The Rev. J. G. Potter wishes to call the attention of all Endeavour Societies, Epworth Leagues, Baptist Young Peoples' Unions and Young Peoples' Guilds, to the Ontario Convention of Young Peoples' Societies which will be held in Belleville, on October 10, 11 and 12. The convention includes representatives of all Young Peoples, of all names and denominations.

A programme of deep interest and helpfulness is being prepared. The speakers have been selected, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, to encourage, stimulate and instruct in work for and with Young People. This is a day of specializing, and we need all the help we can get in this all important work.

A most attractive feature of the convention will be the music, under the leadership of Chicago's well-known composer and soloist, E. O. Excell, the author of so many of our popular hymns. He will be assisted by a choir of over one hundred of the best vocalists in the city; also by a children's choir of about two hundred voices.

The convention headquarters will be in the Bridge street Methodist church, where the delegates will register on their arrival, and receive notification of quarters assigned to them. The rate for board and lodging will be from 75 cents a day.

The reception committee, who will be recognized by their special white ribbon badge, will meet all trains and boats and will give directions to the convention headquarters. Delegates coming to the city are requested to wear a bow of light blue ribbon as a badge of distinction. This will greatly assist the reception committee.

The railway rates to Belleville will be a single fare for the return journey, providing there are 200 delegates from outside points. Otherwise it will be a fare and a third. In securing your ticket from agent, pay single fare and be sure and ask for a railway certificate, without which the special return rate cannot be obtained. By a recent arrangement among the Railway Passenger Associations a special charge of 25 cents is made for issuing each certificate.

It is desirable that a strong delegation should be in attendance from each Society in Peterborough, and arrangements to this end should be concluded by Monday next.

The Question of Baldness

This is a vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the disfigurement lent by baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern art in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, to Peterborough, on Tuesday, September 26, when he will be at the Oriental Hotel renders it possible for anyone who may wish to consult him, to do so at his private apartments retained at the Oriental Hotel for this purpose. Demonstration given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember the day and date. 5d

Was Awarded Gold Medal at Canada National

I. C. R. Exhibit Took the Prize at the Fair.

The Intercolonial Railway of Canada's exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibit, Toronto was contained in two rooms of the old Art Gallery, one 80x30 feet and 20 feet high with the light admitted from the top and the other about 15 feet square.

The larger room was devoted to the display of big bromide pictures, more than 6x4 feet in area, made from photographs of actual shooting and fishing scenes, the bold and beautiful coast and forest landscapes along "The People's Line" from Montreal to the winter ports of the Atlantic, and the Prince Edward Island Railway.

There were two trophies of the hunt in the way of the big game animals and fish which abound in the region traversed by the road, including moose, caribou, deer and bears; and in the smaller room were the tanks for live, wild sea trout, from New Brunswick.

The treatment of the Intercolonial section of the old Art Gallery for the arrangement of its display was a new and striking feature of the Exhibition. The dominant idea with the artist, Fishery Commissioner Smith of New Brunswick, to whom the work was intrusted, was to produce bold, rustic effects. Rough hemlock bark had been used to entirely cover the walls and ceiling of the big room, with the exception, of course, of the light apertures. There was a low wainscoting, the face of which was placed some six inches out from the line of the walls. The latter were covered with flat bark to a height of about 15 feet from the floor, where a nine inch bark cornice ran all around the room. Above this was an entablature, 20 inches deep, composed of bark, showing, in alternate sections, the rough and smooth sides, and surmounted by a nine-inch belt course, above which was a four foot lean-to covering the original cove of the ceiling, which was relieved at the light slots by an eight-inch belt course.

The middle square of the ceiling, bounded by the inner edges of the light slots, had an inverted pyramid of bark, six feet square at the base, the apex of which was ornamented by symmetrical natural cedar bark, twenty-two inches in diameter. From the base of the pyramid to the edges of the light slot there was a covering of flat bark which was finished around the slot by a belt course, eight inches wide.

A very effective transparency of rich colouring, the big feature of which was the Intercolonial's well known Moose Head emblem, was in the centre of the east end of the room, near the ceiling. This bears the words, "The Intercolonial, the Fast Line, the People's Railway."

The large doorways entering from the main rotunda and Natural History room, were formed of bark so as to look as if their jams and the ends were composed of 14-inch round hemlock logs, with the heads notched down upon the ends of the jambs logs.

In the two eastern corners the wainscoting had been carried round semi-circular dookorn of bark for storing the surplus stock of advertising literature.

In the centre of the room a fountain sent forth its cooling sprays. It was of cement-stone, with water surface six feet in diameter, bordered by green lawn sodding. The basin was enclosed in hemlock bark, 20 inches high from the floor to the sodding. Luxurious green plants placed in the earth of the border added materially to the effect of this pretty creation, which was protected by a rustic three-inch cedar rail composed of pieces of that tree selected with the required natural curve.

The smaller room was treated so as to produce a very realistic rock tunnel effect; it was not one of the usual pieces of rock work made of cloth or paper, and coloured, but contact with it showed it to be firm and solid, and as hard as stone, the facing being of coloured plaster of paris. It was ten feet high and six feet wide. It led from the big room to the main vestible of the building and the plate glass fronts of four live fish tanks relieved its rough and frowning face—three on one side and one on the other. In the tanks were wild sea trout from New Brunswick and the crowd in front of them daily was more congested than before any other exhibit on the grounds.

As a whole, the Intercolonial Railway's exhibit was one which all who saw it will remember because of the attractions it advertised, its originality and its artistic merit.

Mr. A. E. Burton, of the advertising staff, was in charge.

OFFERED $1,000 TO DO MURDER

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Traffic in human life, with $1,000 as the price of murder, is charged in grand jury indictments returned yesterday, and the story of the deal by which a business rival of a Greek firm is said to have been doomed to death at the hands of a hired assassin is full of dramatic colour. Constantine Giovan, selected as the victim of a murderous weapon, was approached on the eve of the intended crime by the man who, the grand jury says, had been employed to kill him, but who broke faith with his alleged employers and failed to cry out the deed.

The men indicted are Benjamin Stoltzol, alias Gardner, and John H. Hixon, a negro, and they are accused of conspiracy to kill. Peter and Pericles Liakos, brothers, and their cousin, Louis Soterepulos, already under indictment, are accused of having agreed to pay $1,000 for the murder and of having furnished the prospective assassin with a revolver with which to commit the crime.

The murder was on the point of being done on the night of May 12, according to Stoltzol, but at the critical point, finding himself deserted by Hixon, who, he says, was to aid in the crime, Stoltzol faced the enemy he had engaged to kill, told him of the plot, and offered for a consideration to call the murder off.

Stoltzol was arrested, by Lieut. Cronin, of the stockyards police station, and made a confession in which he involved Hixon, who was employed as a temporary policeman during the teamsters' strike. The latter, when arrested, corroborated Stoltzol's story in the main, and now is in the bridewell for larceny.

The Liakas brothers conduct an ice cream parlour on Sixty-third street, and the alleged motive for the desire to get rid of Giovan was that he had secured the lease of the Liakas' place. Giovan is president of the Drexel Ice Cream Company, 3000 Shields avenue.

Stoltzol has been a waiter at various summer gardens and resorts, and was once arrested for perjury. He claims a wide acquaintance among the Greeks of Chicago, and declares that the Liakas brothers and their cousin told him about the trouble they were in over the lease and offered him $1,000 to kill Giovan. They furnished, he says, the revolver, and promised to pay as soon as Giovan was dead.

Cured Kidney Disease.

Mrs. Fred Hills, Walton street, Port Hope, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for some time with kidney disease, and thought I tried a great many different remedies I never succeeded in obtaining relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By the regular use of this preparation for a time I was completely cured of kidney disease."

Bernardo Lalonsiere, of Somerset, Man., was driving a couple of men to the construction camp on the new railway, northeast of the place, when he noticed a lynx running along by the trail. Grasping his shot gun, which he had taken along to bag an occasional prairie chicken, he gave chase. The animal turned and when it was about ten feet off the boy discharged both barrels, the animal falling dead almost at his feet. It was very poor and measured five feet in length when stretched out—just as long as the young hunter is high, as the boy is yet in his early teens.

Headaches

When the Head aches and the Tongue is Coated

it is Biliousness or Constipation. Torpid Liver is at the bottom of the trouble. And it takes Fruit-a-tives to make that lazy liver work.

Fresh fruit is fine for these troubles, but one can't eat enough fruit to do much good. The medicinal elements are in too small proportion in the ripe fruits.

A clever Ottawa physician discovered a method by which fruit juices could be combined so that their medicinal action would be increased many times.

Fruit-a-tives are these fruit juices in tablet form. They sweeten and tone the stomach and liver, cure Constipation and remove all blood impurities. One Fruit-a-tives tablet has the same curative effect on liver and bowels as dozens of oranges, apples, figs and prunes. And this action is as gentle as the fruit juices themselves.

"I have been suffering with Torpid Liver and Constipation, and find that Fruit-a-tives are just what my system requires to relieve these complaints. I hope many more sufferers will try them."

Mrs. Jas. Weir and Mrs. A. W. Elliott, returned on Monday from a pleasant week's visit with Cordova friends.

To deal justly with every case which has come under his attention is a matter of public knowledge, but the policy of appointing men from the Conservative party to public offices in the province will be the only reason for the change, if made.

Partridge season is now in and from all accounts the partridge are fairly numerous. There are, however, few hunters out in this locality, October being a better month for hunting. Ducks are getting thinned out more and more every year. A few years ago it was no trouble to bag half a mow a hunter is extremely lucky if he gets a couple in a day. The ducks this fall seem to fly very high, thus blocking any chance of shooting on the fly.

Mr. Jas. McGuire had a bee on Tuesday of last week drawing brick from the Narrows. The brick came down on a scow from Fox's brick yard, Lindsay. The brick is for Mr. McGuire's house, which when bricked and adorned with a fancy verandah will be truly a commodious dwelling. IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. M. Hall, Sr., died August 15, 1905, at Westwood.

Another band has beckoned her,
Another call was given;
And glows once more with angel steps
The path which reaches Heaven.

Our dear kind mother, whose smile
Made brighter summer hours,
On that rainy August day

A paling of her cheeks of bloom
Forewarned us of decay;
A shadow from the silent land
Fell round our mother's way.

We miss her in the place of prayer,
And by the hearth-fire's light;
We pause beside her door to hear
Once more her sweet "Good-night."

There seems a shadow on the day
Her smile no longer cheers;
A dimmness on the stars of night,
Like eyes that shine through tears.

Alone unto our Father's will
One thought has reconciled
That he whose love exceedeth ours,
Hath taken home his child.

Fold her, O Father! in thine arms,
And let her henceforth be,
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and thee.

Still let her mild rebuking stand
Between us and the wrong,
And let her dear memory serve to make
Our faith in goodness strong.

And grant that she who, trembling, here
Distrusted all her powers,
May welcome to her holier home
Her children now in sorrow.

Former Omemee Man Killed at Paris—Other Omemee News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Omemee, September 17th. — Fine weather for saving the fruit and root crops. Threshing was never better.

If the Sugar Beet Company establishes its factory in Peterborough, as anticipated, it will prove one of the best boons for it ever known in the history of it, as the parties who are yet unpaid for beets are anxious to grow them again. Encourage a good home industry. We hope yet to see the sugar industry as great a success as the Cordage Works, of Peterborough, which has saved much money to the farmers of this district.

John Boxton, a former resident of this place and Mount Pleasant, and lately a section boss at Paris, Ont., was killed while flagging a train. He was caught by the flyer from Niagara Falls, which was going at fifty miles an hour. The funeral was held here on Monday and was largely attended.

The re-opening and anniversary services of the Presbyterian church will be held about October 20th.

Father Maguire's picnic at Downeyville was largely attended from Omemee. Every one was in high praise of the orderly and most dignified manner of the affair.

At a police court trial here today a boy was fined by His Worship J. McSweyn, County Police Court Magistrate, $20, for threatening to shoot.

There are four threshing machines in our midst, and all are doing well.

WARSAW WANTS IMPROVEMENTS

A Board of Trade is One Want Its Citizens Will Supply.

An Electric Railway Line is Another Want.

Messrs. E. Hawthorne and John Wasson of Warsaw, were in town today attending the meeting of the Cheese Board, and in conversation with an Examiner representative, said that Warsaw was seriously considering the establishment of a Board of Trade for the village. They pointed out that though Warsaw was fifty years of age, it obstinately refused to grow to any great extent, beyond the limits of its present day population, and therefore it was proposed to prescribe Board of Trade as a tonic and a stimulant. It was intimated that there was good water power available, and a good chance for considerable manufacturing, and a Board of Trade might be influential in setting up or bringing something of the kind to the village.

In answer to the remark that Warsaw lacked one of the essentials to industrial activity — transportation facilities — Mr. Hawthorne said that could to a certain extent be overcome by the building of an electric railway. He thought that an electric line from Peterborough to McCracken's Landing, the head and front of Stony Lake, via Warsaw, would be a better proposition than building an electric line to Young's Point from Peterborough, paralleling the Grand Trunk Railway, and the Trent Valley Canal and having to meet the competition of these two established routes. A line from Peterborough to McCracken's, via Warsaw, would touch four cheese factories, and be in touch with several good water powers on the Indian River.

Whether or not the railway line will materialize, a Board of Trade for Warsaw promises to be a reality of the near future.

New Regulations Unsatisfactory.

Since 1896 anglers have been allowed to fish for maskinonge in Rice Lake from the first of June instead of waiting till the sixteenth as in other lakes and rivers in the province. On account of Rice Lake being very shallow and consequently the water getting warm earlier than in other lakes, it was considered that the lunge got through spawning fully two weeks earlier than elsewhere.

The new regulation which makes the close season in Rice Lake the same as elsewhere will do much to spoil the sport of fishing here as the first two weeks of June were usually the best not only because the fish bit better then, but also because the weeds and rice were not so much grown up to prevent trawling and the fish was much firmer than during the warm weather.

On Sunday, September 24th, Rev. Mr. Shearer, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, will conduct services in the Presbyterian Church. A collection will be taken in aid of the schemes of the "Allian ce".

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

SCHOOL CHILDREN

Every school child should know that baldness is a contagious disease, caused by a microbe. Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany discovered that dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair, and final baldness are produced by a germ or microbe that passes from one head to another, where it burrows into the scalp and by multiplying and extending deeper and deeper into the hair follicles, saps the life of the hair root and produces baldness.

IT TAKES YEARS

to produce complete baldness, for the action of the dandruff microbe is not constant in every case. It is governed by predisposition, by the state of health by environment, but particularly by the endeavor made to combat the growth and development of the dandruff microbes, which can only be destroyed with Newbro's Herpicide.

This new antiseptic scalp germicide is past the experimental stage. It was made to destroy the germ that causes dandruff and falling hair, and by coaxing energy back into the impoverished bulbs, it enables the hair to grow naturally and luxuriantly. Thousands of letters from physicians, clergymen and laymen tell the same story of its wonderful success.

AN IDEAL HAIR DRESSING

It is fortunate for those who understand the new rules for scalp cleanliness that the antiseptic qualities of Newbro's Herpicide make it the most delightful and refreshing hair dressing imaginable. Chronic baldness is incurable; save your hair, while you have hair to save.

BARBERS RECOMMEND IT.

I have followed the barber business for seven years, and have used all the domestic dandruff cures and hair tonics on the market, and it gives me pleasure to state that I found Newbro's Herpicide to be the best preparation I ever used for dandruff. GRANT MARSH, Marion, Ind.

LABOR FIGHTS.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Yesterday the special committee of the Trades and Labor Congress complained, in its report, that its reception by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association was not satisfactory, and recommended that the Government be asked to compel the manufacturers to give statistics to the secretary of the Ontario Labor Bureau when wanted. The report was adopted.

The solicitor's recommendation that the Intercolonial Railway should be advised to pay a reasonable wage in spite of its deficits was adopted.

The solicitor's recommendation that the Government amend the Alien Labor Act was passed. The tone of the debate showed that congress preferred an anti-contract labor law.

Regarding public ownership the executive committee's report was endorsed in its statement that the last session of Parliament gave ample evidence of the immense strides made in this direction, referring to the telephone commission in particular. A motion to have the words transportation and public utilities added failed.

Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer on behalf of the Lord's Day Alliance, and Rev. Dr. Courtice, for the Canadian Peace and Arbitration Society, addressed the convention.

A resolution was passed approving the work of the Lord's Day Alliance, and a similar resolution was passed in support of the peace movement.

METHODS OF FISH PIRATES.

Detroit, Sept. 23.—The Canadian fisheries cruiser Vigilant stopped here for minor repairs. Before leaving Wednesday evening Capt. Dunn said the American poaching fish tugs keep thoroughly posted as to the whereabouts of the Vigilant, and have a fine system of warning each other of her approach.

Erie, Pa., alone has a fleet of about seventy fishing tugs.

The speediest of the tugs is placed at the head of the column in the direction in which the Vigilant is known to be. When she is sighted the leader starts off at full speed for American waters, the second tug sees her and follows suit. So on all along the line. It is believed that at least $12,000 worth of fish are taken into Lake Erie ports by poachers every day from Canadian waters.

MURDER MAY HAVE BEEN DONE.

Wetaskiwin, Sask., Sept. 23.—Enoch Bull, son of Chief Bull of Hobbema Reserve, near Wetaskiwin, was found dead in Rubbra's warerooms in town, and suspicions, being investigated by the R. N. W. M. P., point to foul play.

There were no marks of violence found by the doctor, but examination of the premises reveals marks where the body has been dragged 50 feet from between the machinery building and hidden in the warerooms. It would appear that the body was rigid before dragged, as only heel marks are traceable in the ground.

The victim was a quiet, peaceable man about 24 years of age, and was Indian police interpreter.

"OPERATORS" FOR TYPOTHETAE.

Chicago Typewriters as Print-Shop Strike Breakers.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The experiments in the shops of the Chicago Typothetae since the printers' strike began promise a new field of industry for girl typewriters.

From the typewriter keyboard to that of a big type-setting machine, the employers say, is only a short remove. So successful have the young women proved as "operators" in the large printing shops that the proprietors are seeking for more of them.

The Typothetae decided to advertise for a hundred girls for machine work to take the places of striking printers. At present 25 girls are acting as strike breakers.

On seeing her he put a bottle of carbolic acid, which he had in his hand, to his mouth. The motion alarmed is wife, who knocked the bottle out of his hand. However, he had drunk nearly an ounce of the fiery liquid, which was used in solution by his wife. He died before the ambulance reached the house. He has not worked for some months.

Jury's Verdict In Hoban Case.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—"We say and find that at the Emergency Hospital, on the evening of September 7, John Hoban came to his death from septic peritonitis, the result of a stab wound received at the hands of a person to this jury unknown. We further say and find that Charles De Marco either inflicted the wound or handed the knife to an accomplice who did so and thus became an accessory before the fact." This was the verdict returned last night by the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of John Hoban.

This Practice Should Be Stopped.

Belleville, Sept. 22.—The practice of distributing samples of patent medicines around to houses nearly caused a fatality here yesterday. Some boys were distributing sugar-coated pills and a little girl got hold of a package and ate them. She became violently ill and only the prompt services of a doctor, it is thought, saved her life. An emetic was at once administered.

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

How to be Healthy and Beautiful

by Mrs. Henry Symes

STRINGY, lustreless locks prove a most disagreeable aftermath to the summer's outing. Notwithstanding the words of warning she receives, the average girl is apt to be careless with regard to giving proper attention to her hair during the summer, just when it is probably getting severe exposure to salt water, sun, etc., and needs the most care.

The result is that autumn finds her with her tresses in sad condition; and to get them back to their normal appearance means regular daily care for a time.

The first thing to do is to trim the ends of the hair carefully, or have them singed. Not half enough importance is given to this point, and neglect of the dead, split ends often causes disease at the roots of the hair, premature grayness, etc.

Another important thing is massage. There is no getting away from the fact that if persisted in regularly this will do wonders toward keeping up the circulation of the scalp and restoring a healthy condition to the hair. Many people have an idea that this is a complicated method, and must be done by an expert to be beneficial. It really is a simple proceeding, and although it is always most satisfactory to have the services of an expert, you can do it very thoroughly yourself if you try.

Use the tips of the fingers only, taking care not to scratch the scalp with the nails. Make rotary movements all over the scalp, until every portion of the head has been covered. To get results this must be done every day for at least fifteen minutes, and if properly done will make the skin tingle.

Of course, general directions will not always answer; some hair responds to one treatment and others to another. For instance, I know of a case where brushing failed to bring lustre to the hair, but friction by rubbing it with a silk handkerchief brightened it and brought out the most beautiful warm tints.

In brushing to restore lustre the hair should be divided into portions, and the strokes long and even, so that it is stimulated from roots to ends.

Hair that is excessively dry and without lustre can frequently be improved by the use of brilliantine. There are many good preparations on the market, but you can make your own at less cost. It is simply composed of one part of any scented spirit mixed with two ounces of castor oil. Apply with a soft infant's hair brush.

If you want your hair to have a delightfully fragrant odor, try the French way of scenting your tresses. After the shampoo, dry the hair until there is not an atom of moisture in it; then dredge into it a little coarse sachet powder and quickly brush it out again.

Don't fail to keep your hair brushes clean and in good condition if you want your hair to shine. Hair brushes should be washed once a week. The best way to do it is as follows: Fill a basin with lukewarm water to a depth that will cover the bristles, but not the backs of the brushes; add a teaspoonful of ammonia. Put the bristles up and down in this, being careful not to wet the backs, until all dirt and grease are removed and they look perfectly clean and white. Then put them up and down in a basin of clean cold water in order to rinse them thoroughly. Place on their backs to dry—in the sun if possible, but never in front of a fire. Brushes treated in this way will keep in good condition for years.

Beautiful hair depends upon several qualities—thickness, length, color, etc.—but any hair may be made much more presentable by careful grooming.

SOME HEALTHFUL METHODS OF REDUCING FLESH

By Dr. Emma E. Walker

Copyright, 1906, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

MANY authorities advise the drinking of hot water half an hour before meals, upon arising in the morning and before going to bed at night. Cold water, however, offers a far greater stimulus to the bowels, and this is a most important point in reducing flesh. The bowels must be kept in perfect condition. They must carry off the waste matter of the system so that the organs will not become clogged.

Although I do not wish to suggest any medicinal treatment, I am a great believer in the efficacy of a good dose of castor oil at least once a month. It cleanses the intestines and carries off all waste matter. But you may say: "My bowels move regularly every day—why should I take castor oil?"

I have seen so many cases of just this kind which were in crying need of a dose of the oil that I can have little confidence in your good opinion of your bowels. Many a time have I seen cases of headache that had lasted off and on for several weeks entirely disappear after this simple dose.

If you dislike to take it, then have it fixed up at the druggist's, either with lemon juice or sarsaparilla—you will scarcely notice it—or you may take it in capsules.

Especially for the fat girl is some daily vigorous exercise necessary which will cause perspiration. Walking, horseback riding, bag punching, tether tennis, fencing, all of these are excellent.

A great secret of reducing flesh is "to keep moving." Don't stop often to rest yourself. But keep on going, and you will soon persuade the scales to tip at a more respectable figure than they have been doing of late.

Exercise has two effects upon the system: it increases the process of assimilation; it accelerates the process of dissimilation.

In other words, if the stout girl exercises vigorously, her excess of fat is oxidized or burned up and she becomes thinner.

She loses the superfluous fat that was a drawback to her body, while the thin girl, by exercise, puts herself into a condition of becoming better and more easily nourished. She assimilates her food and consequently becomes plumper, a condition which she so greatly desires.

To reduce the abdomen:

Lie flat on your back and slowly raise both legs to perpendicular position; then lower them slowly to the floor. This will make your abdomen small and firm. Do not repeat this exercise many times in succession, as too many repetitions might strain the back.

Alternate it with the following, which is also strengthening to the muscles of the abdomen: Lie flat, and, keeping the heels on the floor, rise to a sitting position, with the arms crossed over the chest, or, if this is too difficult, begin by tossing the arms forward to give the body an impetus. When it becomes easily performed in both of these arm positions, increase its pull by clasping the hands at the back of the neck, thus coming to a sitting position. This sitting position should always be erect.

Another is to be taken in standing position. Clasp the hands over the abdomen; contract the muscles of the abdomen suddenly, taking care not to lift the chest appreciably; let go as suddenly; repeat six times, and rest by taking three deep breaths.

Another and similar exercise is to clasp hands in the same position; contract the muscles of the abdomen and bend at the hips six times, keeping the muscles well contracted throughout the bending. Rest by taking three deep breaths between each exercise.

To reduce the hips—Bring the knee up to the chest, remaining as nearly erect as possible. Practice in alternate motion.

Another—Place hands on the hips; shoulders well back. The leg is raised, with knee flexed. Then, after a high, quick, side kick, bring the foot back again to the floor. This is to be repeated several times.

Hip circling can be done with good results in the way of decreasing size if the principle of resistance is employed. Take standing position, hands on hips; rotate the hips, bending the knees and keeping the chest and shoulders immovable. Contract all of the muscles used in this exercise and resist.

Sideview stretch—Holding the body straight, support its weight by resting one hand on the floor with arm extended, the other point of support being the foot corresponding with the supporting hand. The other hand rests easily on the corresponding hip, while the other foot lies against the one on the floor.

In other words, the body extended is supported by two points, the upper hand on the corresponding hip. In this position the body should be slowly raised and lowered several times; then the position should be reversed. The movement is felt strongly at the under hip. The muscles on the side and back are also exercised. This is quite a severe exercise, and will have to be worked up to gradually.

MRS. HENRY SYMES' RECIPES

Finds Department a Blessing

No doubt you are kept very busy answering all sorts of questions, and I wish to tell you, with many others, that your column is a blessing to both male and female readers. I would like to ask you, Mrs. Symes, if your Dr. Vaucaire's remedy spoken of so often in your column, is a tonic for the health in general, apart from developing the bust. I would like to take it for the purpose mentioned, but would like to know if it is quite safe to take, and if it would help to build up system in general. I was not going to trouble you, but not feeling real well, thought if I should take it now it would help my general health and develop the bust also. Kindly tell me where is the best place to get the goataeure, if you know. Words will hardly express my gratitude if you will kindly answer this and help me, as you have so many others. M. M.

Although the Vaucaire Remedy is intended to develop the bust only, it also acts as a general tonic. It is perfectly harmless, and you need not hesitate about taking it. If your druggist cannot furnish the genuine goataeure, ask him to give you the name of a reputable establishment in one of the large cities, which can procure it for you.

Impatient for Results

Will you please tell me how often and how much to take at a time of the vaucaire remedy? I have taken one small bottle of it, and it makes my tongue feel like it was burnt with hot coffee or something scalding. I am so thankful to you for giving the remedy, for it saves lots of tiresome work. Please be so kind as to let me hear from you soon, and for which I will greatly thank you. M. W.

Continue taking the Vaucaire remedy until you get the desired results. I have never heard of this producing an unpleasant sensation of the tongue, so cannot think what causes it in your case. The dose is two soupspoonfuls in water before each meal.

Wants to Try Popular Remedy

I wrote you some time ago, but thinking perhaps you did not receive the letter I write again. Will you not kindly give me the formula for Dr. Vaucaire's best remedy? I have been anxiously looking for the recipe, but so far this year it has not been published. I am exceedingly anxious to get it, as it seems to have benefited so many others, and I need it very badly. I have three children, and can't nurse any of them owing to such small breasts. Perhaps if they were more developed I could have milk. It will be an exceedingly great favor, and I will be very grateful. H. T.

Dr. Vaucaire's Remedy for the Bust.

Liquid extract of galega (goataeure), 16 grams; lacto phosphate of lime, 10 grams; tincture of fennel, 10 grams; simple syrup, 60 grams.

The dose is two soupspoonfuls with water before each meal. Dr. Vaucaire also advises the drinking of malt extract during meals.

Hair on Her Arms

Having been a constant reader of your page for some time, I would like very much to have you repeat your formula for removing superfluous hair by means of pumice. I got a cake of toilet pumice and tried to remove hair from my arms; it did some good, or I think it lightened the color, so I thought there must be something I omitted. A. E.

Pumice Treatment for Superfluous Hair.

Get an ordinary 5-cent cake of pumice stone. This is not pumice soap, but the regular old-fashioned pumice stone. To remove the hair rub the skin affected with the superfluous growth, and the pumice stone will wear the hair off. Be careful not to be too heroic and irritate the skin. In case the arms are made red by this treatment, use a little cold cream. The pumice stone is best used at night before retiring.

Child Has Birthmark

I often read your advice, and am very much interested in it.

I have a little girl who has a birthmark on her face.

It is simply dark red spots, and looks somewhat like it had been bruised and caused the blood to settle under the skin.

If you can recommend something that will remove it, and yet not injure her eye, I will be forever grateful.

One spot is just beneath her left eye, and I would rather have the spots remain than use any medicine that would injure the eye.

If the person who suffers from ivy poison will fill a bottle with water and dissolve bluestone in it until it becomes light blue, then apply several times daily, it will work wonders. M. E. C.

I fear I cannot advise you in regard to the removal of birthmark to which you refer. The best thing you can do is to consult a reliable skin specialist on the subject.

Thank you for the advice about the treatment for ivy poison, which I am publishing for the benefit of other correspondents.

Annoyed by Bumps on Her Face

I read your health and beauty talks, but do not see anything that will help my case, so I will write to you for advice. I am very much annoyed with white heads around my eyes and on my eyelids. I have just lots of them, as large as a small pinhead and some larger. I have tried opening the little sacs with needle and pressing them out, and I think there were two that came back for every one that I picked out, and they seem to be just under the skin and are no trouble to press out, but it doesn't do any good. I would be so glad if you will help me to get rid of these ugly things. I can't help but be sensitive about them when nearly everyone says, what are you doing with all those little white bumps on your face? I feel like sometimes I could catch up the piece of skin around my eyes and cut the whole piece off with a razor. The white bumps have been on my face for years. I have never tried to do anything, only pick them out with needle, but they return.

I am 27 years old, have three children. I have liver trouble, or, at least, my face sometimes has brown spots on it. My system is very much run down. I need building up. I wish you would tell me what causes my face to flush and burn under the least excitement. The right side of my face is worse than the left. My face will turn red as fire, and then it will turn spotted. I am not so timid. It seems as if all the blood rushed to my face when anyone speaks to me, especially a stranger. I do not feel nervous, having lived to do so, for I always know my face will be as red as a beet's again. I would be pleasantly surprised if I could get rid of the white heads and keep my face from being so red. Seeing that you have helped so many others, I hope you will help me. Mrs. B.

The symptoms you describe indicate a disordered liver and a very much depleted system. I advise you to consult a reliable physician in regard to your general health. After the removal of whiteheads, as you describe, the empty gland should be bathed with a very weak solution of carbolic acid and water or toilet vinegar.

This will prevent their reappearance.

When the Skin is Oily

I saw your recipe for enlarging busts, and am going to try it, and would like to know if the Vaucaire remedy I see mentioned is something to take to use in connection with the bust developer? I am your remedy to grow eyebrows. I would also like that recipe, and the preparation for an oily complexion, with blackheads and large pores. Can you tell me of any remedy to remove moles from the face? I will certainly appreciate the recipes asked for, and hope to derive much benefit. Sincerely. M. S. M.

The Vaucaire remedy is an excellent bust developer, to be taken inwardly. Sometimes quicker results are obtained by using massage with a good skin food in connection with this treatment. You will find the formula for eyebrow-grower elsewhere in this department to-day. Am giving you formula for lotion for oily skin. You had better consult a skin specialist in regard to the removal of moles, as I do not know of any safe method for an amateur.

Lotion for Oily Skin.

Brown Spots on Face and Neck.

I have been a constant reader for some time of your many valuable helps, and now I come to you for advice. I have a fair complexion, but lately there is coming on my face and neck a brown moth patch, some call it. It is mostly on side of face and neck. Can you please tell me what to do to remove it? I am 38 years old. Also, will you kindly publish recipe for whitening the neck, as I have lost it. Hoping to hear from you, and thanking you in advance, I am, gratefully yours. A CONSTANT READER.

I am giving you formula for paste for the removal of moth patches. These are frequently the result of a disordered liver, and in that case you had better take some internal treatment. I am giving neck whitener, as requested.

Label. Apply night and morning with a soft cloth or sponge. This lotion soon produces a slight roughness of the skin, which should be subdued by the use of glycerin or starch.

Bleach for the Neck.

Take fresh strained cucumber juice, boil it for five minutes, and for every five ounces of juice add:

Pulverized borax, 175 grains.
Acetate of soda, 90 grains.
Tincture of quillaja, 2½ ounces.
Tincture of benzoin, 4 drams.
Rosewater, 1 pint.

Mix thoroughly and apply two or three times a day until the stain is removed.

Medicines Fail to Cure.

Will you please tell me what you mean by the "Green Soap" treatment for blackheads, and where I can get it? Also give me the lotion for enlarged pores. I have tried a number of medicines for pimples and blackheads, but have never succeeded in getting anything to do me any good. Mrs. C. B.

You will find the green soap treatment for blackheads given in answer to "C. R." I am giving you formula for lotion for enlarged pores.

Lotion for Enlarged Pores.

Elbows Dark

Please give me a bleach for my elbows. They are several shades darker than my arms, and are a source of constant annoyance to me. H. C. W.

Every night before retiring soak your elbows for awhile in hot water and then rub in some of the orange flower cream. If this does not improve their appearance, try using a little peroxide of hydrogen as a bleach. Pour a little in a saucer and apply with a soft cloth.

How to Use Hair Stain

Now I have been using a hair regenerator, and it does not keep on my hair any length of time, and it is a great deal of trouble to apply it. My hair is a dark brown, and the front is very gray in streaks. Now, I would like a remedy that would restore it to its original color, and also something that would make it grow or not fall out, as it comes out quite a little. Does the physician's prescription color it, and in how long a time would it be restored? And in applying it would any shampoo that I would use interfere with its use? Or, what is the best hair grower or a shampoo to use when applying a dye or stain? I would also like something to apply to my eyebrows, which are quite thin. I have made a pomade of vaseline and almond oil mixed, which some one recommended. Is that good, or is there something better? I thank you very much for past advice, although I have never written you; but I take great interest in your section. B. M.

Any process of staining the hair must be repeated at least once every six weeks. A thorough shampoo should precede every application. The physician's remedy will give immediate results, but must be applied whenever necessary to renew the color. It does not act as a tonic, but is perfectly harmless. I am also giving you formula for good eyebrow grower.

Eyebrow and Eyelash Grower.

Agitate ingredients till thoroughly incorporated. Apply to the eyebrows with a brush, and to the lashes with a tiny camel's-hair paint brush. The brush must be freed from any drop and passed lightly along the edge of the eyelids, exercising extreme care that no minutest portion of the lotion touches the eye itself.

Admirer Wants Formula.

In reading your articles in last week's paper I noticed a treatment for blackheads and large pores, by name the green soap treatment. Would you kindly publish the formula for an admirer of physical culture of your health and beauty articles? C. R.

Green Soap Treatment for Blackheads.

Tincture of green soap, 2 ounces; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces. Let this mixture stay on only a few moments; then wash off with hot water.

If the green soap irritates the skin, as it sometimes will, use it every other day. Apply a cold cream.

Green soap may be purchased at any good drug store. It is not a regular "cake soap," but it is about the consistency of custard.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I REGRET very much that, owing to the steadily increasing number of letters which come to this department, it will not be possible hereafter to forward formulas or advice by mail. Every letter must await its turn for answer through these columns. An answer will be given within five weeks' time.

The full name and address of the writer should accompany each communication, but these will in no case be published. A fictitious name or initials will be used, just as the writer requests.

JIMMIE'S COOK

By EPES W. SARGENT

Copyright, 1905, by Epes W. Sargent

"Come in," said Jimmie Caswell, a little embarrassed. "You see, the place isn't fixed up very well, but I haven't had any one to attend to things for a week."

"But I'm very lucky," commented Jimmie, regarding the brown hair that peeped under the dainty hat. He always had liked brown.

"Now, about my place," said the girl briskly. "How much do you pay?"

"Four dollars a week," said Jimmie promptly. "I pay you a certain sum for expenses, and you find all material. It's better that way than having to come to me all the time for money."

"But isn't that very little, even for a beginner?" she asked.

"That's the regular price," assured Jimmie. "Four dollars a week and $10 for supplies."

"I never would use all that," she gasped. "I don't suppose you will need more than a couple of dollars a week."

"Oh, yes, you will," declared Jimmie. "The last girl couldn't get along with that, even. She used to touch me for more every Friday regularly; never could imagine what she bought with it."

"She must have been very hard on ribbons," suggested Miss Gorham. "Some girls are. Even at that, she shouldn't use up $10 worth."

"What have the ribbons to do with the expense?" asked Jimmie curiously.

"She couldn't spend it for paper," explained Miss Gorham. "You could not possibly use more than a box a week. The ribbons are about all else she had to get."

"Oh, no," he interrupted. "She had to get bread and meat and things like that."

Miss Gorham rose, her face a bright crimson. "I did not come here to be insulted," she said icily.

"You came to see about a place," he protested.

"As stenographer" she finished.

"As cook," insisted Jimmie firmly. "I distinctly told them to send up a cook."

"The hall boy said it was three flights up," she went on.

"What has the hall boy to do with it?" he asked curiously. "I never told him I wanted anybody."

For answer, she drew a clipping from her pocketbook. It was an advertisement for a stenographer and gave the house address, but no name.

Jimmie immediately became conscious of his dressing gown. It was all right to talk to cooks in dressing gowns, but a stenographer—and such a pretty one!

"I'm sorry," he said humbly, "but it's the fault of that blame boy. He meant Miss Cartwright across the hall. I believe she writes."

He showed her to the door, but to his surprise she started down the stairs.

"Miss Cartwright is just across the hall—on this landing," he called after her.

"I—I don't think I want the place," she cried, struggling to keep back the tears. "I don't want to work here." And she went her way conscious, even in her anger, that she was rather sorry that Jimmie had not wanted a stenographer. Even in a dressing gown Jimmie was an attractive fellow.

As for Jimmie himself, he kept thinking about the pretty typewriter all the morning, and even the arrival of a well recommended cook brought no solace to his mind.

Even a telephone summons to dine with his favorite aunt did not give the pleasure it usually brought, even when that kindly lady admonished him to be prompt, as she had invited a particularly attractive young woman on his account. "Better get her to run the house for you," she laughed, just as she hung up her receiver, "you have such trouble with servants."

* * * * * * * *

For a moment Jimmie did not recognize her in her filmy dinner dress. He was merely conscious of a vision of loveliness in something soft and green—or blue, it might have been blue. Then a cool, self possessed voice remarked that she had had the pleasure of meeting him before. Jimmie's daze became a stupor, from which only the announcement of dinner roused him, and he was half way to the dining room before he really realized that the vision of the morning was beside him and was saying something to him. Ashamed to acknowledge that he had not heard, he answered, "Yes" at random, and immediately became aware that he had said the wrong thing.

They were removing the fish plates before he had the courage to seek to penetrate the icy air of reserve in which she had wrapped herself.

"What was it you asked me when I said 'Yes?'" he asked desperately.

"Didn't you understand?" she counter questioned, unbending a trifle.

"To be perfectly frank," he said honestly, "I never heard a word. I was so surprised to find you here that my head was in a whirl."

"My father has a theory that his daughter should be capable of her self support. I am to have the old home on Madison avenue if I can get and hold a position for three months. This morning was my first application."

"But what was it you asked?" he persisted.

"I asked you if you really thought I looked like a cook," she said, with a little laugh.

"And I said 'Yes,'" he cried contritely. "What a fool you must have taken me for!"

"Then you admit your mistake?" she asked smilingly.

What Jimmie answered was not to the point and wholly unworthy of recital. There are times when even a confirmed bachelor may grow suddenly foolish, and through that dinner Jimmie would have rivalled even a college lad making love to his first widow.

A more important conversation, and one more worthy of record, was held a few weeks later in the Gorham library.

"You see, I am at sea again on the servant question. The girl drank everything in the house that was bottled, even the cooking sherry."

"Why don't you go and live at a hotel?" she said. "Now that you have come into all that money through the sale of your western property, you do not need to keep bachelor hall—on 'ten dollars a week for all material,'" she quoted.

"I've a better idea than that," he declared seriously; "one my aunt gave me. I think I'll hire a housekeeper."

"What will you pay her?" she demanded, her eyes twinkling at the memory of Jimmie's serious parody on bargaining.

"Love and affection and other valuable considerations, as the legal documents say," he answered promptly. "And as you were an applicant for a place you shall have first chance—will you, dear?" He had dropped his banter and his voice had become dangerously tender.

"I think I'll have to," she answered shyly. Then with a sudden flash of humor, "If only because you look so forlorn when your rooms have been servantless for a week."

"The blessings of Cupid be upon the mistake," said Jimmie softly. "I think I'll give that hall boy $5, because I kicked him for making you uncomfortable that morning." Which was an eminently practical termination to a proposal by an oddity like Jimmie.

Supporting the Candidate.

As a specimen of what candidates for parliamentary honors in England have occasionally to put up with from their supporters the following little incident is worth recording:

Visiting a north country colliery during the men's dinner hour, a certain candidate was advised by his agent to ask "old Ben," a supporter who happened to work at the pit, to say a few words to his mates.

After some little persuasion the old man agreed to address his fellow workmen on the candidate's behalf, and this is what he said:

"Weel, mates, I ain't a-goin' ter tell ye as we've gotten a real straight, fair, honest candidate. You knows as well as I does as theer ain't no sich thing as an honest politician breathin'. Howsumever, I've heard both candidates, and I've picked out wot I think is the best of a sorry pair! Ye'd better vote for him, chaps! This," indicating the by no means comfortable candidate—"this is 'im!"

That was all.

The Soft Answer.

Speaking of bad handwriting, a London bank cashier told this story of his encounter with a clergyman who came in a fury to complain that his written instructions had been ignored, says the London Chronicle. "Really, sir, your hieroglyphics completely baffle"—began the cashier. "Hieroglyphics!" shouted the clergyman. "Bless my heart!" (he was a cautious speaker), "I won't have my writing questioned. Send for my pass book. I'll close my account." Then from the cashier came the soft answer, "But between scholars the hieroglyphics should be a compliment." The clergyman reflected, laughed. "All right," he said, "I don't want that pass book." For he had remembered that "hieroglyphics" denotes simply the handwriting of priests—the scholarly caste.

Ancient Use of the Mace.

The ancient use of the mace introduces us to a remarkable instance of ecclesiastical casuistry. The clergy was forbidden to shed blood, and as thus the sword was inhibited this might have been thought sufficient to keep them from the battlefield. But not so. They adopted the mace. Though they could not cut a man's throat, yet might they break his head. So Bishop Otho, half brother of William, fought alongside of the conqueror at the bitter battle of Hastings with great effect, the brothers being, as you may say, "a pair of nutcrackers."—Notes and Queries.

A Dainty Dinner Dessert.

For a warm weather delicacy few things surpass the good old fashioned floating island. Make a custard with a pint of milk, the yolks of four eggs, the whites of one and four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar; when cool, flavor to taste and pour into a glass dish; beat the remaining whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and when stiff stir with them sufficient guava, currant or red jelly to color and flavor prettily, with powdered sugar to sweeten. Drop this mixture in large tablespoonfuls on the custard and garnish the top of each "island" with a little piece of jelly. Do not prepare the meringue until shortly before serving it. The guava jelly gives a specially pleasant flavor.

THE LONE COLONY.

Ways of the Descendants of Mutineers of the Bounty on Pitcairn Isle —An Extraordinary Patois.

Reports to the British Colonial Office just issued include one on Pitcairn Island, the lonely home in the Pacific of the mutineers of the armed ship Bounty who landed there in 1789. The islanders number 77 males and 92 females, including the children.

They are hard working and more or less healthy, but exhibit certain vicious tendencies which religion has been unable to eradicate. Many are narrow-minded and unstable. They have adopted an extraordinary patois derived from the language of the Tahitian women who accompanied the mutineers to the island. They employ this patois in conversation among themselves, although most of the adults can speak English fairly well, and in some instances very well, considering the circumstances of their environment.

There are persons of ability among them, but some few appear to be lacking in intelligence. The children are comparatively numerous, and if properly cared for should be useful members of the community.

In regard to the morals of the islanders, in the aggregate, little that is favorable can be said. Illegitimate children, petty thefts, brawls and the use of bad language are common. Fortunately the people do not use intoxicants. The laws and regulations which deal with the above named offences are seldom enforced.

No deformities are noticed, but the front teeth of most of the islanders are bad. This is the only visible result of intermarriage. The people are Seventh Day Adventists, and observe the Sabbath scrupulously. They are exemplary in their attendance at week-day prayer meetings and church gatherings. Nevertheless vulgar stories and obscene songs are not unknown.

The Pitcairn Islanders contribute 10 per cent. of the produce of the place and any moneys that are received to the church, and they subscribe to Sabbath schools and other religious funds. The produce so contributed is sold and proceeds, with other cash collections, are forwarded to the Foreign Mission Boarr of the Seventh Day Adventists in America.

An official who visited the island in May says in a report that he found that the Government instituted in 1896, which consisted of a president, vice-president, a judge and seven members of a Parliament, was not working well, so he made certain changes.

FRONTIER MEN AT TABLE.

It was in every way a strangely mixed company that sat down to dinner with the Earl of Lonsdale at his London town house the other evening. The cowboy rubbed shoulders with the peer, the miner, stockman, novelist, and soldier sat side by side, and trooper and general were at the same table.

The occasion was the inauguration of the Legion of Frontiersmen, the motto of which is "Organized for Sport; Prepared for War," and those present were gathered to celebrate its inauguration. To Lonsdale the movement owes its origin, and the conception of the body spread world wide, free from the irksome discipline of militarism, yet bound together by a tie that links frontiersmen the world over is remarkable.

One legion of frontiersmen is something more than a big club with scattered membership, something more indeed than the creation of sentiment or the outcome of any desire for social recognition. It can easily brand a new self-supporting, unofficial army, every member of which would be practiced in the crafts that most nearly pertain to the art of war, an army of trained men, trained in shooting and riding, trained in woodcraft, trained in war.

The frontiersmen say the first regulation of this remarkable legion is men who have hunted, worked, or fought in the wilderness or at sea. The wilderness is the veldt, bush, back blocks, camps, prairie, range, mountain, forest, grassland, and the desert, at and beyond the edge of civilization. It will be a large sport club ostensibly.

It will not be a military organization. It requires no official recognition of its existence until the moment arrives when its services are required. It is free from the jurisdiction of officialdom, yet it desires to communicate the information it gathers to the proper quarters.

The legion of frontiersmen promises to solve one of the greatest difficulties the Empire has to deal with, a young and efficient, fully armed force that costs the country nothing to maintain.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later exposure, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

TELEPHONE TALKS.

TO TELEPHONE USERS AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC,—

Government ownership and administration of the telephone has been urged as a remedy for certain imaginary grievances against the telephone service in Canada, which have been the stock-in-trade of certain professional agitators for some time.

European countries where the telephone is operated as a Government monopoly have been pointed to as examples which should be followed by the Dominion Government. We have already reviewed at length the results in Great Britain of triple administration by Government, Municipalities and Company. We shall now review the conditions which prevail in several countries of Europe under exclusive Government control.

In France the Government owns and operates both local exchanges and long distance lines. The method adopted by the Government to obtain funds for Telephone development will be considered peculiar by most people in this country and would not meet with the approval of many Canadian municipalities.

The funds required by the Government to buy out the Company which originally exploited the business were borrowed from the Savings Bank Department. These moneys do not appear in the State's balance sheet for the telephone service and no interest or sinking fund is provided for, nor is deduction made for rent of offices and other expenses inevitable to very commercial enterprise. In addition to this the subscriber has to buy his own Telephone of a pattern approved by the Government and has to pay for a portion of the line and the cost of installation.

For extending the service into various provincial towns the method of financing was still more unique. The municipality advanced to the State the sums required for all the new installations and also for working and maintaining them, the loan to be repaid to the Municipality without interest by instalments taken from the receipts. The State did not bind itself with regard to the dates at which this peculiar repayment should take place. In this manner the general taxpayer has to bear the cost of the telephone service whether he is a subscriber or not.

The rates charged to subscribers for exchange service are: Paris, $80.00 per annum; Lyons, $60.00, and in the smaller towns, $40.00 and $30.00. There is no difference in the charges between office and residence service.

In our next Talk we shall review the general results in France of Government administration of this service.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA.

Where Le Page Lacked Nerve

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

"But, factor, it seems to me like putting our hands into another's cache," remonstrated Le Page bluntly.

"It's putting our hands upon shoulders that are bending over our own cache," retorted the factor angrily. "Our company came into this country first and ranged it from the divide to the snow line unmolested, and now these interlopers sneak in and appropriate the best trapping valley in the whole section. They must be driven out, Le Page, and you must do it."

"Well," thoughtfully, "I suppose I could do it. But from the divide to the snow line is a big territory for one company to claim, factor, and I don't think any of our men have been into that particular valley for more than two years. It is fifty miles away and off our regular line of work. I generally scatter my men along the river country on account of the animals coming to drink and the easier transportation. That family could remain in the valley a lifetime and not really hurt us. You know that, factor. Besides, they have just as much right here as we have. And there is another thing," coolly, and ignoring the wrath that was flaming to the factor's face, "ever since I heard how they went to the valley last winter, just a young man and his wife, across 300 miles of as bleak country as even a trapper ever turned his back to, I have wished that I could meet them and shake hands."

"You seem to know all about them," sneered the factor.

"Not a word more than you. Antoine was up that way trapping and told you what he told the rest of us. He met the man himself and heard him say that he had not been married long and that the two had reached the valley in good condition. That is all, only you and I look at things differently."

The factor's wrath could not contain itself longer.

"Perhaps so," he stormed, "but you'll do this just as I look at it. You're under contract to the company."

"For five years," calmly, "to hunt, trap and do the work according to my ability. I am satisfied."

"Well," menacingly, "you will take four men and go to this valley and clear it of its vermin."

"How?"

"Any way you like, so long as it's done thoroughly," snapped the factor. "You never asked a question like that before. You must be losing nerve. Shoot them, burn them, drown them; there are ways enough. Or no"—controlling himself with an effort—"perhaps you'd better not do that. Stories get out and prejudice the country against us. Frighten them off. A good way is to destroy their camp and provisions and take away all their weapons, then give them so many hours to leave the country. They'll go all right. I followed that method until I was given charge of a post. And, Le Page!"

"Yes, factor."

"You will discontinue having your way of looking at things. You belong to the company, and I voice the company's orders. Understand? Any failure on your part, or leaving the service, means losing everything coming to you. That's the contract."

"I have read it," smilingly "and my way of looking at things has never interfered with my work so far. You know that."

Yes, the factor knew it. But still his eyes followed the strong figure as it strode away with anything but friendly looks. There we bad blood between the two, and but for the fact that Le Page was worth any three men at the post and could control the others as no one else had ever done, and seemed to have an instinctive knowledge of where to obtain the best and most pelts, he would long ago have found means of getting rid of him. Moreover, he had an uneasy feeling that the company valued Le Page's services almost as much as it did his own.

Inside of half an hour Le Page had selected ammunition, and provisions and picked out the four men who were to accompany him—the best at the trading post, he believed, and men after his own heart; strong, wiry, indefatigable, who would fight or work so long as strength lasted and on whom he could depend. The work was not such as he would like, but that did not matter; it was the company's and he was in the company's service.

The second day they reached the head of the valley, entering it by way of a ravine through which plunged an icy stream. This they waded. Beyond, the ground sloped rapidly and was thickly wooded. They could overlook most of the valley.

"Now, men," said Le Page, "suppose we scatter and work gradually down the valley, examining the woods thoroughly. They have likely built a cabin somewhere, and if they see us first and suspect our errand they may try to keep out of sight."

"Wait a moment," exclaimed one of the men. "Isn't that smoke half a mile or so down yonder, over those pine tops?" And he pointed with his finger.

Le Page shaded his eyes.

"Yes, that's smoke," he said after a sharp scrutiny, "and it seems near the stream. They've built there on account of the water. Well, we'll follow right down the bank and settle things at once. But mind, men, no fighting unless there's need. We'll try to persuade them to leave peaceably. If they refuse to go, we'll use force. I think we can get back to the post by tomorrow night."

There was little need of caution, for the ground along the bank was covered with pine needles and gave no sound of their footsteps, and the trees were so thick as to conceal everything a few rods away. It was only when they had approached to within thirty yards that they saw the cabin.

But before they reached it a woman came hurrying out, wringing her hands.

"Oh, mon Dieu, mon Dieu!" she cried wildly. "My husband has been hurt by a falling tree and must have a doctor. It is sixty miles, and I have a little baby and cannot leave it and my husband. Oh, messieurs, messieurs, do not let him die!"

Le Page was a man of quick thought and prompt action and of sympathetic heart. Whirling to his men, he said bluntly:

"You will return at once to the factor. Tell him the expedition is a failure. Wait, I will send him a note."

He scribbled a few lines on the back of an envelope and gave it to one of the men. "Now go!" he ordered. The note read:

Factor—I did not have the nerve after all. I am going to the River des Quince post after a doctor for the man, who is hurt. I can go quicker than any one else. Of course I shall lose the £300 due me, since I leave the company's service.

LE PAGE.

But he did not lose the money. Three months afterward a letter reached him through an Indian runner. It was from the company's office in London and ran:

By advice of our correspondent at Quebec we have decided to appoint you to the factorship of the trading post which controls your section. Your predecessor we have transferred to another post. Yours respectfully, T. PAYNE, Secretary.

P. S.—Any arrears of salary due you will be sent from the Quebec office.

Ogilvies' Reputation goes into every barrel of Royal Household Flour

If Royal Household Flour were not as good as Ogilvies say it is, who would be the greatest loser?

You would try it once—if it were not good you would be a small loser, perhaps.

But Ogilvies would probably lose your custom.

They would also lose the custom of every other woman who tried it and of thousands who had never tried it but had been told that it was not as represented.

Therefore Ogilvies must make Royal Household Flour the best flour because they stake their reputation upon it, and if you and thousands of others found it was not the best, Ogilvies would ruin their business.

So Ogilvies make Royal Household Flour the best flour, in their own protection. Incidentally that is your strongest protection—it guarantees you the best flour because the brand carries with it Ogilvie's Reputation.

Ogilvies simply ask a trial—knowing that it will make a permanent friend for Royal Household Flour.

TAINTED MONEY.

Have you heard of tainted money
That must handled be with care,
Cash that will corrupt your morals
When you try to get your share?
Has the bad and naughty dollar
Ever loomed before your view?
Have you seen a bill that didn't
Somehow look real good to you?

Floating round in circulation
There are dollars, we are told,
That are vile beyond believing,
Awful chunks of tainted gold,
But the grocer and the butcher
Turn handsprings to get the stuff,
And the lawyer and the doctor
Never can get quite enough.

Shady, underhanded ventures,
Schemes kept just inside the law,
Make the dollar of the daddies
Come to hand with quite a flaw,
But it's always consolation,
Though the flavor is quite rank,
They will take it on the street car
And receive it at the bank.

Really, you should be quite careful;
Ask the man how it was made
When he offers you a dollar
In the daily course of trade,
But if some one hands you money
That is reeking with disgrace
You perhaps may find a sucker
Who will take it at its face.

The Honest Man Who Forgot.

An Easy Mark met up with an Honest Man, and after they had Hit the Weather a Few Hard Knocks the Easy Mark produced a Swell Roll of Bills and asked the Honest Man if he knew of a place where a Good Investment was lying in wait.

The Honest Man after a Brief but Decisive struggle choked his Conscience and threw it in a well Hard By and led the Easy Mark to a place where Mining Stock that was very Valuable as Cigar Lighters was on sale.

Moral.—When an Honest Man bumps into a Good Thing he is apt to forget for the Moment Who He Is.

Hard on Some Men.

"It has been demonstrated that a man can live for thirty days on water."

"Possibly, but you have to pick your man."

Just a Hint.

A bus cart came a-whizzing
As though on lightning feet;
A gentleman, unheeding,
Was walking down the street,
And as he rubbed his bruises
And smoothed his garments down
He had a faint idea
An auto was in town.

Just Like a Man.

"She is a remarkable woman. She understands all about the tariff."

"Pshaw! I have known men who did that without knowing a thing about it."

Thoughtful.

"Afraid her poodle would be jealous?"

Trying Part.

The dentist causes pain enough
In spite of all his skill;
He never gives you laughing gas
When he presents his bill.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A boy may sometimes dissemble, but he never pretends that he goes to the circus just for the purpose of giving his grandfather a good time.

Steady boarders at certain hotels you doubtless know deserve to be put on the hero payroll without further investigation.

We rather expect the unexpected, but it does knock us out when the impossible happens.

A common yellow cur would look quite respectable if some one happened to tie a pedigree on it by mistake.

Not Just as Good

When you go to your druggist to buy "Ozone" ask and demand "Solution of Ozone, the coupon kind". This will give you a twenty-five cent package of "Celery King". It will give you the best preparation of "Ozone" in the world and it gives you about twice as much for your money as other brands, sixteen ounces for fifty cents, over twice that much for a dollar and a package of the well known remedy "Celery King" free.

We put "Celery King" coupons in our "Ozone" because the people know "Celery King", because it gives better results with "Celery King" and because no other firm can give "Celery King" with "Ozone". It cures, that's the reason we give you a package free and that's the reason you should never buy any other kind.

Ask for "Solution of Ozone, the coupon kind". Fifty cents and one dollar at your drug store and don't take any other kind, because if you do you won't get a package of "Celery King".

DR. FOWLER'S EXT. OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Summer Complaint,

may be rapidly and effectually cured by the use of that old and sterling remedy

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

It has a reputation of 60 years' standing and never fails to either relieve or cure.

There are many imitations of this remedy on the market that sell for less per bottle. Dr. Fowler's is 35 cents, so be sure and get the genuine. The cheaper articles may be dangerous to your health.

HAS USED IT FOR YEARS.

MRS. CHAS. WOODS, Waubaushene, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in my house for years, and I find it a splendid remedy for Diarrhoea and Bowel Complaints, especially in children teething."

Still Unruffled.

Uncle Rufus was one of the calmest and most equable of mortals. Nobody had ever seen him excited or impatient. But there came a time that tried him. The furnace in the basement of his house was working badly. He had been experimenting with a new variety of coal, in which there was a considerable proportion of "slack," and it did not seem to be burning. He threw open the door of the furnace, thrust the end of a long poker deep into the smoldering mass and stirred it up vigorously.

The result was startling. A fierce burst of flame and smoke came forth, not only enveloping Uncle Rufus, but blowing out the flue caps in the rooms above and filling the house with soot and ashes.

In the midst of the excitement Uncle Rufus came up from the basement with his usual slow and regular step. His face was black with grime, his eyebrows and eyelashes were singed to a crisp, and what was left of his hair and beard was a sight to behold.

He went to a mirror and took a good look at himself.

"Waal," he said slowly and deliberately, "I was needing a shave an' a hair cut anyway."

Stone Forests.

Stone forests are found in various parts of the world. In many cases they are hardened by some peculiarity of the atmosphere and are found standing just as they were when clothed with green foliage thousands of years ago. The Little Colorado river, in Arizona, has long been famous as a locality for such finds. At one place more than 1,500 cords of solid stone tree trunks, sections, limbs and logs were found by the government surveyors. Most of them were silicified, many seven to ten feet in diameter and from twenty to eighty feet in height. Geologists say that the petrified trees of the Little Colorado were once covered with marl over 1,000 feet in depth. Some of the trees have been changed to jasper and have assumed various hues; others resemble opal, and when broken open the core is often found lined with crystals of the most beautiful tints.

Delicate Question of Service.

"Bah Jove, old fel, I was wanting to see you, you know. I had just had my man call you up at your apartments, but got no answer. Not home, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, deah boy. But, you know, my man doesn't like to answer the phone when I am theah myself. He says it puts him too much in the light of a serving man, don't cher know, and of course I could not think of doing it myself when he's theah, old fel," replied Spendrite.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

May Be the Climate.

"I suppose they will soon get busy on the isthmus."

"That is what they claim."

"You know I think there is a good deal of hot air about that canal."

Degrees.

"Yes," said the pious man; "all flesh is grass."

"That may be true," replied the flippant one, "but you must admit that grass widows are more so."

When He Leaped.

He lived on thirteen cents a day,
On buttermilk and malted hay.
He said a diet of this kind
Developed muscle, bone and mind.
But when another man stood treat
You should have seen him gobble meat.

A Surer Way.

"He has discovered the secret of making gold."

"From sea water?"

"No; from suckers."

Noticed the Big Signs.

"Why is he taking so much patent medicine?"

"He has been reading the handwriting on the wall."

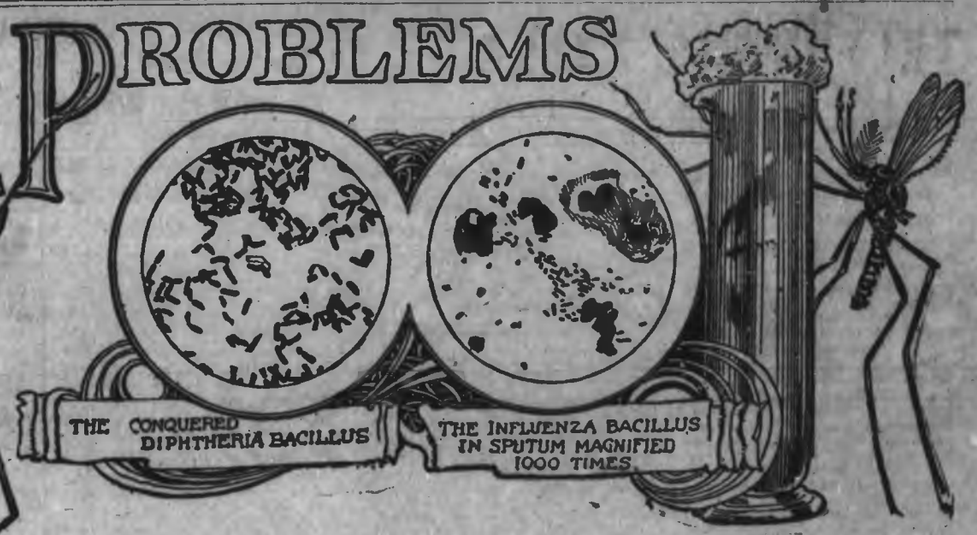
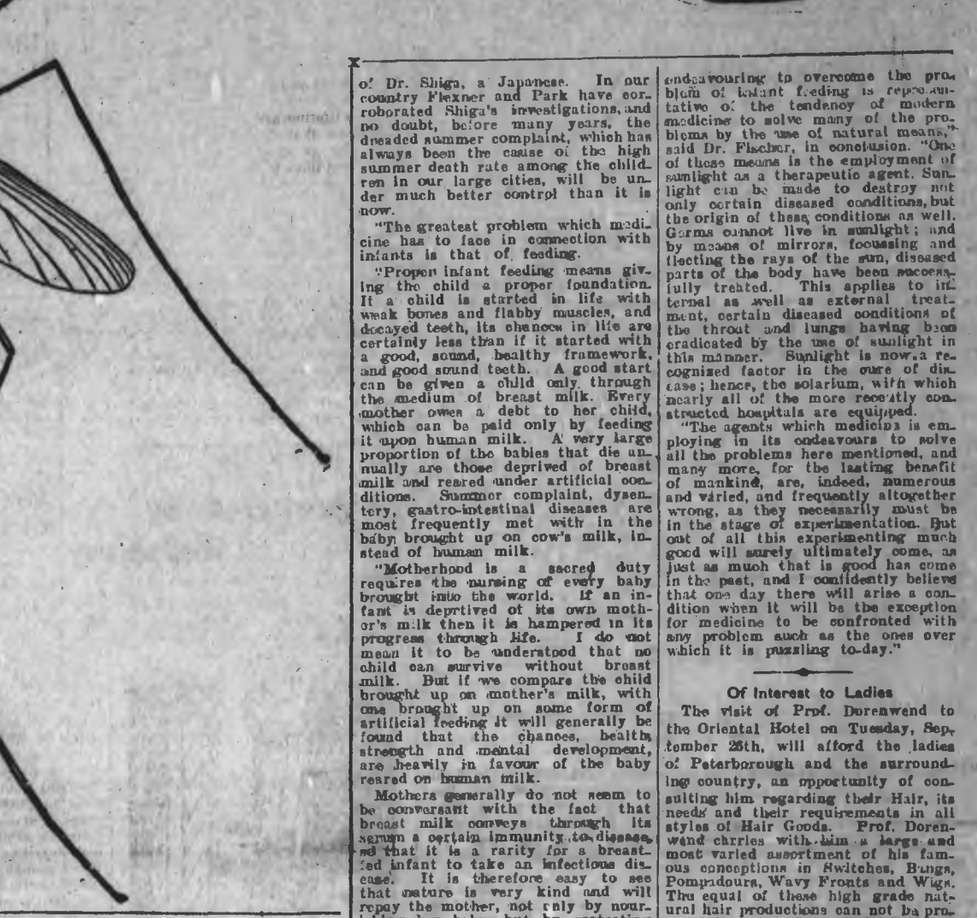
SOME UNSOLVED PROBLEMS OF MEDICINE

HOW MEDICINE FIGHTS ITS BATTLES WITH DISEASE



THE CONQUERED DIPHTHERIA BACILLUS

THE INFLUENZA BACILLUS IN SPUTUM MAGNIFIED 1000 TIMES



THE CAUSE OF MALARIA MOSQUITO ANOPHELES

The confession of the medical profession that it is powerless to combat the epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which has been raging in New York city and other parts of the country serves to call attention to the fact that while medical science has made many remarkable advances within the last few generations, it is still searching diligently for the causes of, and the means with which to conquer, numerous diseases, which practically unhindered, are annually claiming their tens of thousands of human victims.

For the purposes of putting succinctly before the public what are some of these more important present day medical problems, Dr. Louis Fischer, a prominent physician, has given the following interview:

"Medicine to-day is concerned with finding the cause of disease," began Dr. Fischer. "If the real cause of a certain disease is found, the medicine seeks for a remedy which will eradicate the cause. It is along this line that medicine is working in an attempt to solve the majority of the problems now facing it.

"Let me illustrate by going back a hundred years to Jenner's time. Jenner, having ascertained the cause of smallpox, he discovered that by introducing a modified cowpox into the human body he produced a mild disease, which would eradicate smallpox. To-day, smallpox is a rarity; a century ago it was well nigh universal.

"Take the case of diphtheria for further illustration. It was found that diphtheria is caused by a germ called Koch's Loeffler bacillus. This germ which is always found in diphtheria, gives out a poison called a toxin. The next step was to find the remedy. At last it was ascertained that when the toxin is injected into a horse's body, the animal sickens, gradually become acclimatised to the poison and can tolerate any quantity of it. The horse is then immune, and the horse's blood is the serum—antitoxin—which is used for the cure of a child who is infected with diphtheria.

"Now what medicine has done in diphtheria it is striving to accomplish in scarlet fever.

"Scarlet fever is intimately associated with a germ which is called streptococcus; hence, most bacteriologists are led to believe that this streptococcus scarlet fever. This point is now the subject of extended bacteriological investigation.

"In the meantime, scarlet fever is being experimentally treated much after the method employed by eradicating diphtheria by means of antitoxin, inasmuch as we have an antistreptococcous serum. This is supposed to be a streptococcus anti-toxin, and has been used with marked success in the treatment of scarlet fever. But as this treatment is yet in its infancy, and there is still some doubt as to the real cause of the disease, it is naturally and quite properly subjected to severe criticism and discussion.

"However, we have at least made what appears to be a good start toward the ultimate solution of this particular problem, and I believe that I am safe in saying that it will not be many years before we will be able, by means of anti-toxin, to control scarlet fever as absolutely as we now do diphtheria.

"In modern times we have got down to the cause of tuberculosis, but are still searching for the specific serum which will eradicate the disease. Because of the enormous annual number of tuberculosis victims, and the consequent great importance of the discovery of a specific anti-tuberculosis serum, the tuberculosis question is one of the most widely discussed of all the problems now confronting medicine.

"The failure of Kochs serum need not wholly disappoint the community, for since the day it became evident that the Koch serum was a failure, the treatment of the disease has been adapted to modern conditions, and to-day there are more cases of incipient tuberculosis really cured than anyone would have dreamed possible a decade ago.

"The secret of disease of the lungs is lack of fresh air. When we rob the lungs of fresh air we devitalize them, just as we would the body if we gave it tainted food. To live in a stuffy room and inhale vitiated air is giving the blood poison instead of oxygen. One of the greatest mistakes which people make is to close their windows at night and thus keep the lungs from securing the necessary supply of pure, wholesome air.

"In accordance with this, the cures of tuberculosis, which have been reported, have all been accomplished by two simple means. The patient has been made to live continually in the fresh air, even to sleeping out of doors no matter what the state of the weather, and vitality has been restored by feeding eggs, milk, fish and meat in sufficient quantities to restore what has been wasted by deficient assimilation.

"Medicine has also partially solved the problem of malaria in that it has recently discovered the cause of this disease.

"Malaria, we know, is caused by the mosquito called anopheles. This mosquito transmits the malarial plasmodia from a swamp or other infected area, or from a diseased body, to its new victim, the mosquito, anopheles, acting the part of an intermediary host. Malaria, therefore, is introduced directly into the body of this mosquito, and modern sanitary appliances have all been directed towards keeping windows and doors screened, in order to prevent the entrance of this unwelcome guest. Our sanitary officers have been instructed in the causative agent of the disease, and their main efforts will lie along the line of destroying the particular kind of mosquito which is known to transmit this disease.

"Much might be said about the problem of coping with the cerebro-spinal meningitis epidemic in New York this spring, a remedy for which the bacteriologists are eagerly seeking.

"There seems to be some relationship between the epidemic and the hygienic conditions which were forced upon a large class of people owing to the extreme cold weather during the past two winters. Our first cerebro-spinal meningitis epidemic was in 1903-4, an unusually cold winter. The present epidemic is a renewal; and it is interesting to note that the past winter was also an extremely cold one. Extreme cold compels an indoor life, and as this disease is largely limited to the poorer classes, it shows that their congestion in flats and tenements means dissemination of the disease germs from person to person. When the body is weakened by disease or unsanitary environment, and, in addition, is subjected to weakening by poor ventilation then it is in a receptive condition for the germ of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which causes the disorder. It is called the diplococcus intracellularis meningitis, a truly formidable name, but one worthy of the germ producing a disease which is capable of destroying life within twelve hours after making its appearance. This germ is found in the fluid portion of the spine and in the diseased portion of the brain itself. It was discovered in 1887 by Dr. Weichselbaum, of Germany. The same germ was also found during the course of an epidemic which attacked soldiers in Stuttgart several years later.

"The germ which causes the disease being found, it will probably require not many more years to isolate the toxin, which will probably be the means of developing an anti-toxin serum. The solution of this latter problem will, no doubt, be the means of reducing the frightful mortality attending the disease, just as the mortality has been greatly reduced in diphtheria by use of the anti-toxin.

"Influenza a malignant disease, is caused by a distinct bacillus of its own, called the influenza bacillus, which attacks the weak and the strong. Scientists have been endeavouring for years to isolate its cause, and, if possible, remove the same. The destructive tendency in influenza is most seen in weak persons; the old and the young succumb most readily to attacks of the disease. As the germ enters the air passages it attacks the lungs, and this is the reason for pneumonia developing so readily. Science will probably develop a specific serum in time which will eradicate the disease and prevent the usual fatal complications.

"During the last few years we have had a specific remedy for the treatment of dysentery. This disease was conquered by the injection of an anti-dysenteric serum, which owes its discovery to the researches of Dr. Shiga, a Japanese. In our country Flexner and Park have corroborated Shiga's investigations, and no doubt, before many years, the dreaded summer complaint, which has always been the cause of the high summer death rate among the children in our large cities, will be under much better control than it is now.

"The greatest problem which medicine has to face in connection with infants is that of feeding.

"Proper infant feeding means giving the child a proper foundation. If a child is started in life with weak bones and flabby muscles, and decayed teeth, its chances in life are certainly less than if it started with a good, sound, healthy framework, and good sound teeth. A good start can be given a child only through the medium of breast milk. Every mother owes a debt to her child, which can be paid only by feeding it upon human milk. A very large proportion of the babies that die annually are those deprived of breast milk and reared under artificial conditions. Summer complaint, dysentery, gastro-intestinal diseases are most frequently met with in the baby brought up on cow's milk, instead of human milk.

"Motherhood is a sacred duty requires the nursing of every baby brought into the world. If an infant is deprived of its own mother's milk then it is hampered in its progress through life. I do not mean it to be understood that no child can survive without breast milk. But if we compare the child brought up on mother's milk, with one brought up on some form of artificial feeding it will generally be found that the chances, health, strength and mental development, are heavily in favour of the baby reared on human milk.

Mothers generally do not seem to be conversant with the fact that breast milk conveys through its serum a certain immunity to disease, so that it is a rarity for a breast-fed infant to take an infectious disease. It is therefore easy to see that nature is very kind and will repay the mother, not only by nourishing her baby, but by protecting it from the attacks of disease.

"Let the mothers of to-day realise more fully their duty towards the babies entrusted to them, and the problem of infant feeding will be largely solved for the men of medicine.

"The method by which medicine is endeavouring to overcome the problem of infant feeding is representative of the tendency of modern medicine to solve many of the problems by the use of natural means," said Dr. Fischer, in conclusion. "One of these means is the employment of sunlight as a therapeutic agent. Sunlight can be made to destroy not only certain diseased conditions, but the origin of these conditions as well. Germs cannot live in sunlight; and by means of mirrors, focussing and flecting the rays of the sun, diseased parts of the body have been successfully treated. This applies to internal as well as external treatment, certain diseased conditions of the throat and lungs having been eradicated by the use of sunlight in this manner. Sunlight is now a recognized factor in the cure of disease; hence, the solarium, with which nearly all of the more recently constructed hospitals are equipped.

"The agents which medicine is employing in its endeavours to solve all the problems here mentioned, and many more, for the lasting benefit of mankind, are, indeed, numerous and varied, and frequently altogether wrong, as they necessarily must be in the stage of experimentation. But out of all this experimenting much good will surely ultimately come, as just as much that is good has come in the past, and I confidently believe that one day there will arise a condition when it will be the exception for medicine to be confronted with any problem such as the ones over which it is puzzling to-day."

A Gift Railway Enterprise- Dealt With

The last number of the Canadian Farmers' Sun, contains an article showing—which it is assumed it does fairly—what the Canada Pacific Railway got directly or indirectly in the way of cash or kind in the construction and exploitation of its railway line. This should be kept in view by those who were so fierce in denouncing the Laurier Government for the alleged extravagant terms with which it dealt with the Grand Trunk Pacific. The Sun says:—

A dispatch to Monday's papers announced that the Canadian Pacific Railway has been offered $70,000,000 for the remainder of its land holdings in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. The dispatch further says that the offer has been declined.

This news item calls to mind once more the exceeding liberality of the Canadian people at the passing generation in dealing with the C. P. R. The railway as originally planned, extended from Lake Nipissing to the Pacific coast, a distance of 2,500 miles. As a bonus towards the cost of building the company received 25,000,000 acres of land, $25,000,000 in cash, at least $30,000,000 worth of completed railway, and various other advantages in the ways of free Customs entry, exemption from taxation, etc. The cost of completing and equipping the line was estimated by the company itself at $91,500,000. This seems a fairly liberal estimate, since it would represent nearly $38,000 per mile for the whole road, and a good deal of the most difficult part of the line had already been built. To-day the company is offered and refuses $70,000,000 for the unsold portion of its lands alone. We assume this offer covers not only the balance of the company's original grant of 25,000,000 acres, but the remaining portion of the land which it received for building branches and extensions and also the portion of grants which it took over with minor lines acquired from other companies. The company received a little over one and a half million acres in land grants for its branch lines and possibly half a million more with lines acquired from minor companies. It had sold up to the end of 1904 something like 16,000,000 acres, so that it still has possibly 11,000,000 acres to sell. How much has the company received for the lands already sold by it? It had, according to an article by R. L. Richardson in the Canadian Magazine for September, 1900, sold 4,000,000 acres up to 84, at an average price of $2.36 net. The sales made in '91 averaged $4.05. It has since disposed of some land at $15 per acre. It would probably be safe to say that for the 16,000,000 acres sold an average of not least $3 per acre has been received, or say $50,000,000 in round figures. For that which it still holds it has refused $70,000,000, thus making the total value of all its land grants $120,000,000. Even after deduction is made for the portion of the lands received on account of branch and acquired lands, it is within the mark to say that the company has received or refused enough from its first 25,000,000 acre land grant to meet the cost of building and equipping the entire 2,500 miles involved in the original undertaking, not already completed at public cost, and to leave a surplus of at least $15,000,000 over.

There is, however, another feature of this C.P.R. bargain which shows what an exceedingly good thing it has been for the company. Almost as soon as the syndicate was formed, an issue of $20,000,000 in stock was ordered. A very large proportion of the proceeds of this stock went directly to the promoters of the road. It was in the main taken by them at 35 cents on the dollar, and paid for out of dividends procured by the sale of new issues of stock before the road was earning any dividends. Lord Mount Stephen received shares of the face value of $2,281,000 which cost him $585,000, and on which he was paid dividends of $652,000 in five years. Sir Donald Smith received $12,000,000 in shares, at a cost of $487,000 and was paid back $585,000 in dividends in the same time. Sir Wm. Van Horne's share was $380,000, costing $97,000, and returning $17,000 in dividends in the five years. In '83 another issue of $30,000,000 in stock took place, which realised a little over $15,000,000, and this was dealt with in much the same way. To-day this $50,000,000 in stock, which cost the purchasers $20,000,000, and was paid for in unearned dividends, is worth in the stock market over $86,000,000.

It is not surprising that the Lord Mountstephen, Lord Strathcona, and Sir William Van Horne of to-day are millionaires. Meanwhile, the farmer of the prairies is giving up about one-fourth the price which his grain realizes in Liverpool to pay dividend on stock issued on account of a railway, the whole cost of building which, including interest from date of building, has been met out of the public donations in land and money.

The World's Great Civilizer.

It is not Commerce: at the heart of it trade is selfish, often degrading, sometimes barbarous. It is not Law: the "Thou shalt" and the "Thou shalt not" of legislation, like the text-books of science, accompany and follow civilization, but do not lead the way. It is not the Army: the trail of war is blood-red, and the spirit it awakens is the spirit of uncivilized haughtiness that is answered by the spirit of hate and hell. The civilization of the world to-day, whatever there is of worth in it, whatever of expanse, whatever that deserves to endure, is the result, direct and indirect, of that fragment of literature men call the Bible. Before all other forces, the pioneer of all other agencies, the dynamic that both directs and makes effective whatever else helps on the enlightment and humanization of life, the Bible, translated into the polyglot speech of men, is the original and supreme force making for the civilization of the world.

Two facts stated yesterday by Mr. Welsh, the newly appointed General Secretary of the Canadian Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, are suggestive of the uniqueness of the Bible as the pioneer and promptor of civilization. It is the only piece of literature that is even remotely universal in its appeal, the only one that has gone into hundreds of languages and is followed far in the rear by Bunyan, and Thomas A'Kempis, and Shakespeare. The British and Foreign Bible Society has in it three hundred and ninety tongues. Two hundred and nineteen of the speech forms of men were first reduced to writing by Bible translators. Grunts, and coughs, and squeaks, such as Darwin heard among the Terra del Fuegians, were translated into language forms, that they might convey to scores of races the messages of the Bible. The one sentence that has been given written expression in the greatest number of human languages and dialects, is that matchless verse, John iii. 16, first expressed in the Aramean dialect for a little people dwelling in a little land between Moab and the sea. Who can divine, even remotely, what a force for civilization those four hundred translations have been? They have carried to the intellects, and hearts and consciences of widely-separated millions a common idea, a common impulse, a common purpose, and a common standard.

And in the civilizing and Canadianizing of the polyglot populations of this half continent that force is needed. With more than a score of languages spoken in one city, sometimes on one village railway platform, what other agency has the needed fusing and unifying power? For the purposes of civilization, to say nothing of purposes higher and more authorative, the coming of a man like Mr. Welsh to lead and direct the operations of the Bible Society, is of more imperial importance than the advent of a new apostle of tariffs, or a new captain of industry. Even in civilization, life is more than the making of a living, and the Bible colporteur blazes the way for the drummer of trade. —Globe.

BABY'S TERRIBLE FACE HUMOUR

Would Scratch and Tear Away the Flesh — Neighbours Called It Worse Case Ever Seen — Grew Worse Under Doctors.

CURED BY ONE SET OF CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My baby's face was a mass of sores. The doctor called it eczema, but the child grew worse, the disease eating the flesh away from his nose, and spreading to his body. Neighbours said it was the worst case they had ever seen. His suffering was terrible, and he would scratch and tear away the flesh. We then used the Cuticura Remedies, one set curing him completely, and healing his face without scar or blemish.—Wm. Cridland, 35 Winchester St. Pentonville Rd., N. London, Eng."

Compressed Air in Body of Dead Whale

To Keep the Carcase Afloat While It Is Towed to Station in British Columbia.

Vancouver Province: According to a description of whale-catching as practiced on the west coast of Vancouver Island, written by an eye-witness, the industry has its exciting as well as its profitable features. The whaling operations are directed by Capt. S. Balcom from a base established at Coal Harbour Bay.

When a whale is sighted the chief harpooner makes ready his swivel gun in the bow of the steamer. In the approach upon the whale the steamer's engines are stopped when she is within gunshot, and a three-pronged harpoon is sent hurtling from the gun into the whale. Just before firing, the harpooner lights a time fuse in a bomb at the head of the harpoon. Shortly after the barb lands in the whale the bomb explodes and completes the instant destruction of the monster.

The next operation is the pumping of compressed air into the carcass of the whale, in order that it will float should the lines attaching it to the steamer break or slip. Once the whale is "blown up" it is safe.

The carcass is then towed to the station at Rocksart, where it is hauled out on a slipway, and the blanket of blubber cut off. The blubber is steamed in twenty-five-ton tanks, and in from four to five hours is rendered into oil.

The tongue and a half tongue and the whalebone are removed, and then the body is cut into six-foot lengths with huge saws. The big chunks of whale meat are placed in large tongs, are chemically treated to remove the last vestiges of oil, and then are passed to dry kilns, where the animal matter is released as thoroughly dried and desiccated fertilizer — the last of the whale.

Quiet Wedding on Wednesday

(Port Hope Guide.)

A very interesting event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hansman, Cavan street, last evening when their only daughter, Lottie, was united in marriage to Edwin A. Fogarty, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fogarty, Seymour street, the Rev. J. E. Trotter, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride looked exceedingly pretty in a gown of white organdie with fine lace bertha and trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses. Miss Jessie Colman, who acted as bridesmaid, looked very pretty attired in navy blue crepe de chine with champagne lace and crepe de chine trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Courtney Boney supported the groom. The ceremony was performed in the parlour, which was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and palms. After the nuptial benediction the guests, numbering about forty, partook of a sumptuous wedding supper and the bride and groom received the hearty congratulations of all present.

About 10.30 Mr. and Mrs. Fogarty drove to their new home on Burton street, and were greeted with a shower of rice, old shoes, etc.

The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful opal ring, to the bridesmaid a solitaire pearl ring and to the groomsman, a pair of gold cuff links with the three links engraved.

The bride was the recipient of a costly array of beautiful and useful presents.

Among the out-of-town guests were:—Mrs. Jas. Hutchison, Racine, Wis.; Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Millbrook; Miss Minnie Hansman, New Liskeard, Ont.; Miss May Mimms, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Irish, Colborne, and Misses Ida and Sadie Rutherford, Peterborough.

Leo Whitton, Most Weighty of Them All, Covered Two Miles, Heel-and-Toe, in 52 Minutes.

That must have been an amusing race to the spectators, at any rate—which was witnessed at Marienbad a few weeks ago.

According to the National Zeitung the race was strictly confined to visitors who turned the scale at a minimum of 12 stone 8 pounds, every additional 5 pounds of "too, too slid flesh" entitling a competitor to a time allowance of a minute. Thirty adipose athletes toed the mark, including three ladies, one of whom weighed exactly 2 cwt., and started gaily on the hilly four-mile course. That no risks should be run the race was under the supervision of medical men, who insisted on three stoppages, amounting in all to an hour.

Hundreds of spectators lined the route and stimulated the "moving mountains" with applause mingled with humorous remarks. The winner proved to be Herr Glaser, of Vienna, a gentleman of 215 pounds avoirdupois; and ten competitors succeeded in walking the four miles within an hour and a half, a feat of pedestrianism of which they were quite right to be proud.

A few months ago a three-mile foot-race, organized by the caterers' journal, Le Marche Alimentaire, and open only to pedestrians weighing 200 pounds and upwards, took place at Brussels one Sunday. One hundred and fifty—butchers, farmers and porters—took part in the race, a farmer named Vanerasen, who turned the scale at 15 stone 8 pounds, being the winner. A banquet followed which was a veritable "gorge" seventy fowls, forty ducks, 80 pounds of beef, veal and mutton, and 270 pints of wine being consumed, though only about 100 diners sat down to it. Prizes were awarded for the tallest and the fattest competitors, the owners of the biggest and the smallest foot, and of the finest features.

Encouraged by the success of this contest, the Brussels Feminist league has, we learn, organized a race for women weighing not less than 225 pounds. The distance is eight miles; and one cannot help speculating on the aggregate loss of avoirdupois each mile's walking will involve.

But the most weighty of all these continental athletes is but an infant compared with Leo Whitton, the Canadian, who not long before his death won a substantial wager by covering two miles, "fair heel and toe," in 52 minutes. An hour was the time allowed, and even then the betting was 4 to 1 in favour of the scythe-bearer. Never, surely, in the world's history, was there such a monumental athlete; for Leo, let it be whispered, had a waist 7 feet in circumference, his chest was two good yards in girth, and he turned, when he did not break, the scale at 51 stone. It is no exaggeration to say that, in weight, at least, Leo was equal to any three of the Marienbad or Brussels pedestrians.

Nor is it long since Herr Lockstein, the king of German fat men, proved that he too could "move a bit" when he threw down the gauntlet to a legless neighbour, and with a quarter of a mile start beat him handsomely in a mile race, the adipose Herr covering his three-quarters of a mile in 21 minutes. Herr Lockstein at the time weighed 47 stone, and, like his Canadian rival, Mr. Whitton, had a 7 foot waist, and a 7 yards chest.

Such contests as these were common enough in Burland, in the days of our great-great-grandfathers, and many sums were wagered on the results. In 1802, we learn, John Bullock, a Yorkshire farmer, backed himself for £100 to cover two miles on the high road in half an hour, and won his bet easily. John must have been a "fine figure of a man" for he also had to stood 6 feet 7 inches in his socks, had a 54-inch chest, and scaled 28 stone. The feat was witnessed by over 10,000 spectators, and it was calculated that "at least £30,000 depended on the result." That the spectator could not complain of not receiving value for their money, John, after a quarter of an hour's rest and a couple of quarts of beer, covered a mile of the return journey in twenty minutes, carrying a 13-stone man on his back, and crowned his day's work by running the rest of the distance in 7 1-2 minutes.

Just three years later a very remarkable contest—surely a unique one—was witnessed by thousands on a high road in Yorkshire. For a wager the two wealthiest men in the district, Henry Bowskill and John Foster, weighing 18 stone and 17 stone respectively, raced three miles, each trundling his wife in a wheelbarrow. As the spouses both weighed as nearly as possible 14 stone, the contest seemed to be an equal one; but from the first few yards the issue was never in doubt. Bowskill and his better half soon left their rivals in the rear, and, going splendidly, Henry won the race and the wager by no less than half a mile.

'Tis Prudent to Prevent Disease

A Little Care and Attention Now May Add Years of Comfort and Happiness to your Life.

Disease does not, as a rule, develop in a few days or a few weeks.

When you hear of people becoming victims of Bright's Disease, or dropping dead from Heart Disease, you can depend on it that they have been ailing for months and years.

If you are on your guard against the first symptoms which tell of serious disease you can prevent the painful and fatal results.

When the back aches, when the bowels get constipated, when the liver becomes clogged and inactive, and you suffer from indigestion, you cannot afford to trust to these troubles wearing away.

A few weeks treatment with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will regulate and invigorate these organs and may save you years of suffering.

Armour's Extract of Beef in the Kitchen

Armour's Extract of Beef gives a rich flavor of roast beef to hash, stews, ragouts and potpies. It restores to left-over meats the full flavor lost in the first cooking. With Armour's Extract of Beef in the kitchen a soup or sauce is made ready for the table in a few minutes that it would take an hour or two to prepare with fresh meat, and it would not be as good and would cost more.

Don't forget that a 2-ounce jar of Armour's Extract of Beef will go further than an 8-ounce bottle of Fluid Beef. It is therefore less expensive. Use a quarter teaspoonful to make a cup of beef broth, etc., etc.

Rev. Mr. Scott was in Lindsay filling Rev. Mr. Welch's pulpit.

The annual offering for Foreign Missions was taken up yesterday and was liberally responded to.

Mrs. Mowat, organist of Murray street church, will give an organ recital in the church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 3rd. Vocal numbers will also be contributed by the best local talent.

An Accident of Serious Proportions

Mrs. E. V. Stevenson Fell Between Car And Platform.

Was Injured at C. P. R. Station on Saturday Evening.

An accident which was attended by serious consequences occurred on Saturday evening at the C. P. R. station upon the arrival of the local from the west. Mrs. E. V. Stevenson, residing at 304 Simcoe street, mother of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, formerly curate of St. John's, and now rector of Grace Church, Plainsfield, N.J., alighted from the train, returning from a trip, and in doing so, slipped and fell between the platform and the car steps, inflicting a serious injury to her knee. Mrs. Stevenson was conveyed to her home on Simcoe street, where she is at present. Her injury is of a serious nature, and she will be confined to the house for some time in all probability. The step down from the car to the platform was the cause of Mrs. Stevenson's fall and it would seem reasonable that in the case of elderly persons especially, some assistance on the part of the trainmen should be given in alighting, particularly after dark, when it is difficult to see where one is stepping.

The Situation at Present in Boy's "Strike"

Supervision Committee is Dealing With the Matter

Belief That Boys Who Disregarded Discipline Should be Punished.

The Supervision Committee of the Board of Education will meet this afternoon, when the situation arising out of the action of the boys in leaving school on Friday without permission will be dealt with. At present it is under consideration by the members of the committee, and it is expected that definite action will be taken to-day. Further than that the matter was being considered, Mr. Wm. Pringle, chairman of the Supervision Committee, would make no statement to-day.

It is probable that the boys who left school in the unwarranted manner indicated on Friday will have to apologize to the authorities, as there seems to be a feeling that the boys should be taught to respect discipline as one of the first principles.

CLOUTH

DEATH OCCURRED AT HOSPITAL

Among the many deaths recorded yesterday at the Nicholls Hospital was that of Mrs. T. Frank Magers, of 36 Ware street, who succumbed after a ten weeks' illness of typhoid fever.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Thomas MacWilliams, and was at the time of her death thirty-five years of age.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at three o'clock from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

Festival Service at St. Mark's

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Preaches Appropriate Sermon to Large Congregation.

St. Choir Rendered Special Festival Music—Liberal Thank Offering.

Yesterday St. Mark's church, Otonbee, was crowed to its utmost capacity, by a large and grateful congregation, that had come to take part in the service of returning thanks to Almighty God for a bountiful harvest. The ladies of the congregation had decorated the church with grain, fruit, vegetables and flowers, and this festive appearances gave expression to the object of the service.

On the altar were placed a small sheaf of wheat, grapes, and a loaf of bread. St. Luke's choir, of which Mr. Walter Wesley is the leader, was present, and rendered the festival music. The anthem was, "Worship the King," in which Miss K. Phillips and Mr. Walter Wesley, took the respective soprano and bass solos. The offertory selection was a quartette, "Come, Holy Spirit," rendered with fine effect by Miss K. Khillips, Mrs. A. W. Turner and Messrs. McCollum and W. Wesley. The hymns were suitable for the occasion, "Come ye Joyful People, Come!" "We plow the Fields and Scatter" and "Now thank, we all our God." The sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., and dealt with the joyousness of religion. The congregation made a liberal thank offering for the cause of Canadian missions. Mr. Robert Parker of Toronto, who represents the congregation at the Diocesan synod, was present, and met his constituents after the service. He expressed much delight at the beautiful church and the hearty service, in which he had the pleasure of taking part. The rector was assisted in the service by Mr. A. E. Taylor divinity student, who read the prayers and lessons.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots need be bald, if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the roots; and cleans the scalp of dandruff, and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair, an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair.

Successful Harvest Festival IN PROGRESS AT Salvation Army Barracks

Large Attendance at Services—Brigadier and Mrs. Southall Welcomed on Saturday Evening—Spoke Yesterday at Both Services—Contributions Received in Large Numbers—Barracks Tastefully Decorated With Harvest Emblems.

When the Salvation Army announces its intention of making a special effort in any direction, one result invariably follows—unqualified success; and the harvest festival which commenced on Saturday evening was no exception to the rule. The services so far held have been eminently successful, both in point of attendance, and in general interest and enthusiasm.

On Saturday evening a welcome meeting to Brigadier and Mrs. Southall, of Toronto, was held at the Barracks. The welcome given was most enthusiastic and hearty, and, in fact, was in the nature of an ovation. The welcome was tendered by Staff Captain McAmmond in behalf of the local corps.

The donations to the festival have this year been most liberal, and have arrived from points throughout the Dominion. These were arranged most antistically in the front of the platform, and will be sold publicly on Tuesday evening. The contributions include the following: Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co., plough; T. H. Estabrooks, St. John, N. B., Red Rose Tea; Peterborough Cereal Co., Canada flakes; P. McIntosh & Son, Toronto, Swiss Food; Frontenac Cereal Co., Kingston, orange meat; Comfort Soap Co., box Comfort Soap; W. White, wholesale butcher, ham; E. F. Mason & Co., brooms; Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co., wood. Fruit and vegetables have been generously contributed by agriculturists in the vicinity of Peterborough, and the ensemble effect of the decoration is strongly reminiscent of a fall fair. A motto bearing the words "The harvest is passing," has been placed across the front of the platform, while throughout the room flags and bunting in rich profusion have been artistically draped and festooned.

The object in holding the harvest festival is somewhat different from that of the Self-denial effort, in that the proceeds are devoted to the Officers' Assistance Fund, and are used to supplement the officers' salary, and to provide pensions for those who have been in service for fifteen years and upwards. The amounts are, of course, graded.

The Saturday evening meeting was addressed by Brigadier Southall, who was fifteen years ago Divisional Officer here. He spoke from the subject, "Qualifications for Service," basing his remarks upon the last words of Christ to his disciples: "Tarry in Jerusalem until ye be endowed with power from on High." The service was of a devotional character.

The Sunday Services.

The service on Sunday afternoon was attended by a large congregation. At the conclusion of the regular service a short address was delivered by Mrs Lloyd, who is in charge of the League of Mercy work, after which Mrs. (Brigadier) Southall spoke upon "The Women's Social Work in the Army."

Mrs. Lloyd referred to her appointment fourteen years ago to the position of Visiting Sergeant, a short time after joining the Army. Four years ago she received the appointment as Sergeant-Major.

The work incidental to these offices had given her the opportunity of seeing much in her visits which had not fallen to the lot of officers working in other branches. The hospitals were visited every Friday afternoon, at which times the War Cry was distributed. She had for eight years been engaged in visiting the hospitals. The County Jail and the Protestant Home were also visited fortnightly. The beneficial results of these visits were graphically described. The great difficulty in securing workers to assist in visiting and caring for the sick was also referred to.

Mrs. (Brigadier) Southall, in her opening remarks, referred to the work of the league, with which she is identified, and which has a branch in all the leading towns and cities of the Dominion. She had always found a great beneficial influence resulting from the visits paid to the inmates.

The Army has, in its efforts in the direction of social reform, established fifteen homes, of which two are Rescue Homes, one children's shelter, one Fallen Women's Home, and for rescue work. That the necessity for institutions of this nature is on the increase does not, the speaker remarked, speak well for our country.

Mrs. Southall then referred to her recent visit to Western Canada. The rapidity of the growth in population, and equally rapid industrial development had created an urgent necessity for earnest and faithful work in this comparatively new field. The responsibilities which we are called upon to face are very great, and we, in our condition of prosperity, are prone to forget this. We see about us and read of the prosperity which is in evidence upon every hand, but it is when we are touched with sorrow that we are more apt to realize the necessity of work in behalf of others. It is time, the speaker urged, that all in this fair Dominion stirred a little more in lending assistance to their sisters, who should be saved before they fall before the Tempter. It is in the teaching of the children and the assistance of the orphans, that especially valuable work can be accomplished. From the highest officials down the Army is endeavouring to assist in this work to the full extent of its power.

A chief branch of the work was that in connection with the hospitals. A $40,000 building is being erected in Winnipeg. The speaker did not maintain that the valuable work in the West was confined to the Salvation Army. Other denominations are working in the field, and there is opportunity and work for all. The Provincial Government in Manitoba had been most generous in lending its assistance to the hospital and had, when approached in the matter, appropriated a sum of $10,000 to be used for construction purposes, and also a grant equal to that given other hospitals for maintenance. The City Council had also granted $7,500, while $13,000 had been received from the citizens by voluntary subscription.

The speaker next referred to the Servants' Home in Toronto, of which the formal opening will take place in the near future. The necessity of having in metropolitan centres a home for girls arriving from foreign countries was pointed out. The first arrival of girls from the Old Country had taken place recently.

A class which the Army is also especially desirous of helping is the widow left with a number of children to support. In such cases the mother maintains the children by placing them with the Salvation Army for a small allowance.

The number of women who had passed through the homes last year was over 600, and that of children, over 500.

If, the speaker concluded, I could picture to the young women who live for themselves, and think of themselves only, the joy which accompanies the life of sacrifice and self-denial in the work in which we are engaged, we would not be so hard pressed for workers.

At the evening serivce the attendance was also large. An eloquent and comprehensive address was given by Brigadier Southall upon the subject, "The Great Harvest."

An Aligator Farm.

H. I. Campbell, a veteran alligator hunter of Florida, is the owner of an alligator farm, the only one it is believed, in the world. He has about five hundred big alligators. They range in length from 6 to 17 feet, and sometimes weigh as much as 800 pounds. Big Joe, king of the herd, is perhaps the largest saurian in captivity. He is 17 feet long and weighs over 800 pounds. He occupies a pond all to himself. He is valued by his owner at $500, and his age is estimated at 300 years. King another large bull, heads a herd of youngsters from 70 to 100 years old. The reptiles are only fed once in three weeks. They consume 500 lbs. of beef which is furnished by a Kansas City packing house.

Tired. Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs Albert Mann Mrs Chester Curry

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; bearing down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 43 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights. I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

The following letter is from Mrs. Albert Mann, 154 Gore Vale Ave., Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with ovarian trouble having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought back my good health."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Bible Study Rally Yesterday Much Enjoyed

His Address on "The Living Word" Strongest Ever Given in Association.

There was a large attendance of men at the seventh annual Bible study rally at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday, which was addressed by Rev. J. McNicholl, of the Bible Training School, Toronto. Mr. Williamson presided, and at the conclusion of the service outlined the Bible study programme of the season, urging upon all young men to connect themselves with some one of the classes. The male quartette sang an appropriate selection, Mr. Jas. Browne taking the solo part.

Rev. Mr. McNicholl then gave one of the strongest addresses that has ever been given in the association, his subject being "The Living Word." Mr. McNichol has a splendid voice and speaks with ease on the theme of which he is master.

He said that the Bible was the one book which lived on through the centuries, and would continue to do so until the end of time. He enumerated several reasons:

1st. It was a living unity, in spite of its 66 parts, and its diversity of authors, times and circumstances connected with its creation, it had running through it one single thread of life—the thread was Redemption.

2nd. It contained living truth; it has no errors. It had all the truth about spiritual things. It is unanswerable.

3rd. It has a living history. It presents all changes, although always attacked. It had gone everywhere, and had always triumphed.

4th. It has a living power or influence. The Word produces life. It is the book that warms the heart. Its reception by men was the final test. It changed men's lives.

In closing the speaker appealed to young men to make the Bible and the Christ of the Bible, the centre of their lives, for "He that doeth the will of the Father abideth forever."

On Saturday evening Mr. McNichol gave the Bible Club a study in St. John's Gospel, and addressed the Young Men's Bible Class on Sunday morning on the Life of St. Paul.

Lindsay Cheese Sold Lower on Saturday

11 1-4c. Was the Top Price Received There.

Mr. Fitzgerald was one of Those who Bought Cheese—1648 Boxes Sold.

The buyers and sellers on the Victoria County Cheese Board met on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, and after considerable hesitancy sold most of the cheese at 11 1-4c, the number of boxes boarded being 1648.

Offers came in a bunch and were as follows:—Flavelle 11c., Brown 11 1-16c., Fitzgerald 11 1-8c., Flavelle 11 1-4., and then there was a halt to discuss the Peterborough sale and the English markets.

Mr Hanpah, of Manvers, salesman on the Peterborough Cheese Board, explained how it was that four factories at their last sale got a high figure, but said that 11 3-8c. was the ruling price. Mr. Fitzgerald was in fighting mood and the other big fellow wasn't there to buy, as he backed out of the sale altogether.

Mr. Flavelle then called eight factories, but got "No" for his answer.

Mr. Taylor Parkin said he would not hold back at 11 1-4c., but of course wanted the same price as others. He didn't think it would be wise to adjourn till another sale.

Mr. Flavelle then called Cameron, North Verulam, Palestine, Red Rock, Roaboro and Omemee, who sold, and North Harvey and Bobcaygeon, who reconsidered the price and sold.

At the same figure, Mr. Fitzgerald got Pine Grove, North Ops, Cambray, Mariposa, Dunsford and Star.

Secretary Shyne refused to dispose of his factory, Maple Leaf, at the ruling price.

It was moved, seconded and carried that North Verulam be allowed their Board fees of $1 on account of the recent destruction by fire of their factory.

The Board then adjourned.

Local Schools Kept Rally Day

Yesterday in a number of the Sunday Schools in the city, Rally Day services were held, among those in which these special exercises incidental to a rally of the whole membership of the school were held, were George street Methodist, Mark street Methodist, St. Paul's Presbyterian, and Knox church. The brightness of the day brought out a large number of scholars, and the services were in each case very successful and were much enjoyed. Special addresses were given in the majority of the schools, and these were of an appropriate character.

COACH THE MINISTER.

The Board of Trade would find find a useful outlet for its energies in making use of the visit of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, to direct his official attention to two needs that exist in connection with the improvement of navigation of the river south of the city. The navigation interests in this stretch of the Trent Valley waterway are continuously growing in importance, and would develop to better purpose, if some needed facilities were provided. It would be wise for the Board of Trade to meet the Minister by deputation or otherwise, and impress upon him when he passes over the route, how important it is that wharves should be constructed at Hale's Bridge and at Campbelltown. These need not be as large as that recently erected at Bonsfort, but there is urgent need of good wharves at these places. The Board should strike while the iron is hot—while the Minister is here to be personally interviewed. A few minutes' personal presentation of the matter would be more impressive and effective than considerable correspondence, and would mean loss of delay. The prompt action of the Board, backed by the efforts of the members from the West and East Ridings, whose influence could be counted upon, would doubtless result in obtaining the improvements in the shape of wharves at these respective points. The Minister's visit is in the interest of improving the navigation condition of the canal, and no part of it should be neglected. With the completion and operation of the lift lock the canal for navigation purposes is continuous now from Kirkfield to Hastings. Thus the lower part of the route has taken on a new importance, which fully justifies local efforts to procure the provision of wharves at Hale's Bridge and Campbelltown.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. J. W. Hanna, the Stratford Beacon points out, is looking after his friends pretty well. He brought one—a Standard Oil bookkeeper—over from the States, and now he has appointed the secretary of his Sarnia committee, Mr. S. A. Armstrong, an inspector of prisons and charities. Mr. Hanna is evidently bound his friends shall be looked well after if all the other "Tories" in the province are to travel forty years longer in the wilderness.

The Canadian cruiser, Vigilant fired something like fifty shots yesterday at the Barnhurst, of Erie, Pa., one of the largest tugs engaged in the lake fishery, nearly thirty of the shots taking effect. The upper works of the vessel were shot away and two of the crew were injured. This makes the fourth American vessel that has been fired on by the Canadian cruiser within a week. Nobody in America, says the Rochester Post-Express, is making any fuss about it, for the reason that these vessels are poachers, and have no right to fish in Canadian waters.

At the Ontario general elections held in January, 1905, Mr. H. W. Kennedy, Liberal, was elected for the constituency of Port Arthur by a majority of 14. A petition to unseat him was tried by Justices McLennan and Teetzel at Port Arthur, ending on the 15th inst. The judgment of the court was that the election had been a fair one in every respect and the petition failed, not only on account of alleged corrupt practices, but also as to the scrutiny of votes. It is satisfactory, says Events, Ottawa, to know that one of the first attempts to prove an Ontario Provincial election corrupt in the present year has utterly failed. But we fancy there is no case in which some breach of the law could not easily be proved.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

A special session of Congress is to be held on November 11, the ostensible purpose of which is to secure legislation regulating inter-state freight rates. The more important business in view, however, relates to the Isthmian Canal, the affairs of which are in an unsettled and unsatisfactory condition. Congress must decide whether the canal shall be built with locks or shall be a tide-level waterway. The question was discussed last March by Mr. Taft, Secretary of War, in a letter to President Roosevelt, in which he said:

"The act of Congress evidently contemplates a canal with locks, the costs of which shall be in the neighbourhood of $200,000,000, including the money already expended. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the best form of a canal will be a sea-level canal with a tidal lock only at one end, and that the cost of it may exceed the $200,000,000 in the mind of Congress by at least $100,000,000 more."

The question before Congress, therefore, will be not whether additional money shall be spent, but whether a canal with locks can be built at all. Some eminent engineers maintain that the engineering problems in connection with a lock canal are insoluble, and that Congress must either authorize a sea-level canal or abandon the whole project. The cost of a sea-level canal cannot be computed, as estimates vary so widely. When Congress authorized the construction of the canal, as Mr. Taft points out in his letter to the President, it was in the belief that it could be completed for about $200,000,000, but there are engineers who insist that a sea-level canal will cost twice that amount, and some add even another $100,000,000 to the amount. In view of the fact that the engineers are not unanimous, that they are neither agreed as to the method of construction, the time required for the work or the amount involved, it is certain that Congress will proceed cautiously, and demand the fullest information before it irrevocably commits itself to the project.

Discussing the question of the Panama Canal in the National Review for September, A. Maurice Lowe observes that it is beginning to be realized that the construction of the canal is not the easy thing it seemed to be be at the time when the Bill was passed empowering the President to "dig the ditch." That was the way this great engineering enterprise appealed to the popular imagination. It was, in the language of the man in the street, "a simple proposition," and in America everything is a "proposition," whether the element of mathematics is involved or not. When the President reorganised the Canal oCmmission he gave impetus to the popular impression by telling the commissioners to dig, and the commission told the public that they were going to the isthmus "to make the dirt fly." But the commission now find, after several months of preparation, that before the dirt can be made to fly the isthmus must be placed in proper sanitary condition, and adequate provision must be made for the well-being of the employes. At the present time work is practically suspended, and every effort is being directed to make the isthmus habitable for men unaccustomed to its climatic conditions. The men who have gone to the isthmus from the United States have complained loudly of their surroundings, and the cheerless life to which they are condemned. The commission, recognizing that unless their employees are satisfied it will be almost impossible to induce them to remain there, are trying to make life more inviting, and will endeavour to improve the administrative efficiency before beginning the real work of canal building.

Mr. Joe. Martin Redivivus

The Winnipeg Telegram of the 15th inst., states that the "Hon." Joseph Martin, ex-M.P., for Winnipeg, ex-Attorney-General of Manitoba, and ex-Premier of British Columbia, delivered an address in a large hall hired for the purpose in the city of Winnipeg. The paper neglected to state that Mr. Martin is also ex-solicitor for the C. P. R., and there is a shrewd suspicion that the ex-Honourable has been brought by the C. P. R. to give whatever aid he can to Mr. Hamtain in the attempt to defeat the Hon. Walter Scott, the new Premier of Saskatchewan. Mr. Martin's line of argument, as stated by himself, was that that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the tool of the Quebec hierarchy, and the Conservative leader is little better, so that it is now necessary to organize a third party to battle for provincial rights, and by inference to subjugate, chastise and punish the oldest, one of the largest, and one of the most important provincial members of Confederation. It is not singular in the case of Mr. Martin—to be consistent would be more singular — that he, after knifing Premier Semlin of British Columbia in 1900, went to the country as Premier in the month of June, and refused to accept as a supporter any candidate who declared himself to be independent. Now he seeks to back up the Conservative party in Saskatchewan, which is running a Provincial Rights campaign, by stimulating a love for an independent third party. As a caustic commentary on the game in Saskatchewan, their fellow Conservatives in Alberta have declared for a straight party fight in that province, and have discarded any suggestions for a third or Provincial Rights party.

A Provincial Rights, or a third party, appealing to the people on the ground that the Prime Minister of Canada, who risked his political life to defy the hierarchy of Quebec, nine years ago, is now their tool, means that Mr. Martin, who is solely and only responsible for the Manitoba school question, would like to see another Equal Rights party run up the flag of Protestant ascendancy in the new province. The game has been played before. It is a dangerous one to take part in, and we trust that all good citizens will frown upon it. When he says:—"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is only the pliant tool in the hands of this malignant force in the politics of Canada," (the Roman Catholic hierarchy), he says what he well knows to be untrue, and he says it mostly because Sir Wilfrid Laurier refused to take Mr. Martin into his cabinet in 1896. Sir Wilfrid did refuse after Mr. Martin had asked him to do so, and the fact that Mr. Martin did ask to be taken in is a fact to the personal knowledge of the writer.

Mr. Martin did not conclude his address at Winnipeg without describing the Laurier Government as slaves to the railway corporations. Really, Mr. Martin should credit the public with a little memory of the time when he took $5000 a year for three years from the C. P. R. corporation to get out of Manitoba and keep out of politics during the time he was under corporation pay. For a man of this stamp to denounce Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has never been suspected even of subserviency to any corporation, is a piece of brazen impudence and demagogism. Mr. Martin's whole address is a spiteful attack on Sir Wilfrid. But then Mr. Martin must attack somebody, and the public is just a little bit tired of him.—Events.

W. F. MACLEAN'S SHOW.

One William Finlay Maclean was also present at the inauguration ceremonies at Edmonton and Regina. demonstrations in these cities not being on the light comedy order, Mr. Maclean was not included on the list of speakers. He consoled himself, however, by gathering a bunch of Calgarians in the opera house, where he gave a one night performance with himself as stage manager, director of ceremonies, door-keeper, acrobat and wire walker, the part of the "large and well selected supporting company" being also occupied by his modest self.

Probably the most interesting number contributed by this single handed company was Mr. Maclean's explanation that he had supported the salary increase because he thought the Western members needed the money. The only remark Mr. Maclean contributed to the subject in the House was the typical query as to whether the granting of a salary to Mr. Borden would interfere with the power of the Governor-General to pass over Mr. Borden and select some one else as premier in case the present administration went to the wall. Assured that his own dim chances were not extinguished by the vote Mr. Maclean had no further opposition or explanation to offer.—Edmonton Bulletin.

HOW THEY STAND.

Japan ends the war with a public debt, domestic and foreign, aggregating $931,000,000, against about $230,000,000 before the war began. An official estimate places the war expenditure up to March 31, 1906, at $676,000,000; funds obtained by loans, etc., and available $676,000,000. On June 5, as much as $475,000,000 had been spent; the present figure is about $625,000,000. If these figures are correct, Japan has $353,000,000 with which to bring her army home and close up the war account. It is affirmed that she has still some $171,000,000 on deposit in New York, London and Berlin.

Russia's present debt, according to some estimates, is $3,700,000,000, against $3,783,000,000 before the war began. The Czar will need many millions to bring his legions home from Manchuria, repair his loss of ships, pay for the keep of prisoners and provide pensions. It is thought that he has now about $290,000,000 available. Should he undertake to rebuild his navy he would need to borrow largely. Shipbuilders are expecting large orders. But if Nicholas II. reflects upon the inaptitude of his people for the management of warships, he will "go slow" with his programme. He may conclude that Russia just now needs money for a thousand and one things more than she does for a new navy.

The Equinoctial gales have caused great disturbances among the apples throughout the country. Mr. J. Crane Explains the Situation

In Connection With The Public School Matter

Property Committee Doing all in it's Power to Remedy Trouble.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — As chairman of the Property Committee of the Board of Education, I ask the privilege of correcting the report anent the trouble in Mr. Wallace's room.

The bad odour which exists at times in this room, is to a large extent, the result of the improper use of the lavatories by the boys, and if this were corrected, the trouble will be removed—it is not possible to have this lavatory under constant supervision, but every means will be taken to single out the offenders, and they will be dealt with.

On Monday last the matter was reported to me, and I visited the room. I was satisfied on this occasion that the trouble was from the outside of the building, and not inside, but taking into account the fact that the reports from the boys to their parents had developed the idea that our plumbing and sanitary arrangements were a menace to the health of the children, I consulted the chairmen of the various committees as to the advisability of calling an expert, who would report on the sanitary arrangements of all the schools. This was done on Tuesday, and NOT after the boys had struck, as you incorrectly reported. The report of the expert is not yet in my hands, but he stated to me that he might visit twenty such schools and not find the sanitary arrangements as good as ours, but that its use was abused. He suggested a minor change in the vent pipe, which will be adopted at once. The question has been raised by you as to the necessity of employing outside consultation; and I would like to ask to whom we are to apply in such cases. Our Medical Health Officer and Health Inspector visited the place and reported the condition of things, in a jocular vein, advising the application of some disinfectant solution. No amount of flushing, or any other precaution of a similar nature, has had good results, and I personally could not, and would not, assume the responsibility without a consultation with an authority in whom I could repose confidence. I have during my term of office called to my assistance those in town whom I thought could advise, and everything that could be done, has been done.

In closing I wish to deprecate the spirit in which your editorial on Saturday was written, written on the authority of hearsay, when the proper information was near at hand — that the action of the Committee was taken pursuant to the action of the boys—such was not the case.

My own son is a pupil in this room, and self-preservation would, you may be sure, incite me to use every precaution to bring about healthy conditions in that room.

Yours truly,

JOHN CRANE,
Chairman Property Committee.

A Jolly Party Left the City on Saturday—An Enjoyable Day.

On Saturday the local members of the staff of the Canadian Machine Tlephone Company were the guests of the Company on a trip to Rice Lake. Mr. J. Z. Rogers' trim launch, Rose Lea, was chartered for the day and the staff was given a most enjoyable trip. The party went down the river in the morning, and took dinner at Idyl Wyle, where the hospitality of Mine Host Hutchinson was partaken of and thoroughly appreciated.

Afterwards a trip was made around the lake and the boat returned to the city during the evening, a most enjoyable day having been spent.

Mr. Pringle Now Adds His Explanation

To The Discussion on Public School Matters

Deplores What He Considerers Exaggerated Statements—No Meeting of the Board Called.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a few lines to correct a statement that appeared in Saturday's issue of the Examiner under the heading "Generally Speaking," where the trouble caused by the boys in one of the rooms in the Central school was commented on.

In the second paragraph you state that the Board was quickly called together to deal with the conditions which the boys gave as their reason for leaving the school.

As a member of the Board, I have had no intimation of any Board meeting, and I am advised by the chairman that he has given no instructions to call such a meeting. The action of the boys was reported by the Inspector to me, as chairman of the Supervision Committee, whose duty it is to look after matters of that kind, and as immediate action was necessary, I at once called my committee—not the Board.

I regret very much the undue notoriety that has been given to this over-exaggerated incident, through inaccurate reports at home and abroad. Such statements not only impair the discipline of our schools, but reflect on the good name of our boys and girls.

Would it not be well, Mr. Editor, when discussing a matter of this kind, to ascertain the facts of the case? The chairman or secretary could easily have been communicated with, and would, I am sure, have given all information necessary.

The panic appears to me to be rather on the part of the Examiner, and I agree with your opening statement in the second paragraph, that "There is somebody else to be disciplined as well as the boys."

Yours truly,

Wm. Pringle,

Chairman Supervision Committee.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY MEETING

The first annual meeting of St. John's Anglican Young People's Association will be held in the school room of the church on Monday evening, October 2, at 8 p.m. Sharp. It is expected that there will be a large turnout of all last year's members and also others who intend to attend this winter. This society, which was organized last fall, proved a great success, giving the young people of the church a good social time together. This winter the prospects are brighter than last year, more young people signifying their intentions to join. Meetings are held fortnightly.

Missions at Mark St. Rally

The annual rally yesterday of Mark street Methodist Sunday School was a great success. The weather was ideal and the attendance exceeded that of the previous annual rally. A special programme followed, which included, together with other numbers of interest and profit, two helpful addresses by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, on "How to Increase the Missionary Interest in the Sabbath School," and by Mrs. Morrow, a returned missionary, on "The Chinese Work in British Columbia." An appropriate quartette was rendered by Mrs. A. A. Fowler, Mrs. T. Cunningham, Mr. F. Ashton and Mr. J. C. Miller. In addition to the officers and scholars, many of the parents and others interested were present. The collection was in aid of the S. S. Aid and Extension Fund, and was in excess of that given last year. A cordial invitation to become regular members of the school was given to the visitors who were present.

DIED YESTERDAY AT THE HOSPITAL

The death occurred at the Nicholls Hospital yesterday of John Lynn, of Smithmore Township.

The deceased was sixty-one years of age and had been ill for about two months with a complication of diseases. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and family. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Wanderers Lost to the Quakers

Interesting Football Game at Driving Park Saturday

Score Was 3-1—Quakers Look Good to Capture Silverware on Wednesday.

The Quakers on Saturday defeated the Old Country Wanderers in a football game at the Exhibition grounds by a score of 3-1. The game was an interesting one in all it's stages, though it was witnessed by only a small crowd. The Quakers demonstrated that they still retain the speed which they developed in the early season, and look to be good enough to carry off the silverware in their game on Wednesday with Bridgenorth.

The Wanderers played good football their combination work at times being particularly effective. "Jack" Sullivan between the flags for the Quakers, accepted nearly all chances in an effective manner. Main and Doris kicked and relieved well and were almost impregnable. The forward division passed and checked well and their shooting was on the whole fairly accurate.

A reference to the line-up of the Wanderers will show that many changes have taken place since the opening of the season. Butler in goal did excellent work. The backs played a cool steady game, but were forced to succumb occasionally to the repeated attacks of the Quaker forwards.

The score at the end of the first half was 1-0, the goal being scored by Crough after a nice combination rush by the forward line. Two minutes after the whistle blew commencing the second half, Haddow poked in through the flags for the Wanderers. In the second half Huston and McIlmoyle secured one each for the Quakers. The line-up was as follows:—

Wanderers.		Quakers.
	Goal.
H. Butler		J. Sullivan
	Backs.
R. Evans		Main
Slater		Doris
	Half Backs.
Berringer		Moore
Baker		Leo Sullivan
G. Coleman		Graham
	Forwards.
Wilson		Brooks
Dickson		Crough
Haddow		Huston
Coleman		McIlmoyle
Coleman		Todd

Mr. Percy Fitzgerald gave excellent satisfaction as referee.

A despatch to the Toronto Globe says that Belleville will not have a senior O.H.A. team, none of the gentlemen proposed as Manager being willing to take the position.

BASEBALL.

One of the best pipe baseball stories of the season comes from Peterborough. All of Peterborough's home games are played at a point adjacent to the Otonabee River. A heavy hitter once in a while knocks the ball over the fence into the drink, and one would naturally suppose that that was the end of the globule. But such is not the case. A little spaniel has been trained to swim out after the ball and bring it back. It is reported that on more than one occasion home runs have been cut off to the bewilderment of the visiting team, which was unaware that his canineship was the main factor in the play.—Toronto Star.

Continuation of Festival at All Saints

Charming Musical Features of Services Much Appreciated

Rev. W. L. Armitage Preached at Both Services Yesterday—Congregational Re-union To-night.

The Harvest Festival, which commenced so auspiciously at All Saints church, was continued yesterday, when both services were attended by large congregations.

The music of the services has been of an appropriate character, and has lent an additional charm to the gladsome services.

The choir, under the direction of Rev. Mr. Major, has evidenced a steady development, this being particularly noticeable in their rendering musical service chosen for the festival.

At the Friday evening service, the anthem, "Ye shall Dwell in the Land," by Dr. Stainer, was rendered with charming ensemble effect, with fine regard for shading and expression. The soprano solo was rendered with beautiful effect by Miss Mary Rush, the bass solo being taken by Rev. Mr. Major in good voice and musicianly expression. Bennett's Magnificant and Nunc Dimittus were sung and repeated last night, as was also the harvest carol, "Holy is the Seedtime."

Rev. W. L. Armitage preached at both services yesterday, his subject in the morning being from the text, Revelation iii, 8, "I know Thy works, and I have set before Thee an open door." The anthem, "All Thy works praise Thee, O God," was rendered by the choir, the tenor solo being taken in good voice by Mr. Jos. Legge.

The subject of the sermon at the evening service was "The woman, Mary, and the box of precious ointment."

The sermon was an earnest and convincing effort, and was addressed to a congregation which filled the church to its utmost capacity.

The anthem was, "While the earth remaineth," by Semper. The contralto solo was beautifully taken by Miss Mabel Rickey. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittus were Burnett in F, and the Te Deum by Cunstance.

The Sunday School was addressed in the afternoon by Rev. Mr. Armitage.

The annual congregational re-union will be held to-night, when, it is expected, that a very enjoyable evening will be spent.

—There was another heavy white frost this morning, denoting that winter is approaching. The thermometer registered 35 degrees as the lowest during the night.

YOUTHS NOT OF PURITANICAL INCLINSTIONS

Two youths, one from Norwood, and the other from Havelock, arrived in the city yesterday, and after spending the day, attended divine service in the evening. But their craving for food, it appears, was not confined to the spiritual variety, and in order to acquire something of a more material nature, they immediately afterwards visited the Greek ice cream parlour, corner of George and Charlotte streets, where a somewhat un-Puritanical season was held over the festive bowl of lacteal gelo. Roused by its stimulating influence from the oppressive languor incident to a day spent under Blue-law usages, the young men paid assiduous court to the locum-tenens goddess occupying in her absence the throne of Bacchus.

But their infatuation could be by no means satisfied with worshipping afar, for their souls became fired with a passion so intense that they actually became "spoony." The Frappe Goddess apparently would not stand for too much of the fiery element and trouble ensued. P. C. McGinty was the agent who rudely shattered what might have been an interesting addition to Greek mythology, by the removal of the "spooney" element, which was of a most concrete character, and reposed in the overcoat pocket of the Havelock youth.

The latter was at a loss to explain their presence there till an explanation was made by his associate that in "a joke" he had placed two small silver spoons in his pocket. The proprietors, however, evidently failed to possess a sense of humour large enough to apprehend the bucolic nature of the pleasantry, and the boys spent the night in the cells, and this morning they occupied the centre of the boards at the police court, which was presided over by His Worship H. Nash. Crown Attorney Wood was present but declined to press the charge of theft under the circumstances. Some good advice was administered by the Court and the prisoners were allowed to depart, murmuring their gratitude in dulcet tones.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years the doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NORWAY-SWEDEN PEACE TRIUMPH

Swede and Norse Prove Themselves to Be Civilized.

SEPARATE WITHOUT WAR

Amicable Understanding Come to By the Delegates on All Points — The Terms Not Yet Made Public—Premier Michelsen of Norway a Peacemaker—The Future King of Norway.

Christiania, Sept. 25.—The Norwegian delegation arrived here from Karlstad at 1 a. m. yesterday, and was received with cheers by several thousand persons. During the past week there has been increasing agitation over the question of a constitution for Norway. The Republicans made great efforts to organize a party, but they are in a hopeless minority, as the candidature of a Bernadotte prince has been abandoned. All attention is now directed to Prince Charles of Denmark, who, if he accepts the throne, will be enthusiastically received.

FUTURE KING OF NORWAY.

REACH AMICABLE AGREEMENTS.

Norwegian and Swedish Delegates Successfully Finish Their Work.

Karlstad, Sept. 25.—After protracted sessions extending over some weeks, the Norwegian and Swedish delegates who met here to settle the terms of separation of the two countries early Saturday evening arrived at an agreement on all points. The terms were not made public.

Peculiar Negotiations.

The negotiations which are now concluded were peculiar in nature. On one side, the delegates were four Swedish Ministers, who at the time of the Riksdag decision were leading members of the committee which framed the Swedish conditions to assent to dissolution. On the other side the delegates were men who led Norway in its revolution of June 7, but who were not guided by any decision of the Storthing. On the contrary, their every act was looked upon with suspicion by men more radical.

When Sweden's conditions were made known, many voices in Norway were raised against acceding to them. Premier Michelsen of Norway was more conservative, and seeing the consequences to Norway of a breach with Sweden was willing to enter into an agreement so long as it was honorable to Norway and preserved as much as possible her national pride. M. Berner, President of the Norwegian Storthing, and M. Loveland, the Norwegian Foreign Minister, were perhaps not so willing, but they followed Premier Michelsen.

For Good Feeling.

The purpose of the Swedish delegates was to make an agreement preserving the good feeling between the two peoples. From this viewpoint, of course, Sweden was compelled to insist upon demolition of the frontier fortifications, which Norway, notwithstanding the close relations of the countries, had erected against Sweden's entirely unfortified frontier. The first purpose of the Swedish delegates was to hurry as little as possible the feelings of Norway and the Swedish delegates throughout the proceedings have tried to find out a way in which the fortress located farthest from the frontier could be made less threatening, while the others they contended should be demolished. It is believed this point was successfully carried. The Swedish delegates were also anxious to preserve free and untrammelled intercourse between the two countries, and they therefore proposed that certain agreements be made regarding transit and waterways which were equal in benefit to both, and which would prevent one country from interfering with the other. These matters also were settled to the satisfaction of both sides.

Hunting of Reindeer.

Finally Sweden did not consider that she could leave unprotected the interests of the poor nomadic Lapianders, who, for their existence, depend upon the use of pastures in both countries at different seasons for their reindeer. The Norwegians held out against the granting of this right, which had been established for centuries, but it is thought they at last gave in.

That Sweden never objected to an arbitration treaty is shown by the Riksdag's decision, in which arbitration was first mentioned, and which agreed perfectly with Sweden's expressed desire for peace.

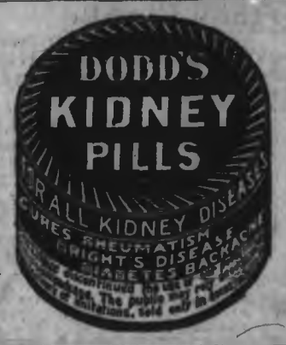
"Mind your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1898 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. Hack, of 3d Broadway, Buffalo, N.Y. "I suffered from falling of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 60 years ago. Much imitated but never equaled.



TO BRING ABOUT PEACE.

Limitation of Armaments Urged By the Peace Advocates.

Lucerne, Sept. 25.—The final session of the International Peace Congress Saturday adopted a proposition of the British delegates for the formation of clubs in various centres to further the peace movement.

Resolutions were also passed requesting The Hague Congress to discuss the question of limitation of armaments, the creation of an international assembly to discuss questions of general interest, and the codification of international laws. The congress expressed the opinion that neutral powers should interdict the public issue of war loans in their territories.

The conference will meet next year at Milan.

Conference In Morocco.

Paris, Sept. 25.—Premier Rouvier, Prince Von Radolin, the German Ambassador, M. Revoil, the French representative on the Moroccan conference, and Dr. Rosen, the German plenipotentiary, had a lengthy conference at the Foreign Office Saturday in connection with the Moroccan question. The drawing up of an agreement between France and Germany has progressed considerably, but has not yet been signed.

TELEPHONE PREVENTS SUICIDE.

Windsor Man Called Up Guelph and Headed Off Death.

Guelph, Sept. 25.—Early Saturday afternoon a long distance telephone call from Windsor asked one of the local papers if a man by the name of Sterling had suicided in Guelph.

A reporter who hurried over to the hotel startled the proprietor by the query. The door of Sterling's room was found to be bolted on the inside. The door was broken in and the man found stretched unconscious on the bed, apparently under the influence of some powerful drug.

Medical aid was summoned and Sterling was finally brought around. His first words were for a cigarette. He probably had taken floral. He is now in the hospital and will probably recover.

The telephone message undoubtedly saved his life. He had written to F. S. Marcon of Windsor saying "when you receive this I shall have ended my life."

Sterling was formerly a resident and, while in that city made several attempts to end his life. He is about 30 years old and was formerly employed by the Walkerville Match Co. as a traveling salesman.

BOMB OUTRAGE IN CHINA.

Chinese Delegates to Study Foreign Governments Are Hurt.

Pekin, Sept. 25.—At the Pekin Railway station yesterday as a train carrying one of four missions ordered abroad to study foreign political methods was leaving, a bomb was exploded in a private car, killing four minor officials and wounding over twenty other persons.

The wounded include Prince Tsai Tche, who heads the most important of the missions, and Wu Ting Fang, former Minister to the United States, both of whom received slight injuries. The perpetrator of the outrage, who was in the car was blown to pieces.

The affair has created a profound sensation and causes apprehension regarding the safety of the members of the court and leading officials of the Government.

Boy Falls Thirty Feet.

Walkerville, Sept. 25.—Robbie Leishman, 12 years of age, son of a machinist at the Canadian Bridge Works climbed up the inside of the new big chimney of the Walker, Cooper shop. He reached a point thirty feet from the ground, when a spike broke and he fell to the ground, fracturing his skull and receiving internal injuries.

Queen's Tribute.

London, Sept. 25.—Thousands of persons in the east end yesterday visited the people's church, Whitechapel, where the body of Dr. Thomas John Barnardo the philanthropist who died last Wednesday will lie in state until the funeral takes place. Among the messages of sympathy was one from Queen Alexandra.

Naval Base at Singapore.

London, Sept. 25.—The Sunday Observer says that the British Government has decided to establish a naval base at Singapore as part of a vast new scheme of imperial defence, which includes the compulsory purchase of the Tanjongpear docks.

THE MASSACRES WILL BE ENDED

Agreement Entered Into By the Tartars and Armenians.

THE CONFERENCE CONCLUDED

General Congress of the Inhabitants of the Caucasus to Be Summoned to Consider the Causes of Enmity and to Apply the Remedy—Arbitration Court a Part of the Plan.

Baku, Sept. 25.—A conference of representatives of the Armenians and Tartars under the presidency of Prince Louis Napoleon, Governor-General of the Caucasus, has just been concluded.

The conference decided to summon a general congress representing the inhabitans of the Caucasus to meet in October for the purpose of considering the causes of the enmity existing between the Tartars and the Armenians; resolved to urge upon the Government the necessity for the adoption of prompt measures to ensure the safety of the life and property, and arrange that Armenians and Tartars shall become mutually responsible for all material damage in the event of massacre or pillage by either side until January, 1907.

Ten Armenians and Ten Mussulmans, all millionaires, undertook to guarantee the strict observance of the agreement.

The conference also resolved to form an arbitration court to consist of five Armenians and five Tartars, which will draft the details of the agreement and remove any difficulties that may arise. The agreement will become effective October 14.

A preliminary peace agreement between the Tartars and the Armenians was signed yesterday.

Zemstvoists Convene.

Moscow, Sept. 25.—Owing to the fact that there is no danger of police interference, the congress of Zemstvoists and municipal representatives, which opens here to-day, is attracting less attention than that given to previous congresses, but the program for discussion is extremely important, as it will be a criticism of the National Assembly project.

On the Verge of Revolt.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 25.—An article in The Novoe Vremye, which bears marks of inspiration, intimating that all parties in Finland are preparing for an uprising and that the country is on the verge of revolt, is attracting much attention. Finlanders fear that the article was put forth on behalf of the Russian administration in Finland in order to justify more vigorous military measures.

200 Jews Arrested.

Warsaw, Sept. 25.—The police Saturday night surrounded parks in which thousands of Jews were promenading. All of them were searched and two hundred were arrested.

Six Millions For Relief.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 25.—Special commissions from the Department of Agriculture and Ministry of the Interior left here Saturday to take charge of the relief work in the famine districts of Russia. The cost of this work is estimated by the Government at $6,000,000.

Deaths From Cholera.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 25.—Two deaths from cholera have occurred at Blockawek, on the Vistula River. The victims were members of the same family in which a death from cholera was reported last Wednesday. At Stettin one death from cholera has occurred on a barge which arrived from Nakel, Prussia, the victim being a nine-months-old infant.

PRESIDENT PALMA SUCCEEDS.

Quiet Election in Cuba—Liberals Admit Moderates Have Won.

Havana, Sept. 25.—The election for members of boards of registration here passed off quietly, and telegrams from the interior say there were no disorders except at Placetas, Santa Clara Province, where many shots were fired, but no one was killed.

Sultan Fears James Bryce.

Constantinople, Sept. 25.—The Porte is greatly excited over the fact that James Bryce, the British statesman and writer, author of "The American Commonwealth," is making a tour of Macedonia. Mr. Bryce is president of the English Balkan committee, and the Porte fears he is gathering material for a spectacular denunciation in the House of Commons of Turkish rule in Macedonia. Orders have been given to detectives to keep a close watch on his movements.

IN THE FINAL GAME

For the Championship.

Cobourg Took the Local Team into Camp on Saturday—The Score Was 10-0—Game Was Close up to Sixth Innings Quinlan Pitched Splendid Ball For Five Innings—Biggest Crowd of The Season Saw The Final Game at Port Hope—Best Locals Could do Was to Take Second Place.

Peterborough's aspirations to the Midland League championship were pretty effectually crushed on Saturday, in Port Hope, when the final game, a sudden death affair (particularly for Peterborough) was played between the Cobourg and local teams, which, prior to that game, were tied for the championship.

There were a fairly large number of the more enthusiastic supporters of the local men accompanied the team, who were optimistic enough to believe that this year the pennant would be won by the local aggregation, and this opinion was materially strengthened when two weeks ago, it was learned that Bowmanville, the town which this season had been looked upon as the only really dangerous rivals the locals had encountered during the season, had met defeat on their own grounds at the hands of Cobourg, for this team had been comparatively an easy proposition to the local bunch this season. At Peterborough, it is true, the home team had been defeated by Cobourg, but the score was close, 6—5, and later, in Cobourg, the home team had defeated them by the wide score of 7—3. In view of this fact it was figured by some that when they met in the final game it would be easy—so it was—for Cobourg, for the score was 10—0, the cypher representing the score of the Peterborough team.

The game was the best attended of any in Port Hope this season, an excursion train from this city carrying about 300 persons, while Cobourg was represented by an even larger number, and Port Hope citizens also furnished a goodly number of enthusiastic spectators, the sympathies of whom seemed to be pretty generally with the Peterborough team, but even with this additional encouragement, the local men could not win.

The impression of the majority of those who saw the game was that the better team won, and, on the form shown Saturday, this is a pretty reasonable and warranted view to take. They played good ball, and played it all the time, something that cannot be said of the Peterborough team, for while, in the early stages of the game, for the first five innings, they played good ball, and the score was 1—0, in the next innings the balloon went up, and before they reached terra firma again, the score board read 7—0, and the jig was up.

For five innings Quinlan pitched splendid ball and had fair support, but in the first of the sixth he was batted rather freely and the whole team practically lost their heads. Errors followed each other in quick succession, and it was not all Quinlan's fault that before the side was retired six runs crossed the plate in the sixth innings.

Douglas replaced the youngster in the seventh, but it was too late, and three more runs crossed the pan between that and the closing innings on a hit and some pretty bad errors.

During the first five innings Quinlan was master of the situation, and the one run scored prior to that period was through no fault of his. Cobourg got two men on bases on more than one occasion, but the next man usually fell a prey to the shoots which up to that time had proved to be considerable of a puzzle to the Cobourg heavy-hitters. The trouble was that with Quinlan's weakening, the rest of the bunch took their aerial flight.

On the other hand the Cobourg team was steady, and accorded Downs gilt-edged support during the whole nine innings. He was not hit at all freely, and was backed up well by the other eight members of the team, a quality which in the case of Peterborough was conspicuous by its absence. The score at the outside should not have been more than three or four, but the local team should have no kick. Their opponents played the better ball and deserved to win. The team as a whole is the better aggregation, not because of any specially good men, but principally because they played well together and supported their pitcher.

The teams, with the score, follow:

Summary.—Two base hits, — Turpin, Payne, McKinnon. Bases on balls, — Off Downs, 1; off Quinlan, 1; off Douglas, 9. Struck out, — By Downs, 5; by Quinlan, 5; by Douglas, 1. Hit by pitcher, — Douglas. Stolen bases, —Bulger, Bentley, Burge. Sacrifice hits, — Bentley. Double plays, —Turpin to Bulger, Bulger (unassisted). Payne to Turpin. Left on bases, — Cobourg, 10; Peterborough, 6. Umpire, — J. M. Rosvear, Port Hope.

The Game.

The locals lost the toss, and had to go to bat first. Sheridan fanned, Gordon got four balls, but Shea failed to connect safely. Douglas was hit by pitcher, and with two on bases, Rattray grounded to second. Turpin, who, by the way, was an easy victim to Quinlan on Saturday, was first up and fanned out. Bulger grounded to second, and although Bentley got his base on balls, Burge was hit by batted ball and was called out. Score 0-0.

Downs fanned two of the Pirates in the second, Earls and Callaghan being the victims, and Connors popped up a foul fly. Quinlan also got two to "bite" at his offerings in this inning. Butler was first up and fanned. Payne was out on a grounder to third. Floyd, with two out, got a nice hit to right, but McKinnon also fanned.

Quinlan got the first hit off Douglas, a nice single to right in the third. Sheridan grounded to first, however, and Quinlan was doubled at second. Graham flew out to centre. Downs was first up for Cobourg, and drove a fly to centre which Connors dropped. Turpin flew out to left. Bulger followed with a hit to right field, but two more flies from Bentley and Burge, flew to Sheridan.

Shea flew out to McKinnon in the fourth, and Douglas struck out. Rattray got to first on Bentley's error, but was caught off the base. Douglas gathered in Butler's fly in the last half; Payne hit to right, and Floyd followed with a hit to second, but Payne was caught by Callaghan on a fielder's choice. McKimm flew out to Connors.

It looked like a score for Peterborough in this innings, but it did not materialize. Connors got a hit to centre, and got second on Bulger's failure to hold the throw from Downs, who handled Earls' grounder. Callaghan flew out to right, and Earls was caught on a double play. Quinlan grounded to first, and it was all off. In the third innings Cobourg got their first run. Turpin grounded to third. Bulger drove a liner inside first base, which Graham fielded, but the runner beat him out. Bently sacrificed, and Burge hit to Callaghan, who threw high to first, and before the ball was recovered Bulger had crossed the plate.

The Slaughter.

In the 6th Sheridan tried to beat out a bunt, but failed. Graham followed and his attempt was successful. Shea hit to centre, but Graham was caught at second, and the side was retired on Douglas' fly to 1st. The next few minutes were anxious ones to the supporters of the Peterborough team. Payne, who was first up for the Cobourg team in this period, got a nice two bagger to centre, Floyd flew to Connors, but McKimm got a smashing hit to the centre garden, and Payne came ambling in. Downs got a hoist, also to centre, and and McKimm came in. Downs stole second, and third and scored on a high throw to the latter bag. Turpin and Bulger followed with hits, the former a two bagger. Bently drove a liner which got away from Shea, and Turpin and Bulger crossed the plate, and in the midst of a discussion Bently came home too, making the score 7—0. Burge hit to centre. Butler flew to Shea, Payne got first on Callaghan's error, but Floyd flew out to Connors, who made a pretty running catch.

The locals were easy in the 7th, Rattray grounding to second, and Connors and Earls both flew out to Bulger, who in that innings had two out and an assist. McKimm fanned in Cobourg's half. Downs flew to Earls, Turpin got first on Connors' excusable error, but Bulger was out on his grounder to Graham.

In the 8th Callaghan drove a liner to McKimm, but the runner was safe on Turpin's error. Quinlan flew to McKimm, and Sheridan flew to Payne, who doubled Quinlan at 1st. Three more runs were scored by Cobourg in this innings. Bently hit to 3rd, and beat out the throw. Burge got 1st on a fielder's choice. Butler drove a liner which Shea let get away from him, and Bently scored. Some wild throws were made to bases, and when the smoke cleared away Burge and Butler had crossed the plate, making the final score 10—0. Payne grounded to second, and McKimm hit to centre, but Downs flew to Douglas, and Turpin flew to Shea, retiring the side.

There was nothing doing in the ninth. Graham flew to 2nd; Shea grounded to Turpin, and Douglas grounded to Downs, and the game was ended.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor Post Card Column,—

The Examiner is in error in stating that the first concrete crossing is at the corner of Hunter and Queen streets. The first one was put at the corner of George and Edinburgh streets.

Yours, etc.,
B.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Could you inform me why the police in this town allow about one hundred men to stand in front of the Peterborough Hardware Co. every Saturday night. All the carpenters, masons, bricklayers and all kind of workmen stand around there and blockade the street. It must be a pay office by the looks of things.

Yours,
MOVE ON.

To Editor of Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—The Directors of the Central Exhibition, I suppose, depend upon the public for support of the fair and also upon the newspapers, which I notice are doing a good deal to boom the fair. The newspapers conduct first-class job printing offices and the proprietors and employees are part of the public whom the directors look to to support the fair. Now how can you explain the fact that the directors should get their poster printing done outside of the city? The directors of the East Riding Exhibition got their poster printing in the "village" of Norwood, while the West Riding people can't get their printing done in the "city" of Peterborough. Is there any explanation?

Yours truly,
M. QUAD.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Mr. Editor,—There's a dangerous crossing at the junction of the C.P.R. line with Water street, near Allison's grocery. Now trains go over this crossing at a rate of speed far beyond the limit fixed by law,—as fast it seems as from fifteen to twenty-five miles an hour. There is a curve and buildings which prevent a clear view to the drivers, and if a street car coming south happens to have a wet track and the brakes do not work well owing to this wet track there's great danger of a terrible smash and loss of life. Somebody should see that the engine drivers put on the brakes a little in making this very dangerous crossing. I see no good reason why a street car should be brought to a dead stand at a railway track and a railway engine dash over a street crossing at twenty-five miles an hour.

Very truly,
SAFETY.

TRIBUTE TO DR. BARNARDO

At the morning service at St. John's church yesterday, Rev. J. C. Davidson paid a tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Barnardo, saying that during the past week there had passed from the world one of its noblest and most useful men, in whose work we in Peterborough were especially interested, owing to the presence here of one of his Homes.

Throughout the world there were thousands of sympathetic young hearts who received their first start in life through his efforts, and who now mourned their benefactor's death.

Through Dr. Barnardo's striking personality we felt a stimulating fellowship with him in bygone years, which would be continued now that he had passed with other saints and heroes into the Paradise of God.

The Question of Baldness

This is a vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the disfigurement lent by baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern art in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, to Peterborough, on Tuesday, September 26, when he will be at the Oriental Hotel renders it possible for anyone who may wish to consult him, to do so at his private apartments retained at the Oriental Hotel for this purpose. Demonstration given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember the day and date. 5d

Palmistry

The eminent scientist, clairvoyant, and palmist, is located in parlors at 29 Queen street. A MISTAKE TO USE GLASSES WHEN NOT NEEDED!

There is no greater error than to place Glasses before the eyes of young people unless they are positively needed. On the other hand, there is no greater mistake than to avoid them when they are needed. The difficulty is to know positively whether they should be worn or not. You can learn thus by consulting A. A. INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION OF 1905

BREAKS ALL THE PAST RECORDS

This Afternoon Saw the Opening of the Most Uniformly Successful Exhibition ever held in Peterborough—The Exhibits Larger and of Better Quality---Live Stock an Especially Prominent Feature of the Show---The Official Opening took place This Afternoon---Addresses by R. R. Hall, M. P., and T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P. ---The City Full of Visitors to The Fair---Large Attendance.

All circumstances combined to make the Peterborough Industrial Fair, which opened this afternoon, amid a blaze of glory, the most successful, by far, of any previously held, under the auspices of the Association, which has in the past few years been steadily improving the quality of its annual exhibition, until to-day it compares most favourably with any in the province, held in a city of corresponding size.

The weather man has been generous to the directors this year, and although last night the mercury reached three degrees below the freezing point, this morning opened fine and mush warmer, and during the day the temperature has been steadily rising, until an ideal weather condition has been reached, and this, with other auspicious circumstances, has ensured the success of the Fair from every standpoint.

At an early hour this morning the grounds were opened to the exhibitors and their assistants, who put the finishing touches on the exhibits and at nine o'clock the judging in some of the classes commenced, and was continued without interruption during the day.

That the Fair is essentially a farmers' [illegible] was amply evidenced this [illegible] than the stables and sheds [illegible] filled, almost to overflow, [illegible] stock, stock which would for quality, take second place nowhere in the province; and this fact alone is sufficient to stamp the Fair as a success from an educational standpoint.

The feature in a Fair, which has many excellent points, is the phenomenal increase in the list of entries of live stock, every class of stock nearly being represented, and the pleasing feature is that universally it is of more than ordinarily good quality.

The most remarkable increase is in the poultry department, in which alone there are well on to 500 entries, a great many more than ever before in the history of the Fair. In this class the greatest increase is in the Plymouth Rocks and Minorcas, in both of which breeds the entries are represented by large numbers, and there are some remarkably fine birds. But the increase is by no means confined to these classes, for every breed is well represented, and the judges are finding considerable difficulty in awarding the prizes, because of the competition.

But, while the poultry exhibit is large, the other sections of the live stock show, the most interesting feature to the farmers generally, are well filled. All the pens are full, and the uniformly improved quality of the stock is a marked feature. Nearly all the old exhibitors are there again, this year, and, in addition, there are many new ones, who are at the Peterborough Fair for the first time, this year.

Judging was in progress in horses this morning, and there was great interest manifested in the work of the judges, who had some difficulty in deciding the respective merits of the animals, the genral excellence was so marked. In this respect the Fair is a decided improvement over all former years. The stock is much finer, an indication that the farmers are taking a deeper interest in stock raising.

In cattle, substantially, the same might be said. There are a number of large exhibitors, among them being Wm. Stewart, of the Menie Stock Farm, who shows twelve entries in Ayrshires; Rich. Honey, with twelve entries in Holsteins. Mr. Honey comes from Percy Township, and has a one-year-old Holstein bull which last year as a calf, took second in Toronto, and later, in London, beat out the first prize winner at Toronto. Mr. Jas. McLeod, of Plainville, is here with fourteen head of Polled Angus. New exhibitors are R. Tufts and sons, of Tweed, who showed here for the first time. They are the largest exhibitors in Jerseys, with fifteen entries.

In the grade and shorthorn classes there is the usual preponderance in numbers. Jas. Rennie and son, of Blackwater, have twelve entries of shorthorns. The beef cattle are largely represented, but dairy breeds seem to have the preference.

In hogs, the three classes, Berkshires, Yorkshires and Tamworths, are the leaders, in the latter class Messrs. Colwill Bros., of Newcastle, being the principal exhibitors. They have some special specimens of hogs, and should be large prize-winners. The bacon hog is having its innings, and there seems to be a decided tendency to raise hogs which will conform to the requirements of the English market.

In sheep the entries are principally in Leicesters, Shropshire downs and Cotswolds.

The Inside Exhibits.

All the space downstairs in the main building has been taken, but upstairs there is not the usual showing. A number of merchants and business firms have taken space on the first floor, and some good exhibits are seen. The vegetables are on this floor and are good, more than usually so, in fact. The showing is not particularly large, but the quality is excellent.

The upstairs is devoted to ladies' work and to fruit, in both of which classes there are a number of good entries. The dask of adequate accommodation is felt, however, for the display of foreign goods, and, as a consequence, the showing is not as large as it would be if there were better facilities afforded. Some especially clever work is evidenced, however, in the exhibits of fancy work.

There are, perhaps, more people in the city to-day than there ever has been before on the opening day of the fair, and all the trains this morning were crowded to overflowing. Nine coaches were attached to the Belleville train, and eleven on the Port Hope express, while that Lindsay train also carried heavy crowds, as well as the C. P. R. [illegible] from the east. Altogether the fair promises to be highly successful.

The officers, directors and committees of management, to whom credit must be given for the success of the exhibition this year, are:

The Fair Officially Opened

Early this afternoon the turnstiles began to get busy and the visitors fairly poured into the grounds each car landing its crowds at the fair gates. The splendid weather doubtless helped to swell the number present, for it is doubtful if the opening day has ever seen such a large crowd. The full band of the 57th Regiment was present, and during the afternoon rendered a programme of music which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The fair was declared officially open by Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., in the presence of several thousand persons who surrounded the stand from which the addresses were given. Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, president of the association, was the first speaker.

In opening the ceremonies of the fair Mr. Hughes-Charles expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large number of spectators present. This was the [illegible] annual fair since the change in the name of the society, and it was improving each year, he was glad to say. The display of live stock in the Peterborough fair was truly wonderful, and was surpassed by any fair in Canada, except perhaps, Toronto, London and Ottawa. He had visited many fairs, but none of them in the amateur class had he seen live stock to equal that of Peterborough.

The inside exhibits were good, though not large perhaps, and he expected to see them grow in num-

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition

ber. In ladies' work, the Directors had decided that only work manufactured this year, would be allowed in competition and the result was that our grandmothers' quilts were not carted around each year, but the goods are all fresh each year.

He had started out with the Peterborough fair with the belief that the people would be interested in an agricultural fair, buf he found that they wanted to be entertained as well as educated and this year the Directors had at a great expense secured a company of acrobats and a detachment of the R. C. D. both of which aggregations would be seen in front of the grand stand to-day and to-morrow.

He hoped to see the fair continue to increase in interest and that the farmers and townspeople would support it more liberally than had been the case in the past.

Mr. R. R. Hall's Address.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., was then beallad upon to open the fair officially, and was given a good reception on rising to speak.

He thanked most cordially the President and Board of Directors of the Peterborough Agricultural Society for honouring him with an invitation to take part in the opening ceremonies of this magnificent fair. He congratulated the officers of the Agricultural Society upon the great success which had attended their efforts in building the Peterborough Fair up to the proud position which it occupied to-day of being the best Exhibition in every detail between Toronto and Montreal. He congratulated the farmers upon the most excellent stock which they had placed upon exhibition and he further congratulated the ladies of the city and county of Peterborough upon their most beautiful and artistic handiwork. Their work compared favourably with any which he had ever seen in any other exhibition. It was, he said, of the utmost importance to the city and county of Peterborough that the farmers and our citizens generally should be brought together in a spirit of friendly rivalry which arose out of exhibiting the different classes of farm products in which they excelled. The spirit of emulation to reach the highest goal has always been one of the strongest forces in human nature to lead to crowning success. It was this spirit that has caused the City of Peterborough to treble its population in the last 20 years. It was this spirit, coupled with a desire for gain that has caused the imports of the City of Peterborough alone to increase $90,000.00 greater than they were three years ago. The same growth and development were taking place all over Canada. It was interesting to compare the trade of Canada now with the trade of Canada ten years ago. To-day Canada exports three and a half times as much cheese, three times as much butte rand sixteen times as much bacon as she did ten years ago. Canada's total exports in these three farm products alone now amounts to the sum of $40,000,000.00. It is a proud boast among the Canadians that whatever they undertake they will accomplish. Twenty years ago the farmers of this county undertook to capture the English market in cheese. To-day Canada sends six-times as much cheese to the English market as Holland, five times as much as the United States, and twice as much as all the rest of the world combined. Even the Banner Province of Ontario sends more cheese to the English market than all the rest of the world together. Twenty years ago the United States, sent to England nearly twice as much cheese as Canada, to-day the United States is nearly driven out of the English market in that product and does not send one fifth of what it formerly sent, whereas Canada now sends five times more than the United States.

After referring to other elements of the growth of Canadian trade Mr. Hall again congratulated the Directors and those associated with them upon their success and hoped that our citizens throughout the city and county of Peterborough would make a stronger effort next year to double the gate receipts of this exhibition which was one of the standards of success, and at the same time benefit themselves by improving the quality of every product of the farm.

Mr. Bradburn Speaks.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn was the next speaker, and expressed his pleasure at being present, and at seeing such a splendid exhibition of live stock and agricultural products. He believed that as far as exhibits were concerned, this year outdid all former years and the present success was due to the good work of the president and the directors. He regretted, however, that the attendance was not larger, and thought that there were not half as many people present as there should have been.

Referring to the great progress which Canada had made in agriculture recently, he thought that the secret of the demand for Canadian products in England was that they were now of a much better quality.

He hoped that the people would take a deeper interest in the Fair in the future, and that its success would be assured. The programme was then continued in front of the grand stand.

MR. T. E. BRADBURN, M. P. P.,
Who Participated in the Opening Ceremonies.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

Photography of Rare Merit.

It would be a serious loss to the Art Section of the main building, if Mr. R. M. Roy's exquisite collection of photography were to be missed. His special exhibit this year is, as usual, a delight to art-loving visitors. The collection is, of course, wholly composed of specimens from his own studio, on Hunter street, where the work which he has produced has won for him a place in the guild of artists, and has brought praise to himself, and the city. If anything were necessary to prove the high rank which Mr. Roy's work has taken, an inspection of his meritorious exhibit at the Fair would be sufficiently convincing. As an experienced judge of the work said: "This more than confirms my first impression of Mr. Roy's abilities. His enthusiasm for his work is displayed in every picture, and his skill and talent are undoubtedly of a high order."

A very hasty view of some of the choicest gems in Mr. Roy's collection, showed excellent examples of the results achieved by untiring devotion to the art. Space will not permit of particularizing. It may be said, however, that Mr. Roy's straight photographic work is conspicuous for delicate toning, soft effects, sharp artistic finish and admirable posing. These qualities are strongly characteristic of the larger pictures. Those shown were not specially finished for the Fair, but were ordinary samples of his every-day work. Is it not gratifying to know that at Mr. Roy's well-equipped studio one can have the assurance of having the finest work turned out in Canada, and infinitely better than in many of the studios of the metropolis? For the eight time Mr. Roy carried off the highest honours awarded by the Directors.

The "Daylight" Clothiers, Lang & Maher.

Somebody has said that "great things happen when energy gets chummy with enterprise." At any rate, the rapid growth of the business of the "Daylight" Clothing Store, 409-411 George street, is an excellent exemplification of the fact that success comes to him who works.

Messrs. Lang and Maher have already justified the public conclusion that the are a firm of "goers"— not waiters. When they began business a little over a year ago, they started out with the idea that it was better to promise too little and do much, than promise much and perform little. Promptness, thoroughness, efficiency and honesty have been four guide posts to the phenomenal business prosperity of this young firm. They have worked with all their might. Their daily motto has been, "If we have done well to-day, do better to-morrow."

The success which they have enjoyed speaks volumes for their future. A good start is half the battle, and they have had it. Having tasted of the sweets of good fortune, it is but natural that they would like a little more of it. They are attune to the season. Their new Fall clothing and Furnishings have been selected with the care of expert buyers and a knowledge of the requirements of Peterborough's particular trade. They are both patient men, and know just what to buy and what not to buy. Hence there's no need to charge exorbitant prices to make up for bad purchases. Another good thing is it that their store is always under the spell of good daylight—and that means that Lang & Maher's premises have no dark corners. The clearest daylight is obtainable in every section—as it is the only store in town that extends from one street to the other, having full glass windows rear and front.

But it is the effective advertising festivals of the firm that attracted so much attention at the fair that made their name talked of so much by visitors. Commencing at the entrance to the grounds, and looking all around on the sheds, fences, gates, grand stands, main building, etc., large coloured bulletins attractively lettered, bearing their name and business address, were to be seen prominently displayed. It is simply impossible for anyone to attend the fair without learning that Lang & Maher are the live "Daylight Clothiers, who are determined not to hide their light under a bushel.

It is quite easy to get acquainted with Lang & Maher's store—their handsome tile entrance to their front door and their name plate in blue tile lettering should suffice. During the exhibition they will make you "welcome as the flowers of May."

Italian Scrap on McDonel St. Two Men Were Injured

A large-sized "scrap," the origin of which remains as yet somewhat shrouded in mystery, occurred about noon on McDonel street, at Hicks' coal and wood yard. As a result, Benjamin LeBar and Frank Brown, two men employed in the yard, received severe cuts upon the head from stones alleged to have been thrown by the members of an Italian party of five.

The story of the cause of the occurrence, as narrated by LeBar and Brown, is to the effect that they were engaged in unhitching their horses in the yards, when a sudden and wholly unprovoked attack was made upon them by the Italians, who were at the time they drove up seated beside a lumber pile immediately in front of the yard, eating their mid-day meal. The Italians, who are engaged in sewer construction, the injured men claim, commenced, wholly without provocation, to hurl stones at them, two of which took effect upon their heads as mentioned. Quite a large crowd assembled in a short space of time, and the Italians straightway took flight, "shadowed" by a number of boys and men. While making their escape, one of the Italians was met by a spectator who, it appears, administered some punishment as a parting salute.

An Italian, who is supposed to be one of those implicated, was arrested about one o'clock by P. C. Adams, at 272 Simcoe street. He was taken from the interior of the house and was identified by a number of those in the crowd assembled outside, and also by LeBar, as one of the attacking party. Only two men were in the house at the time the arrest was made.

The whereabouts of the remainder of the party have not yet been discovered but the police are making every effort to secure their apprehension. The case of the man taken prisoner will be heard to-morrow morning at the police court, and in the meantime it is expected that further developments will ensue.

Fire Engine Company
IS NOW PREPARED
To Make a Test

Canandian Fire Engine Company Writes to the Council to That Effect---Will Ship an Engine Here at Their Own Risk---Special Meeting of the City Council was Held Last Night---Much Routine Business was Transacted ---Requests for Sidewalks---Reports of Committees.

The special session of the City Council held last night proved to be fruitful of legislation of various kinds. Consuiderable routine business was also transacted.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Best and Ald. Johnston, Begley, Hicks, Crowe, Leary, Hall, Tovey, McIntyre, Scott, Adams, Mason.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and approved.

Communications.

The following communications were dealt with:

Petitions were received requesting the construction of granolithic sidewalks on the following streets: Gilstreet, s. s., Park to St. Joseph; Walker street, s. s., outside of tree line, from Park street to western boundary. Board of Works.

From S. Hall, stating that he has just finished a new house at the corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie streets, and requesting that a short sidewalk be constructed about forty feet in length on Dalhousie street, from corner of Rubidge. The request will be granted.

From the Canadian Manufacturer Publishing Company, stating that for the sume of $5 per year they would continue to publish the name of the city in the "Factory Locations," published in the Canadian Manufacturer, and asked for a continuation of the insertion. It will be renewed this year, the aldermen believing that advertising pays.

From the Canadian Fire Engine Company, stating that they had deferred answering a previous communication in order to ascertain if they could meet Mr. Johnston's wishes by making an exhibition and test in Peterborough on the 26th.

Their engine has been under steam for many hours, and the test has been most satisfactory in every particular. As soon as the painting and decorations are completed and matured they will ship, and advise to this effect within a week. The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to deal with.

From Robert Thornton, stating that when his taxes were paid on his property, No. 67 Harvey street, this year, a tax of $1 for a dog was paid. As he has been residing in Manitoba since 1904, and consequently has not had a dog in Peterborough in 1905, a refund was requested. The refund will be made.

From Messrs. Roger and Bennet, stating that the water commissioners request that before laying the water mains on Boswell and Pearl avenues, the grade thereof be fixed by the City Engineer.

These streets have been dedicated to the city. One house has been built on Pearl avenue, and four or five are in course of construction on Boswell avenue. Board of Works.

From F. Knowlson, town clerk, Lindsay, stating that he had been instructed by the Police Magistrate of that town to forward commitment of Jeremiah Clary to St. John's Industrial School, which was enclosed. Clary was charged with theft, and the municipality of Peterborough will be responsible for $1.25 a week for Clary's keep during the term of his detention in the Industrial School. The matter will be dealt with by the Legal Committee.

From S. B. Armstrong, secretary Local Board of Health, stating that at a meeting of the Board held on September 14, the following resolution was passed: "That this Local Board of Health recommend the Council to construct a sewer on Water street, from Smith street to Hilliard street, for the purpose of draining that locality for sanitary purposes.—Board of Works.

From W. G. Morrow, secretary-treasurer of School Board, conveying the information that the Board has appointed the following committee to meet the Committee of the Council in reference to the site for the collegiate institute: Messrs. W. H. Hill, R. B. Rogers, H. P. Kennedy, L. M. Hayes, Jas. Stevenson, and the chairman. Received.

From R. C. Braund, calling attention to the sidewalk in front of his store, which is in a bad condition, and requesting that the construction of a cement walk be considered, and also where it should be situated in case of construction. If the walk should be placed outside the trees, and the street railway down Albert street (as he understand they proposed doing), it would make the street too narrow for business purposes. The sidewalk, in his opinion, should be close upon the store.—Board of Works.

From the Bell Telephone Co., stating that they desired to open portions of the following streets, viz.: Water street, between Victoria and Anson; George, between Smith and Barnardo; Aylmer, between Charlotte and King; Townsend, between George and Park; Park, between Townsend and Albert; Bethune, between McDonel and Dublin; Robinson, between Burnham and Mark; Crescent, between Lock and Haggart, to renew thereon their lines of telephone, and requesting that the City Engineer or other officers be appointed to supervise the erection of the necessary poles. Received.

From Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, stating that it is the present intention of the Government to introduce and to pass at the next session of the Legislature a Bill providing for the repeal of the present County Councils Act, and to provide that henceforth County Councils shall consist of reeves and certain deputy reeves of townships and the mayors of towns not separated from the county. Received.

From the Best Street Light Co., calling attention to the great brilliancy and power of their famous "Best" and Ars Vapor Gas Lamps. Received.

The reports of the various committees were presented and were adopted on motion of the different chairmen. These reports have already been published in the accounts of the proceedings of the committee meetings.

Mr. J. R. Brown addressed the Council in reference to the construction of a sidewalk on Bolivar street to accommodate the occupants of some new houses. The length of the walk would be about 250 feet. The request was referred to the Board of Works, with power to act.

By-Laws.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a by-law to allow the Peterborough Hydraulic Co. to remove their siding on Hunter street, which was passed.

Ald. Hicks introduced a by-law to fix the assessment of the creamery on Aylmer street at $1,000 for five years, under the usual conditions, and it was passed.

Ald. Scott introduced a by-law to appoint H. Rush, sr., a member of the Court of Revision, and to pay each member $50 per year, which was passed.

A by-law to grant $400 to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was introduced by Ald. Leary, and passed.

Ald. Johnston presented a by-law to amend the building by-law to provide that the lot upon which the Peterborough Cereal Company's elevator is being erected shall be excluded from the conditions of the building by-law. This was passed.

The Board of Works was instructed to construct crossing at Murray and MacDonel streets, and to take the levels on Pearl and Boswell avenues.

Dr. Barnardo; His Life and Work

A special sermon was Sunday night preached at the George street Methodist church by Rev. Dr. Crothers, of a somewhat memorial character, the subject being "The Life and Work of the Late Dr. Barnardo."

The preacher chose as his text, Hebrews xi, part of the 4th verse,—"And by it he being dead yet speaketh."

It is a truism, often repeated, that good men never die; whatever influence they set on foot, will go on working. On Monday last, George MacDonald, poet and novelist, passed away, after having in his life-work exerted a far-reaching beneficial influence. On Tuesday came the end of Dr. Barnardo, of whom it has been said, "that never in the history of Christian civilization did any human being, in any land, establish any institution as vast in its philanthropy, as Dr. Barnardo's homes." Born in the year 1845, he was an example of a faithful medical man.

The speaker took occasion to remark with reference to the medical profession that there was no class in the community more deserving of thanks.

Dr. Barnardo will stand in history side by side with Howard, Robert Raikes, John Fowkes, Abraham Lincoln, the Earl of Shaftesbury, and other philanthropists, who have spent their lives in rendering assistance to their fellowmen.

The speaker then described, graphically, the circumstances surrounding which have since increased to their present proportions.

In close proximity to Westminster was a spot known as "The Devil's Acre," where a school was established in a donkey stable, by Dr. Barnardo, who was a medical student. He was about to go to China as a medical missionary, when one evening his room was entered by a ragged little urchin, who wanted to spend the night by the fire. The Doctor, in order to study him, ordered him to run home. The boy replied that he had no home. Further talk revealed a sad story of destitution. The boy affirmed that he had many comrades living in equally sad circumstances. The Doctor at once went out with the boy and a short search revealed the fact that upon the gutters of an iron roof there were sleeping eleven woe-begone, ragged boys. The name of the boy, who in this way, gave the first impetus to the noble work of Dr. Barnardo, was Jimmy Jarvis. The next step toward the establishment, in concrete form, of the work, came in an equally unexpected manner. The great benefactor was one day asked to preach at Islington, at a church of which Dr. Thane Davidson was pastor. In his discourse he gave a short description of his experiences while visiting the poor. The information reached the ears of the Earl of Shaftesbury, who immediately requested Dr. Barnardo to dine with him. The result was an immediate visit of inspection by the gentlemen assembled, in evening dress. The discovery of seventy-three boys living in the utmost squalor, was the result.

The incident resulted in the securing of the assistance necessary to found a Home for the relief of the homeless urchins, who were taken in without regard to creed, age or nationality. The first contribution received was from a poor girl who had attended the services at Islington, and, deeply touched by the incidents narrated, offered her entire savings, amounting to six pence. That was the nucleus from which grew the $15,000,000 which have been donated for the work, up to the year 1903.

The work was of an inter-denominational character, the originator being a man who loved the Lord Jesus Christ. The conversion of children was aimed at. The many trials at this period in the prosecution of the work, owing to the lack of sufficient funds, were graphically described. One thousand dollars was required for bread alone every 24 hours. A donation of three 1000 pound Bank of England notes, was received from one lady, who refused to give her address. Others followed and the work went steadily on, and should furnish a lesson for all broad-minded people — that there is work to be done in this world, and work to be done at home. What tremendous results may be attained by one man consecrated to God, was also pointed out.

The first Home was founded in the year 1866, the first occupant being Jimmy Jarvis. Other branches of the work have also progressed, including the Girls' Village, at Ilford, established twenty-five years ago, where 1200 girls are now kept, saved, and trained to be useful.

The work of sending out immigrants has been considerably criticised, but of these, the speaker pointed out, less than two per cent. have been failures. "Is that more than will be found in any community? I do not understand," he continued, "how it is that Doukobors and Galicians are honoured to a much greater extent than the immigrants from the British Isles. We will have a serious problem to face in our Northwest."

Some 15,700 emigrants have been sent to Canada, of which 8,000 are now being cared for by the Barnardo Homes. One thousand are little infants. $870,000 was contributed to the work in 1903, much of which was in subscriptions of less than $5 each, showing that the funds have not been obtained entirely from the wealthy.

The speaker concluded by remarking of the great man, who has just gone to his reward, that he has done more in forty years than some men would have accomplished in four thousand.

Helpless with Salt Rheum.

"For many months my wife was unable to serve herself with her hands because of salt rheum. Dr. Chase's Ointment has entirely cured her, and we strongly recommend it to others who suffer from similar ailments, believing that it has no equal." Mrs. Ludger Duguay, Pigeon Hill, Missisquoi County, Quebec.

A detachment of United States troops stationed at Fort Wm. H. Seward on the Lynn Canal was ordered to Fort Gibbon on the lower Yukon, and on arriving at Dawson en route found no arrangement had been made for their supplies at that place or for sending them forward. They were in consequence without food or lodging until the United States consul hearing of their unfortunate plight went to their assistance and had them properly housed, fed and looked after. The poor fellows had a pretty hard time for a while. Some of them were veterans of the Spanish war and Philippines.

EXPLANATORY.

Yesterday the Examiner cheerfully gave space to communications from two members of the Board of Education, purporting to "correct certain alleged misstatements made by the Examiner, in reference to the trouble in Mr. Wallace's school room. In the first place it is to be said that the Examiner had no desire to misstate, or, even colour, any fact in connection with the regrettable affair of Friday, when the boys left the school in a body. And it does not appear that, except upon the merest technicality, any misstatement was made. Mr. Crane somewhat insists upon the importance of the fact that, as he says, action was taken on Tuesday, and "NOT after the boys had struck." This is what the Examiner said: "The action of the boys, though without justification, brought matters to a crisis. Else how explain the panicky action of the Board of Education in holding an emergency meeting yesterday, and arranging for a meeting to-night." This is, perhaps, one of the statements which Mr. Crane hints, were "written on the authority of hearsay, when the proper information was near at hand." Nevertheless, it was written on good authority, and formed the justification of the attitude the Examiner took in the matter. The "proper information" was nearer at hand than was thought. Two members of the School Board called upon the Examiner early on Friday afternoon, and, in discussing the boys' "strike," gave the information that a meeting of the members had been held at noon in reference to the strike affair, at least, they said that it was equivalent "to a meeting, and that another meeting was to be held the following night. There is no doubt of that, because at the moment a memorandum of the statements was made. Was not that "proper" information"? It came from two of the most prominent members of the Board of Education, and that formed the basis of the Examiner's remarks on the subject. Mr. Pringle says that no meeting was held on Friday — his committee, not the Board, met. Mr. Pringle is doubtless correct, but other members, doubtless, were present, so that the gathering may have justified the Examiner's informants in saying it was equivalent to a meeting of the Board. It is not worth while to pursue the subject any further, only to point out that the Examiner went no further than the information, which, it had reason to believe, was reliable, warranted it in doing. No reputable journal would risk its good name, or do violence to its good sense, by making statements at variance with the truth, which could easily be disproved, not to speak of the influence of higher motives. The Examiner will take no second place to any member of the Board in its interest in the schools of our city.

STREET CROSSINGS.

A post card correspondent says the Examiner is in error in stating that the first concrete crossing was put in at the corner of Hunter and Queen streets. Did the Examiner say that? It did do so, with a condition — this was, that the first crossing of a system to be pursued generally, and was laid "in the nature of an experiment." The correspondent is wrong also in saying that the first concrete crossing was laid on Edinburgh street. Was not the crossing at the entrance to the C. P. R. yards, laid at the same time the pavement was laid on George street, several years ago? Were not the crossings at the intersection of Hunter street west, and Belmont avenue, laid before the one on Edinburgh street? The concrete crossings at the ends of Babb's Lane were laid about three years ago. But all these crossings were incidental, and not part of the new system, to be adopted, if the first experimental pavement, corner of Hunter and Queen streets, proves to be a success. That is what was meant, when the Examiner said that it was the first concrete crossing. It makes little difference which crossing was laid first, but it will make a vast difference if the reproach under which the city has laid so long, as being a place of mud street crossings, is to be removed, and it will also mean much to the comfort, and convenience of the citizens. When one sees the beautiful crossings, — experimental, though they be — the wonder grows that they have not been adopted years ago. It is given as an excuse, that the grades were not struck. Will the bank take as an excuse for non-payment of a note that the farmer has not sold his wheat? Why haven't the grades been struck? Years ago the Examiner advocated the striking of the street grades of the then town. If this had been done we should not have had all the "rows," heart-burnings, and payments for damaged property, and expense of ripped up and re-laid pavement, which have resulted since we began putting down concrete pavements. So long as the grades of the city streets are not struck, perpetual trouble will follow. New houses are going up all over the town, and on streets where there is no pavement, and where lawns are laid down, and shrubbery is planted, the pavement will follow at a grade at variance with that which the owner of a given property was worked from, and then there will be trouble, and, possibly, payment for damages, which would be avoided if a grade had been established, and a plan recorded, to which a builder could have access. It is good policy to look the stable before the horse is stolen.

Board of Education
WILL BE REDUCED AND Elected by the City

At the Next Muncipal Elections Change Will be Made in Constitution of the Board--All Members Except one Will be Elected---Number Reduced to 11---One Appointed by Separate School Board---Members of the Board are Quite Satisfied That Change be Made---Matter Decided Last Night.

After the next municipal elections, the Board of Education will be composed of eleven members, instead of, as at present, seventeen.

The council at its special meeting last night, called for this purpose, decided, on motion of Ald. Hicks, to change the constitution of the Board of Education, and to reduce the members. Two members of the Board were present at the meeting, and, before the motion was made, addressed the council on the matter.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, chairman of the Board, first spoke, and said that he had discussed the matter with the other members of the Board, and they had no objection to offer to the proposed motion, and if the council thought it better to make the proposed change, the Board would be quite satisfied.

Mr. W. H. Hill, speaking on the same question, said that if the council changed the method of electing the alderman to the ward system, he was of the opinion that it would be hardly fair to make the change, but if no change were made in electing the council, he thought no objection would be taken to the change in the election of the Board. If the people supported the proposal to change the method of electing the council by wards, and the change in the Board of Education was made the whole board would be changed in 1906, and again in 1907, which, he thought, was undesirable.

Ald. Hicks introduced the motion, which was seconded by Ald. Johnston, and is as follows:

"That pursuant to the provisions of IV Edward VII, chapter 33, this Council hereby resolves and declares that it is expedient that the Board of Public School Trustees, and Board of High School Trustees, or Board of Education, for the City of Peterborough, should be amalgamated, and that a Board of Education be elected in lieu thereof, to be styled the Board of Education of the City of Peterborough."

The motion was carried unanimously, and, consequently, at the coming election, the change takes place.

Grant Made To Entertain The Minister

City Council to Duplicate County's Gift of $100.

To Assist in Entertaining Hon. H. R. Emmerson—Important to Impress Him Favourably.

The council last night granted $100 to assist in the entertainment of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, who arrived in the city this morning for the purpose of inspecting the work done on the Trent Canal, and learning the views of those locally interested in that project.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum, representing the Board of Trade, waited upon the council last night in reference to the visit of the Minister, and asked for a grant of $100 to assist the Board in entertaining Hon. Mr. Emmerson, on his visit here. It was important, in his opinion, that on this occasion the city should do all in its power to impress him favourably with the city and the canal. The Board was not very well fixed financially, and wanted the council to do its share in helping to entertain the Minister. The prosperity of the city was more bound up with the completion of the canal than in anything else, and it was important to impress him favourably. He thought Messrs. J. H. McClellan, W. H. Hill, and W. G. Ferguson, supported the request of Mr. Meldrum, and stated that in their opinion the amount asked for was reasonable. Mr. Meldrum said that the County Council had practically decided to grant $100 to this object and asked the city to duplicate it.

Ald. Adams remarked that the deputation evidently knew where to come when they wanted money, and moved that the request for $100 be granted. He agreed that it was an occasion when the city should be prepared to spend a little money to provide some entertainment for the visiting gentleman, since it was the duty of the council to do all in its power to hasten the completion of the canal. Ald. Hicks seconded the motion.

Ald. Crowe objected to the grant, and thought that since there was so many high salaried men on the canal staff they might foot the bill. He thought that it would be a small select party and the people who were paying the money should not be ignored. He wished to go on record as opposing the grant. Ald. Hall supported the motion strongly, and it was passed. Mr. McClellan, on behalf of the Board of Trade, invited the the whole council to attend the banquet to-night and Mr. Meldrum thanked the council for the grant which was money well spent.

Females Fight With Umbrellas

Sunday evening about 10 o'clock a shocking exhibition of rowdyism seldom witnessed in Peterborough, fortunately, occurred opposite St. Paul's church. Two young girls, accompanied by one of the opposite sex, were engaged in a heated argument, presumably, by the pitch of their voices and the unparliamentary language that polluted the air. Finally words led to blows, and a fierce battle, in which umbrellas were the chief weapons, ensued. Finally the young man interfered and steered the girls away both crying and using unsavoury language.

Ald. Hall's By-law Defeated Last Night, When Victory Seemed Assured---Trouble was all Over the Time at Which Streets Must be Cleared of Boxes --- Merchants Want Until 3 o'clock---Ald. Hall Thought Noon Was Late Enough---A Warm Discussion at the Council Meeting.

The fruit and packing box by-law which has engaged the attention of the Aldermen in the council and committee for months, is still a measure which has not received the endorsement of the council, and the merchants are still in possession of the streets.

At the council meeting last night Ald. Hall introduced a new by-law amending the former by-law in some particulars, and constructed in such a way that conviction for infraction of its clauses could be made. Ald. Hall, however, made one omission in his instruction to the solicitor. He left the hour at which all boxes should be off the streets, blank, and this brought trouble on his head. At the meeting of the Supervision Committee some days ago, to consider the matter, it was arranged that until three o'clock should be allowed. But when it came up last night Ald. Hall moved that the hour be made twelve o'clock, and the trouble started. Ald. Mason opposed it strongly and was supported by Ald. Johnston who finally won out. The first and second readings were passed, Ald. Mason's party being voted down, but before the third reading was given, he had rallied his forces and the motion to give the by-law its final reading was defeated by 6-5.

Ald. Mason, after the second reading of the by-law, moved that the third reading be deferred until some fixed date, and called attention to the petition signed by from 60 to 70 merchants who sent in a communication to the council in which their wishes were set out, which wishes he said, were disregarded in the by-law. The merchants, in his opinion, were in the city for the public benefit, and their request should be granted. The merchants could not comply with the provisions of the by-law compelling them to have goods off the streets by 12 o'clock and he himself would not comply with it. It would simply mean that the merchants would have to pay fines two or three times a week. Ald. Johnston seconded the motion of Ald. Mason and said that he could point out twelve merchants who objected to the hour mentioned in the by-law.

Ald. Hall was quite satisfied that the third reading of the by-law should be deferred, and the matter referred to the committee of the whole. The council had simply been forced to pass this by-law, he said, because the merchants had taken possession of the streets.

Ald. Crowe thought that the council had better leave the matter in the hands of the people and allow them to "pitch these goods into the streets themselves."

Ald. Adams did not believe in again referring the by-law to a committee. He thought that it should be passed at that meeting, making the hour twelve o'clock or three o'clock as the members should decide, and Ald. Hall took fresh courage and removed his motion to give the by-law the third reading, but in the interval between the votes he had lost some supporters, and when the hands were counted it was found that the vote stood, for 5; against 6. So that at the present time the by-law is the same as if it had never existed, as far as its control over the merchants is concerned. It is not even in the hands of one of the committees, but was given what looked like a body blow.

OPERA HOUSE TO-NIGHT
ROSCIAN COMIC OPERA COMPANY IN
"THE TELEPHONE GIRL"

"Strike" Boys Made Amende Honorable

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. G. Ferguson, chairman of the Board of Education, and Mr. Wm. Pringle, chairman of the Supervision Committee, paid a visit to Mr. T. J. Wallace's room, to confront the juvenile Wat Tylers, who set the law at defiance last Friday, and "struck" school. They found the lads in rather a repentant mood, and ready to apologize for their rebellion, which they did, and in a hearty manner. A general amnesty was declared, and the boys now being again in favour, will be allowed to attend school, but whether they regard that in the light of a benefit or a punishment, is not known. It is, however, safe to say that these same lads will not again set themselves up as "striking" examples of the independent spirit of young Canada.

Sub-Divisions Were Added to Two Wards

And the City Will Now Have Eleven Polling Sub-Divisions

One Each Added to Wards One and Four—Will Relieve Congestion.

The question of the rearrangement of the polling subdivisions in the city was decided at the meeting of the Council last night on Ald. Tovey's by-law, which provided for the addition of two polling subdivisions to the city, one each in Ward No. 1 and Ward No. 4. The new subdivisions will be as follows: Ward No. 1. polling subdivision No. 1—All that part of Ward No. 1 lying south of Perry street, Albert street, and the southern limit of lot No. 30, registered plan No. 30, for the city of Peterborough.

Ward No. 4, polling subdivision No. 8—All that part of Ward No. 4 lying south of Smith street, and east of George street, and all that part of said Ward lying north of Smith street, east of Benson avenue, and east of the boundary line between the city and Smith.

Polling subdivision No. 9—All that part of Ward No. 4 not included in polling subdivision No. 8.

Ward No. 5—The boundaries in this Ward are unchanged, the only difference being in the numbers of the polling subdivisions, No. 8 being changed to No. 10, and No. 9 to No. 11.

The rearrangement as indicated in this by-law will be appreciated, doubtless, by the electors in the Wards in which an additional polling subdivision has been created, thus relieving the congestion which has in the past been noticed at the polling booths on voting day.

Nearly Caused An Accident

On Sunday evening, while service was being conducted in George street church, some person or person or persons, presumably boys, entered the sheds and unsnapped the reins from the bridles on some of the horses, and, after crossing them, snapped them again. This foolish and dangerous prank nearly caused an accident, but was averted by the male occupant of the buggy jumping out and seizing the horse by the head after he pulled the rein for the the horse to go one direction, but found the animal want the opposite, and collided with a tree. An example will be made of any person caught in the sheds hereafter interfering in any way with the conveyances.

Prentice Boy's Open Meeting Last Evening

Grand Master Richards Addressed the Gathering

Only a Small Attendance Present—An Inspiring Address.

An open meeting of Jubilee Lodge 'Prentice Boys was held last evening in the Orange Hall on Simcoe street. Owing to an unfortunate misunderstanding the majority of the members were unaware of the meeting, and as a result there was only a very small attendance when the speaking began, although more came in afterward. The Grand Master, W. Bro. John Richards, of Lindsay, was present and delivered an inspiring address. It was unfortunate that there were not more present to hear the principles of the 'Prentice Boys expounded. Bro. F. Reynolds, W.M., was in the chair.

The Grand Master in his address commented upon the fact that there were thirteen present, and compared them with the thirteen that defended the walls of Derry.

The speaker said that the 'Prentice Boys was not a political machine. Politics must not become involved in the principles of the Order and would have to be dropped. The 'Prentice Boys, if they lived up to their principles would fear God, honour the King and love the brotherhood.

The principles of the 'prentice boys were as broad as those of any other society on the face of the earth, and the members should faithfully try to live up to these principles.

He urged Bro. Reynolds to go on with the work, and he hoped that even if he only had thirteen men with him they would be like the thirteen who were willing to die in the defence of Derry.

The majority of the brethren present gave short speeches in connection with the work of the Order. Bro. Carter commented upon the difficulty of getting members to attend the meetings. It seemed very hard to get large attendances. Bro. Geo. Duncan also spoke briefly along the same lines as the other speaker.

Bro. A. Dugan said that he had been a 'Prentice Boy nearly all his life. He thought the lodge was getting on very well, but said there should be a little more enthusiasm shown in the way of attending meetings. Their religion was the only thing which held the members together.

Bro. Doupe was of the opinion that the reason that the meetings were not more largely attended was that the members sometimes got behind in their fees and were backward in coming around until they were settled. It was not like benevolent societies where life assurance was given and where the members had to pay their dues or drop out of the Order. Bro. Lowry also made a short speech and expressed his regret that the attendance was not larger.

A vote of thanks to the Grand Master for his able address, moved by Bro. Dugan and seconded by Bro. A. Parker, was carried unanimously. Bro. Dugan, in moving the vote of thanks, hoped that another opportunity might be given of having Bro. Richards, when a larger attendance might be expected. The meeting then dispersed after the singing of the National Anthem.

Successful Re-Union at All Saints.

Pleasant Evening was Spent by the Congregation

Pleasing Musical Programme Rendered —Short Address by Former Pastor

The congregational re-union held last night at All Saint's Church was in every sense a gratifying success. The attendance was large and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Many former members of the congregation, now removed from the city or otherwise prevented from attending the church, were present as well as a gathering which was thoroughly representative of the present congregation, and all participated heartily in the social pleasures which the evening afforded. The chair was occupied by the Rector, Rev. W. Major.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the choice musical programme rendered. A pianoforte duet was rendered in a musicianly manner by Misses Mulholland and English. Miss Mary Rush sang with charming expression a vocal solo. Mr. Jos. Legge also contributed a solo in his usual pleasing manner. Mr. W. J. Coleman, a valued member of the congregation, who will leave to-morrow for British Columbia, was heard with delight in one of his inimitable comic vocal selections.

Mr. McFaddon, an Ex-Warden, of the Parish spoke briefly, expressing his appreciation at being present and extending congratulations upon the successful outcome of the festival.

Rev. W. T. Armitage also spoke of the gratification it afforded him to be in attendance, and gave a brief outline of his work in the Parish of Picton, where he has been engaged since leaving Peterborough.

Charming and recherche refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation after which the remainder of the evening was spent in pleasant social intercourse. The object in view in the holding of the Re-union, it is hoped, has been attained and the winter's work has opened in a most auspicious manner.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ART SOCIETY

Peterborough Branch, Art Association of Canada

Holds Its First Annual Meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall

Yesterday the first annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Art Association of Canada was held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall with a good attendance of active and associate members.

The chair was occupied by Miss Bertram, president.

Reports presented showed that the branch was organized last March and now consists of sixty-eight members, of whom ten are working members, with a temporary studio.

Though this was the annual meeting there was no election of officers. These having been appointed last March at the time of organization, it was agreed, should be allowed to serve a term and a half.

The report of the executive committee was also presented. The convenors of the several committees are as follows: Lecture Committee, Miss Halliday; Social, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun; Finance, Mrs. Dunsford; Exhibition Committee, Mrs. Hughes Charles.

The report stated that Mr. Anger of Toronto, had consented to deliver a lecture under the auspices of the branch, in October, upon the subject of "The Early Pianoforte," and that Miss Barlee had been appointed archivist for the branch. Two genre magazines were received, "The Studio" and "Arts and Crafts."

The fee for active members was placed at $2, and it was decided to make an assessment of 25 cents per member to assist in providing furnishings for a suitable and convenient studio, whose selection was referred to a special committee.

Mr. Jas. Browne was heard in a pleasing vocal solo, after which a paper entitled "The Story of the Book," was read by Miss Detcher.

A reading from the book, "The Prospector's Awakening," given by Mr. Arthur Mann, concluded what proved to the large number present, a most enjoyable as well as instructive evening.

A public meeting will be held to-night, and to-morrow night the ingathering will be held, when the net proceeds of the various features of the work in connection with the festival will be computed. THE HUNGARIANS CENSURE THE KING

Hungarian Coalition Party Replies to the Emperor.

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED

Conference of All Parties to Hungarian Coalition to Be Summoned—It Will Decide Upon What Is To Be Done Regarding the Conditions Imposed by Franz Josef —Inflammatory Speeches.

London, Sept. 26.—Special despatches from Budapest to the morning London newspapers indicate that the excitement upon the strained relations between the crown and the united opposition in the Hungarian Diet is increasing, and that while the leaders of the coalition parties are counselling the people to refrain from violating the law, inflammatory speeches are being made by prominent persons, and that probably for the first time the personal popularity of the King-Emperor is being assailed.

Censures the King-Emperor.

Budapest, Sept. 26.—The Executive Committee of the coalition parties summoned to discuss the situation arising from the ultimatum presented to the Hungarian leaders by the King-Emperor has passed what amounts to a severe vote of censure on his Majesty and his advisers.

The committee in the resolution expresses the deepest regret that the King-Emperor did not listen to the statesmen summoned by him to Vienna, who represent the majority in the Hungarian Parliament and constitute therefore the leaders of the nation in its public affairs.

The committee further indignantly censures those who advised his Majesty to take such a coarse, and approves the action of the coalition leaders in declining to negotiate with Count Goluchowski and in declining the memorandum presented by the King-Emperor as a violation of the constitution and unsuitable for the settlement of the present constitutional difficulty.

The Executive Committee of the coalition parties in the Hungarian Diet yesterday decided to summon a general conference of all the parties forming the coalition, so as to reach a common agreement on the answer to be made on the conditions imposed by the King-Emperor. About 1,000 persons gathered outside the Independence Club last night and gave a great ovation to the coalition leaders. Francis Kossuth and Count Albert Apponyi made speeches in which they exhorted the people to act prudently. The Socialists attempted to interrupt the speakers and this led to free fights.

THE NATIONAL DOUMA.

Accepted as a Means to An End by Zemstvos Congress.

Moscow, Sept. 26.—The congress of representatives of the Zemstvos and municipalities in the interior of Russia and of the Polish Lithuanian provinces began yesterday at the residence of Prince Tscerbaloff, under the presidency of Count Heyden.

After a lengthy debate the following resolution was adopted:

"The Zemstvo and municipal congress considers that the national Douma will not give national representation in the true sense. Having in view, however, that the electoral assemblies uniting a great part of the social forces of the Empire, may serve as rallying points for the general movements looking to the attainment of political freedom, the congress recognizes the necessity for those Russian citizens who are united on the political program formulated by the Zemstvo congress to seek to enter the Douma in the largest numbers possible for the purpose of forming there a united group with the object of obtaining guarantees of personal liberty and equality."

24 Fined For Gambling.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Twenty-four well known citizens of Montreal were yesterday morning fined $25 apiece as the result of a raid on a gambling house at 11 1-2 McGill College avenue at an early hour Sunday morning. James Simpson, the proprietor of the faro, roulette, poker outfit, was remanded.

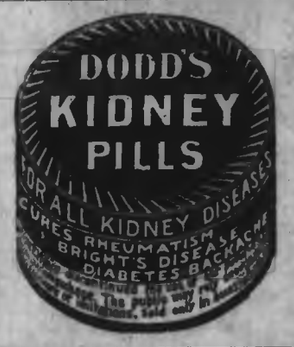
Let go or die. That's the alternative of the shipwrecked man with the money bags. A great many people have a like alternative before them. Business men come to a point where the doctor tells them that they must "let go or die." Probably he advised a sea voyage or mountain air. There's an obstinate cough that won't be shaken off. The lungs are weak and perhaps bleeding. There is emaciation and other symptoms of disease, which if unskilfully or improperly treated terminate in consumption.

Thousands of men and women in a like condition have found complete healing by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"It gives me pleasure to send you this testimonial so that some other poor sufferer may be saved, as I was, by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Geo. A. Thompson, of Sheldon Ave., Chatham, Ont., Canada. "I had a cough for years, expectorated a great deal, and was slowly failing. Was losing flesh every day. Lost in weight from 180 pounds down to 128. My flesh got soft and I had no strength. Did not say anything to any one but made up my mind that the end was not far off. One day my wife was reading in the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I said, that sounds more like common sense than anything else that I have heard. At once bought a bottle of your famous remedy and before I had taken half of one bottle I felt better. Took thirteen bottles and it made a new man of me. I gained sixteen pounds and never have had a cough since. I feel splendid and give all the credit to your medicine."

Given away. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. The book contains 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations and several colored plates. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-bound book, or 10 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure bad, foul stomach and constipation and so help to cure nearly every disease of mankind. They regulate, tone up and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.



"Tommy Atkins" Was Arrested

A member of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, who are in the city for the purpose of giving an exhibition at the Fair grounds, became annoyed at the action of a number of boys while walking on the street yesterday, and struck one of the juvenile tormentors with his riding whip. The boy, it appears, whom he struck, was the wrong boy, and promptly laid an information, which resulted in the arrest of the soldier.

The latter was released upon his own recognizance, and will appear to-morrow morning.

DIAMOND DYES
By Five Continents and the Isles of the Sea.

Diamond Dyes, the only honest and perfect package dyes now before the women of the world for the successful home colouring, have been awarded the banner of honour and victory by five continents and the isles of the sea, for purity, strength, brilliancy, beauty of colours, and never-fading qualities.

Diamond Dyes with a record of twenty-five years of marvellous and delightful work in the homes of the world, have been imitated. The result is, that many of our women and girls have frequently been deceived by having worthless package dyes forced on them, which have proved disastrous to good materials and valuable garments.

When buying package dyes, the exercise of a little care will save our women much trouble and annoyance. Ask for Diamond Dyes, and see that the words "Diamond Package Dyes" appear on each envelope you are offered. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for valuable book on home dyeing, and card of 48 dyed cloth samples. Sent free to any address.

Bible Study Y.W.C.A. Rally on Sunday

First Sunday Afternoon Meeting of the Season

Rev. J. G. Potter Gave an Appropriate Address—On "The Radiant Life".

The drawing rooms of the Y.W.C.A. were bright and attractive Sunday afternoon for the Bible Study Rally, and a good attendance manifested the interest taken in the work of the association. The President, Mrs. W. D. Scott, presided. She spoke a few words of welcome and of the aim of the association to inspire in young women the highest ideal of life. Rev. J. G. Potter gave a very appropriate address for the opening Gospel meeting on "The Radiant Life." His remarks were based on Matt. V. 1—16. He presented the highest type of womanhood, the woman with the Christ love in her heart. Here will be the radiant life. She will (1) enlighten, and (2) brighten the lives of all about her. She will be prepared to meet the storm and stress without discouragement and be able always to sing praises to God for His goodness. It is for this ideal of womanhood that the Y. W. C. A. stands. It seeks to develop young women spiritually, intellectually, physically and socially, that they may be womanly women.

A solo was sung by Miss Laura Potter. The General Secretary announced the educational rally to be held Friday, Sept. 29th. Next Sunday Mrs. G. A. Williamson will speak on "Bible Study," and the Bible Study Classes. "The Life of Christ" to be taken by Mrs. Williamson and "St. Matthew's Gospel" by the General Secretary, will be organized.

Difficulties in Hearing of Sermons

Rev. J. C. Davidson Preaches Eloquent Sermon at St. John's

Many Important Truths Were Presented in Thoughtful Discourse.

Preaching in St. John's on Sunday morning Rev. J. C. Davidson drew attention to certain difficulties and dangers incident to the hearing of sermons, with suggestions as to how these may be met, drawing largely from personal experiences in the holiday season.

In religion it was a valuable acquirement to become a good listener. He who merely heard the truth, without intelligent appreciation, could gain little, or nothing. Truth, to be gained, must be assimilated.

After referring to the main lessons of the passage, Mr. Davidson passed on to deal with certain objections made to sermons. It was said that the truth was not always presented in an attractive form, or in a strong or sensational fashion. No doubt it gave people pleasure to be thrilled, but this, after all, was a fleshly pleasure which did not bring spiritual profit. The attitude of mind, which fastens on the outside mind is almost a fatal hindrance to the reception of truth, and truth-seekers would never run after sensational preachers.

The inside reality was of far more importance than the outside clothing of words, however beautiful they might be. Truth was often too hard and severe a thing to be attractive to the pleasure-loving mind. It was further complained that preaching was often too simple, and, too often, reiterated. It must be remembered, however, that the greatest truths were the most simple, and what was most valuable to one might be unknown or otherwise valuable to another. Truths, moreover, were not dead things, to be buried in the listeners ears, but active living principles, to be thought over and discussed. It was not profitable to dismiss the sermon from the mind by merely saying, it was beautiful, but clergy greatly appreciated a conversation over the truths presented, which might in some cases show that the listener had received more light than the preacher.

Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary To Give Concert

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. has completed arrangements with the Stanley Adams Concert Company for the appearance of the company here on October 7, when a sacred concert will be given in one of the churches in the city. Mr. Adam's company is composed of some noted artists, including Miss Hope Morgan, the Canadian soprano, who has achieved a great success on the continent; Miss Beatrice Langley, violinist; Miss Myrtle Peggy, pianist, and Mr. Adams, who possesses a baritone voice of great range, and who is already well known in Canada.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is to be congratulated upon securing such a high-class company, and there is no doubt that it will be fully appreciated by the public.

The Girlless Telephone.

—Mr. Smiff, of the Bobcaygeon Independent, expresses his distinguished disapproval of the machine telephone —not because of its mechanical imperfection, but for sentimental reasons, as follows: "The girl-less phone is the latest. It won't go. The seed-less orange is all right, and the horse-less carriage can be put up with. But a phone, without a girl! No, sir. No one would be seen talking to such a thing." When Mr. Smiff gets married he probably will not give utterances to such heresies in the presence of his wife.

Neither Indian nor Ceylon tea alone produces the Red Rose flavor

TO produce a tea with the "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea from either Ceylon or Indian alone is impossible.

Neither Indian nor Ceylon in itself possesses the Red Rose flavor, but combined in proper proportions they produce the "rich fruity flavor" that has made Red Rose Tea famous—that makes Red Rose Tea the only tea used in any home where it is once tried.

THE grate of a range will get out of repair. If you let ashes accumulate in the pan until they come near the grate you are sure to burn it out or warp it. On account of the construction of ordinary ranges, repairing a grate means taking out the fire bricks and practically taking the fire-box to pieces. It is the work of a stove expert.

The Imperial Oxford Range has a patented draw-out duplex grate. By this construction the grate and frame is readily drawn out over the ash-pan without even disturbing the linings. Repairs are thus easily effected even by one without experience.

The life of the fire-box linings is thus prolonged, as they do not require to be moved to repair the grate.

Imperial Oxford Range

This is only one of the exclusive points of the Imperial Oxford Range which make it last long and reduce the necessity and expense of repairs. Though the baking and roasting qualities of the oven are the most vitally important features of the Imperial Oxford Range, we have forgotten nothing that will make it last long and add to the ease of its operation.

Write for some of our booklets and the name of the nearest dealer who can show you an Imperial Oxford Range. 19

Milling Company's Assessment Objected to

Ald. Hall Opposes Reducing of Assessment of Central Milling Company.

A Discussion on the Merits of the System—Aldermen Defer Taking Action

The report of the Manufacturers' Committee, presented at the meeting of the council last night, occasioned considerable comment, particularly from Ald. Hall, who objected to the clause giving the Central Milling Company, a fixed assessment.

The report, which was presented by Ald. Hicks, follows:

Your Manufacturers' Committee beg leave to report and recommend, as follows:

1. That the assessment of the Central Milling Company be fixed at $10,000 for ten years from Jan. 1st, 1906, for land and business assessment, on terms similar to those in the fixed assessment given to the Peterborough Cereal Company, so far as they are applicable.

2. That the fixed assessment of F. Downham's creamery, be on the following conditions:—That he erect a brick building not less than 50 ft. long and 30 ft. wide, and complying with the terms of the building by-law, except as to height, and equip it with machinery for manufacturing dairy products; that it be operated substantially to the capacity of the factory, for at least ten months in each year, and that in case of destruction by fire, etc., six months be allowed to have it again in operation; and that the fixed assessment be subject to confirmation by the legislature.

Ald. Hall, referring to the report, asked what inducements the company had given to the city to warrant the council in making the fixed assessment, reducing the amount by $4,000 from last year, and $1,400 from this year. It was usual, he thought, in cases of this kind, for the company to enter into an agreement to employ a greater number of hands, or to enlarge their works. If this passed the council, the latter would be flooded with requests from other concerns which employed an equal or larger number of men, asking for a similar favour. Taking his own case, he employed twice as many men as the Central Milling Company, and paid more out in wages, and if this bylaw were passed he would ask for a reduction of assessment, and a fixed assessment. He thought a mistake would be made if the bylaw were passed. The Peterborough Cereal Company at the present time employed 36 hands, and he understood that in the near future that number would be increased to between 70 and 80, which placed it in a very different position from the Central Milling Company.

Ald. Hicks answering Ald. Hall, pointed out that if all the other plumbers and tinsmiths got a reduction then it would be all right for the former speaker to ask for similar favours. The Central Milling Company had not asked for any fixed assessment until the Peterborough Cereal Company had already been given that favour. The committee had thought it only fair to place all the flour milling concerns in the city on the same basis, and that it would not be fair to give the Peterborough Cereal Company a favour and not give the same to the Central Milling Company. It was understood that the fixed assessment of the Peterborough Cereal Company would be on the flour-milling part, the cereal portion of the mill being practically exempt.

Ald. Adams believed that if the council had not previously given the fixed assessment to the Peterborough Cereal Company the Central Milling Company would not have made the request to the council.

Ald. Johnston expressed his opposition to the system of giving bonuses, and fixed assessments, but thought that in all fairness to the Central Milling Company, the assessment should be fixed to place it on the same footing as the Peterborough Cereal Company, though perhaps the amount might be too low.

Ald. Hall moved in amendment to the motion to adopt the report that the clause referring to the Central Milling Company's fixed assessment be referred back to the Committee of the Whole Council for consideration, which was agreed to.

A Charming September Social Event

Ceremony Performed at Young's Point by Rev. Father Phelan—Many Guests were Present.

A charming wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at the Roman Catholic church, Young's Point, when Miss Winnifred, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Hegan, of Selwyn, was united in marriage to Mr. John McCarthy, of Lake street, Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Phelan, at 10 o'clock, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride looked charming in a gown of cream crepe de chine over taffeta silk, with picture hat of lace and flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Hogan, was beautifully attired in blue taffeta silk, and wore a blue palm velvet toque. The groom was assisted by Mr. Joseph McCarthy. The music was of a charming character, Mendelssohn's wedding march being played by Miss Lottie Kearney, organist of the church; an Ave Maria being beautifully rendered by Miss Laura Torpey, East City.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the party drove to the residence of the bride's father, at Selwyn, where a dainty and recherche wedding breakfast was served to the guests, who assembled to the number of about one hundred.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy were the recipients of a large and sparkling array of wedding gifts, and many congratulatory favours, testifying to the esteem in which they are held by a large circle of friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome silver tea service, and to the bridesmaid a beautiful crescent pin set with pearls.

Many guests were present from a distance, including relatives and friends from London, Stratford and Seaforth. After spending the afternoon pleasantly in dancing and other amusements, the wedding party drove to Peterborough, where they took the midnight C. P. R. train for a trip to Ottawa, and will proceed thence to Port Arthur, where they will be the guests of the groom's sister, Mrs. Galvin. Upon their return they will reside at 129 Reid street.

Interesting News Is Crowded Out

An interesting report of the ceremonies in connection with laying the corner stone of a new Presbyterian church in Port Hope, attended by Rev. J. G. Potter, is unavoidably held over to-day on account of lack of space, a are a number of other interesting articles.

The Fair to-day takes precedence over other matters, and special prominence is given to it in this issue.

Three Million Feet Burned

Special to the Examiner.

Gravenhurst, Sept. 26.—Fire which started last night about 9 o'clock in the lumber yard of the Rathbun Company quickly went from pile to pile, and soon assumed large and alarming proportions, burning in all about seven million feet of lumber and two or three dwelling houses. The lumber was insured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Ward System Disapproved of

The question of reverting to the ward system of electing the aldermen, was discussed at the meeting of the council last night, but the majority of the aldermen were of the opinion that the present system was the better way to elect the members of the council, and as a result, a motion which provided that the people be asked to express their views on the question at the next elections, was defeated.

Ald. Hall moved, seconded by Ald. Leary, that the solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw to submit to the people at the next municipal elections, to provide that the council shall be elected by the ward system. The Yeas and Nays were called for, and the council voted as follows:

Yeas, Adams, McIntyre, Leary and Hall.

Nays, Scott, Tovey, Crowe, Mason, Hicks, Begley and Johnston.

The motion, therefore, was lost and the solicitor will not prepare the bylaw, nor will the people vote on the question.

IMPORTANCE OF THE GREAT TRENT CANAL WATERWAY IMPRESSED UPON THE MINISTER.

The Honourable Minister of Railways and Canals The Guest of Honour at Banquet Last Night---The Oriental Hotel The Scene of An Influential Gathering of Local And Other Gentlemen—Hon. Mr. Emmerson Speaks of The Trent Canal—He Appreciates Its Importance And Hopes to Live to See Its Completion—Many Speakers Expounded The Gospel of The Trent Canal—A Brilliant Gathering.

Before the Hon. Mr. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, has completed his tour of inspection of the Trent Canal, he will have learned that the people of this district do not look upon that waterway in the nature of a joke, but that they are in earnest about it, and, moreover, that they are anxious to see the work carried to completion, at an early date.

Last night at the banquet given in his honour at the Oriental Hotel by the Board of Trade, and at which there were present many influential gentlemen, both local and from outside places, the great importance of this work was impressed upon the Minister by all the speakers, and the arguments adduced, and the earnestness which characterized their presentation of the subject, could not but impress that gentleman that the early completion of the Trent Canal is an important matter to not only the people of this district, but also to the whole country.

In fact, it was evident from Mr. Emmerson's address in response to the toast in his honour, that he was already deeply interested in the canal and that he was seriously considering it, with a view to its completion.

The gathering last night was one of the most representative of the kind ever held in the city, and was a delightful social function, as well as an important meeting from the standpoint of the transportation interests of the city, the district, and the country.

It was given under the auspices of the Board of Trade, the members of which were present in large numbers, as well as the members of the City Council, the County Council, a number of prominent professional men, and, in addition to these, many from other parts of the district, in the regions of the Trent Canal, and a number of these addressed the gathering in response to toasts, and all, with one accord, brought before the Minister the great importance, locally, and nationally, of the canal.

The chairman of the evening was Mr. D. Hughes Charles, president of the Board of Trade, while Hon. J. R. Stratton filled the duties of vice-chairman. Those at the speaker's table, were: Hon. H. R. Emmerson, the guest of honour, on the right of the chairman, R. B. Hall, M.P., on the left; Mr. H. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals; Collingwood Schreiber, ex-Deputy Minister; Mr. MacLaughlin, Lindsay; Mr. Gunn, Orillia; Senator McHugh and Mr. Kennedy, Lindsay; Mr. C. Fessenden, Peterborough; Mr. G. Grant, of Orillia.

At two large tables were seated the guests of the Board of Trade, the gathering numbering about one hundred and twenty-five persons.

The cuisine service of the Oriental was of a character which left nothing to be desired. The banquet was well served, considering the hurried

Enjoyable Family Re-union Held

A unique family gathering took place on Tuesday, the 26th inst., at the home of Mr. Lewis Spry, Stewart street, when the four remaining children of Mr. Spry's only sister met together for the first time in twenty-five years. They were Mrs. Gurney, of Charlevoix, Mich.; Mrs. J. O. LaBelle, and Mrs. J. H. Brimacombe, of Bowmanville; and Mrs. W. T. Greenaway, of Port Hope. It was a most enjoyable re-union. A group photograph was taken.

Brierly's Paper Changes Hands

A despatch from St. Thomas says: "The Journal yesterday changed hands, Mr. J. S. Brierly disposing of his controlling interest in the paper to Mr. A. S. Smith. It is understood that the price paid was between $35,000 and $40,000."

Mr. W. Buchanan, formerly of this city and well known here, occupies the position of managing director of the Journal.

Fred Whitcroft Returns Home

Mr. Fred Whitcroft, of this city, who for the past year has been travelling through the West, going as far as the Pacific Coast, returned last night from Buffalo, where he has been for the past few days. "Whitty" looks exceedingly well, like in the West evidently agreeing with him satisfactorily. He will probably remain in Peterborough this winter, where his ability as a hockey player will make him a welcome addition to the town.

Quiet Wedding This Morning.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at seven o'clock at the residence of Mr. Jas. McAvoy, 22 Crescent street, the contracting parties being Mr. Samuel Wright of Lyn, Wellington county, and Miss Elmara Wilder, of Picton. The Rev. E. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's church, officiated. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. McAvoy, who also supported the groom. Mrs. McAvoy acted as witness for the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on the 8.25 train for Portland, Maine, where they will spend a short honeymoon, after which they will reside in Lyn, Wellington county, where the groom is the G. T. R. agent.

The bride was becomingly attired in blue silk. Her travelling dress was of grey serge with hat and coat to match.

PETERBOROUGH FAIR, BEST LIVE STOCK SHOWING OUTSIDE OF LARGE CITIES.

The Dominating Feature of The Fair is The General Excellence of The Live Stock and the Great Showing of Poultry---Yesterday, The Opening Day, Saw a Large Crowd of Spectators---The Live Stock Entries---The Grand Stand Performance Was Much Enjoyed---Royal Canadian Dragoons Gave Musical Ride---Last Night's Show.

It was a well satisfied crowd of spectators which filed out of the gates last night, after the first day of the Fair, and what is equally pleasing is the fact that the directors are satisfied, too, as with the people and the management both feeling satisfied with conditions, there remains little more to wish for.

The attendance in the afternoon yesterday was large, about 4,000 persons having passed through the turnstiles, and all afternoon the grounds presented a busy appearance, everyone, including the peanut men, being apparently on the move all the time. The weather conditions continued favourable during the whole of the day, and as a result the crowd stayed at the grounds until late, and there was plenty to engage their attention.

The poultry judging proved to be the most arduous task of the day, the entries being so numerous, and the competition so keen. This exhibit was the most remarkable feature of the whole show, and was a surprise even to the directors, who had not looked for nearly so large a number of entries.

One of the judges, who had travelled to all the important fall fairs in Ontario, and had judged fowl there, stated that he had never seen any place outside of Toronto, a showing of poultry equal to that at the Peterborough Fair this year.

AFTERNOON PROGRAMME.

In keeping with the other excellent points of the fair, the performances in front of the grand stand were the best ever presented in the history of the association, both in quantity and the high standard of the different events and go to show that the management and directors are determined to make the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition one of the best in Canada, and an annual event that will be looked forward to and talked of from one end of the Province to the other.

Programme.

The grand vaudeville performance on the large platform in front of the grand stand proved a great drawing card and throughout the afternoon there was something doing all the time to keep the people interested.

Howard's Ponies and Dogs.

Provided great amusement, especially for the children. These animals show the skilful and careful training they have received as they go through their different performances and are a notable addition to the exhibition this year. The ponies are taught to waltz, walk on their hind legs and stand on chairs and together with the dogs perform many other amusing and different acts.

The Musical Ride.

Perhaps the best attraction, and the feature of the exhibition the directors could have secured in the Royal Canadian Dragoons under command of Capt. Young. The musical ride and the military tournament are well worth the price of admission. The exhibition of horsemanship by the men, and the knowledge of the fine steeds, that know just what is expected of them is marvellous. The band of the 57th Regiment furnished music for the ride, Scotch reels, and waltzes which were gone through with all the ease and gracefulness marking a ball room. The military tournament consisted of exhibitions of the cavalry in the field, and a sham fight.

The Japanese Acrobat.

Schimize, the wonderful Japanese acrobat, from Tokio, gave exhibitions on the slack wire, and juggling the barrel, and Mlle. Dair, the aerial wonder, gave several performances on the trapeze.

Track Events.

The first on the programme was an exhibition of speed. There was no time taken in any of the racing events, owing to the Government refusing to give a grant to fairs who encourage racing and pay little or no attention to agricultural or stock entries. The races were divided into class A, and B, and some fast horses competed in both classes.

Class A.—Four horses started in this event, Minnie Bell, John R. Gentry, Miss Paisley and Joe Allen. Every heat was closely contested, Miss Paisley and Minnie Bell, fighting it out all the way for first place, Miss Paisley winning the heat by a nose, with Joe Allen half a length back for third. John R. Gentry was not considered dangerous in any of the heats

In the second heat Miss Paisley, being poll horse, got away to a good start, but Minnie Bell passed on the first turn and kept her position until the stretch, when both Miss Paisley and Joe Allen crept up and all along within ten yards of the wire the horses were neck and neck, Miss Paisley pulling ahead, winning the heat with Minnie Bell second, Joe Allen 3rd, and John R. Gentry 4th.

The third heat was a repetition of the second and a great exhibition of driving was witnessed. The summary follows:

Miss Paisley, Geo. Lipsett, Peterborough	1	1	1
Minnie Bell, J. M. Reid, Port Hope	2	2	2
Joe Allen, S. Hallett, Sunderland	3	3	3
John R. Gentry, Wm. Robertson, Gooderham	4	4	4

Class B.—There were three horses entered in this class, White Blaze, Little Will and Jap. White Blaze and Little Will had close finishes in all three heats, the former pulling under the wire with a small margin. Little Jap was always from five to ten yards in the rear. The race was won in straight heats as follows: White Blaze, Dr. Johnston, Peterborough 1 1 1; Little Will, A. Elmhirst, Keene 2 2 2; Jap, R. Munro, Peterborough 3 3 3.

The Judges.

Mr. Wm. Leahy, of Lakefield, handled the bell as starter, and Messrs. Fred Peake and E. G. Patterson officiated as judges.

THE EVENING ENTERTAINMENT.

At the exhibition grounds in the evening a large crowd was present to witness an excellent entertainment. The grounds were excellently illuminated and presented a very striking appearance. The street cars brought, in rapid relays, large crowds, and the entertainment providers and vendors of sweets and other comestibles were in full operation and did a brisk trade till the beginning of the programme in front of the grand stand, which was fairly well filled with spectators and auditors as well, for the 57th Band was present and presented, as is their wont, a programme of high-class music in their usual high-class way.

The entertainment features were of a very creditable character, clever and clean, lacking in a very conspicuous way the objectionable features that seem to have characterized the "Midway" amusements at the Toronto Exhibition. The performances of Prof. Howard's trained ponies and dogs were exceptionally excellent, both, and especially the ponies, exhibiting what seemed to resemble almost human intelligence. To the credit of the manager or ring master, it was seen that he reached his wonderful results with his animals by kindness, as was shown by an approving and, apparently appreciated, pat of the hand at the conclusion of a clever "turn." Some very creditable slack wire performances, barrel balancing, and flying trapeze performances added variety to this part of the programme, which throughout was well received and heartily applauded.

But the event of the evening was the musical ride by the Canadian Dragoons. They presented a brilliantly picturesque appearance as they entered the arena with lances at the rest, with torches at the blade. To the excellent and varying music of the band they performed in brilliant and faultless manner, a bewildering series of movements and evolutions, keeping admirable time to the music whether they executed a waltz, or a reel, or quadrille movement, or marched or counter-marched, or trotted down the track in column of squadron or half squadron with as perfect alignment as a crack foot corps would do. The musical ride is, to use the slang of the time, "all right," and that, taken with the other entertainment features of the fair, contributes to the making of the entertainment and amusement features of the Industrial Fair of 1905, the best that have ever been presented, and the directorate are to be congratulated upon the success they have made of this feature, as well as other features of the exhibition.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The official figures of the attendance of yesterday given out by the Secretary this morning, was 4,121, paid admissions; exclusive of all passes, etc., which is very satisfactory indeed.

This morning the weather was warm and the prospects for another good crowd were good. Judging was continued in those classes in which it had not been completed yesday and as usual great interest was evinced in the works of the judges.

Kindergarten Work.

This year, for the first time in the history of the Industrial Fair, the three Kindergarten Schools of the city have on exhibition, on the invitation of the Directors, specimens of the work of the pupils of that department of the schools, and it is in many respects the most interesting feature of the whole exhibition. Last year the Directors extended an invitation to the Board of Education to give an exhibition of the work, but as the invitation was not received until after the vocation, it was impossible to prepare the exhibit for last year, but this year the directresses of the three schools, have had the pupils under their charge prepare an exhibit for this fair, and the results of their labour must be most gratifying both to those in charge and to the Board.

There are three schools represented until after the vacation, it was ner; South Central, Miss Davidson, and East City, Miss Williamson. There are about 170 pupils in these three schools, and the work which they are taught to perform is truly wonderful, and all day yesterday and to-day the tent in which the exhibit has been placed has been crowded, and the deepest interest has been evidenced by those who have seen the work.

The three ladies named have been kept busy explaining to the interested visitors the nature of the work performed in this department and have taken pleasure in giving information.

The aim has been in making the exhibit to show specimens of all the work performed, and for this purpose each school has contributed a portion, the exhibit, as a whole, therefore giving an idea of the system of kindergarten work as taught in the three schools. This work includes sewing, weaving, cutting, drawing, folding, cane work, modelling, raffia, decoration, parquetry and gift work. The idea of the system work. The idea of the whole system of kindergarten work is that of education, and the pupil is prepared there by methods which are at the same time pleasant and instructive, for the work of the public school, which is made much easier by reason of the preparation thus given. The mind of the child is developed gradually and by the use of methods which have a lasting impression upon the mind of the pupil.

Mathematics form the basis of the whole work, and the children are taught counting and form. It is found that the little minds learn much more readily when they can handle the objects themselves, and mathematical problems which, to older children who have not had this training, would be impossible, are easy of solution to the kindergarten children.

The school session is from 9.30 to 12 o'clock, and in the afternoon the work is prepared for the next day and the students taught.

The teachers would be glad to welcome visitors to the schools during the hours in which the children are at work, because it is much easier for one to understand the nature of the work when the children are seen actually performing it.

It is impossible in the short space available for this purpose to give anything like an adequate idea of the work performed by the children, for to obtain this one must visit the school.

The action of the directors in securing this exhibit has proved to be one of the most popular moves they ever made.

BUILT UP HER HEALTH

SPEEDY CURE OF MISS ECCLISON

She is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Zula Ecclison, 6 Erie St., East, St. Thomas, Ont., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a uterine tonic and regulator. I suffered for four years with displacement of the uterus and no one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental suffering those endure who are thus affected. Your Vegetable Compound cured me. Within three months I was fully restored to health and strength and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to obtain such relief when so many doctors fail to help you. Your medicine is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. Address, Lynn, Mass.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

Fitzgerald's Big Display of Buggies etc

"Made in Peterborough," can still be said of most of the reliable turnouts to be seen in the city. In spite of the efforts of the outside factory-made vehicle to gain a footing in Peterborough, it must be gratifying to our local manufacturers, Messrs. Fitzgerald, to be able to "hold the fort" so well in their own territory, in competition with the large manufacturers.

The exhibit of our local manufacturer was a comprehensive one, and showed what can be turned out in our own city in this particular line.

Under a wide stretch of canvas —it looked like the largest on the ground—there were as handsome-looking rigs as a horseman would want to set eyes on. They consisted of five well-finished of buggies, with covered tops, one trim-looking, cushion-tired runabout, one swell Stanhope, and a comfortable two-seated carriage. Most of the rigs were rubber-tired; the gearings were in black, green and cardinal, the bodies in piano box and other designs, artistically finished, and adorned with nickel and plated trimmings. One capacious buggy was upholstered in Pantistoke leather, of a buff colour, and had a covered top of the same material. It was a showy outfit, and was closely inspected by the crowds who were attracted to the

Mrs. W. H. Graham, of Halifax, N.S., writing to us about the great benefit she received from Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, says:

"If I had gone to Paris and consulted Dr. Hugo himself I could not have got more benefit that I did from his tablets."

And Mrs. Graham was right, for according to her statement, she was suffering from a run-down condition brought on by overwork. These tablets are just what Dr. Hugo would have given her.

Women are realising more and more the value of a prescription of this great specialist, sold now in tablet form.

These tablets put within their reach the skill and experience that come from Dr. Hugo's forty years' treatment of diseases of women, and the latest and best in medical research and discovery.

They make healthy women. Improvement is noticed the first week. 50c. at dealers or by mail. B. N. Robinson & Co., Coaticook, Que.

exhibit. Mr. Fitzgerald stated that he had also a fine collection of similar buggies in his warerooms, some of which were sold, ready to be taken away. Two of the buggies in the exhibit were sold, and altogether he was well satisfied with the orders he had booked through his display.

It was quite manifest that by manufacturing their own buggies, carriages and wagons, Messrs. Fitzgerald & Co. are enabled to control more perfectly the quality and workmanship of their products and because of this they are able to give what they promise. The Fitzgerald line of vehicles are known to be honestly built because they are built under their own supervision. Wheels, shafts and gear wood are of special high grade hickory and guaranteed. The painting and trimming of each vehicle testifies for itself, and the entire work is mechanically constructed. Their motto is to make the best and their very large trade this season is one result of their excellent turnouts.

American Cereal Company's Exhibits.

Prominent in the main building is the exhibit of the American Cereal Company, which consists of a pyramid of Quaker Oats, Banner Oats, Saxon Oats, and Pettyjohn Breakfast Food. The exhibit is in charge of Mr. W. G. Cochrane. The attractive literature for which this company is famous, is distributed to the numerous visitors to the exhibition. The design of the exhibit was carried out by Mr. G. W. Mulligan, who spent considerable time in the construction and the arrangement of the exhibit. The new Pettijohn Oats formed the subject of an attractive booklet, which was distributed from the booth of the company. It is pretty safe to say that the products of the company will be much better known after the close of the Fair.

"See Jolly Joey, with his skates,
Has eaten two or three large plates
Of Quaker Oats, and that created
The smile-that-won't-come-off."

It must be pleasing to the company to know that the local sales of these cereals is growing very rapidly. The export business is assuming immense proportions. The Banner and Saxon packages each contain a pretty, useful piece of china as a souvenir. The Quaker Oats and Pettijohn packages each contain a coupon which entitles the holder to receive a premium of silver.

Turner's Tents.

Tents are growing more numerous at the Fair every year. There were fully twenty-five tents in the of the grounds on this occasion, and they were principally Turner Tents.

They were utilized for various purposes in making special outside exhibits and side attractions. The largest one was occupied by Messrs. Geo. Fitzgerald & Co., for their buggy exhibit, and measured 60x30 feet. These tents, from their superior texture and excellence of manufacture, are a standing advertisement for Messrs. Turner & Son almost all over the world. Their display of all kinds of camping goods, whether on the Exhibition grounds or at their George street factory, are unsurpassed by other makers. This is shown by a recent large order received during Mr. Turner Sr's recent European trip for camping outfits; this order was given in London, in open competition with the world's manufacturers.

The energy displayed by the members of the firm is well known in Peterborough, and during the present exhibition the pissing of so many tents of every sort and size, shows how well prepared they are for the most exacting demands placed upon them. Their courteous representative on the grounds cheerfully gave any information required. The front of their large store and factory on George street was effectively decorated with flags, and from every corner of their imposing building there were indications of their business enterprise and sagacity.

The Link-Blade Cream Separator.

The centrifugal cream separator is here to stay. If any doubt existed about its permanent ability, the unusual attention given to it at our fair could not fail to remove it. There were altogether seven different types of separators shown on the grounds, each one being well represented by expert salesmen.

Next to the cow herself, the cream separator stands in importance and value to the dairyman. And as so much attention is being given to the milk, butter and cheese interests of Peterborough county, this may explain why so many different separators competed here for a share of the dairyman's patronage.

It is beginning to be said that no other farm investment is of equal importance to the cream separator. And as the purchase of the right kind of machine is being considered by many, a reference to the "Simplex" Link-Blade shown by Mr. Geo. Gillespie, of the firm of White & Gillespie, George street, may solve the problem for the prospective buyer.

The "Simplex" scarcely needs any introduction to the farmers of Peterborough, as it has been for a number of years well tested in the factories and homes of well known dairymen. The experience has been that it has been found to excel in all points—particularly in close skimming, large capacity and ease of running. Testimonials are said to be plentiful from the different townships in the county, affirming the longer the "Simplex" is used the better it is liked. With some other separators it is unfortunately the case that disappointment and trouble are frequently heard, and the farmer is dissatisfied with his purchase.

1st. The bowl must be as small makes light-running separator:—

1st. The bowl must be as small as possible, to skim the desired amount of milk and separate it thoroughly.

2nd. It must run at as low a speed as consistent with doing this work.

3rd. The gearing and bearings must be as simple and few in number as possible.

The "Simplex" claims to possess these three essentials in all their efficiency, and that it will separate a larger amount of milk, in a given sized bowl and at a given speed, than any other form of device ever constructed.

The season, the manufacturers have introduced a handy, low-down supply can, making it easier to deliver the milk to the "Simplex." They have also added a new size, No. 0, which is offered for the first time this year.

Among the names of recent purchasers of the "Simplex" this season, these well known farmers can be referred to:—John Harrison, Westwood; James Bickle, Smith; John Campbell, North Monaghan.

Improved Food for Stock.

In the same tent with the "Simplex" Separator, was shown varied samples of an improved food for stock etc. Mr. J. R. Brewster, of Cobourg, the representative of this food, was present, and explained its merits. This food is manufactured by the International Stock Food Company, Toronto and Minneapolis, and has been sold in Peterborough for the past two years. Much interest was taken in this exhibit by farmers, stock breeders, dairymen, poultrymen and others. The company are sole owners of the following specialties: International Stock Food, Poultry Food, Worm Powder, Heave Cure, Colic Cure, Honey Tar Foot Remedy, Harness Soap, Silver Pine Healing Oil, Gall Cure, Pheno-Chlore, Absorbent, and Cough and Lung Cure. The company has a capital of $2,000,000. Its factory contains 17 acres of floor space, and is many times larger than any other stock food factory in the world. They employ over 400 people, and every one of their preparations is sold with a positive guarantee printed on each label, to refund the money in any case of failure, and their guarantee is as good as gold. As to the cheapness of feeding International Stock Food—the average feed for fattening hogs is two-thirds of one pound per month, which only costs ten cents per month. Mr. Brewster claims that the average cost of this food for milch cows is only 17 1-2c per month. For fattening steers, 171-2c per month, and for calves 10c per month. Sales were made on the spot to some good cattle raisers.

Wyandotte Dairymen's Cleanser.

This new cleaner and cleanser is being introduced in Peterborough by Messrs. White & Gillespie, grocers and dairy supply men, George street. Samples were shown in the same tent with the International Food referred to above. The local agents sell in bulk to the factory men, who resell to their patrons.

Wyandotte Dairyman's Cleaner and Cleanser contains no grease. It makes no suds. It has no soapy smell. It is pure and purifying. It cuts the grease quickly and thoroughly, making everything sweet and clean. Like borax it is cool and cleansing.

It contains no caustic nor acid, and is therefore perfectly harmless. It will not rust nor corrode the tinware, nor yellow, darken and splinter the wooden parts. It is the greatest dirt and grease destroyer ever invented. It will not redden nor harden the hands, but will make them soft and white.

For washing Pans, Pails, Tinware of all kinds, if dark or discoloured they can be made bright and shiny by dipping a damp cloth into the Cleanser and apply as a scouring material.

To wash Milk and Carrying Cans first rinse in cold water, then proceed to wash in the usual way, using two tablespoonsful of Wyandotte Dairyman's Cleaner and Cleanser to each gallon of water.

To wash cows add two tablespoonsful of the Cleaner to a bucket of lukewarm water. Apply with sponge, cloth or brush. This will quickly remove all stains and impurities from the cow. Use same proportion for washing the udder and teats before milking. This is a most sanitary and effective cleanser for this purpose.

It will polish dishes, brighten silverware and cutlery, clean painted surfaces, kitchen floors, refrigerators, bath tubs, etc., and is equally useful in the laundry.

BACKACHE AND DIZZINESS
Most of the Ailments Peculiar to the Female Sex are Due to Catarrh of Pelvic Organs.

MRS. M. BRICKNER.

99 Eleventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"A short time ago I found my condition very serious, I had headaches, pains in the back, and frequent dizzy spells which grew worse every month. I tried two remedies before Peruna, and was discouraged when I took the first dose, but my courage soon returned. In less than two months my health was restored."—Mrs. M. Brickner.

The reason of so many failures to cure cases similar to the above is the fact that diseases peculiar to the female sex are not commonly recognised as being caused by catarrh.

FEMALE TROUBLE NOT RECOGNIZED AS CATARRH.

Catarrh of one organ is exactly the same as catarrh of any other organ. What will cure catarrh of the head will also cure catarrh of the pelvic organs. Peruna cures these cases simply because it cures the catarrh.

If you have catarrh write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Fishermen at Rice Lae Ports

During the next two weeks there will be a goodly number of fishermen try their luck on Rice Lake, and the following gentlemen are quartered at the Idyl Wyld House under the hospitable roof of Mr. J. W. Hutchinson: Messrs. S. E. Braman, Palmyra, N.Y.; Chas. W. Power, Rochester; Geo. W. Barnes, Rochester; Chas. W. Jigler, Palmyra, and L. C. Zigler, Rochester.

Mr. Douglas Simpson and party of friends from Hastings and Birdsall's Landing ran a moonlight excursion to Idyl Wyld recently, and a very pleasant time was spent.

H. P. Dwight and The Deer Season

Mr. H. P. Dwight, a gentleman whose opinion on sport is worth the fullest consideration advocates the whole month of October as an open season for deer. At the same time he would limit each man's hunt to either the first fifteen days or the last fifteen. This would distribute the hunters over the month. He approves of limiting the number to two deer for each hunter. His suggestion would give a less number of hunters in the woods at one time and would probably enable the local settlers to get up their turnips without having to dodge a cross-fire of sportsmen's bullets. It might also be well to have some sort of examination of the applicants for licenses. They might be required to state which end of a gun barrel they placed the shell, and whether they look at what they fire, or fire without looking, because there are hundreds of sports going to the woods in gorgeous city outfits that make the groundhogs sit up and laugh, who don't know a cow moose from a rabbit run, and would not bother a partridge if it were not fined with camp truck and dunnage.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Helpless with Salt Rheum.

"For many months my wife was unable to serve herself with her hands because of salt rheum. Dr. Chase's Ointment has entirely cured her, and we strongly recommend it to others who suffer from similar ailments, believing that it has no equal." Mrs. Ludger Dugway, Pigeon Hill, Missisquoi County, Quebec.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

A Reliable Fur Store

A FUR CHAT with Clarke The Furrier

The time has now arrived when you will have to decide where you are going to buy your Furs—as everybody is going to wear a Fur—and before you decide give it your most careful consideration

There are many reasons why you could do better buying here—and one of those reasons is—we are not under the heavy expenses of other furriers, and as such we can afford to sell our furs at a much less profit—as we do not require the greater profit to meet our expenses.

Another reason—we are a young firm gradually and steadily growing, and to become in more direct touch with the public we offer our Furs at prices that are an inducement to you to buy. Another matter — we guarantee every Fur that goes out of here—we will keep it in repair for you as long as you have it without CHARGE. Once you become a Fur customer we take you in our care and look after your Furs.

Our Furs are of the highest quality made by the most experienced hands and any sale that is unsatisfactory your money is immediately refunded.

HIGH AND MIGHTY.

Hon. Mr. Whitney's Government, in some things, assumes an autocratic manner, which makes one doubt whether we are in Canada or Russia. Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture in Mr. Whitney's Cabinet, has issued an "ukase," than which no ukase issued by his mightiness the Czar of all the Russias, could be more dogmatically disregardless of the rights of a legislative body. Mr. Monteith's communication, received by the council last night, states that "it is the present intention of the Government to introduce and pass at the next session of the Legislature, a bill providing for the repeal of the County Councils Act. How will the "Government" "pass" the repealing act? How will it do it? By Order-in-Council? There is a prevalent popular idea that "acts" are passed by the Legislature, and not by the Government, whose function is to initiate and introduce, bills, and that of Parliament to pass them. But this cumbersome and obsolete method is to be superseded, and the Whitney Government proposes to introduce and "pass" legislation without the assistance of the Legislature. This may be playing upon words, but at any rate the unfortunate phraseology employed in Mr. Monteith's circular letter, reflects largely the autocratic spirit that gives tone to the Government's general attitude and actions.

Does Russia Need Watching

It has been officially announced, say reports from England, that "The Russian Government proposes to address the powers with a view to holding a second peace conference at The Hague."

In view of the futility of the first conference, since which the "war drum" has hardly ever ceased being beaten, it is difficult to regard the proposal for a second gathering with anything like the sanguine feelings which the first inspired.

It was then charged that the Czar's affected desire for peace was a movement to secure time for extensive war preparations. It is quite certain that before, during and after the first peace conference, which was called on the initiation of the Czar, Russia was working assiduously to acquire such strength in the east as menaced the existence of Japan. The Czar's desire for peace reminds us of the lines:

"When the Devil was sick the Devil a Monk would be,
When the Devil got well—the Devil a monk was he."

Still the movement is commendable, though, whatever the conference decides, each power will keep its powder dry and develop its military and naval forces in preparation for war. Some day, perhaps, the nations of Europe will be wise enough to live as peacably as neighbours do in the same country. The peace disturbers will then be treated as the common enemy of all civilized stated.

It is hardly a matter of news that Russia is arranging to have a new war fleet built, for this action is a matter of course. The Baltic and Pacific fleets destroyed by Japan were a necessity to Russia's prestige and the protection of its commerce and seaports.

The building of this fleet will not necessarily involve a new loan. The vessels will cost from $100,000,000 to $130,000,000. Their construction will occupy from five to ten years, over which periods payments will be spread, up to a certain percentage of contract price. To meet these expenditures will be a heavy drain on Russia's income, they do more to keep her quiet for some years than any peace conference resolutions. But, if her harvests are up to an average, if her trade continues to develop, as it has done in recent years, if industrial enterprises expand and prosper, Russia will be able to pay for a new fleet without borrowing money for the purpose.

manner in which it was arranged, and was a credit to the famous hostelrie and its proprietor.

After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, a pleasing toast list was proceeded with.

THE TOASTS.

The toast master, Mr. D. Hughes Charles, explained the object of the gathering, which was an informal one, for the purpose of extending a welcome to Hon. Mr. Emmerson, the Minister of Railways and Canals, on the occasion of his visit to Peterborough, and to show him that he was a welcome guest to the city. Mr. Hughes Charles referred to the unique circumstance of the city and county handing out the money for the Board of Trade to spend, and he feared that it would never occur again. He proposed the first toast, that to the King, which was received in the usual loyal fashion.

Senator McHugh.

The Governor-General and the Lieutenant-Governor were the subjects of the next toast, which was also well received. The toasts to the Senate, House of Commons, and the Legislature was responded toby Senator McHugh, for the first-named body. The speaker referred to the duties which these bodies had to perform. He thought that while the Senate and the House of Commons may have been good to themselves, yet he was of the opinion that they had also been good to the country. The Senator spoke of the object of the gathering, which was to impress upon the Minister the importances of opening up and completing the Trent Canal at the earliest possible date. The canal, while it would be of local benefit, would also be of great national advantage, and if it were not for this fact he would not urge upon the Minister the desirability of completing the waterway.

HON. H. R. EMMERSON,

Minister Of Railways and Canals, the Guest of Honour at the Banquet, Last Night.

With its completion the country would have a national waterway, and he said that if Hon. Mr. Emmerson did nothing else than to secure the completion of the canal, he would have rendered a great benefit to the people. The Senator referred to the great importance of the transportation interests, and expressed his belief that the Minister who at present had charge of that branch of the Government would appreciate its importance, and that appreciating it, he would do his utmost to secure for the benefit of the people at large the completion of the canal.

Orillia Wants Canal.

Mr. Geo. Grant, M.P., was the next speaker, and expressed his pleasure at being present, and speaking for the House of Commons, he felt that they possessed the confidence of the people and it appreciated its full value to the country, whether the people did or not, an evidence of which was furnished at the last session. The Canadian Parliament had kept up the tradition of the British House of Commons, after which it is modelled. Mr. Grant referred to the fact that in the nations of the world Canada held no mean place, in fact it held first place in some respects. The great extent of the heritage of Canadians was referred to in glowing terms by the eloquent young member from the north. He believed that the day of small things had passed in Canada, and no longer do Canadians look for inspiration to the republic to the south, feeling as they now do that Canada is equal in every respect to the United States.

Mr. Grant also added his opinion on the subject of the canal, and said that he had become quite well acquainted with the Canal in its generality. Some years ago he had looked upon the system with some doubt, but recently he had become a complete convert, and he now wanted to try and impress upon the Minister, the prime importance of giving the canal an outlet at least one end and open it to the Georgian Bay where there was no conflict as to which route should be selected for the outlet.

He promised to go as far as he possibly could to secure the completion of the Canal, and said that he would even "threaten" to vote against the Government in case the work was not prosecutued vigorously at once.

He again expressed his pleasure at being present, and referred to the many occasions on which he had visited Peterborough. In closing Mr. Grant said that he hoped that the next time he attended a banquet in Peterborough it would be to celebrate the completion of the Canal.

West Peterborough's M. P.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., who was the next speaker was given a hearty reception. He at once plunged into a discussion of the Trent Canal, the early completion of which was of the utmost importance to the whole people of the country. Many people to whom he had talked in reference to the canal had not fully appreciated the situation. They did not realize that there was already a considerable portion of the waterway completed. The wonder of the matter was that respective Governments at Ottawa had simply marked time in their treatment of the canal. What business man, he asked would allow his money to be tied up in enterprise without trying to complete the work as had been done in the canal. Mr. Hall referred to the benefits which would accrue locally and nationally by the completion of the canal and spoke particularly of the fact that the American Cereal Company had established their works here in the belief that the Canal would be opened up in the near future, and in this belief they had expended enormous sums of money.

From Port Arthur to England and return it was 600 miles shorter by the Trent Canal than by the Welland Canal, and 1,500 miles shorter than by New York and the Erie Canal.

Mr. Hall said that Mr. Emmerson would immortalize his name and would win lasting fame from the people of the west, if he would see that the Trent Canal were completed. (Loud applause.)

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Mr. T. E. Brandburn followed, and his theme was also the Trent Canal, and he advised the opening both the outlet and the inlet. He wanted to see the completion of the stretches at the Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay ends, and referred to the great national benefits which the completion of the canal would afford.

Mr. W. Maclroy favoured the gathering with a solo which was well received.

Transportation.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, Vice-Chairman, in proposing the toast to the "Transportation and Trade interests of the country," said it was not necessary for him to dilate upon the importance of the subject of the toast. This he would leave to other speakers. The first to respond to this toast was Mr. D. W. Dumble, who referred to the fact that Peterborough was a loyal town, and always did its utmost to welcome and honour any representative of the crown. In the past Peterborough had honoured a number of Ministers of Railways and Canals, and he thought that perhaps the loyalty of the Peterborough people was influenced by the appreciation of favours to come. The Trent Canal had been under way a great many years, and it was still uncompleted. Some work had been done in the centre, and at Peterborough was the only lift lock on the continent. He hoped, however, that the canal would be completed under the guidance of Hon. Mr. Emmerson. (applause.) The speaker referred to the action of other Governments which were spending hundreds of millions to improve their waterways, and that action was an indication that they were wise, and he would not like to think that the Government of Canada possessed less intelligence than those of the other countries. To leave uncompleted the one-third of the canal yet remaining would, in his opinion be folly.

A National Necessity.

Mr. McLaughlan, of Lindsay, also spoke to this toast on behalf of the people of the sister Counties of Victoria and Haliburton, the people of which were interested in the Trent Canal as well as Peterborough. In eloquent terms Mr. McLaughlan spoke of the marvellous growth of the West, and said that in a few years the crop of wheat in that part of the country would be 800,000,000 bushels, and in view of this fact the lack of affording transportation for the country was indeed a prodigious one. One of the factors in national transportation is the Trent Canal. Speaking of this city, Mr. McLaughlan said that he looked in the near future to see it not a city merely of 20,000 or 25,000, but much larger, and to see every ounce of water in the Otonabee River turning the wheels of industry.

The time had come, he thought, when the Trent Canal could be completed, and he looked for nothing less than that the Minister of Railways and Canals to place the whole of the canal under contract at once, of the canal under contract at once, and he believed that Mr. Emmerson was a man who would do no dilly-dallying on the question of the canal and the whole transportation problem.

Lindsay Wants it.

Mr. Kennedy, chairman of the Lindsay Board of Trade, was another speaker to this toast. He reiterated the views of the former speakers in reference to the importance of the canal, and said that even if it were not completed, the counties contiguous to it had benefited very materially by the part of the canal which had already been completed. Mr. Kennedy strongly advised the opening of Gull River to connect with the canal, which would be of advantage to the people, both of the north and the south. He believed that there was not a man in the room or out of it who would not support the Government more cheerfully in completing the canal than in voting churches an additional sum of money, he jocularly remarked.

A Live Subject.

Mr. Gunn, of Orillia, followed, and contributed a humourous speech, replete with good sound sense. The Trent Canal was at the present time a very live subject in his section, and he dealt with the great necessity of the canal. It was now almost completed, and there was no good reason why it should not be completed at once. He urged its early completion.

Mr. Bigelow, of Port Perry, was of the opinion that the Trent Canal would never be what it should be until the ends were completed.

Mr. McNabb, of Haliburton, was an earnest advocate of the canal, but said that the County of Haliburton held the key to the whole situation, since it had the water. He wanted the Gull River opened up to connect with the canal. He referred to the advantage of the canal from the standpoint of business and tourist traffic.

Destitute of Necessities

OF LIFE, SOUTH-END

Man's Vitality Ebbs Away

Pitiable Case of Destitution and Suffering is Reported From the South-End---Montreal College Graduate with Wife and Family to Support Sinks Gradually in Last Stages of Consumption---Babe Was Born Less Than Two Weeks Ago.

Lying gasping in the last throes of a struggle for life with the clutches of the great white monster, consumption gradually tightening in a death embrace; a wife, a new-born babe and a bright young daughter of six years to support, living in abject want without means of providing the barest necessities of life;—such is the pitiful state of destitution to which a south-end family has been reduced within the space of a few short weeks. The story, with its pathetic details, as it was yesterday narrated to the Examiner by one intimate with the circumstances, is undoubtedly one of the saddest in the history of Peterborough.

The facts of the case are simply told. Dr. Armshaw, a graduate of a Montreal College, who removed to Peterborough, about six months ago is the man who now lies in a small house on Ware street, emaciated by the ravages of the fell disease, tuberculosis. A bright young man but a few short months ago and with abundant prospects of a prosperous and happy future lying before him, he married the girl of his choice, after successfully terminating a course in Electro-Therapeutics. But the shadow of the great grim monster was already cast athwart the path of roses down which he advanced with the buoyant steps of youth to face whatever befell in the great unknown fields of life beyond, and all unconscious of the death grip which slowly but surely fastened upon him as he passed, he took to his heart the young wife who now shares the privations which have all too soon supplanted the life of happiness which the future appeared to hold out. His father, a mechanic of industrious and economical habits, was at the time of their residence in Montreal, engaged with the Canadian General Works in that city, but was thrown out of employment by the removal of the company's works to Peterborough.

Cherishing a hope that he might secure a means of livelihood, similar to that of which he had been deprived, in the employ of the company, here, he removed to Peterborough about six months ago. Failing to secure the desired employment the good gentleman was forced to avail himself of any opportunity which offered, and finally secured employment at $1 per day, which has been the sole means of sustenance of the family of six, surrounded as they were on every side, by the most heart-rending circumstances.

About six years ago a child was born to the young couple, the newly-made father being not yet twenty-five years of age. From the time of his arrival here he has been confined to his bed, racked with the tortures incident to the last stages of tuberculosis.

In the hope that relief might be secured an appeal was made to Dr. Johnston, V.S., the merits of whose consumption cure had reached the ears of the family. A mere glance at the patient's face, however convinced the doctor that the services of a medical practitioner were required, owing to the peculiar nature of the case. Too much cannot be said in commendation of the course pursued by the doctor, who rendered pecuniary and other assistance, which arriving at such a time was, needless to say, much appreciated.

Dr. Marshall was then summoned and has been in regular attendance during the past five or six weeks, also rendering every assistance in his power.

About two weeks ago a second child was ushered into existence amid the distressing surroundings, the confinement of the mother adding greatly to the deplorable conditions.

Since that time, owing to the assistance rendered by Dr. Marshall and others, the family has struggled along in most pitiable circumstances, the sole means of sustenance being the $1 per day earned by the aged father.

This is a case in which the practical sympathy of the kindly-disposed will by no means be mis-placed, or unappreciated.

Minister Pleased With HIS INSPECTION OF The Trent Waterway

Hon. Mr. Emmerson Yesterday Inspected the System from Hastings to Peterborough—A number of Local Gentlemen Accompanied the Minister and His Party on the Trip—The Improvements to the Waterway were Noted—Mr. Emmerson is Much Pleased with His Trip thus far.

Hon. Mr. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, yesterday evening concluded his tour of inspection over the section of the Trent Canal from Hastings to Peterborough.

The day was fine and the Minister thoroughly enjoyed his trip. He made a thorough investigation into the various matters of detail concerning the operation and improvement of this stretch of waterway.

The trip was made in the steamer Sovereign, and the Minister was accompanied by his deputy, Mr. Butler, and his former deputy, Mr. Schreiber, Mr. J. H. McClelland, superintendent of the canal, Mr. R. B. Rogers, chief engineer, Mr. Clem. Gordon, overseer, and other gentleman. Dinner was partaken of at Gore's Landing, the party staying at the Rice Lake House. Here the party was joined by Messrs. J. B. McColl, M.P., E. C. S. Huycke and John Hayden, of Cobourg, and Messrs. Major Chalk and R. A. Mulholland, of Port Hope, accompanied the party from Peterborough.

At Beaufort Bridge the steamer Empire, with Messrs. R. R. Hall, M.P.P., and a large party from Peterborough, met the party. Peterborough was reached at about 5.30 o'clock, and the ascent over the lift lock was made in the record time of five minutes. Quite a number of people from town were at the lift lock to meet the Minister and his party. Carriages were in waiting, and the party was conveyed to the city.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson, Mr. Collingwood Schreiber and Mrs. Schreiber were the guests of Hon. J. R. Stratton, and Mr. J. M. Butler, Mr. Payne and Mr. McCarl, private secretaries to Hon. Mr. Emmerson and Mr. Butler respectively, were the guests of Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P.

The Minister expressed himself as highly pleased with the appearance and operation of the portion of the canal visited yesterday.

LeBar and Brown Assessed $5.00 Each at the Police Court

Italians Appeared and Gave Evidence—Many Other Cases.

Tory Capele.
Arico Sauegue.
Fariqua Raffilo.
Joes Frarquille.
Benjamin LeBar.
Frank Brown.

Such was the list of names which put to a severe test the vocal organs of the Magistrate at the Police Court this morning, when the "Battle of the Lumber Yards," the sanguinary struggle which took place at noon yesterday on McDonel street, was re-fought with legal accompaniments. The veterans of the struggle lined up before the bench, and one by one ascended to the stand to "show how fields were won."

The evidence in the case was, to say the least, conflicting.

The first witness examined was Mr. H. A. Mathern, who stated that he had, while passing the corner of McDonel and Aylmer streets, seen the fracas. A man came out of Hicks' lumber yard carrying an armful of stones, which he was hurling in the direction of an old man. One of the missiles finally found its billet and the old gentleman went down, and, after picking himself up, was again laid prostrate by a blow upon the jaw. His assailant then contented himself by kicking the man's hat several times.

The evidence of the Italian witnesses was practically inter-corroborative, and to the effect that they had retired to the seclusion of a lumber pile in Hicks' coal and wood yard to partake of their mid-day meal in peace, away "from the madding crowd." The surroundings and menu, while scarcely up to the Delmonico standard, were yet of an appetising nature, and the "full dinner pails" were rapidly diminishing in weight, when LeBar and Brown appeared upon the scene, and after making use of some invectives of a somewhat "unlady like" character, demanded of the natives of Sunny Italy the sum of 25 cents each for space privileges, the net proceeds of which to be used in the purchase of liquid refreshments. The Italians promptly withdrew to the street, and the battle was on, the first shots emanating, the witnesses claimed, from LeBar and Brown. Some of the Italians retaliated and then took flight in a southerly direction, dropping their impediments, including their entire commissariat department, consisting of the dinner pails. The pursuit was continued for three blocks, the aged member of the party falling behind, evidently not being in first class sprinting condition. He fell a prey to his pursuers, receiving a bump upon the jaw, hereinbefore mentioned.

The evidence of LeBar and Brown conflicted in many respects from that given by the opposing forces. Their statement was to the effect that they had told the Italians to leave the yard, which they did, but immediately upon reaching the street had taken the initiative in the attack, to which the witnesses had replied.

The Magistrate, in summing up, commented in severe terms regarding the action of LeBar and Brown, in ordering from the yard the Italians, whose actions evidenced a desire to conduct themselves in a peaceful manner. There had in any event been more pursuit than the situation called for. Brown and LeBar were assessed five dollars each, the Italians being allowed their liberty.

Other Cases.

The usual batch of "d. and d." and assault cases, which are regarded as an essential accompaniment of an exhibition, were then disposed of.

A young man was assessed $5 and $3 costs on the first mentioned charge.

Percy Scott, a member of the visiting Royal Canadian Dragoons, was allowed to go on the charge of striking a boy upon the head with a riding whip.

Bruce Kennedy pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct, and was assessed two dollars and costs, amounting altogether to $4.60.

A September Wedding at St. Andrews

Nuptials of Mr. Vivian William Lancaster, and Miss Anne Jane Lancaster

A Very Pretty Social Event Happily Conducted

A charming September wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Andrew's church, when the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, united in marriage Miss Anne Jane Lancaster, city, daughter of the late George Lancaster, of Otonabee, and Vivian William Lancaster, of Bobcaygeon. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. John Cameron, of Asphodel, was attired in cream silk trimmed with lace and ribbon, with veil and orange blossoms with bouquet of white carnations; ornaments, a pearl crescent, the gift of the groom, whose gift to the bridesmaid, a cousin, Miss Cameron, of Asphodel, was a pearl pin. Miss Cameron was attired in lace-trimmed cream cashmere, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groomsman was the brother of the groom, Mr. George Lancaster. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster, of Bobcaygeon; father and mother of the groom, and two brothers and a sister; Miss A. Armstrong, cousin of the bride, 165 Church street, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lancaster, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. John Lancaster, of Otonabee; Mr. John Cameron, Asphodel; Mr. Cosh, Bobcaygeon; Miss Louise Telford and Miss Maggie Lowe, Patterson street, city; Miss Bathgate, of Otonabee; and Mr. J. Humphries, Miss Coward, Kinmount; Miss Flo. Lancaster and Mr. John Lancaster, of Hastings, and Miss Flo. Bancroft, of Hastings.

The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the liberal array of beautiful wedding gifts sent in. At the conclusion of the church ceremony the guests sat down to a recherche wedding dejeuner at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. G. Lancaster, 20 Glumour street. The bride's going away gown was of navy blue lady's cloth with hat to match. The wedding journey of the happy couple will include a visit to Toronto, where they will be the guests of Mrs. J. Armstrong, 165 Church street, and also to Hamilton. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster will take up residence in this city.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouths and many are wondering what the word means, though no one has yet been found who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows.

Mr. Douglas, ex-M.P., of Hastings, also spoke to this toast, and warmly seconded the words of the former speakers, who advocated the early opening up of the ends of the canal.

Mr. J. Orano followed with a solo, which was received with applause.

Mr. D. Hughes Charlton fell the pleasant duty of proposing the toast to "Our Guests," which was responded to by Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals.

The Minister's Speech.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson, in rising to reply, amid general enthusiasm, in his opening remarks stated frankly his opinion at the outset that he would fail to give thanks or due appreciation to the honour bestowed upon him, for several reasons. These were not personal or of the passing moment, but were such as would concern all. He had come as a stranger,—though not as an alien. We feel, he said, that though Canada is widespread in its area, there are sectional feelings and sectional feelings. He had come from a section much different from this. He was not forgetful of the fact that in doing honour to him that the office which he filled was being honoured, as he held firmly the sentiment that public office is a public trust. Aside from the fact that it had been his privilege to listen to the speeches of those who had talked so optimistically of the commercial outlook of our country, he trusted that the present occasion might be of some value in another sense, if for no other purpose that that of affording an opportunity to judge the manner of man he was, or may, in the future, prove to be.

A Large Responsibility.

While we were assured of the great possibilities of which we are assured in Canada, we, the speaker believed, had only been afforded a little peep into the great future; and it was important that we should get an idea of the man who occupied our official positions. He had come from the east, and deemed it a great privilege indeed that he had been placed in charge of the important department which he at present managed, and he was not insensible to the responsibilities of the position. He had listened to the references to the Departments of Trade and Commerce, and Railways and Canals, but had not been unthinking with regard to these matters, in view of the difficulties to be dealt with in every section of the country. The great transportation problem in the matter of connecting the east with the west had naturally been to him an important one. The Intercolonial Railway had been much talked of recently, and would continue to be a subject of discussion. To it he had been giving his particular attention during the past two months, and upon this subject he wished to speak briefly.

The Minister devoted some time to a discussion of the Intercolonial Railway, of which, he pointed out, it had been said it was not a paying investment to the Dominion of Canada, but, he continued, "I dare say that there has been no investment ever made in this country more productive of dividends in general good." The speaker passed on to remark upon the comments of a certain press to the effect that it is a burden upon the Province of Ontario. Though he was not very old there was still within his memory that 1st of July morning which, with flags flying and guns booming, marked the birth of a new country. Previous to this the ties binding the New England States to the Canadian territory adjacent were gradually becoming strengthened by social intercourse and closely allied business interests. With Confederation came an agreement, and an iron band joining the people of Upper and Lower Canada was welded.

After referring to the besetting perils of the situation with regard to the formation of other commercial interests with our southern neighbours which had been averted by the construction of the Railway, the speaker passed on to comment upon another important phase of the question that of the gradually increasing intimacy between the Upper and Lower Provinces, pleasingly illustrating this by an allusion to the "stealing" by one of Ontario's young men of the majestic of his own household—his eldest daughter.

But why, he continued, can I not demonstrate that the Intercolonial is a paying investment? Simply because they had not been charging the rates of freights that other railways have, and because our eastern people would have been purchasing goods across the line, or from American exporters, who had received them by way of Portland. He would merely hint that it would be well for his auditors to ponder over it and ask themselves, Well, what of it? Is it not for the good of Canada? Are our people to become sectional and shall be become brothers in name and not in reality.

The Minister then passed on to the discussion of a subject of more immediate interest—that of our Canals. Speaking of his visit to Peterborough at the opening of the lift lock, he had known little regarding the Trent Waterway, and it was the object of his visits to secure a more complete knowledge of the subject. He was not gifted in speaking upon a subject in which he had no faith, and his present interest in the matter was a guarantee of his faith in the project. About one year ago the great possibilities of the canal had first dawned upon him. Many had spoken of the long drawn out delays. This was a matter of no surprise. There is a growth in ideas as there is a growth in everything else, and step by step the work was being accomplished. Dr. Dumble, in his reference to the delays incident to the construction, had evidenced a doctrine both Calvinistic and Arminian—believing both in faith and in works. So did the speaker. The reason why it has not been completed was a want of sufficient faith in it. People had been thinking more about where the ditch should be dug than upon the accomplishment of the end in view in the construction.

The speaker had a suspicion that it had dawned upon his auditors that the canal would be a good thing. (Laughter). He personally had such faith in it that he was convinced of its possibilities when here a year ago. (Applause.) This had been evidenced in a material way by the provision made to render it assistance. It was said that the sum which appeared in the estimates just previous to the last election was appropriated for its influence upon the electorate. Had this been the case it would have been an easy matter to drop it out after the election. If the object alleged had been the sole one in view, why should it be that engineers have ever since been going over the territory. There could nothing be done until the plans were prepared and the reports of the survey received.

Speaking further with reference to the Government's policy in the matter, the Minister pointed out that not only was the original plan continued, but it had been doubled in regard to appropriation. In the face of the ample provisions which have been made can it be said that the Government was remiss with regard to the canal? He had realized in examining the aggregate expenditure of his department that large sums had been provided. It was unreasonable to expect that a public work of such proportions should spring up like a mushroom in the night. The Trent Canal was being built, and steps were being taken to provide for its extension. What more could be asked? It would be carried through as anything that is undertaken by the Department of Railways and Canals would be carried through—even the Intercolonial Railway. Some had said that he could not make it pay; but he would say that unless he made that railway pay before he went to his grave he would not rest easily afterwards. He intimated that a slight elevation in freight rates might be necessary.

The speaker trusted that, as a result of his visit, he and his auditors would understand each other better. All had spoken optimistically with regard to the canal. Are these things to be accomplished without money? No. But in building them will you not strengthen the country both for peace and for war? Are you not going to benefit the entire Empire? Is there any doubt that Parliament is going to vote the money to do it? Does any one consider it extravagance when money is expended with a view to the expansion of trade, and the building up of the country? He did not believe in carping about expenditures in that direction. The best defence to this country is the building up of its trade and commerce, and there could be no question with respect to the influence of the Trent Canal and the railways in this direction. When these problems have been solved we will have a territory teeming with millions and filled up with a happy family, having a pride in its people and its institutions. (Loud applause.)

Our Municipal Institutions.

Warden Buck, in reply to the toast "Our Municipal Institutions," believed now that the canal would be built. The matter had now reached a business basis, and it would proceed satisfactorily.

Ald. Hall spoke of the youth and splendid promise of the city of Peterborough, and if all the promises were fulfilled would be greatly increased by the time the canal was completed. The town had faith in it.

Ex-Mayor Roger quoted remarks of Ald. Hall, in expressing the hope of the speedy completion of the canal. The speaker referred to the former Ministers' visits, and their personal results, in a humorous vein.

The evening was then brought to a conclusion by the singing of "God Save the King."

Loss of Power To Digest Food

AMONG THE FIRST INDICATIONS OF EXHAUSTED NERVES—THE CURE IS

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The most important function of the organs of the body is the digestion, and assimilation of food, and in this process is consumed an enormous quantity of nervous energy.

As the result the moment disorders of the nerves arise digestion is impaired, and the very source of health, strength and vitality interferred with.

To prevent physical bankrupteythe nervous system must be built up by certain aid, such as the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, a preparation composed of the very elements of nature which go to form new blood and nerve cells.

Besides this restorative influence on the whole system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has an immediate and direct effect on the digestive system.

It stimulates the nerves of taste and induces a good flow of saliva to aid digestion. It excites the glands of the stomach and produces a plentiful supply of the gastric digestive fluids. It sharpens the appetite and arouses hunger.

Especially where appetite and the ability to digest have diminished, as in nervous exhaustion, anaemia, the result of sickness, overwork, or worry, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is by all odds the most effective treatment that can possibly be obtained.

It ensures good digestion, regular, healthful action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and the building up and fertilizing of the whole system.

Mrs. J. Deroshe, 85 Bethune street Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and sleeplessness, and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine, for besides strengthening my nerves, it built up my system wonderfully, and enabled me to sleep and eat well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years, and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the Ointment cannot be equalled, and the Pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Britain and Japan Form An Alliance

Enter Into a Treaty Alliance For Their Own Defence.

TERMS OF THE DOCUMENT

Aggression On the Part of Any Power Will Find Them United—Will Maintain Peace in the Regions of Eastern Asia and India—The Treaty Will Be in Effect Ten Years—Alliance Not Against Russia.

London, Sept. 27.—At last the eager curiosity of a waiting world has been gratified by the publication of the terms of the new Anglo-Japanese treaty. Now that these have been disclosed it is seen that the forecasts made have been substantially accurate, although sufficient stress was not laid on the care taken to safeguard not only the status quo in Eastern Asia and India, but the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in China and Corea.

The alliance of which the treaty is the seal is conspicuous by reason of the fact that it is purely defensive in character and conveys not even the most distant threat of aggression upon the possessions or legitimate spheres of influence of any other power.

Objects To Be Obtained.

The preamble reads: The Governments of Great Britain and Japan, being desirous of replacing the agreement concluded between them January

LORD LANSDOWNE.

30, 1902, by fresh stipulations, have agreed upon the following articles, which have for their object:

(a) Consolidation and the maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India.

(b) The preservation of the common interests of all the powers in China by ensuring the independence and integrity of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in China.

(c) The maintenance of the territorial rights of the high contracting parties in the regions of Eastern Asia and of India and the defence of their special interests in the said regions.

Text of the Treaty.

Article 1.—It is agreed that whenever in the opinion either of Great Britain or Japan any of the rights and interests referred to in the preamble of this agreement are in jeopardy, the two Governments will communicate with one another fully and frankly and will consider in common the measures which should be taken to safeguard those menaced rights or interests.

Article 2.—Should either of the high contracting parties be involved in war in defence of its territorial rights or special interests, the other party will at once come to the assistance of its ally, and both parties will conduct a war in common and make peace in mutual agreement with any power or powers involved in such war.

Article 3.—Japan, possessing paramount political, military and economic interests in Corea, Great Britain recognises Japan's right to take such measures for the guidance, control and protection of Corea as she may deem proper and necessary to safeguard and advance those interests, providing the measures so taken are not contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations.

India For Britain.

Article 4.—Great Britain, having a special interest in all that concerns the security of the Indian frontier, Japan recognises her right to take such measures in the proximity of that frontier as she may find necessary for safeguarding her Indian possessions.

Article 5.—The high contracting parties agree that neither will without consulting the other enter into a separate arrangement with another power to the prejudice of the objects described in the preamble.

Article 6.—As regards the present war between Japan and Russia, Great Britain will continue to maintain strict neutrality unless some other power or powers join in hostility against Japan, in which case Great Britain will come to the assistance of Japan, will conduct war in common and will make peace in mutual agreement with Japan.

Article 7.—The conditions under which armed assistance shall be afforded by either power to the other in the circumstances mentioned in the present agreement and the means by which such assistance shall be made available will be arranged by the naval and military authorities of the contracting parties, who will from time to time consult one another fully and freely on all questions of mutual interests.

Good For Ten Years.

Article 8.—The present agreement shall be subject to the provisions of Article 6 and come into effect immediately after the date of signature and remain in force for ten years from that date. In case neither of the parties shall have been notified twelve months before the expiration of the said ten years of an intention of terminating it, it shall remain binding until the expiration of one year from the day on which either of the parties shall have denounced it; but if when the date for the expiration arrives either party is actually engaged in war, the alliance shall be ipse facto and continue until peace shall be concluded.

The treaty is signed by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne on behalf of Great Britain and by Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, on behalf of Japan.

With the treaty was issued a despatch to the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, Sir Charles Hardinge, with the request that the treaty be communicated to the Russian Government. This despatch is explanatory of the delay in publishing the treaty, due to the progress of negotiations looking to peace between Russia and Japan. In it Lord Lansdowne says:

Not Aimed at Russia.

"The Russian Government will, I trust, recognize that this new agreement is an international instrument to which no exception can be taken by any of the powers interested in the affairs of the Far East."

Continuing, Lord Lansdowne says: "Great Britain, I believe, may count on the good-will and support of all the powers in endeavoring to maintain peace in Eastern Asia and in seeking to uphold the integrity and independence of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in that empire. On the other hand the interests of the contracting parties are of a kind upon which they are fully entitled to insist, and the announcement that those interests must be safeguarded is one which can occasion no surprise and need give rise to no misgivings."

Special mention is made of Articles 2 and 3. Of the latter Lord Lansdowne says: "It recognizes in the clearest terms the paramount position which Japan at this moment occupies and must henceforth occupy in Corea, and her right to take the measures which she may find necessary for the protection of her political, military and economic interests in that country. It is, however, expressly provided that such measures must not be contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of other nations. The treaty at this point differs conspicuously from that of 1902.

"It has, however, become evident that Corea, owing to its close proximity to the Japanese Empire, and to its inability to stand alone, must fall under the control and the tutelage of Japan.

Alliance Purely Peaceful.

"His Majesty's Government observes with satisfaction that this point has been readily conceded by Rushia in the treaty of peace, and there is every reason to believe that similar views are held by the other powers with regard to the relations which should subsist between Corea and Japan. His Majesty's Government ventures to anticipate that the alliance thus concluded, designed as it is for objects that are purely peaceful and for the protection of the rights and interests the validity of which cannot be contested, will be regarded with approval by the Government to which you are accredited.

"The British Government is justified in believing that the conclusion of this alliance may not have been without effect in facilitating the settlement by which the war was so happily brought to an end, and its members earnestly trust that the alliance may for years to come be instrumental in securing the peace of the world in those regions which come within its scope."

A similar despatch was addressed to Sir Francis Bertie, the British Ambassador at Paris.

Unhappy Women!

No woman can be happy when her health is undermined. No woman can have good health while she suffers from female weakness, inflammation, ulceration or any disease of the delicate womanly organs. Nervous, sleepless, fretful, suffering in body and mind, she does not live but only exists.

More than a half a million such women have found a perfect and permanent cure for their diseased condition in the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Women cured by this remedy say it is a "wonderful medicine," so perfectly does it restore them to health and comeliness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither does it contain opium, cocaine, nor any other harmful drug. It is in the strictest sense, an honest, temperance medicine. Its ingredients are purely vegetable, and it will agree with the most delicate constitution.

Don't be hypnotised, or over persuaded, into accepting a substitute. This medicine has a record that's worth far more than any difference in price.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, either personally or by letter, absolutely without charge or fee, thus avoiding the unpleasant questionings, offensive examinations and obnoxious local treatments considered necessary by many local practitioners. All correspondence treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Doyle Trial Reaches End In Brantford

Murder Prisoner Is Examined As to His Sanity.

NOT INSANE BUT DEGENERATE

Crown Submits a Motive For the Crime—Forged His Mother's Name to Several Notes Which Were Rapidly Falling Due — Joe Bennett Has True Bill Recorded Against Him For Murder.

Brantford, Sept. 27.—The trial of Felix Doyle, accused of the murder of his mother on February 2 last, was brought to a close last evening. All that now remains is the charge of Justice Anglin, which will take place when the court is resumed this morning. The case occupied all day.

Numerous witnesses were summoned on both sides. The case for the Crown was a strong one. The main object of the defence seemed to be to show the incapability of Felix Doyle in all his dealings with people, to show that he must have been insane at the time. To further strengthen this claim, two specialists on insanity were summoned who stated that while Felix was not insane at the present time there is no telling what his condition was at the time of the crime. Impulsive homicidal intent was hinted at, but the experts were to a large degree non-committal. They did say he was queer and a degenerate, but that he was not insane in the usual sense of the word.

The Crown on the other hand submitted as motive for the crime several notes which Doyle had forged his mother's name to, and now were rapidly falling due.

The evening session was occupied with the addresses of the various counsels.

Early in the afternoon the grand jury brought in a true bill against Joe Bennett. This trial will immediately follow that of Doyle and will probably start this morning.

JOHN LEIZERT SENTENCED.

Gave Small Boy Whiskey and His Death Resulted.

Cornwall, Sept. 27.—John Leizert of Hainesville was found guilty at the Assizes here yesterday of causing the death of Herman Farrel, the six-year-old son of James Farrell of Pleasant Valley, Dundas County, and was sentenced by Justice Street to six months' imprisonment in the County Jail.

Leizert when considerably intoxicated, gave two boys whiskey at their request. Leizert himself went post haste to South Mountain for a doctor when the children became ill. One died. At the June sessions he was found guilty of manslaughter with a recommendation to mercy. In the evidence it was shown that liquor was frequently used in the Farrel home by the children and mother, and that Leizert knew of this.

On Trial For Murder.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The trial of Charles Kernick, accused of the murder of Doron Mitchell at Isle Ronde, commenced in the Court of King's Bench yesterday. Mrs. Kernick is also accused in the same connection, but it was decided to hold separate trials.

Chink Uses Meat Axe.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Charlie Mark, a Chinaman, was wounded on the back cut on the head and had a thumb almost severed in a fracas in the basement of a Chinese shop yesterday Charlie Mark and Hum Jams, another Celestial, had been smoking and playing cards together, and the assault upon Marks resulted from a dispute over money. Mark may not recover and Hum Jams is under arrest on a charge of attempting to murder him with a meat axe.

Gaynor-Greene's Finish.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The officers of the United States Department of Justice will arrive in Montreal to-day for the purpose of returning with Gaynor and Greene. The decision of Judge Ouimet, rendered on Saturday, is now in the hands of the Minister of Justice and the lawyers for the United States do not anticipate any further delay in the extradition.

French View Sustained.

Paris, Sept. 27.—A semi-official note issued last night, after a lengthy conference at the Foreign Office between Prince von Radolin, Premier Rouvier, Dr. Rosen, the new German Minister to Morocco, and M. Revoil, former Governor of Algiers (who has represented France in the negotiations with Dr. Rosen), states that the negotiators entirely agreed on the French point of view relative to the Moroccan situation.

Lamented Death of Mrs. M. Leveque

After being for over one year a patient sufferer from the ravages of tuberculosis, the death occurred this morning at about 1.30 o'clock, at her residence, 11 Louis street, of Theophile Jervais, wife of Mr. Michael Leverque.

The deceased, whose illness has kept her constantly confined to her room during the past six months, was born in Bonuharnois, 57 years ago, and was the daughter of Jervais Jervais, who pre-deceased her by about 33 years.

The late Mrs. Levaque removed to Peterborough thirty years ago, and was married one year later to her husband, who survives to mourn her loss. The marriage was solemnized on September, 26, 1876, at St. Peter's cathedral.

Surviving her besides her only son, Treffle, are eight brothers and one sister, as follows: Napoleon Jervais, of Montreal; Jervais Jervais, of Lachine; Henry, Stanislaus, Treffle, Alexandre, of Boston; Octave, of Denver, Col.; Simon, of Minnesota; and Pelagie of Boston. Her mother, who is 88 years of age, resides in Boston, with her eldest son, Treffle.

The funeral will take place on Friday at nine o'clock, from the family residence, 11 Louis street, to St. Peter's cemetery, for interment. Requiem mass will probably be sung by Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

Pickpockets Made a Haul

Pickpockets were in evidence to some extent at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday and a number of losses were reported from various quarters. Some of these were very heavy and the number of cases confirms the suspicion that an organized gang from out-of-town were operating here yesterday and possibly today.

The heaviest loss which has yet been reported was that of John Huggard, a representative of a Hamilton firm, who had extracted from his pocket, or was otherwise relieved of the sum of $132.00 in cash together with a draft for $700. No trace has been discovered yet of the missing funds, though the police have been making a thorough investigation.

Another loss was that of the sum of $8.00 which was extracted from the pocket of John Boats, of Emily township at the grounds, during the afternoon. The money was, when taken, in a purse, which confirms the suspicion that it was deliberately stolen.

An aged gentleman who was standing before the wicket at the Exhibition Grounds in the afternoon was victimized to the extent of $8.00.

Another loss was that of Mr. Maddon Howard, the well known Rice Lake canoeist, who was relieved of, or otherwise lost, the sum of $10.00. It is expected the same revelations will be made with regard to the gang who are supposed to be operating.

Facial Paralysis

Mr. W. J. Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My face was all twisted out of shape with facial paralysis, and five doctors failed to cure or even relieve. By the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been entirely cured, and have returned to work strong and well. I have gained in weight, and feel that I have a new lease of life."

Fair Faker Fined $60. and Costs

This afternoon at an emergency session of the police court, a little swift justice was dealt out. A man named M. J. Gonyea, was charged with conducting a game of chance on the Fair grounds. He was found guilty and fined $60 and costs. The fine was paid.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—"Move On" yesterday inquired why the police allow about one hundred men to stand in front of the Peterborough Hardware Company, every Saturday night. I can't undertake to account for the action or inaction of thee police, but I think the men make this establishment, which furnishes a great deal of building supplies, a sort of conference place, to compare notes and talk on the building incidents of the week. They can't stay inside for that would interrupt business. The men may have no "business" in front of the shop, and they are in the way of some hundreds of others who have no "business" on the streets. We should have a working men's club room for Saturday evenings, where the different trades could get together and compare notes.

Yours, etc.,
WORKER.

Editor Post Card Column:

Sir,—I notice a report in your paper from time to time, where the writer speaks of the Sabbath School. I did not knew that we had Sunday Schools held on Saturday. I thought Pastor Eeurneg't's sermon printed in your paper settled the matter and that he proved that the Christian "Sunday" had supplemented the Jewish Sabbath. To me it sounds like cant for Christians to speak of the Lord's Day as Sabbath.

Yours sincerely,
AMATEUR THEOLOG.

Monte Wilson Won the Bout

A fairly large crowd gathered at the Brock street rink last night to see the wrestling bout between Capt. Duncan C. Ross and Mont. Wilson, of Garden Hill. The match was a poor exhibition of wrestling, Wilson winning at the end of an hour's bout by two falls to one. The sympathy of the majority of the crowd seemed to be with Wilson, and his win was a most popular one. At the conclusion of the bout Wilson was surrounded by his admirers and warmly congratulated upon his victory.

As a curtain-raiser, two local juveniles, A. Hearne and B. Conroy, donned the gloves and went on for a four-round boxing bout. The boys mixed it up lively, and honours were about even.

R. Gaynor, of Ottawa, acted as referee for the wrestling match, and Martin Connors was timekeeper. Wilson took the first fall after about six minutes' wrestling, although Ross claimed that it was not a fall. The second went to Ross, but Wilson captured the third and what proved to be the final fall. Wilson was heavier, and appeared to be the stronger of the two, but lacked science. Still, at that, he had not much trouble in defeating the Captain.

Mr. G. L. Stevens' Shabby Treatment

Mr. G. L. Stevens' fine team of roadsters was on the fair grounds yesterday. And invited considerable comment, among the horsemen, who admired the style and action of this splendid team. Unfortunately for Mr. Stevens was too ill to drive the team himself, and the driver who had them was unaccustomed to handling them, which may have accounted for the fact that the second instead of the first prize was given the team.

Mr. Stevens feels pretty sore at the management of the Lindsay Fair for the action of the authorities there. He took his team up to that town and entered them, paying his entrance fee, but found later that there was no prize offered for horses of that class, and he received neither a prize nor the return of his entrance money. The Lindsay Fair management will have to keep faith with their exhibitors if they expect the fair to be patronized.

EXCELLENT WEATHER AND LARGE CROWDS CONDUCIVE TO A SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITION

Peterborough's Industrial Fair Closed Last Night After a Big Two Days' Show—The Receipts of This Year Ahead of Show of 1904—Some of the Interesting Features of Yesterday's Programme—The Prize Winners—Local Exhibitors Did Well—The Grand Stand Performance Was Enjoyed—Children's Day Yesterday.

Yesterday was Children's Day, at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and the children swarmed on the grounds in immense numbers. The schools of the city were closed for the afternoon, and judging by the number of children on the grounds, the greater part of the scholars of the schools must have found their way there. Everywhere one looked, there were children to be seen, and that they enjoyed themselves goes without saying. They simply had a "whale of a time," to use the expression of one of the youngsters in describing it.

The man with the cards and fans to give away away was besieged by the children, and they were soon loaded. The refreshment men, too, had good reason to feel thankful that the schools had been closed for the half day, for their receipts were increased materially by reason of that fact.

The children were not the only ones, however, who visited the Fair yesterday, for while the attendance was not as large as it was on the opening day, there was a fair attendance, and all who went had no difficulty in convincing themselves that the Fair this year was the best ever.

The weather yesterday was milder and in this respect the Fair of 1905 has been most fortunate, a circumstance for which the directors should be duly grateful.

All the departments of the Fair were in full operation yesterday, and remained so until the hour specified for the removal of the goods and exhibits.

The entertainment features yesterday proved equally attractive, and large crowds saw the shows, which were fully as well staged as on the first day. The ponies and dogs had an especial attraction for the children, and all afternoon the platform on which they performed was continually surrounded by an admiring crowd of the younger element, as well as adults. The Dragoons also scored another triumph, and the directors are to be congratulated upon having secured such a good attraction for the Fair. The races, too, were first class, some very pretty heats being seen.

Considerable interest was aroused by those in the grand stand, in the judging of the saddle and harness classes, in which two fine animals were entered. Mr. G. L. Stevens' bay mare was given the blue ticket, after an interesting competition, and Mr. R. H. Leary's horse took second.

The exhibitors are on the whole well satisfied with their treatment at the hands of the directors, and the prospects are that next year there will be an increased number of exhibitors.

Afternoon Programme.

The programme in front of the grand stand yesterday afternoon included many attractions, all being run off to clock-work time as specified on the programme. The grand vaudeville performance which took place on the platform in front of the stand was an unique and varied one, being an entire change from that of Tuesday's. Prof. Howard's ponies and dogs were a great favourite with the school children who were given a half holiday to take in the exhibition. Afternoon the stand was besieged by boys and girls who climbed over one another to get a peep at what was going on.

"Schimize," the Japanese acrobat from Japan, gave another exhibition on the slack wire, while the performance of Mlle. Dair, the aerial wonder was simply marvellous. Her work on the trapeze was far above the average, especially her act of hanging from the trapeze, fifty feet in the air, by a rope tied end of which she held in her teeth.

The Races.

There was not a large field of horses in either of the races yesterday, but every event was keenly contested. In class "C" three horses started, Miss Paisley, Minnie Bell

"Get-Rich-Quick" Operators Are Prosecuted

Games of Chance Do Not Flourish in Peterborough.

Boy Arrested for Stealing Gold Watch —Another Sidewalk Victim.

As an aftermath of the Exhibition a number of men have made an appearance at Police Court charged with carrying on games of chance.

W. Horton this morning pleaded not guilty to a charge of aiding and assisting M. J. Gagnon, the man who was yesterday fined. The charge against Horton sets forth his modus operandi to the following effect,—that he placed certain moneys in a certain envelope, and, after selling certain goods, gave the purchaser a chance to draw from a large number of envelopes, an envelope containing the money. The case was enlarged until to-morrow morning.

W. Bowman, on a similar charge appeared this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Chas. Milner was assessed $2.50 for riding a bicycle upon the sidewalk. The prices for this variety of sport, the Magistrate explained, remains very steady.

Frank Loudeau, a boy, was charged with stealing a gold watch the property of Wm. Hogg. The watch was stolen yesterday, it appears, from a boat at the lift lock. The case was enlarged until Monday next, and the boy in the meantime will be confined at the Shelter.

"Gold" Find on Rubidge Street

Mr. Marin Neary, foreman of the Robson sewer contract on Rubidge street, is the proud possessor of a metallic nugget, which he firmly believes is gold. This, and two or three other similar nuggets, were found in the course of excavation at a point of the trench between Simcoe and Scott streets, and at a depth of about four feet. The pieces of metal discovered are of the characteristic irregularly nodulate form with exposed spots here and there, having the appearance of red gold, or copper. The general colour of the nugget is characteristic green—verde gris—of oxydized copper. To the inexperienced eye the nugget has the appearance of a fragment of slag, from a brass or bronze melting pot, with here and there fragments of clean bronze or copper showing through the general body of the slag. So much attention is given to a description of the find for the guidance of experts, who may form an opinion of the character of the discovery, and in order that there may be no rush to the "diggings," on Rubidge street. But such a rush would be a sort of gold mine to some of the sewer contractors, for they would then stand a chance to get excavators, which some of the contractors find great difficulty in doing. It is to be feared that Mr. Neary will find that his nuggets are not gold, as the honestly thinks. The old proverb seems to fit the occasion —"All that glitters is not gold."

North Harvey Helps Shelter

The Children's Aid Society are are once more in receipt of a generous contribution from the people of North Harvey made through Mrs. Nathan Crowe. The sum received is $15 with the hope that more may be raised through the winter.

As the Shelter is nearly full of children and the funds of the Society are low, and the winter's work soon to be entered upon, this donation is very gratefully received and acknowledged by the officers of the Society.

Was Kicked By a Horse In the Face

Mr. S. L. May Injured at Noon To-day.

Delivery Horse Inflicted Serious Injuries—An Employee of Mr. T. C. Elliott.

At noon to-day as Mr. S. L. May, an employee of the Peterborough Knitting Works, was going to dinner, along the lane running to Hunter street, at the rear of the stores on the east side of George street, he was kicked rather seriously by a horse and injuries inflicted which are very painful.

Mr. May was passing a delivery rig which was standing on the lane, when the horse which did not notice Mr. May until he was right at the horse's heels, when it suddenly shot out with his hind feet striking Mr. May in the face.

It is feared that his nose has been broken, and it is probable that he will be laid up for some time. He was taken to his lodging at 29 Queen street, when medical assistance was obtained and where he is at present.

The Death of A Respected Resident

Mr. John Young of North Monaghan Passes Away.

On Wednesday, Mr. John Young, of lot 5, concession 13, North Monaghan, passed away at the age of 58 years. Deceased has been in ill health for three or four months, Bright's disease being the cause of his illness and death.

Mr. Young was a native of North Monaghan, a son of Mr. George Young, at present residing in Peterborough. He leaves behind him to mourn his loss a widow, he having been married in December last to an Otonabee lady. Mr. Young was a Liberal in politics, and in religion a Presbyterian, a member of the congregation of St. Paul's church. He was a farmer by occupation and a good citizen.

The funeral will take place on Friday from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery, at 2 o'clock p.m.

The deceased was a member of Peterborough Tent, No. 61, K.O.T.M., the members of which society will attend the funeral in a body.

Were Wedded In Port Hope

The marriage of Miss Alice Louise Deyell, eldest daughter of Mr. Robert Deyell, Port Hope, to Mr. Harvey Cecil Falls, of Simcoe, Ont., was solemnized in St. John's Church at high noon yesterday, the rector, Rev. E. Daniel, officiating. The bride was assisted by Misses Edna Hutchison and Ethel Hennedy, and was given away by her father. Messrs. Harold J. Deyell and H. Brent supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the family residence on Brown street, where a dainty dejeuner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Falls left on the flyer for New York and other American cities.

Record Breaking Load of Wood

What was probably the largest scowload of wood ever towed in local waters was that brought down the canal on Tuesday by the steamer Majestic.

The load was wholly of hardwood, and contained 113 cords. The largest previous scowload numbered about 103 cords. The wood was delivered to the McDonald Co. The Majestic has closed her passenger work for the season, and will be engaged wholly in towing operations.

Bridgenorth Team Dines

A most enjoyable time was spent last evening by about twenty members of the Bridgenorth football team and their supporters, at a complimentary banquet tendered them by Mr. Nellie Kelly, captain of the team.

The event took place at the Cavanagh House, and the guests were treated to a sumptuous and appetizing feast, after which the cup, which the team, temporarily at least, retains possession of as a result of yesterday's game with the Quakers, was filled and quaffed to the health of the boys, accompanied by the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Pre-Payment Meter Company IS THE LATEST Industry For Peterborough

A New Company Composed of Local Business Men Will Launch An Important New Business Enterprise—New Electrical Device Will be Placed Upon the Market —Share Capital of New Company Will be $100,000.

An early issue of the Ontario Gazette will, it is to be anticipated, contain an announcement of the incorporation of a company composed of a number of leading local business men, who will launch a new enterprise of considerable magnitude, which will commence operations in Peterborough in the near future.

The new industry, aside from its importance in a manufacturing sense, has an added significance in the fact that it places upon the market an entirely new device, which, it is expected, will have an important bearing upon, and may in time revolutionize, the present system of electrical meters now in use. The new meter, which is a pre-payment device, is said to be the most satisfactory mechanical contrivance of the kind on the market, and, in fact, the only one which operates perfectly. The new machine has many new features which give it many advantages over any form of pre-payment meter heretofore in use.

The corporate name of the company will be, it is understood, The Pre-Payment Electric Meter Company, Limited. The share capital is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. The head offices will be in Peterborough.

The incorporators of the company are probably as follows:

Albert Amos Hollingshead, banker; William Hamilton, manufacturer; John Herbert Larmouth, bank manager; Joseph Harris McClellan, Trent Canal superintendent; Arthur Parker, dyer, and Arthur James McClelland, coal dealer, all of Peterborough.

The provisional directors are: Albert Amos Hollingshead, William Hamilton, John Herbert Larmouth, Joseph Harris McClellan and Arthur Parker.

The objects of the company are to manufacture all kinds of electrical motors, meters, transformers, electric fans, and all descriptions of electrical contrivances, and to deal in electrical fixtures and supplies.

The new meter, which will be manufactured to the invention of a Toronto man named Gowland, has given entire satisfaction in all tests to which it has been put.

The Presbytery Met Yesterday in Keene Church

Retirement of Rev. Wm. Bennet as Clerk of Presbytery—Other Business.

Wednesday, Sept. 27.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Keene yesterday at 9.30 a. m. Rev. D. D. McDonald presided, and conducted devotional exercises.

There were present beside the Moderator, Rev. Messrs. C. S. Lord, M.A., Grafton; W. R. Johnston, B. A., Bethesda; William Johnston, Millbrook; George Yule, Springville; Jno. F. McFarland, B.A., Warkworth; A. C. Reeves, B.A., Campbellford; Chas. A. Campbell, B.A., Lakefield; G. A. MacLennan, B.A., Norwood; E. F. Torrance, D.D., William Bennett, J. G. Potter and D. A. Thompson, clerk of Presbytery, ministers. There were also present, Wm. Drummond, J. Skene, Andrew Fairburn, W. Larmour, and J. Monorief, elders.

Among the more important items of business were the following:

The retirement of Rev. Mr. Bennett as clerk of Presbytery, and the formal transfer of all books and documents to his successor, Rev. D. A. Thompson, was an interesting procedure.

The reports of visitors to the Home Mission congregations were then received.

The convenor of the committee on the superintendence of students, reported examination of the prescribed work of Messrs. S. H. Pickup and R. B. Nelles, as revealing careful reasoning and a practical knowledge of the word of God, and recommend them to be certified in their respective colleges.

Visitors were appointed to the augmented congregations as follows:

Warsaw — Rev. C. A. Campbell.
Pontypool — Rev. George Yule.
Havelock — Rev. G. A. MacLennan.

A request from the General Assembly's Committee on Young Peoples' Societies, urged the members of the Presbytery to make the effort, if not already done, to get organized the many young men and boys who were to be found in their congregations. It was also urged that the helpful outline of the Young Peoples' Guild, be largely adopted for Young Peoples' meetings.

A call was presented by Rev. Wm. Johnston, Moderator, of the vacant congregation of Centreville, in favour of the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, of Bishop's Mills, Ont.

The Call was very cordially supported by Messrs. Larmour and Monorieff, Elders. It was unanimously decided to sustain the call, being signed by 140 members, and accompanied by a guarantee of stipend for $900 and manse. It was agreed to transmit the call to Brockville Presbytery. The committee appointed to strike standing committee reported, and the report was adopted as follows:

Home Missions—Rev. Messrs. Potter, Torrance, Campbell, and Andrew Fairburn.

Augmentation—Robt. Hamlin, Elder; Rev. Messrs. Wm. Johnston and Potter.

Church Life and Work — Rev. Messrs. Whitelaw, A. E. Camp, Jas. Skene and Wm. Fowler, Elder.

Sabbath School—Rev. Messrs. G. A. MacLennan, Atkinson, C. S. Lord, and Wm. Drummond.

Young Peoples Societies — Rev. Messrs. Abraham, W. R. Johnston, A. K. McLeod and James Russell.

Statistics—Rev. Messrs. Wm. Beattie, D. O. Oswald and D. A. Thompson.

Evangelization — Rev. Messrs. Reeves, Duncan, Yule and Mr. Larmour.

The most interesting feature of the whole day was the recognition paid by Presbytery of the jubilee of the Rev. Wm. Bennett as a minister of the gospel. Mr. Bennett has enjoyed the love and esteem of Presbytery, and this was strongly emphasized by members of Presbytery. Dr. Torrance read the following testimonial: "The Peterborough Presbytery cannot allow the jubilee of the Rev. Mr. Bennett, and his resignation of the clerkship of Presbytery to pass without expressing their high appreciation of him as a man, and as a minister."

Fifty years ago Mr. Bennett came from Ireland to the Lower Provinces, and from that period till the time of his retirement he carried on work with great faithfulness in St. George, N.B., Windsor, Ont., Winchester, Ont., Kemptville and Springville.

At one period of his life he was closely associated with the late lamented Father Chiniquy, and it was largely through his influence that Father Chiniquy was brought into connection with the Presbyterian church in Canada.

For several years Mr. Bennett has conducted a successful Bible class in connection with the Salvation Army and he has also been a most assiduous visitor to the Protestant Home. For twenty-seven years he has filled the office of clerk of the Presbytery, discharging his duties with great efficiency, and taking a great interest in the work of the Presbytery.

This Presbytery desires to place on record its high appreciation of his devoted Christian life, and desires for him every blessing on his declining years, and asks him to accept this gift as an expression of its esteem.

It was on motion unanimously resolved that the testimonial as read become the expression of the Presbytery, and that it be suitably engrossed and handed to Rev. Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett replied in deep emotion to the spirit of the address. He had always appreciated the kindly forbearance of the Presbytery, and it was always a pleasure to carry out its will. He looked back over his years of service and found many things therein to cause him to feel that his work had not been in vain. Among the most notable of these was the part he had in the great work of Father Chiniquy in Canada.

The members of the Presbytery personally expressed their esteem for Mr Bennett, and wished for him and his household the choicest benedictions.

The Presbytery will meet the third Tuesday in December in St. Paul's church, Peterborough.

The Engineer Will Report Upon Bridge

Meeting of Board of Works Last Night —New Hedrants Will be Installed.

The Board of Works met last night at the Town Clerk's office, the following members being in attendance:—Ald. Adams, (Chairman), Mayor Best, Aldermen Tovey, Johnston and Hicks.

Messrs. T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore, and W. H. Hill, representing the Board of Water Commissioners, were heard regarding the grading of Anson street and George street north.

It was moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the Board of Works, the Water Commissioners and the City Engineer view the street with a view to fixing a grade to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.—Carried.

The Commissioners also mentioned the proposed lowering of the grade at the corner of Smith and Benson street, and the location of three hydrants, two on Water street—at Anson and one at G. T. R., —and one on George street, north of Argyle.

It was moved by Ald. Tovey, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the City Engineer be instructed to examine the foot-bridge on the Otonabee Bridge at Hunter street, and report as to it's condition and estimated cost of repair work required.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the sidewalk on Lisburn street be repaired.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Mayor Best, that the clerk write to Toronto with reference to sewer connections on sewers built by general tax.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the sidewalk on north side Weller street be built this year only as far as the west side of Walton street.—Carried.

Rufus Binyon, coloured, who murdered his step-daughter in May, 1900, was executed last week at Ardmore, Ind. The crime for which Binyon was sentenced to be executed, was a most atrocious one. He whipped his eight year old step-daughter, May Hawthorne, to death, then placed the body in the fire-place. The mother of the child discovered the crime in time to prevent its cremation. Binyon was taken to the Federal jail in chains and quickly convicted. Bishop Arnett of Ohio, made a direct appeal to President Roosevelt, to change Binyon's sentence to life imprisonment, but the president declined to interfere.

Coming Meeting Will Be Most Important One

Board of Managers of Methodist Foreign Missionary Society Meet Here.

Meeting Will Open on Tuesday, October 17th—Sixty Delegates From All Over Canada.

Last night the Billeting Committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the George Street Methodist Church met after the prayer meeting to arrange matters in connection with the coming meeting of the Board of Managers of the Society in Canada, which will be held in the George Street Church on October 17th and 18th, next. This gathering will be a most important one, and this year will be the first time that such a meeting has been held in Peterborough and on this account it will be of special interest.

It is expected that there will be about sixty delegates present, and these will come from all parts of Canada, from Vancouver on the west to Halifax on the east. Mrs. Coverdale Wilson, of Vancouver, B. C., wife of Rev. Coverdale Wilson, a former pastor of the local Methodist Church, will be the delegate from British Columbia, and no doubt there will be many of her old friends who will welcome her back again for this short visit.

The Executive of the Society will meet on Tuesday morning, and there will be two public meetings, one each on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Additional interest is lent this gathering because of the fact of the presence of Mrs. Ross, of Montreal, and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Strachan, who have recently returned from Japan where they visited the schools and missions of the society there. They will give interesting reports of their trip to the Mikado's Empire, which, because of recent events there, has been in the limelight of the world's stage. In addition, there will be five returned missionaries, who are home on furlough.

The list of delegates has not yet been received so that the report of the Billeting Committee is not complete.

The meeting of the society this year, it is expected, will be a most important one, as many matters of more than usual moment will be dealt with by it, and it is expected that the public meeting will be largely attended.

"Is Dr. Chase Your Doctor"

Have You Learned to Cure Biliousness, Indigestion and Constipation With

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills?

A medicine like a physician, is selected because of the actual results it is known to bring about. Most people are slow in choosing either physicians or medicine until they know of cases in which they have proven successful.

In calling your attention to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills it is only necessary to point to their success in the past for they are known in nearly every home.

By means of their direct and specific action on the liver — causing a healthful flow of bile—they regulate and enliven the action of the bowels and ensure good digestion in the intestines. At the same time they stimulate the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

This cleansing process set in action by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, means a thorough cure of biliousness, intestinal indigestion, torpid liver, kidney derangements and constipation.

It means a restoration of health, strength and comfort where there has been pain, weakness and suffering. It means a removal of the conditions which lead to backache, rheumatism, lumbago, Bright's disease, appendicitis and diabetes.

Mrs. H. Trollope, 350 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I have used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them an excellent medicine. I had very severe pains across the back, which came from my kidneys being out of order, and after using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for a time I began to feel a wonderful improvement in my health.

"I have no more pains in my back now and am feeling as well as ever I did. Consequently I am glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

The Labour Conditions IN PETERBOROUGH Are Very Satisfactory

Local Correspondent Reports to the Labour Gazette—All Classes of Labour are Well Employed—Industrial Activity Noted in All Lines—Labour Market is Free from Unrest—The Prospects for the Future are Bright.

Ald. W. J. Johnston, the Peterborough correspondent to the Labour Gazette, reports as follows:—

"August has seen no abatement in industrial activity. All classes of labour have been exceptionally busy, and from present indications the demand will be active until the cold weather sets in.

The rapid development of the Peterborough Cereal Company has called for larger buildings and the company have plans out for a large 70,000 bushel elevator. If the business continues to increase as it has done since its beginning the company will be forced to double its capacity.

The corporation authorities were putting down concrete walks in all parts of the city, employing a large gang of men. Several large sewer contracts were also under way, and building operations of all kinds were very active. Factories and lumber and hardware dealers were in consequence very busy. The new opera house was being rapidly pushed forward, the contractor having a large number of bricklayers putting up the walls. Four hundred barrels of cement are being used in connection with works on Trent canal and other points along the route of the Otonabee river. Banks were all doing a good business. Wholesale and retail trade was prosperous, the merchants daily receiving fall goods.

The city tax collector reported that on August 1, nearly 70 per cent. of the taxes had been paid, this being a better financial report than in any previous year, showing that the people are in a good position to meet their financial obligations.

The labour market was free from unrest.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—August has been a month of activity among farmers. The hay and grain harvest came on quickly and a shortage of farm help has been felt. The harvest in this district was exceptionally good.

Lumbering.—Conditions continued active, the several saw mills cutting logs which have been floated to their mills from camps on the back waters of the northern country.

Manufacturing.—Conditions in all lines were very active. The Wm. Hamilton Company, manufacturers of saw-mill machinery, engines, water wheels, etc., were very busy, and had a full staff of men running full time. The G. W. Green Company was exceptionally busy. It is the intention of this company to manufacture all kinds of machinery in connection with pumps, tanks and windmills; a new set of machinery was being installed for the extension of the works. The several canoe and pianing factories were extensively employed on local and export trade. The George Matthews Company has been receiving large shipments of live hogs, as many as 1,400 in one day and 3,600 in one week being received at the local pork packing house. The Turnbull Company has had a department added to its dry goods store, which will employ an extra number of hands. The Robert Fair Company has also made extensive changes in its store. The Imperial Pulp and Paper Company, of Sturgeon Falls, which manufactures several tons of paper daily, is adding to its plant the manufacture of pulp from different kinds of wood. About 1,000 men to go into the woods are required by the company.

Condition of Particular Trades.

Building Trades.—Bricklayers, masons, carpenters, joiners, lathers, plasterers, painters, plumbers, and builders' labourers were very active. Gas and steam-fitters and stonecutters were fairly busy.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades.—Iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, machinists, engineers, steam engineers, electrical workers, linemen, metal and brass workers and sheet metal workers were very busy. Blacksmiths, boilermakers, tool sharpeners, horseshoers and jewellers were fairly well employed. Shipworkers and plumbers-workers were slack.

Woodworking and Furnishing Trades.—Woodworkers, upholsterers, varnishers and polishers, carriage and wagon makers, pattern makers and coopers were busy. Car builders and gilders were not active.

Printing and Allied Trades.—All have been well employed.

Clothing Trades.—Journeymen tailors, garment workers and boot and shoe workers were active. Hat makers were somewhat slack.

Food and Tobacco Preparation.—Bakers, confectioners, butchers, meat cutters and laemen were very active. Cigarmakers were fairly well employed.

Leather Trades.—Conditions were fair.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers and broommakers were well employed. Clerks, stenographers and ferriers were slack. Hotel and restaurant employees and laundry workers were very active.

Transport.—Railroad workers of all classes have been well employed owing to the heavy tourist traffic. Steamboatmen also were busy. The hauling of grain by water has just commenced, and this will maintain activity. Street railway employees were very active. Cab drivers, carters, etc., were fairly busy, and teamsters and expressmen were well employed.

Unskilled Labour.—Unskilled labour was active.

District Notes.

Over 500 steamboats have passed through the lift lock up to date this season, 80 of them during August, bringing in wood and live stock from the several parts of the district along the canal.

The highest price paid for cheese was given this month for August cheese, it having gone up to 11 9-16 cents per pound. Over 5,000 boxes were sold. Dairying and stock-raising is being engaged in by a great many farmers throughout the district. Harvesting has been in progress throughout the country. All crops were reported good.

Plums, per quart	$ 04
Apples, per bag	25
Potatoes, per bag	1 00
Eggs, per dozen	16
Butter, per lb.	23c to 24
Chickens, per pair	60c to 80

Morrow of a donation of $35.85 to the funds of the Society by the Stony Lake Cottagers Association. Bicycle Smashed in Collision

An accident which resulted disastrously to a bicycle, but from which the owner, Mr. Smith, miraculously escaped, happened Monday afternoon on George street, near the Geo. Matthews Company's buildings. The cyclist, who was wheeling at a rapid rate from the Wolfe street wharf, was unfortunate enough in reaching George street coincident with a vehicle driven by Mr. Sidney Bennett, of Otonabee, who was proceeding into the city. Mr. Smith was unable to check, in time, the speed at which he was travelling with the result that he crashed into the rig and became entangled among the horses' feet. The bicycle was completely destroyed, but the rider emerged from the collision with but a few abrasions although two of the wheels passed over his body. The experience was such, however, that he is not longing for a repetition of the occurrence.

In The Good Days of Old

The Toronto News goes back on the question of the school boys' "strike" in Peterborough, and says:

Now doth the modern kid at school
Express his condemnation
Of carelessness in plumbing, and Improper sanitation.
He knows the shape of every germ
Which causes a disease,
And in a glass of water he
The micrococci sees.

In days of old when we were boys,
We didn't care a cuss
If all the microbes in the list
Should crawl all over us.
We didn't mind a fearsome smell,
We didn't even wait
To think of sanitation when
We spat upon a slate.

We didn't wash before we ate
Our tied-up noonday meal,
We never thought to disinfect
The apples we could steal.
When thirsty to the creek we went
And leaning o'er the brink
We cleared the verdant slime away
That we might take a drink.

ALL IT NEEDED

There is more real oxygen in a liquified form in the "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" than in any other preparation of a similar nature. As a prompt cure in the killing of all inside germs of thirst, lungs, stomach or bowels, it has no equal when coupled with "Celery King" the famous laxative. That the stringent Ozone needed a tonic of this nature to procure the best results was so apparent that the Public Drug Co., of Bridgeburg, Ont., offer through your druggist a free package of "Celery King" with every fifty cent or one dollar bottle of "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind." Sold by W. B. WARNE.

—that its grates are easily taken out and replaced without expense,

—that you can cook on the top and bake in the oven equally well at the same time,

—that it is the only range with a single piece enamelled steel reservoir,

—that it has the best broiling door,

—that it has an absolutely reliable thermometer,

—that it is most economical, because it does its work with least coal.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

The Government, and the Minister of Railways, have been rather roundly denounced, for not making the Intercolonial pay dividends. Hon. Mr. Emmerson, on Tuesday night, at the Board of Trade banquet, very satisfactorily showed cause. He pointed out that the Intercolonial was doing more good as a band of steel tending to unify the Maritime Provinces with the rest of Canada, and in promoting interprovincial trade and general prosperity, than if it were paying dividends, which it was largely prevented from doing by the fact that the freight charges of the National Railway were lower than those made by other great railway lines. Another factor, which Mr. Emmerson did not mention, in preventing profits, is the fact that the employees of the Intercolonial are paid good wages. The Fredericton, N. B., Herald, says it is satisfactory to know that in any readjustment that is to follow, neither the character of the road as a thoroughly equipped and maintained railway, nor the interests of the men employed on it, are to suffer. In former years I. C. R. employees, especially the labouring men, were kept at starvation wages, but Mr. Emmerson has increased their pay until now they are enjoying a living wage.

NARROW REASONING.

Bystander—Prof. Goldwin Smith—thus in the Farmers' Sun:—

There is no use in trying to divert public opinion into a false issue. The question is not as to the claim of members of Parliament to an increase of their indemnity on account of the length of the sessions. That might be a fair subject for consideration in the case of the members of the House of Commons, though hardly in the case of members of the Senate. But the real question is very different from this, and far more serious. Was the exception of increased salary allowed to influence the action of members on the Autonomy bills? There is positive evidence that expectation of the increase of salaries was set afloat at Ottawa at a critical moment two months before the passing of the bills. The Government kept its decision in reserve till the bills had passed, and then, without notice to the country, or opportunity given for public discussion, slipped through Parliament legislation involving a large and manifestly debatable expenditure of public money. The weakness of the opposition to the Autonomy bills was a matter of general comment. The salary strangely bestowed on the leader of the Opposition under pretence of developing the constitution was a remarkable feature in the transaction. It is not merely of an increase of salaries on the ground of the length of sessions, but of the circumstances under which, and the manner in which, the thing was done, that the Prime Minister must feel that an explanation is due to the country, and to his own reputation.

Does not Professor Goldwin Smith "feel that an explanation is due to the country and his own reputation." With a narrowness of view which one would not expect of him, he takes the extraordinary position that the country has elected a parliament capable of being bribed to outrage the honest conviction of the members composing it by the acceptance of a bribe on their own. Bystander credits the members with uncommon credulity and confidence. They sold themselves, according to his reasoning, and were willing to wait for payment for their perfidity till after the crime had been committed. A Premier who would be base enough to propose such an iniquitous bargain would be base enough to evade payment of the promised bribe. Bystander's reasoning constitutes a post-hoc-propter-hoc sort of argument which could be employed to hang a man without any other evidence. But when a man gets the bee of sectarian rancour in his bonnet he is not to be held to rational accountability no matter how absurd his theories may become.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

During the South African war, Europeans, and especially Germany, were inclined to amuse themselves mightily over the difficulties Great Britain experienced in combatting the brave Boers. Now, they are themselves beginning to know, from sad experience, how difficult it is to wage a successful campaign against even heathen natives, who have not one-tenth of the resources of offensive and defensive warfare possessed by the shrewd, brave and sharp-shooting Boers. The German reverses in Damaraland, Africa, where skilled and seasoned German troops, armed with the best firearms are worsted by half-naked savages, armed with crude weapons, should operate as eye-openers to the people who so bumptiously sneered at British want of military success in South Africa.

Lawson, of "Frenzied Finance" fame, denounces "blackmail and revenge" journalism. We haven't much of that kind of journalism in Canada, but we have one or two specimens — hardly enough to form a class. There is a certain Toronto print which is not unaddicted to taking a little of the blackmail variety of revenge. If it cannot get a hold-up price for printing certain reports of a corporation, it forthwith proceeds to attack the head of it, say, a prominent public man, not unknown in Peterborough, in both text and cartoon, and holding him up to the ridicule of its readers, as the embodiment of the tyranny of corporations. Because the journal itself could not hold up the institution for a fancy price, it holds up its president to scorn and invective. Fortunately Canadian journalism cannot furnish many such samples — perhaps, the Toronto kind, and another.

Hubbard's Sleigh Was Given to Toronto College

As a memento of the eclipse expedition, Prof. De Lury has brought back from Labrador a somewhat pathetic relic of the Wallace-Hubbard expedition, in which the explorer Hubbard lost his life.

While visiting at the Hudson's Bay Company's fort on the Northwest River, Mr. De Lury had a long conversation with the factor who is an old Upper Canada College boy.

"This," said the factor, pointing to a dog-sled, "is the sleigh on which Hubbard's body was brought out here to the fort." Mr. De Lury was interested.

"I'll give you that," said the factor, thinking the Professor would value such a memento.

"Thanks!" said Mr. De Lury. "I'll take it, on condition that it be given to Upper Canada College. It might help some of those boys to get a more realistic insight into the meaning of some of the books on the North they have been reading."

The sleigh was shipped to Toronto, and, according to request, will be placed in Upper Canada College.

The Local Officers Were Vigilant

Fair Grounds Fakir Fined Yesterday Did Not Escape P. C. Stewart.

Though He Was Allowed to Operate Upon the Preceding Day by Provincial Officer.

As was reported in yesterday's Examiner a man named Gagnon was arrested at the exhibition, and fined at a special session of the Police Court $60 and costs for conducting an illegal game of chance.

The arrest was made by P. C. Stewart who was on duty at the grounds in plain clothes and followed upon a careful scouting of the modus operandi of fakirs. The latter were conducting a brisk business in a cab, selling packages of medicine at $1 each. As a slight inducement to purchase, the medicine vendor professed to enclose with each package a $1.00 bank note. But alas! In many cases the vendor neglected to enclose the promised lucre; and many expectant purchasers went home with nothing in their possession except the package of concentrated health.

After silently observing the operations for a time, Constable Stewart made the arrest, after an attempted "jollying" on the part of the "Doctor", who evidently was under the impression that he had secured a subject, with inclinations in the way of cornering the gold-brick market. The prisoner was taken in charge by special constable Dundas, and landed in the cells.

The vigilance of the local officers in the matter is highly commendable, and the net proceeds of their work $42.00 (the amount of the fine, including costs) should go to swell the coffers of the city, and this will be insisted upon by the local officers.

Provincial Detective Jarvis, of Toronto, who has been working upon the grounds since the opening of the Exhibition, alleges that the men were under surveillance by him on the preceding day, yet they were allowed to operate without molestation till the local authorities took action, and any claim on the part of outsiders towards securing the amount of the fine should not be recognised.

IS YOUR COAT DUSTY?

You Probably Have the White Scab of Dandruff on It.

If your coat or shoulders have a white dust upon it the chances are that it is from dandruff. The only way to permanently cure dandruff is to remove the cause, which is a germ. Every toilet table should have such a hair dressing, which contains also the destroyer of the dandruff and hair-falling germ. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. Remember that something claimed to be "just as good," will not do the work of the genuine Herpicide.

Physical Work at Y.M.C.A. Will Open Tuesday

Mr. E. E. Lord Will Have Charge of Senior Classes

Policy is to Make Gymnasium Classes More Popular Than Ever.

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes for men will open for the season on Tuesday, October 3, and continue throughout the season on Tuesday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock.

The directors of the Association have secured the services of Mr. E. E. Lord, who will have charge of the senior classes with the assistance of the physical committee and a staff of capable leaders. Mr. Lord has had some ten or twelve years' experience in physical classes in Peterborough and elsewhere, knowing the work thoroughly, and a clever gymnast as well.

Two years ago Mr. Lord had charge of the mid-week gym. class, which was a good success and proved to be conducted on lines much enjoyed by the men in it.

The policy of the Association this year is to make the gym. classes more popular than ever, giving a larger place to recreation, instead of the hard physical work and exercises.

The argument is that men who stand beside machines or work hard at other things are ready for recreation rather than another half-day's work.

Basketball will be encouraged to a greater degree than formerly, and more latitude given in the interpretation of the rules, making the game more enjoyable for both spectators and players, and at the same time freeing it from rough play. A league will be formed. Group games, wrestling, etc., will be promoted, and a fencing class will be instructed by Sgt.-Maj. Brittain, whose ability as an instructon is well known.

Wednesday nights and Saturday afternoons and evenings will be reserved for individual recreation. The mornings and up to 4 o'clock each day will also be open.

Dr. M. McClellan will conduct a class in "first aid to the injured," which is scheduled with the regular educational classes.

Mr. G. H. Roper, assistant secretary, has taken charge of the classes for employed boys and school boys and is proving a wise and capable director. There is still room in these classes for new members.

The baths are closely associated with the gymnasium classes, and the facilities are unsurpassed in any city of this size. They include a needle, three shower baths, and a tub bath, besides the swimming bath, which is always kept at an agreeable temperature.

There is always a good supply of hot and cold water, as the hundreds of men and boys who use these privileges every week will readily acknowledge.

There is every indication that the gym. classes this year will be larger than ever before. This should be the case, because with so splendid a plant and low fees of membership. Almost every man in town should be in it.

Now is the time to join the Association. New members and old members should fall in line and be in at the start.

FIFTY YEARS A MINISTER.

A notable epoch in the life of Rev. William Bennet is his arrival at the jubilee year of his service in the gospel ministry, and it is also an occasion of cordial congratulations. It is given to few men to be spared to fulfill the exalted duties of the Christian ministry for a continuous stretch of fifty years. Rev. Mr. Bennet has done this, and still finds, after such a lengthened period of service, the will and strength to employ himself in doing good in many ways associated with his sacred calling. During twenty-seven years of his half century of ministry, Rev. Mr. Bennet has been clerk of the Presbytery of Peterborough, and the cordial testimony to the fidelity and value of his services in that capacity, given by the Presbytery, on the occasion of his resignation of the office, and the hearty tribute to his character as a faithful minister of the gospel, constitute a testimonial worthy of being cherished as one of the most pleasing souvenirs of a half century of ministry. A further evidence of appreciation by his brother ministers is furnished by the fact that in the latter eighties he was elected to the responsible position of Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston. Rev. Mr. Bennet has been a resident of Peterborough for the past ten or eleven years, and he has filled the duties of citizenship, from the highest point of regard, in such a manner as to win the general esteem, and to justify the public generally in joining in the congratulations which the occasion of his jubilee naturally evoke, and in the general wish for many happy years of life.

The Sweet Chimes of Normandy

If Planquette could have got away from whereever he is now, and had witnessed the Chimes of Normandy as presented at the opera house last night, he would not have recognised his creation. He would have doubtless recognised his beautiful and tuneful music in the choruses, but he would doubtless have violently repudiated the horse-play that was gagged into what is a beautiful operatic working of the higher character. Some of the choruses were splendidly sung. Much of the acting was good, and the costumes correct, but the low comedy element was too conspicuous and some of it too risky to be agreeable in a mixed audience. The company is capable of producing excellent comic opera.

Tongue Fell And Accident Was The Result

Mr. John Strain, Driver for Meldrums', Seriously Injured.

His Collar Bone Was Broken—Cause of the Accident.

An accident attended by somewhat serious consequences occurred at noon to-day at the corner of Water and McDonel streets. Mr. John Strain, who lives at 70 Robinson street, and who is employed as a driver for W. H. Meldrum's flour mill, was coming west on McDonel street, east of Water, and the tongue dropped out of the whiffletree, frightening the horses, which ran away.

Their run was short lived, for at the corner of Water and McDonel streets the wagon struck an obstruction, and the driver was thrown violently to the ground, striking the granolithic walk as he fell, and sustaining serious injuries.

The wagon was considerably damaged, but the horses were uninjured. Dr. Burnham, near whose residence the accident occurred, was called to render assistance to the injured man, and it was found that his collarbone was broken and that he had sustained other injuries. The ambulance was summoned, and he was conveyed to his home.

It is not anticipated that the injuries will be of a more than temporarily serious character.

The Festival Concluded Last Night

Salvation Army Special Effort Highly Successful.

$320.50 Was Contributed—An Enjoyable Evening Spent Last Night.

Last night the concluding services in connection with the harvest festival of the Salvation Army was held, and the result of the special effort incidental to the festival was announced. It was a highly satisfactory result, too, and the local officers are well pleased with the amount realized.

The "target" arrived at by the officers as a thank offering was $300, and this sum has been exceeded by about $20, the total amount raised being $320.50, divided as follows: Band Brigade $58.40, Junior Brigade $169.10, Senior Brigade $93. The Junior Brigade made by far the best showing. Their "target" was $75 and they more than doubled it.

The gathering last night was an enthusiastic one, and great interest was manifested in the announcement of the different sums raised.

The amount thus contributed will be expended partly in the purchase of winter supplies for the local barracks, and partly for the assistance of poor corps, corps which are not so favourably situated as the Peterborough corps. The amount raised this year is considerably in excess of that of any previous year, and the officers in charge are highly pleased with the result.

Ensign Bloss, of Toronto, travelling special, conducted the meeting last night, and Capt. Hurd, of Omemee, was also present. Both these officers sang solos, which pleased the audience.

The balance of the goods still remaining unsold from Monday night was disposed of by sale last night.

A short programme was rendered, and at its conclusion an enjoyable social hour was spent, after which the meeting was brought to a close in the usual way. The local officers are greatly pleased with the result of the festival this year, and feel that the corps has done remarkably well.

Sermons Were Enjoyed.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday referred to the sermons preached in that town on Sunday by Rev. F. J. Scott as follows: Rev. Freeman J. Scott, B.A., of Murray street Baptist church, Peterborough, and Rev. G. R. Welsh, of Cambridge street Baptist church, Lindsay, exchanged pulpits yesterday. Rev. Mr. Scott delivered two very interesting sermons, which were listened to by good-sized congregations. He is a promising preacher, and very able in his sayings. Lindsay Baptists will be glad to welcome him again.

IN the Imperial Oxford we have not only given to the women of Canada the most perfect baking and roasting range but we have also produced the most economical.

The oven of the ordinary range is raised to a baking temperature by the direct heat of the fire on the side of the oven. To keep that oven at a sufficiently high temperature to bake or roast by, you must be continually poking the fire and adding fuel to it.

As the oven of the Imperial Oxford Range is heated by our patented Diffusive Flue, the temperature of the oven remains steady until the baking is done, without the necessity of touching or adding fuel to the fire.

This fact is easily demonstrated. If, when an Imperial Oxford is going, you were to stop the inlet of this flue in the bottom of the range you would find by the thermometer that the oven was getting colder, and that to keep it at a baking temperature you would have to keep poking the fire and adding more coal just as with an ordinary range.

If your dealer doesn't handle the Imperial Oxford, write to us for catalogue and information as to where you can see it. 20

Tie In The Bridgenorth Quaker Game

Score Was 1-1 in Contest For R. R. Hall Cup.

This football match yesterday afternoon at the Exhibition for the R. R. Hall Cup, emblematic of the County Championship, resulted in a tie, the score standing at the conclusion, Quakers 1, Bridgenorth 1. The Cup as will be remembered by many who carried off last year by the team from the northern village, and was challenged for this year by the Porridge aggregation. Under the conditions attached to the presentation of the cup, in order to retain permanent possession of it, it is necessary to win it twice. As a result of the game some doubt, it appears, still exists as to the holders for the coming year, and the matter will be referred to the donator for his decision.

The game yesterday was a clean and interesting exhibition particularly in the latter half, when some very fast ball was played. The Quaker line-up remained practically unchanged from that of their recent games, and their work, it may be said, shows a decided improvement in many respects. The Bridgenorth team is undoubtedly one of the fastest in the District and were yesterday in splendid form their team play being fast. In view of their performance yesterday, it remains incomprehensible why they did not place a team this year in the Midland League.

The game during its early stages went favourably to the local team, but in the latter half the play was decidedly even. The checking was close though by no means rough and not a single ungentlemanly play was seen during the game.

Neither goal keeper was forced to any very strenuous exertions though for the Quakers Sullivan handled nearly everything in a cool and "ready" manner. Main and Doris were strong and effective in their style of play, relieving well and placing their kicks with judgment and accuracy. Donaldson, Graham and Moore played their positions well, and did not allow very much that was dangerous to get past them. On the forward line Todd and Crough did effective work on left wing. Huston at centre, was, as usual, always in his position, and his work, both individually and in combination, assisted greatly in many rushes. Brooks and Guerin exhibited some very fast work in combination. The forward line made some of the fastest combination rushes seen this season, and frequently advanced the sphere in this manner up to their opponents territory but the vigilance of the opposing defence on many occasions rendered well-conceived efforts abortive.

Forsythe, in the goal for the Bridgenorth team, was very much in the way at all stages of the game and stopped a number of difficult shots. Cundal, of Lakehurst, and C. Forsythe, defended effectively. In the half division Coon and Cullen, who figured prominently with the locals in their games in the early season, did some of the work which assisted in winning laurels at that time. Brunwell also played a steady and effective game. The forwards made many combination efforts which were interesting to watch. Kelly and Jopling at right were fast and accurate in their passing. Cullen did excellent work in centre, and Kelly and McDougall on left wing were a source of strength.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Goal.
J Forsythe	Sullivan
Backs.
Cundal	Main
C. Forsythe	Doris
Half Backs.
Brunwell	Donaldson
Coon	Graham
Cullen	Moore
Forwards.
D. Kelly	Brooks
F. Jopling	Guerin
J. Cullen	Huston
F. Kelly	Todd
McDougall	Crough

Referee—E. F. Choate.

The Quakers pressed hard upon the start and kept the ball for the larger part of the time well below the half line. When the Bridgenorth team became fully alive to the necessities of the situation they began to carry the scene of operations to the other end. Play became after the first ten minutes who largely confined to centre field, and little advantage to either team was apparent. The first and only goal for the Quakers was secured by Todd a short time before the conclusion of the first half. The goal was poked through from a scrimmage resulting from a well-placed corner kick. In the second half the Northerners' efforts were crowned by a score—equalizing matters. The flags were found by Kelly at the conclusion of one of the fastest rushes of the day. The remainder of the game, though interesting, was unproductive of results. Huston sustained a rather painful injury to his foot during the half, but gamely continued in the game till the finish, in spite of his game foot.

Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company.

Under the competent superintendence of Mr. Torrance Jack, sales manager, the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company put up an exceedingly interesting and instructive exhibit in the main building. It was "just a little better than the best," as the company say about their twine. Mr. W. H. Irwin, the mascot for their exhibits, was in charge, and never failed in sounding the praises of his company. The exhibit was built up in the form of a house. The roof was thatched with the flax and other raw product, while sentinels stood round on the eaves with sheafs of grain under their arms. The four pillars which supported the roof were formed of bales of binder twine and rope in symetrical proportions. Inside were shown bales of sisal, the raw product as it is shipped from the Philippine Islands and elsewhere. There were also shown interesting samples of the manufactured goods—such as oil well, sand well and cable rope, and lath shingle yarn, twine and cord. The whole scheme was well designed and arranged, and equally as well carried out.

Under the careful management of the officers of this company the business has prospered and increased very fast. This year's output, especially, has proven to be of the most gratifying character—far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of the president and his shrewd and energetic sales manager. Thousands of the farmers who attended the Fair were specially attracted to this exhibit because of the fact that they had used the Canadian Cordage Company's Twine, "made in Peterborough." They were able to speak complimentary words of the special brand with the registered trade mark that had so successfully carried them through their harvest.

The company employ over two hundred hands, and is in active operation through the year, thereby distributing in wages in Peterborough between $50,000 and $60,000 annually, largely contributing to the present prosperous condition of the town and county.

The president and directors are to be congratulated upon the fact that this company has become so successful, and it is an industry creditable to any city in Canada.

The Laval Cream Separator.

Most farmers know that the De Laval was the first practical cream separator, being the invention of Dr. Gustaf de Laval, of Stockholm, Sweden. This was in 1879.

There are now more than 600,000 De Laval machines in use, scattered all over the world and in every country where milk is known. Over 100,000 were sold last year alone. They are made in twenty sizes, ranging from 150 to 1,000 pounds per hour in capacity, and from $50 to $800 in price, and in styles meeting all conditions of use. This speaks volumes for the De Laval.

Almost as important as the invention of the cream separator itself, was the addition of the so-called "Alpha-Disc" improvement, placing a system of closely-fitting cones or discs in the separating bowl, between which the milk is forced in thin layers in the process of separation. This invention not only makes complete separation possible, but gives much greater capacity to any size of bowl with much less speed and far wider range of temperature and other separating conditions. Within a few years the "Alpha-Disc" system has been still further greatly improved by the "Split-Wing" shaft invention, enabling more complete distribution of the milk in the separating bowl.

Mr. W. L. Taylor, the well-known agricultural implement dealer, doing business at 366 Water street, is the local agent for the De Laval. He was assisted by the district agent, Mr. A. Vermilyea, in an exhibition of these superior machines, in a large tent near the main building. Judging from the number of visitors to this exhibit it was evident that the De Laval was still a favourite with farmers and dairymen.

Mr. Taylor also made a display of high-class harness, of which he always keeps a large stock on sale in his warerooms. He also exhibited a walking plough and two riding ploughs, which attracted the farmers' attention. Mr. Taylor is the agent for the "New Home" drop-head Sewing Machine, possessing some excellent features, which ladies should know all about.

Felix Doyle Is Guilty Of Murder

Jury At Brantford Says He Murdered His Mother.

MERCY NOT RECOMMENDED

Glanced at the Jury, Then at the Judge, and Finally Dropped His Eyes, In Which Attitude He Remained Until the Fateful Word Was Spoken — Judge Anglin Reserves Sentence.

Brantford, Sept. 28.—After being in deliberation for about an hour the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the Doyle murder case. There was no recommendation for mercy.

The prisoner took the verdict in his usual nervous manner. When the jury entered the room he glanced at the jury, then at the judge and finally his eyes dropped. In this attitude he remained while the fateful words were uttered.

Occasionally a nervous twitch would go over his face, but the verdict was received without any outward display of emotion. He seemed relieved when taken from the box.

Justice Anglin reserved sentence.

Joe Bennett's Trial On.

Immediately at the conclusion of the Doyle case, the court proceeded with the trial of Joe Bennett, charged with the brutal murder of Betsy Jacobs.

Bennett entered a plea of "not guilty." Crown Prosecutor Brewster in outlining the case, said that while the evidence was entirely circumstantial, he thought that a sufficient and conclusive amount could be brought forward to lay the guilt on Bennett.

The defence will make every effort to prove an alibi. Many witnesses from the reserve will be brought forward to substantiate this claim.

Much evidence was heard yesterday, Bennett's movements being clearly traced up till one o'clock on the morning of the tragedy. One witness, Mary Elliott, testified to having seen the prisoner at three o'clock in the morning, but her cross-examination was not begun at the hour of adjournment.

No new evidence of a startling nature was given yesterday.

Taverinti Held For Marlow's Death.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Four of the Italian prisoners whose fight ended in the death of Curly Marlow at Mimico on Friday last told the coroner's jury at Nurse's Hotel last night that it was Dominic Taverinti who stabbed Marlow. Bruno had also been fighting with Marlow. As a result of the evidence the jury decided that Taverinti had done the deed, that Bruno was an accessory, and that the Windsor Hotel at Mimico was not a proper place for the sale of liquor.

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 28.—Frederick Merker, employed as a shipping clerk by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing $250,000 worth of machine parts from the company. He was held without bail for trial.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT

you feel the good that's done by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cleanses, regulates and invigorates Stomach, Liver and Bowels and so purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other exhausting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from foul or Weak Stomach, a torpid Liver or impure Blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Don't be hypnotised, wheedled, or over persuaded into accepting a substitute only that some selfish medicine seller may make a greater profit on the inferior article. The "Discovery" has a great record of nearly forty years with thousands of cures behind it.

Dear Sir—Several years ago my blood became impoverished and I became run down in health. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and was practically unfitted for work. Suffered from innumerable boils and was in bad shape. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery relieved me of my wretched condition. The medicine built up my system and restored me to a normal condition of health. I can speak most highly also, of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has been used in my family for years in cases of female trouble.

A Very Serious Clash Reported In Hungary

OVER 40 PERSONS WOUNDED

Knives, Sticks and Stones Were Used In the Melee — Police Assisted by Citizens In Quelling the Riot—Feeling Is Increasing Against the Dynasty—Revolutionary Cries Were Heard at Times.

Buda-Pesth, Sept. 28.—Between 40 and 50 persons were injured in riots here last night when Socialists and adherents of the coalition parties, including students, clashed opposite the Royal Hotel and for two hours there were scene of wild tremendous excitement. The Royal Hotel is the headquarters of the Independence Club, in which is the council-room of the coalition leaders.

The students and other supporters of the coalition had arranged for a gigantic torch light procession last night, but during the day Socialists issued inflammatory proclamations calling on all Socialists and others opposed to the coalition to gather and fight for their rights, which they said the coalition was trying to sidetrack under cover of an alleged affront by the King-Emperor to the whole nation. Owing to these proclamations the coalition leaders decided to postpone the torch-light procession, seeking thus to avoid bloodshed.

At 8 o'clock about 1,500 Socialists gathered outside the Independence Club and announced their intention of entering and tearing down the council-room. A large force of police was present and were assisted by 150 leading citizens. The mob made an effort to enter, but was vigorously opposed by the police.

Several Persons Stabbed.

A fight ensued and amid the wildest clamor several persons were stabbed; but the Socialists were finally scattered. Fifteen minutes later, however, the Socialists again gathered. By this time many adherents of the coalition appeared and a free fight ensured. A dense mass of humanity, surged in every direction, shouting and singing the Marseillaise and other songs. Knives, sticks and stones were used vigorously.

It is reported that over forty persons were wounded, eight of them seriously. Scattered fights continued and Socialists marched to a building in which is published a coalition newspaper, where they broke the windows and attempted to gain an entrance. The mob was held back by the police, while the printers and editors threw furniture from the windows on the heads of the crowd. Here, too, several persons received wounds. Finally quiet was restored.

The general situation certainly has grown worse, while the feeling through Hungary against the dynasty is increasing. It is stated that the Emperor has issued orders that in the event of disturbances harsh measures must be avoided if possible. Revolutionary cries are frequently heard.

A Tragedy Follows Close Upon Wedding

John Hauch Killed By Mysterious Bullet At Charivari.

SPORT THAT WAS DEADLY

Fatal Accident Occurred When Young Men Were Serenading at the Harbottle-Wagester Wedding On the 17th Concession of East Zorra—Victim's Own Revolver Was Not Discharged.

Stratford, Sept. 28.—John Hauch, a young man 21 or 22 years of age, met death Tuesday night at a charivari on the 17th line of East Zorra.

In the afternoon Miss Lavina Wagester was married to Charles Harbottle of Bay City, Mich., at her mother's house on that concession. In the evening, about 9 o'clock, a number of young men congregated to charivari the newly-married couple, who, it appears, remained at the place of the marriage over night.

Shortly after the gathering, Hauch fell dead as the result of being struck by a revolver or rifle bullet. Dr. Steele of Tavistock was sent for and found that the bullet had entered the young man's body near the heart. As there was a wound on the arm it was the doctor's opinion that the bullet had first struck Hauch's arm and glanced therefrom, entering the body and causing death.

Bullet's Genesis a Mystery.

Whence the bullet came is a mystery, though it will probably be explained at a coroner's inquest, which is likely to be held, Coroner Hotson of Innerkip and County Crown Attorney Ball of Woodstock having been notified.

All the young men who were present at the charivari deny that they discharged any firearms, though two or three shots were heard, and it was thought that Hauch might have fired off an old-fashioned revolver, which he carried, and accidentally shot himself.

This theory, however, is disproven by the fact that the revolver was found in his pocket with all the barrels loaded; one report says with blank cartridges.

Hauch was a farm hand employed at Mrs. Chris Bender's, close to the scene of the tragedy. His parents live near Petersburg, in Waterloo County, some distance east of where he met his death.

He is spoken of as an inoffensive young man and generally held in high respect. The place where the tragedy took place is four or five miles southeast of Tavistock and some ten or twelve miles from Stratford.

Thrown From Rig and Killed.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—Yesterday morning, while returning to St. Isidore from a wedding party at St. Constante, in Laprairie County, with her husband, Mrs. Anabel Demers, a lady over 60 years of age, was pitched out of her carriage and broke her neck.

Free Press Man Hurt.

Barnia, Sept. 28.—W. H. Rennie, representative of The London Free Press, had his hip and shin injured yesterday at the fair grounds. He was jumping over a wagon-tongue when his heel caught and he was thrown on his back. He is at the General Hospital in a serious condition. Rennie has a cousin in Toronto.

Girl Sleeps on Revolver.

Got Bullet Through Neck.

Boissevain, Man., Sept. 28.—While duck shooting here, R. Grimmett was seriously injured by a companion. A bullet from a 22-rifle struck him in the neck and passed out above the ear. He fell in the water but was rescued. He may recover.

Five Burned to Death.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Sept. 28.—Five children were burned to death while asleep by a fire which destroyed the Anderson home early yesterday. The fire was caused by a gasoline explosion.

Durango, Col., Sept. 28.—A Rio Grande passenger train left the track at a curve near Glenco and was overturned. All the passengers were injured.

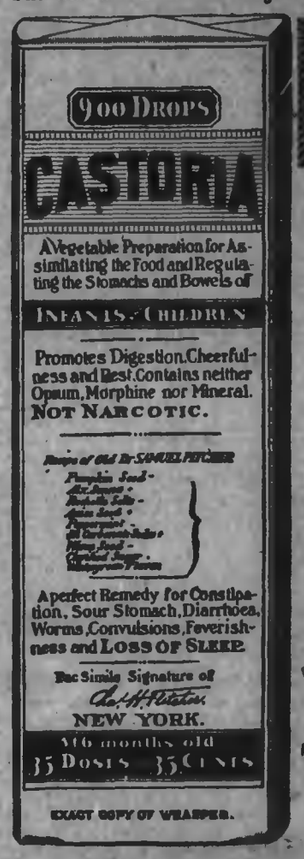
The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed conterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.



CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What Is CASTORIA

and Joe Allen. Miss Paisley won the race in three straight heats, but had very little on the second horse as she had to go all the way in every heat for the money.

Class "C"—Art Heart.—In the first heat the horses got away to a good start, Joe Allen pulled to the front with Miss Paisley in second place and Minnie Bell 3rd. This position was maintained until the last round when at the three-quarter stretch Joe Allen broke and Miss Paisley went to the front, finishing under the wire with half a length to the good, Joe Allen and Minnie Bell making a hot race for 2nd place, the former winning by about a foot.

Second Heat.—Starter Wm. Leahy of Lakefield had a little trouble in getting the three horses together, but finally got them away to a good start. Minnie Bell pulled to the front at the first turn, Miss Paisley and Joe Allen following up close; Minnie Bell went off her feet at the three-quarter mark, and Miss Paisley jumped to the front and won out handily, Minnie Bell and Joe Allen making a pretty race for second place, Minnie Bell winning by a nose.

Third Heat.—All three started nose and nose; Minnie Bell stepped to the front and maintained this position for the first trip around, followed by Joe Allen and then Miss Paisley. At the last turn Miss Paisley was pressing both horses hard, passed them on the stretch, winning the heat and race, Minnie Bell being a close second and Joe Allen third.

Gentleman's Road Race.

The gentlemen's road race had three starters, M. Mitchell, Mitchell; McCollum Bros., Ambrosal, and I. Nattress, Idolph. This race was once around the track, best two in three heats. Idolph was an easy winner in both heats, with Mitchell second and Ambrosal third. The last named horse had not a very docile temper, and balked in both heats, but nevertheless, possesses abundance of speed, and to prove this, was driven round the course, beating the time Idolph made in the race by two seconds.

Saddle Horses in Harness.

Cavalry Performance.

The mounted ride by the Royal Canadian Dragoons was repeated yesterday afternoon and was a great treat to those who had the good fortune to witness it, and was well worth travelling many miles to see. They also gave an exhibition of wrestling on horseback, which was a very amusing feature. The men were divided into sections of fours and pitted against one another, each trying to dismount his opponent. The mimic war performance by two of the cavalry showed how well the horses are trained in warfare. At command, the horses lie down, while their riders hide behind them and shoot. The Royal Canadian Dragoons were certainly a great attraction for the exhibition.

Hurdle Jumping.

During the afternoon a hurdle-jumping contest was put on, although not called for by the programme. Three horses entered, Barabas, Adone, and Kildare. Barabas won first money, clearing the hurdle at five feet, with Kildare second at four feet six inches.

Automobile Race.

The automobile race had no entries, but Mr. F. McPherson gave an exhibition of speed, which was much enjoyed by all present.

The officials in charge of the races were: Starters, Wm. Leahy, Lakefield; Messrs. Fred. Peak and J. M. Brooks, judges.

To Messrs. J. M. Brooks, secretary, Alex. Elliott and R. J. Munro falls the credit for the high standard of the races and businesslike manner in which everything in connection therewith was carried on.

The Prize List.

The judges completed their work yesterday and the result has been uniformly satisfactory. Those who performed this work were: Horses—T. A. Crow, P. Farrell and J. C. Deitrich. Cattle—W. A. Dryden and N. J. Lefevre. Swine—W. G. Lavan. Sheep—Richard Mousy. Poultry—D. C. Traw. Dairy Products — G. A. Gillespie. Agricultural Products — J. M. Hurley, T. Harper, H. Kennedy. Horticulture—E. B. SPECIAL EXHIBITS

There were perhaps a larger number of special exhibits in the main building and throughout the Fair grounds than last year. These were, in most cases, effective demonstrations of the particular business or craft of the respective exhibitors, as well as pleasing features of interest to the sight-seeing visitor. The following are some of the exhibits worthy of attendall mention.

The Wonderful "Star" Heater.

So many of our citizens know about the wonderful heating power of the "Star" stoves, they will be pleased to see and inspect the large exhibition made by Mr. Cyrille Wilhelmy, of 411 George street. The exhibit is located in the made building, at the south entrance, next to the Gordage Company's exhibit. Several sizes of the "Star" heater were shown. Mr. Wilhelmy was particular to point out the difference between the "Star" and its imitators. He explained its best points thus:

The "Star" has no grate. It has a pipe at the back for the escape of gas. There is no danger of explosion. The interior is lined with the best quality of fire linings, and cemented. Steel cylinder or drum. All sizes are made with vertical stove pipe collar. It has a large swing feed door, which is superior to the drop door. It will burn 48 hours without requiring attention; and it is fully 45 per cent. more economical than other gratuless stoves. There are now over 20,000 in use. There are five sizes of the "Star," at the following range of prices: $11.20, $12, $15, $19, and 23.80.

Mr. Wilhelmy also made an interesting display in Aluminum goods in household utensils, which are highly praised for their durability and cleanliness.

National High Grade Cream Separator.

The popular separator is made in Canada by the Raymond Manufacturing Company, of Guelph. The local district agent here is Mr. Fred J. Doughty, an active and enthusiastic salesman. It is not surprising that one so familiar with the farming community of this county should have made the National such a popular seller. Mr. Doughty claims that previous to this year he had sold 175 of these machines in this county, and that he is confident that he will dispose of 100 more this season, having taken orders for 60 already. If buyers wish to be guided by the experience of others they can surely make no mistake with so many references to assist them. In a circular which is given out by Mr. Doughty, the names are given of over one hundred well-known farmers and dairymen who are using the National, in Smith, Douro, Otonabee, Asphodel, Monaghan, Seven, Dummer, Harvey, Ennismore, Burleigh and Emily.

Made by Canadian mechanics.

Easy to operate by a small boy or girl.

Only two places inside the skimming bowl to clean.

All bearings interchangeable.

Enamelled finish, not painted as others.

Low down to pour milk into when skimming.

No cast iron bearings.

All gearings stop when you cease turning the crank.

Because it will skim cold and warm milk equally well.

Samples of the National can always be seen at A. E. Hicks' store, Market Block, and at Mr. Fred Doughty's residence, No. 9 Westcott street.

Nordheimer Piano Exhibit.

Music at the Fair is one of the pleasing features which everyone, of whatever temperament, can take an interest in. Of course, we mean pianos—and a "Nordheimer" at that. Those interested in pianos will visit the Fair for the purpose of hearing the two magnificently toned upright instruments they will be well repaid. The Nordheimer Piano Exhibit was made in the most central portion of the main building, and was the cynosure of all eyes. Mr. Addison A. Pegg, the representative of the Messrs. Nordheimer, Limited, of Toronto, did himself credit, not only by his intelligent and courteous information, but by his skilful playing as well. His manipulation of the keyboard demonstrated the fine harmony and tone production of the instruments, and it was quite evident that the Nordheimer Company have the advantage of representatives possessing acknowledged musical ability, as well as energetic commercial bonses.

The instruments shown were beautiful types of their class. They were taken from the regular stock in the warerooms, and anyone can go and get the same style of instruments any day. One was shown in mahogany and another in walnut in the glass finish, which is now so much sought after. The long time, capital and research expended by the

His Memory Was Hazy in Some Respects

And Because Jeremiah Clary Forgot, This City Must Pay.

Lindsay Magistrate Wants to Make Peterborough Pay for Young Clary's Keep in Reformatory.

At the meeting of the Legal Committee last evening, an interesting, though not altogether pleasing, situation, developed, and it seems certain that before a solution of the matter is arrived at the city will have been put to considerable expense.

Because Jeremiah Clary has a hazy idea of the chronological order of certain events in his past history, the city has to go to the expense of appealing against a decision of the Lindsay magistrate, and, failing that, to pay the cost, $1.25 per week, of the keep of Jeremiah Clary, jr., a lad twelve years of age, in St. John's Reformatory, where he has been consigned by the Police Magistrate of Scugogville. The younger Clary has been found guilty of theft and sentenced to the reformatory, but the boy's father gave the magistrate to understand that he came from Peterborough recently, and, anxious to be relieved of the cost of maintenance, of the boy if possible, the magistrate notified the council of this city, that they would be held responsible for his keep, an amount totalling $75 per year.

It appears, however, that the Clary family have not lived in this town since early in 1903, and then only for about six weeks, so that Peterborough has no right to be saddled with this debt.

Yesterday the Chief went to Lindsay to get some information on the case, and he discovered that a young girl was the only one of the family who remembered when they came to Peterborough, or when they departed.

The nearest guess as to the time that Clary, senior, could make was that he knew they came here when the snow was on the ground, but could not tell what year it was.

The Chief, however, found out that the family had not lived in Peterborough within a period of time in which this city could be made liable for the boy's keep, in the House of Correction, to which he has been sent.

The city solicitor has appealed against the order of the Lindsay magistrate, and the appeal will be heard on Wednesday, in Lindsay. Mr. E. H. D. Hall will handle the case for the city, and will take witnesses with him to substantiate his claims.

In any event, whether the city wins or loses, the costs will have to be paid by the corporation, and all this because Jeremiah Clary, senior, could not remember where he had lived during the last two years, nor when he left Peterborough.

MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS CONCLUDES TRIP ON TRENT CANAL

Hon. Mr. Emmerson Greatly Impressed With Advantages of Waterway After His Tour—Trip From Hastings to Balsam Lake Through the Canal—The Local Gentlemen Who Accompanied Him on the Tour—Many Deputations Waited on the Minister—Some of the Incidents of the Inspection—Good Prospects for Canal's Early Completion.

The advocates of the early completion of the Trent System of waterways, have every reason to feel pleased with the tour of inspection over the canal, which was made this week by the Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. H. R. Emmerson.

The Minister's trip from Hastings to Orillia occupied three days' time, and concluded at Orillia last night. Hon. Mr. Emmerson was accompanied by his deputy, Mr. M. J. Butler, and his former deputy, Mr. Collingwood Schreiber. The weather was as fine as a day in June, which made the outing a most enjoyable one, and gave the Minister a splendid opportunity of thoroughly inspecting the various stretches of water, as well as the different locks, dams and bridges.

A feature of the Minister's visit was the exceptionally well organized tour, which was conducted by Mr. J. H. McClelian, the superintendent of the canal, and the several members of the Dominion House of Commons, through whose territory the canal passes, and who were most persistent in their representations to the Minister as to the advisability of the early completion of the work, as well as the improvements they desired to see carried out in their respective ridings. Another feature that must have impressed the minds of the Minister was the well-organized deputations that met him at various points along the canal, and appealed to him the good wishes of the community.

To these the Minister replied in very kindly terms, and invariably intimated that should Providence permit, it would not be his good fate over the Trent Canal. Time and again the Minister expressed his amazement at the magnificent stretches of water and the beauty of the scenery, and expressed unstinted praise upon the extraordinary management of those portions of the system at present in operation.

As to the Future.

As to the policy of his Department regarding the immediate future of the canal, Hon. Mr. Emmerson made no undertakable works. He did not hedge and evade the prayers of the various petitions as to an appropriation for the completion of this or other section. He held firmly to the statement he made at the banquet in Peterborough on Tuesday night, which was, in effect, that the Government could not do any more than they were already doing; that they were just completing two very important sections, and that the other sections would not be go on with until such time as the surveyors' reports and estimates were in the hands of the Government. They had made appropriations in good faith for surveys, in order that they might know exactly what obligations they must encounter and these surveys were in-

JOHN McMARTIN IS IN SEARCH OF A WIFE: DISCONSOLATE WIDOWER

Well Known Peterborough Resident Confides to The Examiner His Heart Desires—Inserts an Advertisement Calling for a Wife—Does Not Want a Lady With Money—He Has Plenty for Both—An Interesting Story of Matrimonial Affairs.

Some months ago the Examiner did its best to secure a life help-meet for a Coldwater gentleman, who was in search of a wife, and only the fact that the man died before the happy union was consummated, prevented this wife searcher from attaining to his desire. Another man, this time a resident of this city, is now calling upon this paper to assist him in his affairs of the heart. He dropped into the office this morning with the request that the following advertisement be inserted in this paper:

A widower, 50 years of age, but smart and active, wishes to correspond with a lady from 40 to 45 years of age, with a view to matrimony. He has no objection to a widow, and a spinster would also be accepted. The lady must be a good housekeeper, but she need not have money, as the advertiser has plenty for both. Letters may be addressed to Mr. John McMartin, care of the Examiner office.

Mr. McMartin brought this advertisement into the office this morning and ordered its insertion, which command the Examiner gladly complies with. It may be explained that Mr. McMartin has not been a widow long, his first wife, he states, died in the Protestant Home, some few months ago while he was away on a visit to his son in Nebraska. He felt badly at the loss of his better half and sent instructions to County Crown Attorney Wood to have her given a good burial, which was done.

Since that time he has been boarding on Lake street with Mrs. Butler, but he feels that he would like to again have a home of his own, and if he is successful in the search which he is now making for a wife, he would re-establish a home with her.

He states that his object in wanting to re-marry is influenced purely by his desire for companionship, and for a good home, which he feels that the woman of his choice will be able to help him to make. He has plenty of money to keep her, and believes that he can make her happy.

Mr. McMartin wishes the prospective applicants for the station of Mrs. McMartin, to apply by letter or in person to the Examiner office, where they will be able to learn facts in reference to his life and habits which may influence them in their desires to accept his hand in marriage.

It may be stated that Mr. McMartin is practically a life-long resident of Peterborough, and well-known to the majority of citizens, who give him a good recommendation.

Bridesmaid Was a Lady From This City

Mrs. Geo. Agnew Attended Miss Charlotte Agnes Wallace.

A Pretty Lakefield Wedding on Wednesday—Spent Honeymoon Here.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. Joseph Wallace, Lakefield, when his only daughter, Charlotte Agnes, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert Victor Hicock, of Charlton Place, Ont., and formerly of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. W. Leggott, the bridal party standing under an arch of evergreens and flowers. The bride, who was attired in a costume of pale pink silk voile over white satin, trimmed with over lace and chiffon, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses, was assisted by her cousin, Mrs. George Agnew, of Peterborough. Miss Marion Millage acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by Mr. George Agnew. The wedding march was played by Miss G. V. Dunford. The bride was the recipient of a number of handsome and valuable presents, the groom's gift being a gold watch. The happy couple left about ten o'clock for Peterborough and will go from there to Delta and Brockville, before taking up their residence at Carleton Place.

Havelock Peace Is Disturbed By a Fracas

Donnybrook Fair last Saturday night—two fistic encounters—lots of fun—cursing to beat the band—large attendance — one councillor present. Tuesday afternoon — business men of town dancing pigeon wings and lecturing on Hades. Tuesday night — lively night—much excitement—only one window broken—all quiet, law-abiding people invited to come early, —balcony reserved for ladies — no-member, performance is free—curning—fakirs—and lots of new cents which are guaranteed to be heard 440 yards away—drinks free in dark hole.

In commenting on it, the editor of the Standard says: In reference to the above, which, we believe, is mainly true, we might state that the Council at their special meeting on Monday night decided to rigidly prosecute any party or parties breaking the peace, and the Saturday night fracas will be aired before the Magistrate on Friday.

FOUND PENCIL IN APPENDIX

Young Baker Surprised The Doctors.

Walked into Chicago Hospital and announced to the Physicians in Charge That He Had Swallowed a Pencil.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Robert Hanners, a young baker, walked into the county hospital last evening and announced to the physician in charge:

"Doctor, two years ago I swallowed a lead pencil, and it's that bothering me a bit."

The doctor laughed at him, but Hanners stuck to his story and complained of a severe pain in his right side. His case was diagnosed as appendicitis, and a case that required immediate operation.

The pencil, five inches in length and sharpened at one end, was found imbedded in the appendix as Hanners had predicted. He will recover.

MINISTER CONCLUDES TRIP OVER CANAL

ing pushed forward with all possible energy. No corporation, nor no individual would let contracts for a work involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars without a thorough knowledge of the extent of the work they were about to undertake. When he took the oath of office of Minister of Railways and Canals he realised this fact regarding the Trent Canal, and he immediately had a sum placed in the estimates for the necessary surveys. When the reports of the surveyors were made he had every reason to believe that decisive action would be taken with a view of the competition of the present uncompleted sections. To vote money for this purpose without having the information they required as to the cost however, would be most unwise. The canal was begun, the greater portion of it has been made navigable and the remainder must be completed. He defied anyone to say that since he took office he could have possibly done more for the canal than he has already accomplished.

The general impression of all was that there was a good deal in what the Minister said and from the interest he evinced in the work generally, they have every reason to believe, that only the fact that the surveys on the uncompleted sections are not yet completed, hampers an immediate appropriation for the completion of another important section.

From Hastings to Peterborough.

The trip of the Minister from Hastings to Peterborough gave the Minister an opportunity of seeing practically the first stretch of navigation on the Trent System. Of course there is a beautiful stretch of 16 miles of navigation on the Trent below Hastings but owing to pressure of time the Minister was not permitted to view it. The appearance and condition of the Trent River from Hastings to Rice Lake, Rice Lake itself and the Otonabee River, were most satisfactory to the Minister. The water was in good condition, the channels were well buoyed out, the bridges in excellent shape and the wharves in good repair. Hon. Mr. Emmerson viewed with pleasure the new wharves at Gore's Landing and at Bonafort, and was surprised to learn of the amount of local traffic on the stretch of the canal. Both he and his deputy and Mr. Schreiber expressed much admiration as to the improvements at the locks just below Peterborough—as is generally known, extensive improvements have been made here during the past year. The lock sills have been lowered, a new lower landing pier, a splendid piece of concrete work has been constructed and the appearance of the grounds very greatly improved.

The party continued their journey over the 1ift lock, the ascent of the boat being made in the record time of slightly less than five minutes.

The trip from Hastings to Peterborough, as before stated, was made in the Government steamer Sovereign, which was in splendid condition and made very fast time.

The Upper Lakes.

After having been banqueted by the Peterborough Board of Trade on Tuesday night the Minister and party left on Wednesday morning for the upper lakes. They drove from Peterborough to Lakefield, making a thorough investigation of the various locks. These were all found to be in a very satisfactory condition.

At Lakefield the Minister boarded the steamer Stony Lake. In addition to the Minister's party a large number of the prominent citizens from the city and County accompanied him. At Lakefield the steamer Stony Lake was also boarded by a deputation from the County Council of the County of Peterborough, consisting of Mr. Warden Buck and Councillors Johnston, Carey and Monague. The deputation had in view certain representations regarding the Buckhorn dam and bridge, which they subsequently presented to the Minister.

At Young's Point a stop of some little time was made in order that Hon. Mr. Emmerson might view the extensive improvements which have been in progress for some time past at this point. The channel has been greatly deepened, the entrance to the lock considerably widened, and a handsome new lower entrance pier has been built. This is an exceptionally fine piece of work, and Mr. Clem Gordon, the canal overseer, was warmly congratulated by the Minister and Mr. Butler and Mr. Schreiber upon the very excellent style in which the work under his direction had been performed. A quick run was made to Burleigh, through Burleigh Locks and on to Lovesick. Here, too, a new entrance pier was viewed to the utmost satisfaction of the Minister.

Bobcaygeon was reached in due time and a stop of several minutes made, the Government works here being inspected. Fenelon Falls was reached at about 7 o'clock. The party were quartered at the Kawartha House for the night. This is a very handsome new structure, well furnished and well managed. A great delegation of citizens informally greeted the Minister.

Lindsay's Representations.

The people of Lindsay were not to be outdone in the matter of impressing upon the Minister the desirability for speedy action regarding the completion of the canal. A special train conveying about fifty of the prominent citizens of the town and County arrived about 8 o'clock.

Lindsay's Deputation.

Mr. R. J. McLaughlin met the Lindsay delegation and conducted them to the Hotel Kawartha, where the Minister and his party were domiciled. Mr. McLaughlin arranged the interview with the Minister and introduced the members of the deputation. The meeting took place on the very spacious verandah of the hotel, which was brilliantly illuminated with electric lights.

Mayor Ray opened the interview by bidding Hon. Mr. Emmerson welcome to the Kawartha district. He expressed his regret that the Minister could not visit Lindsay and partake of the hospitality of the citizens and incidentally learn our needs as one of the largest and best revenue-producing towns on the whole line of the canal. After each visit of the Minister in charge over the route the work had gone forward with renewed vigour, and he hoped Mr. Emmerson's visit would occasion renewed activity in the completion of the canal. The Mayor's speech was to the point, and made a good impression on the Minister.

Mr. Sam. Fox, M. P. P., expressed himself as glad to have the occasion to meet the minister and urge the rapid completion of the canal, as he was satisfied the country would profit thereby, and any expenditure made with that end in view would meet with his endorsement.

Dr. Vrooman, John McSweyn, Dr. Herriman, Dr. White, Dr. Wood, Dr. Burrows and Mr. Thos. Stewart all made brief, bright speeches, which brought the district's interest forward in such a manner as to command the attention of the Ministpr.

The Minister's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson, in replying, said it was a pleasure for him to meet the deputation from Lindsay and to hear their views concerning a public work on which the Government had spent so much money. He regretted very much that he was unable to visit Lindsay this time, but would reserve that pleasure for some future occasion. This was his first trip over the canal, and he was more than delighted with the stretch of water over which he had travelled, and the work on the canal that had already been completed. The Government had been justified in making the expenditure already made on the work, and he favoured a thorough survey so as to determine the very best route for the uncompleted portion of the canal, and then to push forward its completion as expeditiously as possible. Mr. Emmerson spoke very fluently on the resources of our Dominion and our duty to develop the country and prepare ourselves to handle the great trade of the West that is now taxing our facilities to the utmost. The Minister strongly impressed the deputation as being thoroughly in earnest and as being quite alive to the requirements of our growing trade in all lines.

The deputation spent about an hour with Mr. Emmerson, and after visiting the power stations returned home.

Fenelon Falls Delegation.

On Thursday morning just before Hon. Mr. Emmerson started for Kirkfield, the town council of the Village of Fenelon Falls presented him with an address. The address was read by Mr. W. T. Junkin, the village clerk. The Minister made a very fitting reply to the address.

On Balsam Lake.

The trip of the Minister from Fenelon Falls to Kirkfield yesterday was undoubtedly one of the most enjoyable features of the tour. The weather was most delightful and at about 10 o'clock the Minister and his party left the Cabanet town on Mr. Wm. Mackenzie's yacht, which had been very kindly placed at the disposal of the Minister by Mr. W. J. Mitchell, who represents Mr. Mackenzie's interests at Kirkfield. Mr. Mitchell is an ideal host and he made every person feel thoroughly at home. The yacht, which is named the "Wawinette" is a handsome craft, well furnished and makes splendid time. It is captained by Capt. Maurice Lane, who some few years ago navigated the Rice Lake waters and is therefore not unknown to Peterborough people.

The "Wawinette" made quick time through Cameron and Balsam Lakes. The old lock at Rosedale at one enters Balsam Lake, was inspected by the Minister and his deputy. This lock, it might be stated was built and is controlled by the Ontario Government. It is a wooden structure, badly out of repair and is left to the care of by no one in particular. There is no lock master in charge. The crew of each craft has to operate the lock when passing through from Cameron to Balsam Lake. The Minister intimated that a new lock would be built at this point very shortly.

When the Minister arrived at the mouth of the Kirkfield section of the canal he, along with the rest of the party, became much interested in the deep rock cutting. The steamer plied steadily up the canal to Kirkfield. Here conveyances were in waiting and the entire party were driven to the Campbell House, where an excellent dinner was partaken of.

Kirkfield is a pretty little place as mostly every person knows, and is the home of Mr. Wm. Mackenzie. Some of the members of the party stole an opportunity to visit the magnificent grounds, gardens and stables belonging to Mr. Mackenzie, but the Minister was still holding down his job. A deputation of farmers from the township of Eldon was introduced to the Minister by Mr. R. J. McLaughlan, of Lindsay. Reeve Steele was spokesman. He explained to the Minister that along the canal from Balsam Lake to Kirkfield there were large tracts of land flooded. A great quantity of trees which are now dead present a rather unsightly appearance. The trees, however, would make good firewood and the deputation asked that the farmers be given a chance to cut them. The Minister promised that matter would be fully looked into. He was impressed with the representations they made.

Orillia's Deputation.

The lift lock was inspected and a quick run made over the Kirkfield-Gamebridge section. At Gamebridge a deputation of forty or more people from Orillia met the Minister. They came over by special boat and navigated up the canal from Lake Simcoe to Gamebridge. Amongst the party were Messrs. C. J. Miller, Mayor, and J. P. Secord, Chairman of the Orillia Trent Canal Association. The deputation give the Minister a hearty welcome and prevailed upon him to change his plans and return with them to Orillia for the night. The Minister's private car was sent on to Orillia whilst the Minister and his party started out on the beautiful blue waters of Lake Simcoe.

Notes on the Trip.

To Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., for West Peterborough, is due to a very large extent the credit of having the Minister make his tour of inspection over the Trent Canal. Mr. Hall has incessantly made representations to the Minister explaining the necessity for such a trip. In this he was ably supported by Mr. McCool, M.P., for West Northumberland, Mr. Geo. D. Grant, of North Ontario, and Mr. Finlay of East Peterborough.

Mr. Hall accompanied the Minister from Rice Lake to Gamebridge, but was compelled, owing to pressure of time, to return home last night, and could not therefore take in the trip from Gamebridge to Orillia. While passing through his own constituency Mr. Hall was tireless in his attentions as to the requirements of his constituents. He impressed the necessity of certain improvements along the line of the canal upon the Minister, and introduced various deputations, and promised to give the Minister no rest until his representations were carried to a successful issue.

The deputation from the Peterborough County Council, which was introduced by Mr. Hall, asked that in the construction of the new dam at Buckhorn, provision should be made for a new highway bridge thereon. The Minister in reply said that he thought the matter might be very easily arranged if the county would agree to pay a fair proportion of the cost of the new work. The Minister assured the deputation that the Government would deal liberally with them in the matter.

The steamer Stony Lake, which conveyed the party from Lakefield, and which is owned by Mr. P. P. Young of Young's Point, came in for much praise. As usual Capt. Billy Scollard and Frank Young, were in charge. The steamer made excellent time and the people of Fenlon Falls viewed the boat for the first time. Both dinner and supper were served on the Stony Lake, on Wednesday, and splendid accommodation was afforded.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, the superintending engineer of the canal, was with the party, and conducted the Minister over the sections at present in course of construction at Kirkfield and Gamebridge.

Mr. George D. Grant, the popular young member for North Ontario, joined the party at Peterborough and went right through to Orillia. Mr. Grant won many friends among the Peterborough people who were on the trip. He is most enthusiastic in his efforts on behalf of the early completion of the canal.

Hon. Senator McHugh and Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, of Lindsay, accompanied the Minister on his trip.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, the superintendent of the Trent Canal, who organised the trip, was untiring in his efforts to give ample opportunity to the people of the various towns and villages along the line of the canal, to meet the Minister. The Minister and his deputy congratulated the superintendent upon the satisfactory manner in which the water in the different lakes had been conserved, and the general satisfactory appearance of the canal. Mr. McClellan pointed out certain improvements which he felt were necessary, and the Minister was impressed with the necessity for such improvements.

Last night the Orillia Board of Trade tendered a large complimentary banquet to the Minister, and there is no mistake as to where the people of Orillia stand as to the Trent Canal question. It cannot be completed too soon for the people of that progressive town.

The Minister left by special train from Orillia to Toronto early this morning. He will proceed on a tour of inspection of the Welland Canal.

Quite a large number of Peterborough people took in the trip from Lakefield to Fenelon Falls. A number returned by train from Fenelon, but the greater majority returned by the Stony Lake from Fenelon Falls to Lakefield yesterday. They report having had a splendid outing.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Quebec and One in Beauport, Que.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhœa, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Mlle. Alma Robitaille of 78 rue St. Francois, Quebec, Que., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Overwork and long hours at the office, together with a neglected cold, brought on a very serious female trouble until finally I was unable to go to work. I then thought of a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when her health was in the same condition that mine was, and straightway sent out for a bottle. I finished that and took two more before I really began to improve, but after that my recovery was very rapid, and I was soon well and able to go back to work again. I certainly think your medicine for sick women worthy of praise, and am indeed glad to indorse it."

Miss Clara Beaubien of Beauport, Quebec, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"For several years I have suffered with Leucorrhœa, which has been a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing down pains and a general worn out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines, but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was very much better and stronger, and in four months I was well, no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

A Talk About Headache.

Husband—What will cure my wife's headaches?

Doctor—There are several drugs that will stop headache, but they affect the heart, nerves, and stomach.

Husband—Is there no safe remedy?

Doctor—Yes; there is the vegetable remedy, Zutoo Tablets. Most women are discarding the drug cures and using this. It is the only safe remedy I know of.

Husband—Is it used for anything but headaches?

Doctor—Yes, many women are using it to stop monthly pains; some use it to break up colds.

Husband—This must be the vegetable remedy my neighbor's wife takes and praises so highly. I'll buy some.

Doctor—You can get it at medicine dealers or by mail postpaid from B. N. Robinson & Co., Coaticook, Que., for 25c large size, 10c for small.

Y.M.C.A. Ladies Auxiliary Held Their Election

Yesterday Afternoon the Annual Meeting Was Held.

Reports of Officers Presented—Plans for the Coming Year.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the association rooms yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Davidson, first vice-president, occupying the chair, owing to the president (Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter having resigned the office at the last meeting.

After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Davidson led in a Bible reading, followed by a prayer. A resolution of regret felt by Mrs. Hunter's resignation was then moved by Mrs. Madill and seconded by Mrs. Nagent, and carried.

Secretary's Report.

During the year just closing a good deal of work has been accomplished by the auxiliary, although it has not been an exceedingly successful one from a financial point of view.

The auxiliary has suffered through the removal of several of the most active members. The first of these to go was the secretary, Mrs. Frost, who left the city in January last. She was a member ever faithful in the discharge of her duty, which she performed promptly, willingly and efficiently, one whose place it will be very difficult to fill. The next member to be missed was Mrs. Whiten, assistant secretary, whose work was also conscientiously executed, and a member we were sorry to lose. Then quite recently, one who had been connected with the association for only a short time, but one for whom the deepest love and respect was felt by all, was called to her heavenly reward, this member being Mrs. Fisher, whose death occurred in August last. Mrs. Fisher was deeply interested in the work, and the auxiliary feels that it has indeed been deprived of a very useful member. Last, but not least, Mrs. Hunter, who has very successfully and ably filled the office of president since the resignation of the late Mrs. Hall, which took place three years ago, feels that, owing to ill health, she must now desist from such active work and so has tendered her resignation. It is with great regret that the resignation is accepted, not only because one so well fitted to occupy this important position will be hard to find, but on account of the cause necessitating it.

Of the work carried out by the auxiliary, the cleaning and redecorating of the rooms and the purchase of some new rugs are important items. The ladies also assisted in the furnishing of the new dormitories which were completed during the year.

A concert was given in January which, though of a very high-class character and much enjoyed by those who attended it, was not well patronized, and consequently the result hoped for was not realized. A poster tea was also given later on, but owing to numerous other attractions for the same evening this, too, was unsuccessful in point of numbers. The auxiliary also provided for and assisted at a number of other events of a social nature, and the strangers' Sunday teas were taken charge of by the ladies of the different congregations.

However, we hope that the combined interest and efforts of the members will meet with such success during the coming year that we will not only be able to meet all the requirements of the work, but more than satisfy every demand which will be made on the auxiliary.

Estelle Ackerman,
Secretary.

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the treasurer, presented by Mrs. J. Coyle Brown, was as follows:

Balance on hand as per last account	$ 56.44
Received from all sources since	79.45
Total—	$135.89
Paid out by check at various times	$112.83
Balance—	$ 23.06
Checks issued but not entered in bank book	19.55
Balance—	$ 3.51
Fees received	$ 12.05

Mrs. Coyle Brown,
Treasurer.

After the reports have been received and adopted, the election of officers for the coming year took place, resulting as follows:

President, Mrs. E. F. Mason; first Vice-President, Mrs. Wm. Davidson; second Vice-President, Mrs. Frank Mason; Secretary, Miss Estelle Ackerman; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Madill; Treasurer, Mrs. J. Coyle Brown; Pianist, Miss Mina Davidson.

Committees—

Social Committee—Mrs. Geo. Elliott, convenor; Mrs. Shook, Mrs. Madill, Mrs. Jeffries, Mrs. Lyle.

Rooms Committee—Mrs. Harding, convenor; Mrs. Dobbin, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. Nugent.

Mrs. Mason, the new president, then took the chair, and plans for the coming year were discussed.

Among other plans, the editing and publishing of a standard recipe book was decided upon, the sale of which it is hoped will result in a small permanent revenue for the auxiliary. All ladies in the city or out of it are invited to contribute favourite recipes which they have tried and proved to be good. The full name of the contributor of each recipe is to be attached and will be published, and contributors are also asked to accompany each recipe with the small sum of five cents to assist in the expense of publishing. This book will then be placed on sale.

Other matters were taken up, but nothing definitely decided upon. However, it is hoped that the auxiliary will meet with success in whatever work they undertake as they have been put to a great deal of extra expense during the last year.

A Double Wedding in Chandos Tp.

Mr. John Mahoney and Miss Ellen O'Brien United in Marriage.

The Other Couple Were Mr. James Mahoney and Miss Elizabeth Hobbins.

The Township of Chandos had a most interesting experience Wednesday, when a double wedding afforded a delightful social sensation, in which all the residents and neighbours seemed to sympathise. St. Mary's church was on Wednesday morning the scene of an unusual conjunction of happy events, represented by a double wedding, in which four popular and well-known residents were the principals. The interest shown in the event served to fill the handsome little church to overflowing.

Rev. Father Phelan of Young's Point, celebrated the double wedding. The first couple to be joined in the holy bonds of matrimony were Mr. John Mahoney, son of Mr. Simon Mahoney, one of the old residents, and the bride was Miss Ellen O'Brien. The bridesmaid was Miss Clara Scott, and Mr. Dennis Mahoney was best man.

The second happy pair were Mr. Jas. Mahoney, postmaster of Clyderdale, and son of the late Patrick Mahoney, and the bride was Miss Elizabeth Hobbins, who was assisted in the capacity of bridesmaid by Miss Katie Scott, and Mr. Michael Cleary was best man.

After the ceremony the bridal parties and a large number of guests repaired to the residence of Mr. Jas. Pratt, where a joint wedding breakfast was served, and the company spent an enjoyable season in the manner which custom has prescribed for such occasions. The happy manner in which the friends and neighbours fulfilled the injunction of Holy Scripture, to "rejoice with those that rejoice," illustrated the happy spirit of harmony and neighbourly friendliness which animates the good people of the good township of Chandos.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years the doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Peterboro' Hunter and His "Bear" Cub

Mr. E. M. Best Adds to His Fame as a Sportsman.

His Experience in Keene as Related by a Companion Hunter.

Mr. E. M. Best is an enthusiastic hunter. His promise in that line has already been reported in these columns, but his latest experience with his trusty arm has not yet been given to the public, and it is no good that it should be given to them. Early this week Mr. Best went to Keene to work a big furnace contract, and, in the intervals between his conferences with the prospective purchaser of the heating apparatus, Mr. Best beguiled the time away by engaging with two of his friends who were rusticating in that village, in a pursuit of duck or any other game which might be so unfortunate as to get in front of the shotguns of the hunters.

Tuesday morning the three young men got up early and paddled over the lake in search of game, but after spending the early hours of dawn in a fruitless hunt for duck, the party, by this time nearly frozen, turned their faces homewards. When they had traversed part of the distance Mr. Best thought he saw something in the woods which he would like to get into his game bag, and went ashore to capture it. His companions laid low and waited for results which were not very long in coming. The heard a shot presently, and this was quickly followed by shouts from the direction of the shot. They hurried to the scene, fearing that their enthusiastic comrade had shot himself, but on they got nearer they were greeted with the information that Mr. Best had succeeded in shooting a black bear cub. Kicking themselves that they had not seen the animal first and thus won the distinction which now belonged to Mr. Best, they hastened to the scene of carnage.

One of the young men had an uncle who, before the farmer's birth, had lived in the country, so that he knew something about wild animals, and he informed the triumphant hunter that what he took for a bear cub was nothing more harmful than a black squirrel.

That day Mr. Best closed the contract for the furnace and came back to the city.

Judgment Was Reserved In Bowman Case

Heard Yesterday Afternoon at Police Court.

Case Was Dismissed on First Count—Much Jewelry on Exhibition.

The police court, at yesterday afternoon's session, resembled in many respects a jewelry store. Silverware, rings, chains, and a great profusion of other articles "that glittered," were scattered about in all directions. A large trunk filled with small articles of various descriptions, sat in the centre of the floor.

The cause of the unusual appearance in the ordinarily austere and uninviting interior of the court room was the trial of W. Bowman, who was arrested on Wednesday on a charge of conducting a game of chance at the Exhibition grounds.

The first evidence taken was that of Provincial Constable Jarvis of Toronto, who made the arrest. Jarvis testified to having visited Bowman's booth at the grounds, where he purchased for ten cents an envelope containing a card upon which was written the name of one of the numerous articles which were on exhibition, a prominent feature of which was a silver tea service, which Bowman informed him he had a chance to secure in the "draw."

Jarvis arrested Bowman, and a search was made of the envelopes in which no card entitling the holder to the silver set, was found.

W. Edmondson added his testimony which was to the effect that he had "drawn" from the envelopes, though not upon the representations made by Bowman, but purely as a result of a well-developed "sporting" instinct.

The charge against the prisoner on the count of carrying on a game of chance, was held to be not established by the Court. The evidence taken was transcribed for consideration on the second charge, judgment upon which was reserved till Thursday next.

Cobourg Men Were Arrested

An important arrest was made last night by P. C. Stewart, when D. Dallas, and W. Elliott, two gentlemen who have been wanted in Cobourg in connection with an alleged advertising fraud, were taken in charge by the officer.

The arrest was made as a result and evidences a keen detective acumen on the part of the local men in view of the meagre details furnished.

The prisoners were taken to Cobourg this morning in charge of Constable Rush of that place.

The Steamers Stony Lake and Majestic have discontinued their regular trip to the Lake.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following schemes:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

A Reliable Fur Store

A FUR CHAT with

Clarke The Furrier

The time has now arrived when you will have to decide where you are going to buy your Furs—as everybody is going to wear a Fur—and before you decide give it your most careful consideration

There are many reasons why you could do better buying here—and one of those reasons is—we are not under the heavy expenses of other furriers, and as such we can afford to sell our furs at a much less profit—as we do not require the greater profit to meet our expenses.

Another reason—we are a young firm gradually and steadily growing, and to become in more direct touch with the public we offer our Furs at prices that are an inducement to you to buy. Another matter — we guarantee every Fur that goes out of here—we will keep it in repair for you as long as you have it without CHARGE. Once you become a Fur customer we take you in our care and look after your Furs.

Our Furs are of the highest quality made by the most experienced hands and any sale that is unsatisfactory your money is immediately refunded.

GOOD WORK FOR CANADA.

The summary report of the Geological Survey Department for 1904, is a volume of over 400 pages, and its usefulness is hardly yet appreciated by the general public. Those who are interested in mines or minerals, however—and there number in Canada is increasing—will gladly render the great credit due to Robert Bell, Acting Director, and his colleagues, for the excellent work done by the staff, in collecting, and putting in handy shape, the large amount of useful information contained in the report. What it means to collect and classify the matter of the book may be partly understood when it is pointed out that it deals with the geology of the Yukon Territory, British Columbia, territory north of Hudson Bay, Keewatin, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. It is illustrated with coloured maps and drawings, the graphic method of presenting the facts gleaned in each locality being effectively used to supplement the text, and there are notes on paleontology and zoology, with appendices on fossils and statistical tables. It is by all odds the best and most important summary report issued by the Department in recent years, and will prove of much value to those engaged in developing the mineral resources of the country. That these resources are of incalculable value the evidence furnished in this report leaves no room to doubt. Canada is destined in a few years to become a far greater mineral-producing country than many think of. That means that we shall early multiply our manufacturing capacity, and make use of our inexhaustible coal areas to add to the wealth of our fertile prairies. The careful work done by the Geological Survey, will tell in many ways in forwarding our progress. It will inform prospectors and it will attract capital. It is a work that no individual citizen could perform unaided, and the Government does well to have it done, and give the results to the public. Canadians are only beginning to appreciate the value of the natural richness of the great country that is their heritage, and a perusal of the present report must increase their pride in it, and their confidence in its future.—Hamilton Times.

A DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH.

History attributes many blunders to British statesmen in their diplomatic negotiations with foreign powers, and a lack of foresight in guarding the interests of the Empire which Canada has especial occasion to deplore; but in modern times Downing street has achieved two triumphs which pass unchallenged; the first was the acquisition of a predominating interest in the Suez Canal by the first Disraeli ministry in 1875, and the second the checkmating of many hostile schemes by the alliance negotiated with Japan by Lord Salisbury in 1901, and eventually signed by Lord Lansdowne, as foreign minister, on January 30, 1902.

The publication of the text of the new and more comprehensive Anglo-Japanese treaty, which was concluded on August 12, and which is believed by M. Clemenceau, M. Hanotaux and many other European statesmen to have been the main factor in the unexpectedly early termination of the war, will occasion no such sensation as attended the surprises of 1875 and 1902. Indeed in its main features, a fairly accurate forecast of its provisions was already in circulation. The most striking feature in the text of the new treaty is the clear-cut definition of the mutual obligation of each power to assist the other whenever any single power threatens either the frontiers of Japan or of the British Empire in the Far East. Henceforward from the Persian Gulf to the Sea of Japan the freedom of the ocean highway is practically guaranteed by an overwhelming naval combination, while on land both countries are enormously strengthened should their interests in Persia, Afghanistan, or the Chinese Empire ever occasion a resort to arms.

The treaty of 1902 was to be in force for five years. The new treaty is to remain in operation for twice that period. The former treaty expressly limited mutual action in the defence of common interests in China and Korea, and only became operative when more than one power made a hostile move; the new arrangement would bring Britain and Japan immediately into the field as allies in case any single power threatened their respective spheres of influence. Speaking generally, there seems every reason to believe that the new treaty will make for the preservation of international peace, though it can have no immediate bearing upon those complications regarding Austria and Hungary, Turkey and the Balkan Provinces, France and Morocco, the affairs of which form the present most threatening sources of anxiety to the foreign ministers of the world.

That those prominent members of the Liberal party in the United Kingdom, who are shortly expected to form a cabinet, have expressed a favourable opinion of the extended terms of the alliance, is one of the happiest features of the situation, and many of the leading statesmen of France have also put themselves upon record as concurring with these words Lord Lansdowne's despatch: "The new defensive Alliance is not intended as a menace, but rather as a guarantee of peace and prosperity in the Far East, in which all countries may participate."—Montreal Herald.

SUPREMACY OF SCHOOL BOARDS.

There is friction between the Toronto School Board and the Civic Board of Control, over the school estimates which it is probable will be repeated in some form in Peterborough. The Toronto Board of Control has been shelling generous chunks from the School Board estimates, and to such an extent that the School Board has appealed to the Minister of Education, to ask the latter to make the School Board supreme and in a position to get what it demands from the Council. The School Board goes so far as to admit that the Council has a right to full information as to how money is to be spent, but it has no right to cut down the estimates. This is on the face of it a dangerous doctrine. If the School Board has power to enforce whatever demand for funds it sees fit to make upon a City Council, there will be no undue modesty in demanding. While the question of education is a matter of the gravest importance it is not the only matter which deserves consideration. The Council has many responsibilities to meet in connection with the provision and expenditure of funds. It would seem that the better way is to leave the relative powers of the two bodies remain as they are at present. Both bodies have a common interest in the good condition of the schools, but there is a limit to the capacity of the council to provide funds. The better way is, perhaps, to trust to the good sense of both bodies. The making of a School Board supreme does not seem to be in the interests of either the schools or a city. It is reasonable to insist that the body which supplies the funds should retain some power of modifying the demands of a School Board. To make a School Board supreme as the Toronto members demand would be dangerous. A little contention between a School Board and a City Council as to funds to be provided by the latter will tend to enlighten the ratepayers, who are the ones most directly affected, as to the wisdom of the purposes to which the funds demanded are to be devoted. Expenditures for school purposes should be liberal but not unlimited, for there are other demands upon the city funds which must be met.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A man left a handbag containing $40,000 in an Ottawa street car, and rewarded the conductor who returned him his cash with a gift of $2. He might have been more generous in his "reward" if he had not possibly feared encountering some graft politician before he left the city, in which case he might have been compelled to be more generous.

Fairs Are Free From Sharpers

The detectives sent out this fall by the Department of Agriculture to try and catch sharpers at the fall fairs report that exhibitions were never so free of these features as they are this year. A large number of fairs which have been known to be noted centres for crooks in the past have been found to be free from these objectionable characters. As yet, only one arrest has been made. Detective Jarvis has reported to the superintendent of Agricultural Societies that he arrested a man at the Prescott exhibition for conducting a draw lottery, and the offender was fined $20 and costs. This man gained admission to the grounds under false pretensions, and had only been operating twenty minutes when caught.

Two arrests were made at the local exhibition, both being without the assistance of the Provincial officers.

HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED

By the Use of the New Scalp Antiseptic

It wouldn't take long to number the hairs in the heads of some people, the reason being that they have not many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root soon plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth and causes it to fade and fall out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbro's Herpicide, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage, besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigour to enter the scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it.

Short Hours, Long Wages, Long Taxes

"Taxpayer" Condemns the Causes and Conditions.

He Demands a Reform of the System.

Editor of the Examiner,—

Many labouring men complain of the higher prices for goods and the materials of living, and of the high taxes. They may have some reason, but they must not forget that they themselves are to a certain extent responsible for both. We see a great deal of the city money wasted upon the street work. We have the nine-hour system in vogue in the city. Teamsters used to get three dollars a day for ten hours, now they get $3.50 for nine hours. This occasions a large expenditure every year, not fairly represented by results. This necessitates an increased rate of taxation and many of these very men have to pay more taxes without getting any corresponding value for the higher rate of pay and shorter hours. This thing not only affects them, but the general taxpayers as well. By this means we have less work done at a higher price and to this extent the city money is wasted. Another thing seems to pile up the taxes. It is the custom to employ men on the street at the top rate of wages, who for no fault of their own are not physically able to do a fair day's work. I am not complaining of the motive which leads to their employment, but I see no reason why the city business should not be done on business principles. The men I mean could not hold a place in any other employment than that of the city and if the corporation has to help them, let it be done in a more direct way, so that we can know where we are at. No one need be told that the best of men employed on the street, do not do as much work in nine hours as they can do in ten. Teamsters, who work nine hours and get more pay than when they worked ten hours don't work any harder. From what I have seen of the way in which corporation employees work, they take it just as easy if they are working five hours a day as if they were working fifteen. I don't object to men working on the street having a cinch, but I do object to the extra tax this sort of work means. Another result is that work that should be done in fine weather and can only be done in such fine weather, goes on so slowly that it is way on into the edge of winter before needed street work is done, and then frost and snow and bad weather chip in with short hours to make a day's work a farce, and we have our street in a rough condition for the winter and they come out in the spring in a miserable state. I have thought for a long time that our streets and street work are responsible for a large part of the increased taxes. I don't object much more than anybody else to paying taxes and I would pay them more willingly if we got good fair value for them. It seems to me that we want to get our system of dealing with the streets upon an entirely new basis, and shortening of hours and raising of wages is not the way to get a lower rate of taxation. I am told and I know from my own assessment bill that the assessment of the town is largely increased under the new act. But I very much doubt whether or not the rate of taxation will be any lower. It can't be much lower unless a reform is made in the way of doing work. If the city would get as much work out of a gang of men as the waterworks superintendent or a sewer contractor we would have more work done at less cost. When we kick about our taxes we might bear in mind some of the reasons why. If our Aldermen would try to get as much work, that is, as good value for the wages paid, out of the city workmen as they do get out of the employees in their own business there would be another story for the tax collector to tell. The system is wrong and until it is bettered the taxes will go on piling up.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

$2,000 Worth of Cheese Burned

By order of Toronto Board of Health $2,000 worth of cheese in a Northumberland County factory was on Monday destroyed by fire, as persons connected with the concern had suffered from smallpox. In addition to the quarantining of the factory and of the homes of patients and suspected persons, it was thought best to check danger of further spread by the action mentioned. Four doctors in the locality had diagnosed the disease as smallpox and all precautions had been taken by the local authorities, pending the arrival from Toronto of Dr. Bell, Inspector of the Provincial Board of Health, who confirmed the diagnosis. Following this the local board decided that the cheese had to burn, and burn it did. There is little danger of the disease spreading owing to the thoroughness of the precautionary measures.

Pete Charlton Goes to Berlin

Toronto will lose one of the best hockey players it has known for some time in the removal of Pete Charlton to Berlin.

Mr. Charlton has played point for the champion Marlboros for the past two seasons, and next winter will throw in his lot with the Berlin team. He will likely play rover-point for this aggregation, which will, it is said, play senior this year.

Charlton will be an acquisition to the team. He is, without exception, one of the best defence men playing the game at the present time, and his place will be hard to fill on the Marlboro line-up.

Charlton was responsible in more than one match for the majority of the goals scored by the champions, his rushes from end to end telling against the opposing teams.

He will make his home in Berlin, and will join the staff of the Hosen Shoe Company. He has been a member of the staff of the Standard Silver Plate Company for several years.

Mr. Charlton's many friends will wish him success in his new position.

RUGBY

To-morrow at 4 o'clock at the Riverside Park the last rugby practice before the first game will be held, and it is hoped that there will be a good turnout.

The Groom Was Former Peterboro' Man

Mr. C. J. Burritt Married in Ottawa Wednesday.

A Son of Dr. H. C. Burritt, Formerly a Resident of Peterborough.

Many Peterborough persons will be interested in the following report of the wedding of Mr. C. J. Burritt, third son of Dr. H. C. Burritt, a brother of Mr. D. Burritt, of this city, and formerly a resident of Peterborough. The Ottawa Free Press in reporting it says:—

A very pretty and largely attended wedding took place in Grace Church at two o'clock this afternoon when Miss Eleanor Elsie Ryley, only daughter of Mr. George U. Ryley, of the Department of the Interior was married to Mr. Charles James Burritt, third son of Dr. H. C. Burritt of Toronto. The church was beautifully decorated with white asters, palms and ferns and the service was fully choral. The ceremony was formed by the Rev. E. J. Gorman assisted by the Rev. Walter Loucks. The ushers were Mr. Alex. Hill, Mr. H. C. Christie, and Mr. Basil Stead.

The bride who was given away by her father, Mr. G. U. Ryley, looked very charming in an exquisite robe dea moces of white embroidered silk crepe over taffeta; the gracefully draped skirt which terminated in vandyke points was ornamented with rosettes of chiffon and a flounced panel of Limerick lace embroidered in sequins. The flounced bodice was trimmed with lace to correspond and yoke of deep cuffs of shirred chiffon and deep ceinture belt of white satin the whole completed by a veil of point Brussells over a wreath of orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was a shower of cream roses and maidenhair fern and the only ornament worn was a unique pendant of old silver. The bridesmaids Miss Gladys Irwin and Miss Rosie Gemmill were in pale blue chiffon taffeta the long full skirts embroidered with stars and the bodies were finished with yokes and deep cuffs of transparent lace and white chiffon picture trimmed with lace and medallions. They wore large picture hats of pale blue silk trimmed with wreaths of crimson roses and held large bouquets of red roses. The best man was Mr. E. P. Featherstonhaugh, of Montreal. The groom's gift to the bridesmaids were pearl pendants, he also presented the ushers with pins and the best man with a cigarette case.

Mrs. G. C. Ryley, mother of the bride wore a handsome costume of pale grey beau de soie and black sequin hat trimmed with black ostrich feathers.

Mrs. H. C. Burritt, of Toronto, mother of the groom was in black peau de soie and black bonnet trimmed with velvet and white ostrich feathers.

After the ceremony the guests reassembled at the home of the bride's parents on Somerset street where a charming reception was held, the house being beautifully decorated with palms and ferns and after the usual toasts and congratulatory speeches Mr. and Mrs. Burritt left for Montreal en route for New York. The bride travelled in a suit of dark brown broadcloth with tailed skirt and long tight fitting coat worn over an embroidered blouse of white silk and hat of pale blue panne velvet with blue ostrich feathers and velvet and a handsome set of mink furs the gift of the groom. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Burritt will reside on Melville street.

Another $60 Involuntary Contribution

Fair Fakir Relieved of That Amount at Police Court To-day.

Case Will be Appealed—Mr. O'Connell Characterizes the Action of the Authorities as "Persecution."

The corporation strong-box was enriched again this morning to the extent of another $60, this amount being the involuntary contribution of Wm. Horton, the man charged with carrying on an illegal game of chance at the exhibition. Horton's companion, Gagnon, if will be remembered, was arrested and fined $60 on Tuesday afternoon, he having pleaded guilty.

Horton pleaded not guilty yesterday and the case was enlarged until this morning. The case for the prosecution was conducted by Mr. E. H. D. Hall. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the defence.

P. C. Stewart was the first witness called. He testified that he had seen the prisoner, Horton, at the fair grounds on Tuesday. The latter was standing in a hack with a bunch of bank notes in his hand. His associate, Gagnon, assisted by a small boy, was placing the bills in envelopes, which were then wrapped about the packages of medicine which they were selling. Gagnon meantime addressed the crowd, gently insinuating that they were fools in not purchasing the medicine, and also pointed to the splendid opportunity which this offer afforded of making money. Witness had arrested Gagnon, and the latter had been taken up to the police station by special constable Dundas.

To Mr. O'Connell witness stated that Provincial Constable Jarvis had climbed into the hack directly after he had made the arrest.

Constable Hall testified to having been at the exhibition as a special constable on Tuesday. He had seen Gagnon in the hack, but had not seen him make any sales, nor had he seen the arrest.

Special Constable Dundas gave evidence regarding the operations of Gagnon and Horton, and of their arrest by Constable Stewart.

Provincial Constable Jarvis, who was on duty at the fair grounds, stated in giving evidence that he had seen Gagnon and Horton at the grounds selling medicine in the manner described by previous witnesses. He had not seen any sales made. He had made the arrest.

Mr. O'Connell in addressing the court held that a case had not been established for several reasons, chief of which was that there was no evidence to show that there was a game of chance, there being no evidence of sales.

The counsel for the prosecution sought to show that the prisoner, in being associated with Gagnon, who on Tuesday had pleaded guilty, must necessarily be equally guilty.

The court in summarizing held that the charge had been established. Mr. O'Connell took objection, characterizing the case as being one of "persecution" rather than prosecution. "This is not the kind of administration of justice which the town wants," he continued.

"Where did you get the information?" queried the court.

"It is widespread in the atmosphere," responded the counsel for the defence, quickly, after which he gave notice of his intention to appeal the case.

The court then delivered judgment, assessing the prisoner $60 and costs, amounting altogether to $66.30, which was paid.

The amount of deposit, including the fine, to cover the cost of appeal was fixed at $35.

The matter of the dispute between the local authorities and Provincial Constable Jarvis has not yet been decided. The latter goes forth the claim that he made the arrest, and is therefore entitled to the fees in connection. P. C. Stewart, on the other hand, affirms that he was first on the ground and arrested the prisoner, just after which Jarvis climbed into the cab.

The Farmers To Now Form Into Unions

Report That Movement of This Kind is on Foot.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 29.—A determined effort will be made on the part of the American Federation of Labour to bring about the unionization of the farmers of this country and their affiliation with the American Federation of Labour for mutual benefit and protection. In Wisconsin and Minnesota a number of farmers' unions have been formed already, and, according to the statement of the officials of the Federation, the affiliation of these farmers' unions with the American Federation of Labour is merely a question of time. The leaders of the Federation are highly enthusiastic over the prospect of an alliance between the city wage workers, the farm hands and the farmers. It is expected the the western farmers will be well represented at the next meeting of the American Federation of Labour, which will be held in Pittsburgh in November. It is not expected that the plan of affiliation will meet with any opposition from the Federation.

Hungarians Make Demands

Kossuth Voices Need of Union to Defend Constitution.

THE STUDENTS ARE RIOTING

Private Meeting of Deputies Called for October 2, When Such a Union as Kossuth Demands May Be Formed —The Hungarian Patriots Complain of German Interference and May Look to Slavs.

Vienna, Sept. 29.—Emperor Francis Joseph yesterday received in audience Baron Fejervary, the former Hungarian Premier, and Count Golochowski, the Austro-Hungarian Minister. The next steps of the Emperor are awaited anxiously.

Baron Fejervary's audience of the Emperor proved a failure, according to an Austrian authority close to the court. The baron insisted upon a plan to defeat the Hungarian coalition by the introduction of universal suffrage, but His Majesty was not willing to accept such a radical measure.

M. Polonyi, vice-president of the Hungarian Independent party, in an interview in Freie Presse yesterday, attributed to German influence the opposition of the Emperor-King to the demands for Hungarian coalition. He concluded with the threat that if Hungary can no longer find support among the Germans, she must look in the direction of the Slavs.

Students Begin Rioting.

Buda-Pesth, Hungary, Sept. 29.—The excitement among the students led to riots yesterday at the university.

Three students with Socialistic tendencies, were attacked by Nationalist students and roughly handled. Afterwards, some 300 Nationalist students marched to the hospitals, visiting those who were injured during the rioting Wednesday evening.

The theology students are also joining in the Nationalist movement. A meeting of students has been called to discuss the situation.

Provinces In An Unrest

Buda-Pesth, Sept. 29.—There is no abatement of the popular unrest. The Socialists gathered last night in front of the Imperial Club, but the police prevented disorder.

Reports from the provinces show increasing support for the coalition parties.

The coalition leaders, realizing the decided anti-Magyarian tendency of many influential persons, are losing no opportunity to strengthen their position. Francis Kossuth demands the union of all Hungarian parties, "for the defence" of the Hungarian constitution," and it is believed that a private meeting of deputies, which has been called for October 2, the day before the great convention, may formulate plans to secure such a union.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR VIGILANT

Poaching Tug Arrow Gets Away, But Leaves 86 Nets Behind.

Dunkirk, N.Y., Sept. 29.—The Vigilant, the Canadian cruiser, yesterday captured eighty-six nets belinging to Capt. Hanson of the tug Arrow.

Capt. Hanson saw the cruiser coming and ran south into American waters.

No shots were fired.

The fishermen are becoming scared of the Vigilant, and take no chances of allowing her to get to close quarters when they are north of the boundary line.

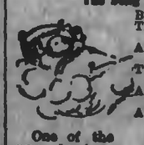
The Song of the Cradle.



Bye, bye! Hope rises high; There's a sweet little cradle hung up in the sky; A dear little life that is coming to bless; Two soft chubby hands that will pat and caress; A pure little soul winging down from above; A darling to care for, a baby to love.

One of the grandest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y.

This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organism specially concerned in motherhood, and makes the coming of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain.

"I wish to state that I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with very good results," writes Mrs. Katie M. Annis, of Hudson, New Hampshire. "Had been in poor health for over four years and had been twice in the hospital. My husband brought some of your 'Favorite Prescription,' and it has carried me easily through my last two confinements. We are now blessed with two healthy children, and I am sure your medicine has done me more good than all the other treatment I have ever received."

BAD HEADACHES generally arise from bad digestion. Foul breath, bitter taste, coated tongue, sour eructations or belching of gas are common symptoms though not all present in every case. To cure, take small doses, only one or two each day, of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the Sugar-coated Little Liver Pills, first put up by him over 40 years ago. One or two a laxative, three or four cathartic.

Mr. Perkins Creates a Stir

Mr. Perkins Refused to Produce Morgan Firm Books.

REVELATIONS IN EQUITABLE

In Bond Transactions He Was Both Morgan and New York Life Insurance Co.—Advanced Large Sums Which Were Never Repaid—Relations of Equitable Trust Co. to the Equitable Life.

New York, Sept. 29.—George W. Perkins, vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co., and a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., created a stir before the Legislative Investigation Committee yesterday, when he objected to a request that he produce certain books of J. P. Morgan & Co., to explain some of that firm's dealings with the New York Life Insurance Co., in connection with the sale of Navigation Syndicate bonds to the life insurance company. He said he would furnish copies of the entries referring to the transactions in question, but preferred not to bring the books.

Mr. Hughes Angry.

Mr. Hughes, counsel to the Legislative Committee, for the first time during the investigation, showed signs of anger and said loudly: "I shall have to require that those books be produced."

"All right," replied Mr. Perkins.

Testifying to the purchase of $4,000,000 of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis bonds from J. P. Morgan & Co. by the New York Life Insurance Co., Mr. Perkins said that he obtained the bonds at $40,000 less than the price stipulated by the life insurance company's finance committee. Questioned by Mr. Hughes, Mr. Perkins said that in this purchase and sale he himself represented both the New York Life Insurance Co. as purchaser and the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. as seller.

Money Was Borrowed.

Testimony was given by Henry Rogers Winthrop, financial manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, to the effect that when the Navigation Syndicate, which turned out to be unprofitable, made calls for money on the George H. Squire trustee account for payment on account of syndicate participation, the money for the payments was obtained by borrowing $250,000 from the Equitable Trust Co. Of this amount $27,500 has been repaid. Mr. Winthrop said that in his opinion the money advanced to the George H. Squire trust account on this transaction was really the money of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The Ryan Purchase.

A statement showing the transfers of the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which accompanied the purchase of control of that society by Thomas F. Ryan was made by the society. It showed that 502 shares of the stock purchased by Mr. Ryan from James H. Hyde, stood in the names of at least thirty-five persons who were or recently had been directors of the society, each of them being the owner of at least five shares of the stock. By the transfer of this stock to Grover Cleveland, Judge Morgan, J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse, a majority of the directors would have ceased to be stockholders of record.

It was deemed wise by the trustees and by counsel that a majority of the recognized board of directors should be actual owners of five shares of stock each until the question of eligibility of policy-holders as directors has been settled by the courts. Accordingly, an efforts was made to purchase the necessary amount of stock. This resulted in the purchase of a block of eighty shares of stock for the aggregate price of $212,500, approximately $2,500 a share.

Allotting the Stock.

Mr. Ryan furnished the money for the purchase and the stock was at once offered to the directors of the society at cost, with the result that the following directors have acquired five shares each of this block: George J. Gould, Levi P. Morton, Thomas P. Eckert, Valentine P. Snyder, F. W. Roebling, T. J. Albright, Eben B. Thomas, Joseph Bryan, Thomas Spratt, H. Cady Herrick, Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles H. Zehnder, Sir W. C. Van Horne, C. Ledyard Blaire and James B. Forgan. The remaining twelve shares out of this block of 87 shares of stock stand in the name of Mr. Winthrop and are owned by Mr. Ryan. Five shares of stock were also purchased by President Paul Morton from M. E. Ingalls.

Verdict in Worrell Inquest.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict touching the death of fire Captain Worrell last night, and said the joisting in the Brown Milling Company's building was not properly constructed and that there should be a better system of inspection of buildings by the fire department.

Treaty Signed In The Morocco Case

France and Germany Agree to a Compromise.

BOTH GAIN ADVANTAGES

Suspense of Months Which Threatened the Peace of Europe Terminates in Accord—Both Powers Equally Gratified to Close the Controversy—French Bankers to Participate in Loan to Morocco.

Paris, Sept. 29.—The Franco-German accord upon Morocco, signed yesterday, arouses the keenest satisfaction, not only on account of Morocco, but chiefly because it terminates the suspense of months which threatened to disturb the peace of Europe. Both the Foreign Office and the German embassy were equally gratified to close the controversy.

The accord is interpreted as a compromise in which each side secures advantages. Chancellor Von Buelow's proposition to submit Moroccan questions to a conference is finally realized, and M. Rouvier has carried his point of keeping France's special interests from the conference and restricting the remaining questions within exact limits. The diplomats consider the result highly advantageous in removing obstacles to a rapprochement between France and Germany.

Text of the Accord.

The official text of the accord says: "The negotiations between France and Germany on Morocco affairs has successfully terminated. Accord is reached upon a program comprising the organization of the police, the regulation and repression of contraband arms; financial reforms, consisting principally of the organization of a state bank and also the best means of collecting duties, and the creation of new means of revenue and also the termination of principles destined to safeguard the economic liberty of Morocco."

Algeria For Conference.

The agreement then makes a special reservation of the frontier region between Algiers and Morocco, where the maintenance of police will be regulated directly between France and the Sultan without submission to the conference. The regulation of contraband in the same region also remains for France to determine with the Sultan.

The two Governments unite in asking that Spain accept Algeria as the place for the conference.

Upon the question of the recent German loan to Morocco it is agreed that French bankers shall participate with the Germans, and there is to be a similar participation of French firms in building the harbor works at Tangier if a French company offers terms equal to those of the German contractors.

To Sultan at Once.

Finally the accord provides for the submission of the program without delay to the Sultan and the signatories of the convention of Madrid. Upon its submission to the Sultan both the French and German missions now at Fes will return to Tangier.

MORE THAN ESTIMATE.

Northwest Wheat Crop Will Average 25 Bushels Per Acre.

Winnipeg, Sept. 29.—From latest railway reports, the grain crop of Western Canada is turning out a much heavier yield than was expected when the crop was growing in the fields.

The average yield of wheat throughout the cultivated area will be close on to 25 bushels to the acre, while the majority of estimates so far have placed it at about 20.

The oats crop is a marvelous one, and in nearly all districts it reaches 60 bushels to the acre. The general grade of wheat is No. 1 Northern.

Wet weather has interfered with the threshing operations, but during the past week there have been favorable conditions throughout the west, and the marketing of wheat has reached a figure of more than 500,000 bushels a day.

Festival Service At St. Luke's

Rev. Canon Welch Speaks Eloquently to Large Congregation.

Service Was of an Appropriate Harvest Character—Music and Decorations Were Charming.

A large congregation attended the opening services of the Harvest Festival at St. Luke's church last night. The church was adorned in an appropriate manner, with harvest emblems, arranged with charming taste. The service was, of course, of a special character, an eloquent sermon being preached by Rev. Canon Welch, of St. James' cathedral, Toronto.

The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, assisted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, and Rev. W. Maher, of All Saints' church. The musical service throughout was appropriate to the occasion, and was rendered in a manner, which made it one of the best features of the service.

Rev. Canon Welch spoke from the text, St. John vi, 35, "Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life."

The day before He spoke these words our Lord Jesus at the Lake of Galilee, had fed the multitude of five thousand people with the five loaves and the two small fishes. The effect upon the people who witnessed the miracle was what might have been expected, and they were filled with wonder and enthusiasm over the occurrence.

In the text is contained, said the preacher, one of the most far-reaching revelations ever made by our Lord, revealing as it did, the nature of the relations between Him and the world. The words, "I am the Bread of Life," are indeed mysterious words. His declaration was not, "I can give you the bread of life," but "I am the Bread of Life." Let us see, the speaker remarked, what the words meant to those who heard them, as they fell from our Saviour's lips, and also what they ought to mean to us, especially at the present harvest festival. It was only natural, he continued, that hearers should flock to Him, after witnessing the miracle, which they failed to regard in its true sense as a sign or a parable. They had no hunger after righteousness, but thought only of their own bodily wants. They cared not for that of which it was a sign, or of its inward or spiritual significance. They knew nothing of the Cross and Passion, or the glorious Resurrection.

What the words meant to those who heard them eighteen centuries ago, they mean to us to-day. They ought to mean more; year by year that miracle is, in some sense, repeated. Year by year, we come to the House of God, because we have seen the benefits of the miracle — and it is properly so. But we should ch careful, lest we also think only of the outward sign, rather than its inward and spiritual significance. To us, as with them at Capernaum, the words of the text should have a more definite significance. We read them in the light of the Resurrection and the Ascension of that same Jesus, and they tell us we should take unto ourselves the Bread of Life.

The preacher referred to the most amazing miracle in the history of the world—the Incarnation of the Son of God. Through Christ, as the mediator, we are brought into touch with God, from Whom we draw the support of life. What is meant by eating the flesh of Christ? A quotation from a well-known writer was given in reply. The spiritual eating, it remarked, is the last result of faith, and follows faith, but is not the faith itself. Eating the Bread of Life, means the partaking of the human nature of our Blessed Lord.

Passing on the preacher made a few remarks of a more personal nature. Some would, he said, in speaking of eating the flesh of Jesus, say that it was full of mystery. It is. Is not our physical body mysterious, yet do we ignore the facts of our physical life for this reason? Why should we ignore the facts in connection with our spiritual life? We have bodies, and we have minds, the training of which is a natural and essential duty. There are sides of us which are kin to God. That higher life is a great reality, and the time will come when we will see it is so.

In conclusion the preacher suggested a number of practical thoughts. When Jesus says, "I am the Bread of Life," he means that He cannot be sustained without Him. It makes it possible for man to feed upon Bread. If we have bread we are bound by considerations of humanity to give of our abundance to those who are hungry. We say that we are thankful for all God's blessings. How thankful are we, and what would we give as an indication of our thankfulness? Thousands of us require, not material sustenance, but the Bread of Life. When we think of all He is, all He has done, and all He is ready to do, shall we not adore Him? Let us cast ourselves before Him, lay at His feet our weight of cares, and flash from our eyes our thanksgiving. Christ shall suffice. Christ in the end, and Christ is the beginning.

The Music.

The anthem, "O Worship the King," was rendered with charming effect and musicianly expression by the choir. A vocal quartette selection was sung during the offertory by Miss Phillips, Mrs. C. W. Turner, Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., and Mr. W. Wesley, with beautiful ensemble effect.

Jr. Boys' Guild of St. Andrew's Score Success

A Most Enjoyable Entertainment Given Last Evening.

Mr. Jas. Fax, Assisted by Local Artists Gave a Good Programme.

Last night, in the school room of St. Andrew's church, under the auspices of the Junior Boys' Guild of that church, a most enjoyable entertainment was given, the principal factor in which was Mr. James Fax, the king of character delineators.

The school room was well filled and the quality of the concert given was of such a nature as to give genuine pleasure to all who were fortunate enough to be present. This is the first time in some years that James Fax has visited Peterborough and it was soon discovered that, instead of deteriorating, he had improved. He kept the audience in roars of laughter during the whole time, and the management of the Guild is highly pleased with the result of this, one of its first efforts in the entertainment line.

Another pleasing feature of the evening was the presence of Mr. Jas. Stubbs with his phonograph. Mr. Stubbs gave a number of selections, which were much enjoyed.

Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of the church, occupied the position of chairman, and in his opening address welcomed, on behalf of the Guild, those present. A selection on the phonograph followed, after which Mr. Fax contributed his first number, entitled "Podgy Rodgy."

Mr. Jas. Browne was next heard in a much enjoyed vocal solo, followed by another phonograph selection. Mr. Fax closed the first part of the programme with a song, "The Old Oak Tree," to which he had to respond to a demand for an encore.

Mr. Stubbs opened the second part with a phonograph selection, which Mr. Fax was again heard in one of the most delightful numbers of the evening, "Nationalities," in which some remarkably quick changes of character were given. Miss H. King followed with a most enjoyable vocal solo. "It Never Worries Me," was Mr. Fax's next selection, and between it and his last number, "Slattery's Light Dragoons," was given. Mr. Jas. Browne contributed another appreciated vocal solo.

The programme closed with a phonograph selection, preceding which the chairman thanked those present for their attendance.

The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. P. A. Kerr for Mr. Fax, and Mr. G. Schnaider for Mr. Browne. Mr. R. Beach accompanied Mr. Fax in one of his numbers with the Apark drum, and added much to its effectiveness.

TWO HORSE STORIES WERE HEARD BY THE LEGAL COMMITTEE

Claims for Damages Were Dealt With—Mr. Windover Hubble Settled With for $27.50—Mr. P. Grady Had Horse Injured on Park Street—His Claim Will be Nearly $100—Some Doubt as to Whether the Corporation is Liable for This.

David Harum would have been in his glory could he have dropped into the meeting of the Legal Committee of the City Council last night.

Two horse cases occupied the attention of the members of that body for about two hours, and some of the aldermen doubtless learned some things about horse flesh which they did not know before, at least, if they did not gain some knowledge it was not because there were not ample opportunities for its acquirement. Two veterinary surgeons were present at the meeting at different times for the purpose of giving evidence as to the extent of injuries received by two horses, the owners of which claimed damages from the city for the injuries which had been sustained through, it is claimed, the fault of the corporation.

One case was settled, but the other, which is a more serious one and involves (considerably more money, will be further considered.

Mr. A. P. Pousette appeared before the committee to further the interest of Windover Hubble, the former owner of a horse which was injured on the Brock street bridge by reason of a defective plank. The horse was being driven over the bridge, when its two fore feet and one hind foot went through holes in the covering of the bridge, with the result that the animal was laid off for repairs for ten or twelve days, and the services of Dr. Johnston were required. The horse was, after its partial recovery, traded off, but Mr. Hubble wanted the council to compensate him for the loss of time in which the horse was laid up, for the doctor's bill, and for the depreciation in the value of the horse.

His claim was $37.35, but the committee thought this was altogether too much and offered to settle for $25, but this did not suit Mr. Pousette, and finally a compromise was effected, and $27.50 will be paid to Mr. Hubble.

Mr. P. Grady's horse was the other animal to which injuries had been inflicted on the street, and Mr. Grady, supported by Dr. Blanchard, was present to plead his own case. There is considerably more involved in this case. It appears that on March 25 last Mr. Grady's hack team was driving along Park street, between Hunter and Weller streets, and when near a manhole between the rails of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., one of the horses sank into a hole in the soft earth, and thereby sustained injuries which necessitated the services of Dr. Blanchard for twenty-six days and a resultant depreciation in the value of the horse, Mr. Grady claims, of 325. He asked the Council to pay him this $25, the amount of the doctor's bill, $26.75, and $1.50 per day for the time the horse was laid up.

There was some doubt in the minds of the aldermen as to whether the city was liable for this, or the railway company, since the accident happened inside the rails. In the meantime the solicitor will ascertain just where the city stands as far as the responsibility is concerned, and he will report to the committee later.

East City Cow Had Ambitions

Even Greater Peterborough can scarcely congratulate itself on having arrived at a Metropolitan dignity when it is possible to see cattle roaming at large about the streets, as was the case on the busiest thoroughfare in East City last night. The animal had evidently made its escape from captivity, for, as it sauntered down the street, it trailed in its wake a large post, some fifteen feet in length, to which it had probably been tethered.

The bovine animal was apparently of a frisky disposition for it started off down the street with a burst of speed, which almost rivalled the dizzy whirl of some of our street cars. A horse attached to a buggy containing two occupants, of assorted sexes, appeared from the darkness which hovered over Douro, and it looked for a moment as if a barn-yard embroglio might ensue. The consequence was, however, happily averted by the action of the horse, which appeared to be a bit of a hurdler, successfully negotiating the trailing appendage by a genuine "water jump."

The First Church of Christ Scientist have just completed repairs on their property. The uprooting of trees and underbrush, together with the painting of woodwork and many other repairs, have added much to the appearance and value of the property. The painting was very tastefully done by Mr. N. Harry Smith Was Injured

Mr. Harry Smith, son of Mr. A. St. A. Smith, of Keene, has been injured it is feared rather seriously. It appears that Mr. Smith was on his way to Brockville, where he attends school and while going in the stage from Keene to the station, he was thrown out of the rig, alighting on his shoulder, and injuring it, but he was able to continue on his journey, and went on to Brockville. After his arrival he was playing football, and was again injured in the same shoulder, which had not yet recovered from the effects of the fall. His second accident was more serious than the first, and in fact was so serious that Mrs. Smith was called to Brockville to attend her son. She is still there, though it is not anticipated that any very serious results will follow.

Thos. Easton's Body Found On Road Side

Sudden Death of a Lakehurst Man Last Night.

Death Supposed to Have Been Caused by Heart Failure.

This morning word was received by Dr. Gray, coroner, of the sudden death, near Lakehurst, in Harvey Township, of Thomas Easton, a resident of the village of Lakehurst. It appears that last night Mr. Easton, who was employed with Mr. Harry Irwin, a farmer living within a short distance of Lakehurst, started for his home shortly before dark, after completing his day's work. He never reached home, however, and his lifeless body was found lying on the road beside the bicycle which he had been riding.

When he did not return to his home last night, his family was naturally very anxious and there was very little sleep during the night for Mrs. Easton and the three children, who are now left fatherless, and this morning a search was instituted, with the result that his body was found.

There were no marks on the body to indicate foul play, and it is probable that death was due to heart failure, from which disease Mr. Easton's father died some years ago.

Deceased was thirty-five years of age and was a steady, industrious man of good habits, and was highly respected. Three small children are left with his wife to mourn his loss.

The matter was reported to Dr. Grey said it is not probable that an inquest will be held, as everything seems to point to death by heart failure and the coroner has given instructions that if nothing to indicate anything different develops the body may be buried.

The City Water Has Not Been Strictly Pure

Acting M. H. O. Young and Chief Rozel Make Investigation.

Found Conditions Which Should Not Exist—Persons Interested Instructed to Remedy Matter.

Yesterday, Dr. Young, acting Medical Health Officer in the absence of Dr. Bingham, and Chief Rozel made a trip of inspection up the Otonabee River above the waterworks dam, with a view to ascertaining whether the water above the intake pipe was being polluted.

They made a thorough investigation of the conditions on both sides of the river for several miles up, and it is expected that the result of their inspection will be seen, because they found that there were substances entering the river and floating down to the waterworks dam, which should not be allowed in water used for drinking purposes. Instructions were issued by the chief and acting Medical Health Officer to those parties on whose property this condition existed, the existence of which was dangerous to the health of the people of this city, that they must remove the objectionable barnyards and discontinue the dangerous practice which had been prevalent in the past.

While it is not intended to excite unduly the suspicions of the users of city water, it is but right that conditions which are endangering the health of the public should be called attention to and removed if possible.

It is possible that the typhoid fever, which has been so prevalent in the city for the past few months may have been caused partially, at least, by the water above the intake pipe being of a character not conducive to a healthy condition.

They Spent Their Honeymoon Here

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Charles' R. C. church at Bead on Sunday morning, September 17, when Mr. George Cassidy, a well-known and popular young farmer of Mangerford, was united in marriage to Miss Mary Ryan, of Tyendinaga. Rev. Father McCarty performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of invited guests. Mr. Denis Haley supported the groom, and Miss Ryan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. After a wedding breakfast, the happy couple went to Belleville as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Burgoyne, leaving the following evening for Peterborough, where they will visit friends. On their return they will reside in Mangerford.

Officers Discussed The New Armoury Plans

Meeting of 57th Officers Held Last Night, at Which Proposed Plans for Peterborough Armoury Were Under Consideration--Committees Were Formed to Deal With the Matter--Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Present--Some of the New Features Suggested---The Peterborough Armoury Will be a Credit to the City.

Last night an informal meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment was held in the mess room at the drill hall for the purpose of considering the proposed plans of the new armoury. Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., was also present at the conference, the last results of which was the appointment of a committee to whom the duty of gathering all the information possible about the style of an armoury which will be best adapted to the needs of the militia of this city (will be entrusted, and this committee will report again to the officers, and the wishes of the latter will then be conveyed to the Government through Mr. Hall.

This committee is composed of Major Hayes, Major Stevenson, Capt. Clegg, Capt. Eastwood and Capt. Walker, and they will accept suggestions from any of the officers of the regiment and these suggestions if they are considered feasible and desirable, will be incorporated in the report, which they will present.

The feeling was that now since the Government had decided to erect an armoury here, it should be one which would be a credit to the city, and which would be sufficient to meet the requirements of the local militia for years to come. A number of the regiments in cities where armouries had been erected in recent years had made the mistake of designing the building simply to meet the requirements of the present, and had made no provision for the future, with the result that they had found, when it was too late, that in a few years the demands of the regiment had outgrown the capacity of the building.

This will be avoided in the Peterborough armoury, if possible, and in order that it may be avoided, the committee will communicate with the officers of the regiments in cities in which armouries have recently been erected with a view of finding out just in what respects they would change the construction or equipment of their building, where they going to build again.

It was pointed out that many regiments had found that they had neglected to make provision for certain features in the building which, if they were doing it over again they would recommend to the Government that they be incorporated. The committee will, also obtain through Mr. Hall, plans and blue prints from Ottawa of a number of the recently erected armouries and it is expected that from these the committee will be able to get some valuable suggestions. When they have examined the sources of information, and have designed an armoury which in their opinion will serve the purpose of the local militia, they will submit their plans to the officers of the regiment and, if approved by them they will be conveyed to the Government by Mr. Hall, who will impress upon the Department of Public Works the desirability of constructing the armoury, in accordance with the ideas of the local regiment.

The plans of the ground and first floors of an armoury as proposed by the Department of Public Works were submitted at the meeting of the officers last night, and, in the main, were approved by the officers. There were some suggested changes however, and among them was the provision of quarters for engineers corps, medical service corps, veterans, etc., as well as an enlargement of some of the rooms which are shown in the plan. It was thought that the officers' quarters should be larger than the plan called for, as well as the head room. It was also felt that the cavalry and artillery divisions should all be quartered at one end of the building, not divided at both ends, as the plan provides at the present time. It is believed, however, that these matters may be easily arranged, and that the Government will carry out any reasonable suggestions which may be made by the local officers.

The committee from the 57th, will also consult with the officers of the sister corps, the cavalry and artillery divisions, and suggestions which they may make in reference to any changes which they may consider necessary will also be submitted to the proper authorities.

Plans of the London armoury have been received by the local officers, as it was found that they resembled, in many respects those sent from Ottawa, as suggested plans for the armoury here. There are some changes, however, which experience has taught, should be made.

As to the location of the new structure, there was considerable discussion, the general opinion, however, seemed to prevail, that the better plan would be to keep the lots which they already own, viz.,—the four south lots facing Murray street. Many reasons were given why it would be advisable for the armoury to be erected on the south side of the park property. A meeting of the officers, the Board of Education and the Council, will, however, be held, probably on Tuesday, when this matter will be discussed more fully, and it is expected that at that time it will be decided, definitely just which part of the property will be used for armoury and which part for Collegiate Institute purposes.

The meeting, which was presided over by Lt.-Col. Miller, Commanding Officer of the Regiment, was attended by Major Hayes, Major Stevenson, Surgeon-Major Halliday, Capt. Mills, Capt. Eastwood, Capt. Wishart, Capt. Clegg, Capt. Stennett, Capt. McWilliams, Capt. MacPherson, Capt. Clurton, Lt.-Col. J. Z. Rogers and Col. Young. Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., was also present, as was Mr. T. A. E. Hay. Mr. Hay had prepared diagrams showing the respective sizes if the armoury, and the collegiate institute, and, in comparison, the latter looked small. The armoury, if it is constructed as large as the plan submitted, as it doubtless will be, will be an immense structure, and will be a decided credit to the city.

14TH. MIDLAND FIELD BATTERY RETURNS FROM THE PETEWAWA CAMP

Six Local Members Represented the Battery at the Annual Firing Competition—Belief That the 14th Again Led All Its Competitors—Serg.-Major Boyle Tells of the New Permanent Camp—An Ideal Place for All Kinds of Militia Manoeuvres.

This morning the six local members of the 14th Midland Field Battery, who attended the firing exercises at the new camp at Petawawa, returned, and are highly pleased with their trip. Those who went from here were Sergt.-Maj. Boyle, Sergt. Henderson, Sergt. Guerin and Gunners O'Shea, Wilson and Knapp. These six men left here on Monday last for Cobourg, where they were joined by Col. MacNaughton and a number of the members of the battalion from Cobourg. They reached the camp on Tuesday night. The new permanent camp is situated about twelve miles north of Renfrew, and the C. P. R. runs right to the grounds, so that they are easily reached. The Ottawa River forms the western boundary of the grounds and the Petawawa River the eastern.

Sergt.-Maj. Boyle, who was in charge of the Peterborough sorties, was seen this morning, and he was enthusiastic over the result of their trip, and greatly pleased with the camping grounds. He believes that a wise selection was made. The camp is thousands of acres in extent and can be used for any branch of the service, cavalry, infantry and artillery. Part of the grounds is wooded, while other parts are bare plains, and are well adapted to the infantry and cavalry movements. The battery chose their own grounds and cleared a space in the forest, from which they conducted their firing exercises.

The range was 4,000 yards, and shots were dropped over a hill three hundred feet high. The 14th again upheld its reputation as a battery of good marksmen, and Lord Aylmer warmly congratulated Col. MacNaughton on the excellent work of his men. It is believed that so far the 14th has done the best work of any battery at the new camp, and they are confident that they will be able to hold the honours which they have won in the past.

Mr. Boyle stated that the heavy artillery sections were also at the camp engaged in firing exercises, the big four-point, seven, guns firing four miles, and the fifty-pound Howitzers firing shells into the bed of the Ottawa River.

This is the first year the 14th Battery has been at the new camp, and in future this trip will be made each year for the firing competition.

Struck In The Head With An Iron Hammer

John Burke Lies Seriously Injured at St. Joseph's.

Was Hurt at Indian River Yesterday—How it Happened.

Yesterday afternoon an accident occurred on the C.P.R., near Indian River, by which John Burke, a young Irish man year old youth, employed on the railway as a section hand, was seriously injured. Burke, it appears, was engaged in straightening rails on a fish plate, and opposite him, at the other rail, a companion was driving spikes. In some way, at present unexplained, Burke was struck on the head by the sledge hammer, which his fellow workmen was using to drive the spikes.

A heavy blow was struck, and young Burke was so seriously injured that he was brought to Peterborough on a freight train, reaching here about 6.30, and was conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where Dr. Gray is attending him. It was found there was a [illegible] on the right side, where the hammer struck, also, and it is feared that there may be pressure on the brain.

At present the younger man is very low, well on toward unconscious, and unless some new complications develop he will in all probability recover.

The affair was an accident quite simple. Burke's father is also employed on the C. P. R. as a section hand.

Peterborough At Lindsay Fair

In the contest for pair carriage horses 15 1-2 hands or under, Alf. E. H. Lowry, of Peterborough, took the red ticket, while Mr. Geo. L. Marsh was second. Other Peterborough gentlemen, who captured prizes were Mr James Stephenson, who took the first for thoroughbred colt and yearling, single carriage horse, and Mr. Geo. Wood, who secured the blue ticket for mare and foal in the general purpose class, also second prize for a two-year-old in the same class brought harvest.

A fine display of furs were shown by Messrs. Harris & Co., of Peterborough. An elegant ladies' short seal skin jacket was perhaps most noticed, and justly so, as the price for the same was quoted at $200. The exhibit of furs was certainly one of the finest seen in Lindsay. Mr. Lloyd Duvall is the local agent.

The Rally at Y.W.C.A. Was Much Enjoyed

Educational Work of the Association Given Impetus

Address by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe—A Good Programme.

The drawing rooms of the Y.W.C.A were nicely filled for the Educational Rally last night. The president, Mrs. W. D. Scott, presided.

Instrumental numbers were given by Misses G. Seward, H. Sanderson and M. Robertson. Rev. W. J. Jolliffe gave an address on the aims and objects of the Y.W.C.A., "The Spiritual, Intellectual, Physical and Social Development of Young Women." Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, in part, said:—God placed each of us in the mould for a purpose. He gave each an individuality to develop. Life is a training school and we are here to be disciplined. We have an intellect to train, and for that purpose the Y.W.C.A. offers you a reading room and literary clubs. We must train our muscle as well as our brain. Great importance is now attached to physical development and in the gymnasium here you will receive the very best training. Since goodness is an abiding quality, we must train our consciences. You have the privilege here of attending Bible study classes and Gospel meetings. We can only have the spiritual life when opens up communion by forgiveness of sin. This is the vital question. We can do without worldly things, but not without Christ. If we have not Christ we are the servants of things, which thus become our masters. Let us then rather accept Christ and render Him our loving service.

The Physical Director, Miss H. E. Adams, and the General Secretary, Miss J. C. Potter, B.A., were introduced. Miss Adams spoke on the advantages of Physical Curiture, and announced the classes:

Morning Class, Monday, 10 a. m., $4 for six months.

Afternoon Class, Thursday, 3.30 p. m., $3 for six months.

Evening Classes, Tuesday and Friday, 8 p.m., $3 for six months.

Junior Classes, Wednesday, 4.15 p. m., $1.50 for six months. Saturday, 10 a.m., $2.50 for six months.

Miss Potter spoke of the relation of the City Association work to the Canadian and World's Association work; also of the value of the to young women.

The Educational Classes were announced:

Monday, 3 p.m., embroidery, Miss Sherin, 10 cents a lesson.

Tuesday, 7.15, Bible study, General Secretary; 8 p.m., Shakespeare Club, Miss Weir.

Wednesday, 8 p.m., Travel Club, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams; dressmaking Madame Lee, $1 for ten lessons.

Thursday, 8 p.m., Bible study, Mrs G. H. Williamson; English, Miss Pratt.

Friday, 8 p.m., Arithmetic and Book Keeping, Miss Lightfoot.

Mrs. Lee then announced that at the dressmaking classes, young women could receive just as much instruction as desired.

Everybody then went to inspect the gymnasium and carroll for the different classes.

All young women were invited to attend any one of the educational or physical culture classes free this coming week.

A Popular Military Man Was Honoured

Capt. Laing Made Recipient of Presentation at St. Catharines.

Fellow Officers of the 19th Regiment Express Regret at His Departure.

Captain A. S. Laing, son of Mr. Robert Laing, Water street, will be in the city next week spending a few days at home before proceeding to Montreal, where he will reside in the future. The St. Catharines Journal, speaking of a presentation recently made Mr. Laing, says:

After the parade of the 19th Regiment had been dismissed on Tuesday night, the officers gathered in their quarters at the armouries for the purpose of expressing their regret at the retirement of Capt. A. S. Laing who leaves shortly to accept a very responsible position with a Montreal business firm.

When the officers had been seated Lieut.-Col. Thairs called upon Capt. Laing, and on behalf of the officers of the regiment expressed the regret of the whole regiment upon his resignation. The colonel was very brief in his remarks, though his meaning was very clearly expressed. He then presented the captain with two very handsome and costly bronze figures.

Captain Laing was somewhat astonished though he was equal to the occasion. He accepted the beautiful token, expressing his regret at his retirement from the staff. He had ever been treated with courtesy, and had sought to remember but kindness and courtesy. It was safe to say that he would never forget the happy days he spent in the 19th Regiment.

Short speeches of regret were then delivered by Major J. S. Campbell, Paymaster Dawson, Chaplain Kerr, Adjutant Dunlop, and the other officers.

Captain Laing during the time he has spent in the regiment has been one of the most enthusiastic of its members and certainly he has been one of its most valued officers. From his first arrival in the city he has been a member of the 19th, entering as a private, but soon after winning his promotion to a lieutenancy, and from that he was given command of a company. His interest in the organization has been deep. Well versed in drill and the various matters in connection with regimental affairs he has instructed his noncommissioned officers and men in a highly satisfactory manner. In his departure the 19th is deprived of an efficient and energetic officer.

"Don" Comments Upon the "Strike"

"Don" in the Toronto Saturday Night of this week remarks as follows with reference to the recent public school "strike" in Peterborough:

These are verily the days of advanced teachers and more advanced pupils, when the most ardent reformer among us may awake any morning to find himself a back number. The latest development of the spirit of "if-you-don't-see-what-you-want-strike-for-it" has come to light in the brand-new city of Peterborough, where a small band of determined youngsters recently declared that they would refrain from attendance at school until conditions were pronounced sanitary. Shades of the old oaken bucket that used to hang in the germy old well and of the old tin dipper from which the school drank in days of yore! We have become microbe-fighters beyond anything we imagined, when the tender youth of the land strike, not for the altars of their sires, but for sanitation. Great is Hygeia, and she shall prevail! Canadian youngsters have discovered that a little learning is a dangerous thing unless the Pierian spring has been properly filtered. The next thing we know an obstreperous youth will refuse to be chastized unless he is assured that the strap has been sterilized. The newspapers report that the school authorities are determined to treat the striking pupils as the common or garden variety of truants, and that the parents of the fastidious rebels are in sympathy with their revolting offspring. Ignorance and filth have popularly been considered akin, but in this case the proclaimers of purity have to take their choice between arithmetic and an untainted atmosphere.

SUN AND SNOW

Sometimes Help the Hair to Go.

In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle, and to break off stubby here and there. This makes a hair dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair dressing why not get the best, one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, causing what is called falling hair, and, in time, baldness. Newbro's "Herpicide" is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application or two of Herpicide. It is certainly a wonderful innovation as a scalp anti-septic and hair dressing.

Woman's Work And Eight-Hour Day Style

The Housewife's Side of the Short Day System.

Maggie Murphy's Argumentum and Hominem.

"The strike is begun!" he said. And he looked hard at Maggie, his wife, for she had a most unreasonable habit of saying disagreeable things when the men were ordered out, and the rent was overdue, and there was no money to satisfy the demands of butcher and grocer.

But then Maggie was a woman, and could hardly be expected to appreciate the manifold advntages of belonging to the trade union. She scowled fiercely over the sum of money that Dennis turned into the Union's treasury every payday, and in moments of extreme irritation she had even been known to calculate the pounds of meat and potatoes that the money would buy.

As it was she took in washing to fill up the gap in the weekly income.

"An' what's the trouble now?" she asked with considerable asperity.

Dennis shuffled his feet uneasily.

"We want an eight-hour day!" he mumbled.

Maggie ironed a towel with short, vicious strokes of her flat-iron, and Dennis wished that the silver-tongued agitator who had ordered the strike could be there to convince her of the justness of their cause, she was so obviously in a bad humour, and not inclined to listen to reason.

"An' is it eight hours ye want?" she cried, emphasising her words with thumps of her iron. "Eight hours' work for a strappin' big man like yerself, Dennis Murphy! It's lazy ye are. An' them unions has too many grievances altogether, that they have!"

Which was not at all a nice speech for the wife of a 'oyal union man to make.

"Eight hours work is enough for any man!" Dennis protested.

"An for any woman? How about the women? Just answer me that, Dennis Murphy!"

And Dennis thought easily conceded that a woman should not work longer than eight hours a day. Whearat Maggie smiled a calm, wise smile, that should have warned him of trouble ahead.

"An' what'll we live on the time the strike's on?"

It was a question Maggie had often asked in the eight years of her married life, and she well knew Dennis' answer, for it had never varied.

"Sure an' ye won't mind takin' in a bit of extra washin', Maggie, darlin', just to help us along till I be earnin' money ag'in?"

Maggie thought she minded very much indeed, but she held her peace. And the next morning Dennis noted with great satisfaction that the washboiler stood on the back of the stove, and Maggie seemed to be making preparations for heavy day's work.

"Sure, and I'll not begin till ye're out of thee house, Dennis," she said. "The steam do be so complaisant."

And Dennis, as he went off to discuss matters with his fellow strikers, reflected that if all other wives accepted the situation in as proper a spirit as Maggie did, the strike was likely to be a huge success.

Maggie marshalled little Molly and young Dennis and the baby into the kitchen.

"The strike is on," she announced, "an' it's a bath ye'll be after havin'."

And the children grasped for "strike" they understood, but to their unaccustomed ears "bath" had a most terrifying sound. And their mother's preparations filled their small souls with dread, for she half filled the big washtub with water, hot and cold, and she laid violent hands upon her offspring and stripped them of their clothes.

"An' it's drowned we'll be!" Molly wailed in terror, as she began to comprehend her mother's intentions concerning them.

"Sure," said Maggie in deep disgust, "an' it's ignorant little brats ye are not to know a bath when ye see one! There do be people that takes one every day!"

And, from sheer inability to answer so astounding a statement, the children were quiet while their mother scraped and scrubbed and rubbed, and, for lack of a bath towel, stood them to dry before the kitchen stove. And she combed their hair—not in the sketchy, everyday way, but with a thoroughness that brought tears to their eyes. Then, wonderful to relate, she sewed the rent in Molly's frock and darned the knees of Dennis' stockings and replaced missing buttons.

"Now be off wid ye!" she said. "For once ye'll go to school lookin' as ye should!"

Then she picked up the baby from the kitchen floor.

"You'll not play in the coal scuttle this day!" she cried with emphasis. And she put a clean starched dress on the protesting child, and put him in a big clothes basket, with an empty spool for a plaything.

"Eight hours for work," she said, "an two of 'em gone already! I'll have to hurry a bit, or I won't get through, and it's against the rules of me union to work overtime!"

Late in the afternoon Dennis betook himself homeward. His house had a strangely unfamiliar look, for there were no clothes drying in the back yard and Maggie was not in the little wash-house bending over the wash-tub.

Dennis opened the kitchen door with a strange sinking at his heart; he feared Maggie must be ill. Within, the fire burned brightly and the floor and table were scrubbed to the last degree of whiteness; but Maggie was nowhere visible. He tiptoed softly through the bedroom, which was in a like state of immaculate neatness, and on the threshold of the little parlour he paused, his mouth falling open in astonishment. For Maggie sat in the rocking chair, and her usually busy hands were folded idly in her lap. A bit of bright-coloured ribbon was twisted in her hair, and in her freshly ironed blue dress and starched white apron she presented so festive an appearance that involuntarily Dennis cast his eyes over the room in search of the company he felt sure must be somewhere concealed. But he saw only Molly and young Dennis awed into unaccustomed good behaviour and sitting stiffly on the hard little sofa, with the baby between them.

Maggie greeted him beamingly.

"Sure, an' I'm on a strike meself!" she explained. "It's eight hours I want, an' I'll do no more washing, savin' yer own an' the bits o' things for the children."

Dennis slumped weakly into a chair.

"It's not eight hours' work ye've done this day, Maggie Murphy!" he protested.

"Indade, then, an' it is!" Maggie insisted. "I cooked yer breakfast, Dennis, and I gave the children a bath —".

"Ye're never after callin' that work, Maggie darlin'? Dennis objected, in a tone of deep disgust.

"Indade, and it was hard work!" Maggie protested. And the three on the sofa nodded a vigorous assent.

Dennis abandoned the argument.

"I'm after wonderin' where the money's to come from while the strike's on," he said gloomily. Maggie rocked placidly, and smoothed out the creases in her apron.

"There's enough money put by to last out the week," she said. "An' belike by that time the strike will be off."

But Dennis knew that she referred to the official strike, and his heart was heavy within him.

Three days went by, and the official strike was still on; the unofficial one ditto.

"Sure, an' it's a grand thing to only work eight hours!" Maggie said. "I don't blame ye for strikin', Dennis. An' with the washin' off my hands I feel that easy and rested like. An' I've plenty of time to see to the children. They do be the cleanest in the street these days."

But Dennis scowled fiercely, for the question of money was becoming a serious one, and the strike wore upon his nerves.

"Nine hours' work ain't too much for a man," he muttered—"no, nor ten neither!"

And Maggie knew that she had scored a point.

The next day Dennis became diplomatic.

"It does me heart good to see ye these days, Maggie darlin'; ye're lookin' so foine an' rosy like! But I am wonderin' how it'll be when the money's all gone, an' ye'll have to stop eatin'. Yer good looks will all be leavin' ye then, Maggie darlin'."

"Sure, an' me good looks is all owin' to the rest I'm after havin'!" Maggie replied with spirit. An' if I must give up the food that I'm eatin' or the rest that I'm havin', it's the food I'll be after goin' without, Dennis Murphy!"

And Dennis realised that the unofficial strike had come to stay.

At supper the next day Maggie served generous helpings of savory stew.

"Sure, an' ye must ate all ye can," she said, "for now the money do be all gone, and there's nothin' left for the mornin', but some bread an' cold potatoes."

"An' it's the hard-hearted woman ye are, Maggie Murphy, to sit by and see yer children go hungry when ye might aisy be earnin' money by takin' in a bit of washin'!"

"Sure, and they're yer children, too, Dennis Murphy!" Maggie flung back. "An' it's your place to be earnin' money. I'll cook for them an' wash their tits of clothes an' look after them good an' faithful, but not a finger will I ever lift again to earn money!"

And that night Dennis went heavy-hearted to bed, for he knew that the unofficial strike had won.

"Hurry up wid me breakfast, Maggie darlin'!" he said next morning. "I'm after goin' back to me work this mornin'. An' I'll lave the union, bad cess to them. Sure, an' it's lowerin' to a man's dignity to be ordered 'round by them unions. I'll not be standin' it no more."

"Ye're a foine man, Dennis, that ye are, an' it's meself that's proud of ye this day!" Maggie said.

And Dennis felt that he had chosen well.—Answers.

What Are Piles? You May Ask.

And Why are They Always Relieved and Cured by the Use of Dr. Chases Ointment?

The itching, burning sensations of piles or hemorrhoids, the feelings of uneasiness and discomfort, and the loss of blood, are familiar to many who may not know the name or nature of their ailment.

Piles are small tumours, which form at the opening of the rectum, and are described as itching, bleeding or protruding, according to the symptoms that is most prominent.

The cause of greatest suffering is the intense itching, which is an almost constant symptom, while the greatest danger arises from loss of blood. You can scarcely imagine one in greater misery than the victim of a severe case of piles.

By reason of its remarkably soothing effect Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the dreadful itching. It heals the ulcers, stops the loss of blood, and makes a thorough cure of this obstinate and loathsome disease.

The old idea of a surgical operation, with all the accompanying pain expense and risk, as the only cure for piles, has given way before the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which has demonstrated its power in thousands of cases where operations have failed.

W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros. tobacco merchants, 363 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for itching piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and through I tried very many treatments remained unrelieved until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me and I find that every word of praise is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured and knowing the misery that the ointment produces I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Do not make the mistake of dropping this treatment as soon as the itching stops. Make the cure lasting by persistent use. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Romantic Woman Hermit.

With only an old bacon box as her shelter, a woman has lived a hermit's life for more than two years in a lonely spot in Derbyshire, says The London Daily Chronicle. The other day the police visited her retreat, and compelled her to seek a new "home" elsewhere.

The woman's name is Alice Grace, and she is forty years of age. She is a simple, harmless woman, who is said to have been once well-off, but has experienced many changes of fortune. She has been living on a triangular piece of waste land about five yards square, in the beautiful Derbyshire district known as the Cox Bench Valley.

Along one side runs a stream of pure water from a neighboring spring, whence she got her water supply. The retreat is in a secluded by-road leading to the woods and hills which form the end of the Pennine chain between Cox Bench and the Derwent Valley.

Her belongings on this little plot consisted of an old bacon box, in which she crouched in wet weather, an old iron bedstead and a few bedclothes, a three-legged chair, a table top without legs, cooking utensils, three buckets, and a bowl. She had three wooden chests, in which she deposited such things as she wished to keep from exposure to wind and rain.

It was her popularity which resulted in her removal. No one thought of interfering with her until she was recently discovered by an exploring photographer, who took her portrait. Since then she has figured as a romantic hermit on picture post cards. In consequence she received a visit from hundreds of people, and was given considerable sums of money.

Recently someone laid claim to the piece of land on which she lived, though it is not known whether it is private or public property. The hermit was visited by the police, who told her that if she did not depart in three days her goods would be confiscated and she would be locked up. Choosing an old disused quarry a few hundred yards away as her future home, she moved to her new quarters—a task which occupied her from 7 o'clock until midnight. Many people have visited her new quarry home, and much sympathy is felt for her. She once lived in a work-house, but declared she will never enter one again.

IMPORTANTLY.

Two caterpillars crawling on a leaf,
By some strange accident in contact came;
Their conversation, passing all belief,
Was that same argument, the very same.
That has been "proed and conned" from man to man.
Yea, ever since this wondrous world began.
The ugly creatures,
Deaf, dumb and blind,
Devoid of features,
That adorn mankind,
Were vain enough, in dull and wordy strife,
To speculate upon a future life.
The first was optimistic, full of hope;
The second, quite dyspeptic, seemed to mope.
Said number one, "I'm sure of our salvation;"
Said number two, "I'm sure of our damnation;
Our ugly forms alone would seal our fates
And bar our entrance through the golden gates.
Suppose that death should take us unawares,
How could we climb the golden stairs?
If maidens shun us as they pass us by,
Would angels bid us welcome in the sky?
I wonder what great crimes we have committed,
That leave us so forlorn and so unpitied?
Perhaps we've been ungrateful, unforgiving;
'Tis plain to me that life's not worth the living."
"Come, come, cheer up," the jovial worm replied,
"Let's take a look upon the other side;
Suppose we cannot fly like moths or millers,
Are we to blame for being caterpillars?
Will that same God that doomed us to crawl the earth,
A prey to every bird that's given birth,
Forgive our captor as he eats and sings,
And damn poor us because we have not wings?
If we can't skim the air like owl or bat,
A worm will turn 'for a' that,'"
They argued through the summery autumn nigh,
The ugly things composed themselves to die;
And so to make their funeral quite complete,
Each wrapped him in his little winding-sheet.
The tangled web encompassed them full soon,
Each for his coffin made him a cocoon.
All through the winter's chilling blast they lay
Dead to the world, aye, dead as human clay.
Lo, spring comes forth with all her warmth and love;
She brings sweet justice from the realms above;
She breaks the chrysalis, she resurrects the dead;
Two butterflies ascend encircling her head.
And so this emblem shall forever be
A sign of immortality.

—Joseph Jefferson.

An Interesting Shipment.

The Dominion Express Co. recently handled a wild animal shipment, with the following "special" instructions for the care and feed of the beasts: "Kill alternately one pigeon and two pigeons daily. Pluck and take the corn out of the pigeons' crops and then give them to the leopard. The day when two pigeons are killed give a little to the bush cat and the civet cat, as these two animals require a little meat occasionally. The bush cat, civet and genet wanda require bread and milk daily, for which purpose one tin daily is allowed. Occasionally also the leopard can have a drink of milk. The agouti lives on carrots and bread."

FOR THIRTY YEARS

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, ex-Member of Congress.

Over fifty members of Congress endorse Peruna as a catarrhal tonic. Man of prominence the world over praise Peruna.

A TONIC is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membrances.

Peruna is a tonic to the mucous membranes of the whole body. It gives tone to the capillary circulation which constitutes their delicate membranes.

Peruna is a specific in its operation upon the mucous membranes. It is a tonic that strikes at the root of the catarrhal affections. It gives tone to the minute blood vessels and the terminal nerve fibres. Catarrh cannot exist long where Peruna is used intelligently. Peruna seeks out catarrh in all the hidden parts of the body.

A. M. Ikerd, an employe of the C. B. & Q. R. R., West Burlington, Ia., writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief. Finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me, that I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was something awful. I could hardly stand it, it was so offensive. I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I got one of your books, and concluded I would try Peruna, and thank God, I found a relief and a cure for that dreadful disease. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle in my house all the time."—A. M. Ikerd.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually called dyspepsia. Catarrhal dyspepsia cannot be cured by pepsin powders or any other temporary relief. The only cure for real dyspepsia is a removal of the catarrh from the mucous membrane of the stomach. This Peruna will do. This Peruna has done thousands and thousands of times.

Congressman Botkin, of Kansas, was cured of catarrh of the stomach of many years' standing. Hundreds of other cases have been reported to us through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna is the only internal systemic remedy for catarrh yet devised. Every one afflicted with catarrh in the slightest degree ought to take a course of Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Luxury In Travel.

"Lord Hawke is a judge of comfort in travel if any man is," says The London, England, Canadian Gazette, which adds:—"Last week he returned from India and Japan by way of the Pacific and Canada, and we can well believe how every Canadian Pacific Railway official will blush as he reads what the famous cricketer has to say in The Sheffield Daily Telegraph:—'I have never known such a company as the Canadian Pacific Railway,' says he. 'The travelling is luxury. Everyone on the whole line is civil, kind and willing to do everything to add to one's comfort. As to the journey across the Rockies, it was superb. Once we had a rare experience of one engine at the front of a second, with a third pushing its hardest at the rear. We shouldn't have got up otherwise. I was with Lord and Lady Castlereagh on that part of the trip, and we couldn't have had a finer time of it. The scenery is wonderful, and the weather was grand. I was sitting on the engine part of the way across.' Writing to a friend, Lord Hawke says:—'Everyone (in Canada) was goodness itself, and I should like to add how much I admired the wonderful management of the Canadian Pacific Railway.'"

Why Are They Punished?

If some philanthropist were to start a society for the prevention of cruelty to rugs and carpets the entire male population would rise up as one man and become charter members.

It is a mistake that man takes a club and beats a rug because he has it in for the foot mat. He does it to keep peace in the family. The wife whom he has sworn to love calls his attention about three times a day to the fact that the rug needs beating, and finally he takes off his coat and administers punishment, although in his own mind there may be grave doubts as to the rug's guilt.

Single handed and against the united women of the household a man scarcely dares to rise up in rebellion, but let some one with nerve start a rugs' protective association and he will flock to it as naturally as the genus hobo gravitates toward the free lunch counter.

And, lifting up their grateful heads,

I love to hear the dash and pour
Of water on the pane—
The garden beds I often sow

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The race and creed cries raised by certain newspapers and politicians is infectous. The race issue in Austro-Hungary has already led to bloodshed, and threatens the disruption of the Empire or a bloody struggle in any event to prevent or accomplish it.

At last it has been decided that Gaynor and Greene, the southern refugees from justice, are to be deported from Canada under an extradition mandate. It is quite palpably truthful that the country will be the gainer by this decision.

In the course of a stinging article on the action of certain Ontario Conservative organs, and in indicating one result La Presse, Montreal, remarks, that "soon there will be nothing in common possible between the Conservatives of Ontario and Quebec." But what care such journals about the Conservative party so long as they think they can injure the Liberal party? They are like a man who would burn his house to warm his hands at the blaze.

If the Toronto News is sometimes rather anti partisan it is not because it cannot be otherwise as witness the following:—"The Liberal press in Ontario, having taken some credit to itself for fair treatment of the Whitney Government, the retort is made that the Whitney Government has done nothing to deserve hostile criticism. But while that reflects credit on the Government, it does not deprive the newspapers of the credit of treating the Government fairly. The Laurier Government was bitterly attacked before it was fairly organized, and before any body could have formed the least idea of its intentions. Such criticism defeats its own ends, for when the Government really does wrong, the public imagine that it is merely the old cry of wolf. As yet the Whitney Government has the advantage not only of good intentions, but of the innocence of youth. If it should attain the age of thirty-four years instead of as many weeks, it will doubtless have many sins to answer for.

There has been, says the Winnipeg Free Press, some criticism directed against Mr. Cross, attorney-general of the new Government of Alberta, because of his alleged connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. It need hardly be stated that these criticisms emanate from Conservatives speakers and newspapers, yet it is a fact that Mr. R. B. Bennett is the solicitor for the C. P. R., and Senator Lougheed, his partner, has been the representative of that company in the Senate for the last twenty years. The Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, while solicitor for the Canadian Pacific, represented Winnipeg also in the House of Commons for some years. One of his present partners has been simultaneously solicitor for the Canadian Northern and alderman of the city of Winnipeg. None of these gentlemen has ever acknowledged that there could be anything anomalous in these dual positions. Certainly, they have never been subjected to any criticism of Conservative origin. It so happens, moreover, that Mr. Cross has no connection whatever with the Grand Trunk Pacific, but that is no reason why the Conservative speakers and press should apologize to him. They are not built that way.

Electing County Councils; Proposed Change in Mode

The Saturday Night thus deals with the proposal of the Whitney Government to change the method of constituting county councils:

Considerable discussion has been evoked by the proposal of the Ontario Government to make another change in the county council system. Prior to 1897 the county councils of the Province were composed of the reeves and deputy reeves of the various municipalities. In that year a change was made. In every county divisions were established, each of which elected two commissioners for a term of two years. The council was thereby greatly reduced in size and was made entirely independent of the township, town and and village councils. It is now proposed to revert the old system at the beginning of 1907.

Both systems have weak and strong points. The county council as at present constituted is the better because it is smaller and should have more stability on account of its more extended term. Its great defect is that it is not truly represented. In order to be elected a county commissioner under the present system, a man must be a resident of a large town or township or he must have a special "pull" in the county as a politician, as a big employer of labour, or a professional busybody. There are plenty of men of the latter class in the country—men of mediocre ability who have perhaps acquired a small competence and who gladden their hearts by jollying good-natured ratepayers into voting them to office. The county council should not be used as a hobby horse nor as a school for pinhead politicians. The small towns, too, are practically without representation at present. I hazard the statement that a majority of the villages and towns in the Province averaging in population 1,000 to 1,500 have never been able to elect a county representative since 1897.

The old form of council, to which it is proposed to return, was always too unwieldy and too slow in doing business. As a rule, the "boys" from the different municipalities spent the best part of a week at the commencement of a session in getting acquainted, in going on excursions, in being entertained by all the county officials, and in incidentally electing a warden. After the session they returned home laden with penknives, lead pencils, pocket handkerchiefs, and other articles of stationery and dingerie purchased by the contingency committee, and feeling as tired as if they had been to a Twelfth of July celebration that lasted two weeks.

If the councils could be composed of the heads of local municipalities, elected for a period of two years, with a considerable reduction in the number of deputies, the good points of each system would be incorporated in the change. When the term of office is only a year it is all but impossible to carry out definite policies. Even in small towns, such important matters as installing waterworks systems or electric light plants, or laying granolithic sidewalks extensively, are delayed and sometimes abandoned because the men who would commence the work realize that they would not be given a chance to complete it satisfactorily. Such modern movements as the County Roads System, which has been taken up by a number of the most progressive counties in Ontario, would have slight chance of being adopted by councils elected yearly.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

A NIGHTMARE was what the Legal Committee of the City Council had on Thursday night, when they were confronted with two suits for damages. In one case, $37.50 was claimed for damages sustained by a horse owing to the defective condition of the covering of the Brock and Aylmer street bridge. There seemed to be a hole for the council to get into a hole, but there also seemed to be no hole for the council to crawl out of its responsibility in the matter, and and a settlement was made for $27.50. Now, there is no evidence as to the size of the hole. It appears that the equine of Mr. Windover Hubble got three feet through the hole, but it is not probable that all three feet were in the hole at the same time. This gives some indication of the size of the opening, and it is therefore safe to conclude that the necessary repairs could have been made, for, at the most, $7.50, leaving the council $20 to the good, which, under the circumstances, was thrown away owing to neglect of duty — owing to disregard of the rather thread-bare proverb, "A stitch in time saves nine."

THE OTHER nightmare was a case of both Grady and grading. Mr. P. J. Grady, cab-owner, claimed $100.00 damages to compensate for injuries sustained through a leg of his horse going through a soft hole in the street — an accident that might easily have happened if the horse had stepped on an aldermanic head, instead.

NO WONDER the horse was hurt, on that portion of Park street which for nearly a year past has been left in a simply disgraceful condition. Ever since the construction of the street railway, which interfered with the old level of the street, the west side of Park street, from Gilmour street, has been an extended mudhole. Perhaps, to be consistent, this condition has been allowed to remain—so that it would match the beautiful stretch of pavement construction on Park street between Hunter and Weller street. If ex-Alderman Morrison was responsible for that bit of cross-eyed engineering, he has dearly paid the penalty, for on Park street, directly in front of his residence, there has existed for months, the worst and most villainous mudholes, to be found outside of Lindsay, or Winnipeg.

NO MORE brilliant example of civic neglect can be found anywhere in the city, than this same stretch of street. Where the railway line passes along the boundary, north of McDonel street, similar conditions were left by construction work, but the "hayseed" council of North Monaghan township, as our aldermen might, by way of differentiation, call them, have promptly attended to their share of putting the roadway in good passable condition. If Mr. Grady gets his claim for damages that will make the ratepayers $127.50 out of pocket, which might have been saved by prompt repairs, not to speak of the great gain to taxpayers, who could have enjoyed the use of the bridge and the street with comfort, instead of being penalized every time they used them. The explanation must be that our Aldermen are working on what "Taxpayer" condemns in a letter in yesterday's issue — the eight hour a day system — and haven't time to attend to small trivialities as impassable streets and perforated bridge coverings.

THE AUTHORITIES of the Murray street Baptist church must be intending to adopt a harmonizing style of decorations for their church—water colours, judging by the name of the lyric artist—Van der Water—engaged to sing at their recital next Tuesday evening, to raise funds for re-decorating the interior of the church.

DOUBT has been thrown by the School Board, upon the character of our plumbing inspection. The vote of want of confidence consisted in sending out of the city, to Toronto, for a plumbing expert to examine into the conditions which made so much commotion in connection with one of the rooms of the Central School. The doubting Thomas element must have been pretty well developed to justify the Board in incurring the considerable expense in connection with this action. Now, it is of the first importance to the citizens to know, whether or not, the opinion of the Board of our plumbing inspection, is justified, or not. If the opinion of the Board is justified, let us know it, so that a remedy can be applied; if it is not, let us know that also, so that our citizens may sleep easily in their beds without dreams of deadly sewer gases invading their systems, and setting up deadly disease. No one will deny the importance of perfect plumbing conditions; the health, the lives of our citizens, depend upon it. If our plumbing is good, if our inspection is good, then the money spent by the Board to bring an expert from Toronto, has been wasted, and worse—uneasy doubts have been cast upon the character of our plumbing inspection. If opposite conditions exist, then we are living in a fool's paradise, and no action can be too prompt in the direction of providing a remedy. The School Board has raised the question, and it is for the Town Council to meet the issue, with as much thoroughness and as little delay as possible.

THE ACTION of the School Board seems to be bearing fruit, and the health Authorities are on the alert. Yesterday Acting-Medical Health Officer Young, and Chief Rousel, made a riparian inspection of the river above the water works intake to ascertain if any undesirable conditions existed. What they found is detailed in our news columns, but it is worth while pointing out that the course promptly taken by the health authorities is commendable. What is lacking in our civic administration is promptitude. There is too much drag and drift. Matters that should be remedied at once, are neglected, and the grumble of the ratepayer which is heard, might be silenced in advance by doing needed things, when they should be done.

Meeting of Art Culture Club Enjoyed

Last Night's Programme Was Much Appreciated.

Beethoven, Dante and Michael Angelo, Were the Subjects.

The Art Culture Club held it's second meeting last night at the Conservatory of Music, when a very enjoyable as well as profitable time was spent by the large number in attendance. The chair was occupied by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The interest in the work of the Club is growing and a number have joined as associate members. The number of active members is limited, although there are still a few vacancies, but all who wish to be identified with the club as associate members may do so at the reduced fee of one dollar, which gives a membership in the club for a period of two years. The associate members are asked to help the active members in the preparation of the evening's work, and in that way they may take an active part also.

Any who wish to join before the next meeting, which will be held on October 13th, may leave their names with Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot, Miss Dobbin or Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The musical section of the programme of last evening's meeting, was in charge of Miss Alice Roger, and proved most delightful.

Mrs. Wilmot read a character sketch of Beethoven, which was very interesting and instructive. Miss Mabel Bradburn played with much expression the first movement of the "Moonlight Sonata," one of the best known of Beethoven's works. An explanation of the different forms of Rondos and Sonatas was read by Miss Roger, in which it was said that though the "Rondo" appears in many different forms in the works of different composers, Beethoven used it in its true form. His "Rondo in G Major" was an especially good example of this. This was given by Miss Roger with much delicacy and expression and was much enjoyed by the members, as was shown by their hearty applause at the close.

The poet of the evening, "Dante," was taken by Miss Halliday and in an original essay was most effectively written. The life and works of the poet were given and special reverence to the "Divine Comedia," and the love of Dante for Beatrice, was made. Many of the members had attended the "Dante" lectures given by Prof. Clark last spring, and Miss Halliday's paper was perhaps the most enjoyed for that reason.

"Michael Angelo, and his works," was the subject which Mrs. (Rev.) W. J. Jolliffe dealt with in a most interesting manner. Particular reference was made to two of his greatest painting, "The Holy Family," and "The Last Judgment," the descriptions being read by Miss Susie Campbell and Miss Clarry.

A gentleman present who had been in the Sistine Chapel at Rome and had seen many of Michael Angelo's paintings there, said that the reproductions which were passed around for the inspection of the members were really very good. Miss Alice Roger read a description of Beethoven's Sonata, No. 10, op. 2, in which its different movements were noticed, the first being grave and dignified, and the second and last bright and cheery. Miss Roger played it most beautifully and with much grace and expression, and was applauded heartily.

Some general business was taken up at the close of the meeting and an opportunity given for discussion.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on October 13th, and those who are responsible for the different sections are "Greig," Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot; "Burns," "Millet," Miss Roger.

Old Settler's Sentiments On Deer Shooting

Advocates Revision of the Game Laws.

Thinks Hunters' Rifles Shoot Too Far—People in Danger.

"Old Settler" writes thus in the Bobcaygeon Independent:—

Sir,—In your issue of September 23, I see an article on the game laws. As an old settler I would like to say a few words on the subject. Unless the Government revise the present game laws, before long somebody will be shot, not by greenhorns, who do not know how to load a gun, neither will they be mistaken for deer, but they will be shot by old hunters, and the reason will be that the rifles they use now for deer hunting, carry too far. The majority of them if fired at an elevation will carry a fair with deadly effect for nearly three miles, as the following incidents will prove. Two years ago one of my neighbours took a walk one day to the back of his clearing and found one of his cattle shot. He never found out who did the shooting, probably the person who fired the shot does not know to this day that he did any damage. I know of another cattle beast that got shot the same way last fall. Last November a woman who lives on the next lot to myself was nearly shot whilst taking a walk, six bullets striking within a few feet from where she was standing. By comparing dates, direction, etc., it was ascertained these shots were fired by an old hunter over half a mile away. One day last fall, during hunting season I was in my stable and three bullets came right through the stable, it is a frame stable, double boarded inside and out. I since found out the shots were fired by an old hunter about a mile and a quarter away, certainly over a mile away. During the hunting season not only is a farmer himself in danger from these long carrying rifles, but his horses and cattle whilst out at pasture run a great risk, and it is hardly safe to sit in one's own home. The only remedy I can see from this danger is for the Government to place a very high duty on powder and shot, and especially rifle cartridges. It should be useless to put a duty on rifles, because most of the hunters have rifles already. If the Government would put a high duty on ammunition it would do more to preserve the game than anything else. The present game laws are constantly broken in the back country, and are almost a dead letter.

Yours truly,
OLD SETTLER.

FOOTBALL.

The fate of the R. A. Hall Cup, emblematic of the County championship, is still in doubt. True, Bridgenorth is the present possessor and an old adage tells us "possession is nine points of the law". But the Quakers are making a most strenuous effort to have another, and decisive game played.

The whole bone of contention arises over the uncertainty as to whether the cup is for "annual competition" or whether it is a "challenge" cup. In the first instance a decisive game is necessary, but should the "mug" be a challenge affair, Bridgenorth has cinched its hold upon it, for this year at least.

Apart from all partisan feelings, it is to be hoped the trustees insist on a deciding game. Spectators agree that the teams are most evenly matched, and the resulting struggle, besides furnishing good sport would settle finally the present disputed superiority, in the minds of both players and supporters.

Secy. Boyce Has Resigned His Position

As Secretary of the Star of the East Gold Mining Co.

Work Under the New Management Being Pushed Vigorously—Good Prospects.

J. W. Boyce, secretary-treasurer and one of the directors of the Star of the East Gold Mining and Milling Co., Limited, has resigned his positions, as he intends going south for the winter and will improve and cultivate his fruit land in Cuba. He intends to set out at least one thousand orange as well as other tropical fruit trees. Mr. Boyce wishes to intimate to the stockholders of the Star of the East Gold Mining and Milling Co., Limited, that work under the new management, the president, J. K. Dale, of Franklin, Pa., and Mr. E. J. Cowain, superintendent at the mine, will be pushed vigorously forward, and at the present under the new Board of Directors, everything in line is putting on a very promising aspect. Out of three small pans of dirt taken recently from the tailings and refuse washings that passed over the plates of the mill into the dump we have been able to pan out $22 in gold, and also discovered a quantity of quicksilver washed from the plates of the mill into the refuse. Further investigations are being made, and work in No. 1 shaft will be sunk to a great depth. Recent discoveries under the new management are of such a nature that we are justified in the belief that we have one of the richest gold mines in America. A directors' meeting is called for the 5th of October, at Peterborough, to adjourn to the mine for business, and back to the city to appoint a new secretary-treasurer. All just claims and indebtedness of the old management will be settled at once.

J. W. Boyce,
Secretary-treasurer,

A Vocalist Of This City Wins Laurels

Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe's Talent Recognized in Toronto.

What the Music and Trades Journal Says of Him.

Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe, a son of Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, of this city, has already won distinction for himself in Toronto musical circles. A recent number of the Canadian Music and Trades Journal contains a splendid half tone illustration of Mr. Jolliffe, and has the following reference to an engagement:—"Miss Cornelia Heintzman, one of Mr. J. D. A. Tripp's most talented piano students and Mr. Norman Jolliffe, a most promising baritone pupil of Herr August Wilhelmj, are to assist Master Campbell Weeks, the little violinist, on the 27th inst."

Mr. Jolliffe is also to assist in the production of "Living Songs," which under the direction of Mr. Wilhelmj, will be given in Massey Music Hall, and of this the Journal says —:

"Mr. August Wilhelmj's proposal to present before a Canadian audience the Living Songs of Liederspiele, so famous across the water, has created widespread interest. In Germany, Austria, Belgium, Sweden, and other countries, these Liederspiele have been given again and again to crowded houses, and in several places, as at Imperial Liederspiele Blume in Kroll Gardens, they were presented for an entire season. They have had the honour of being under the direct patronage of Prince Adalbert of Prussia, brother of the Emperor. Mr. Wilhelmj is the first to translate these songs into English, which, of course, was no light task. One reason for their universal popularity is that they are not emotional, only for the musical people, although the settings are of very high order, but the costumes, dances, scenery and humourous effects appeal irresistibly to everyone who can see or hear.

The first production will probably be given in Massey Hall, Toronto, early in November. "Living Songs" are under the management of Fullerton & Shaw.

Monkey Brand Soap removes all stains, rust, dirt or tarnish—but won't wash clothes

First Ascent Of The Crow's Nest by Amateurs

The first ascent of the Crow's Nest Pass, the famous western peak, by a party of amateurs, was first accomplished on August 20th last, by four young men after a perilous climb of some four hours.

The party was composed of K. Whimster, of Frank, P. D. McTavish, Calgary; D. G. Harrower, of Lethbridge, and D. L. Stauffer, of Coleman.

For some time they were in training for the event, Messrs. McTavish and Harrower climbing mountains at Banff and Mr. Whimster making every effort to work up muscle and wind.

Equipped with axes, ropes, provisions, water bottles, camera, etc., they made a start from Coleman at 3 a.m., on Sunday, the 20th of August, taking horses from there to the old logging camp, of the McLaren Company, about five miles north of Parris' ranch, close up to the foot of the mountain. This was the route traversed by the Whymper party two years ago. There the horses were left and the men followed the Whymper blaze through the bush till it was lost, when they struck out for themselves, travelling four or five miles before the edge of the timber line was reached. This done they arrived at the base of the main hill, at its southwest corner, at 8.30 o'clock. The real climbing then commenced, the party gradually working around to the northwest corner of the hill, where they struck a narrow ravine with a glacier in it.

They first made an attempt to scale the precipitous wall, but failed after climbing 200 feet. Going about half way up the crevice they again attempted the precipice on the north side and, after a hard struggle, succeeded. For 500 feet it was almost straight up, footholds being had on narrow ledges and knobs of rock. Mr. Whimster was in the lead, and once or twice members of the party became faint and had to be held up by the ropes, for a slip would have meant a horrible death.

After scaling the precipice, the most perilous part of the whole climb, a series of shale slides, and short cliffs were met with for several hundred feet. Thence the men worked northward along the incline, finally hitting the base of the cone on the north side. Then for half a mile it was a stiff and dangerous climb until the summit was reached at 12.15 o'clock. There the party found a stone cairn built by the professional Swiss guides, who made the first ascent two years ago, an empty bottle, and a red flag. The climbers erected another cairn close by and carved their names on a slip of paper and left it in the bottle. Besides this they stretched a cord between the two cairns and tied to it a white handkerchief which may still be seen floating on the summit. As a memento of their trip the men brought down the Swiss flags and a number of photos they had taken of the marvellous views to be had up there.

Round The World In a Motor Car

Mr. C. J. Glidden, of Boston, Mass., who, with his wife, is making a tour of the world in a motor car, believes that already he has seen more of the world and strange peoples than any other individual now living. So far he has travelled more than 25,100 miles, and has visited thirty-four countries. He has driven along the most northern road on the earth, and the most southern road. In Australia and New Zealand he has driven where the road would have been better had there been no road at all. But he is already convinced that the world was made for motoring, and that the pastime of the immediate future will be motoring round the world.

"For pleasure there is nothing on earth like it," said Mr. Glidden, in a recent interview. "For educating a man as to what the world is like and what its peoples are doing nothing could equal it."

Mr. Glidden has taught two kings how to drive a motor car, and has left behind him a longing for the new vehicle wherever he has been. He is looking forward to the time when the world will be laid down with special motor car tracks, railed like the railways, and every man will be his own train.

Motors Everywhere.

"Hardly anything has surprised me more," he said, "than seeing the astounding rapidity with which the motor car is making its way in the world. It is everywhere. Mine was the first to be seen in Fiji. Perhaps I shall find a few places in Africa where one has not been before. But already the motor car is everywhere, and everywhere it is being wanted.

"When I landed in Fiji the natives were very scared at first, and declared that 'the father of all the devils' had fallen among them. I believe that in Fiji the motor car will now always be known by a native name, meaning 'Sire of Satan.' But after I had taken King Ratu Kadavu Levu Tui Taileon for the first ride and then given him a taste of speed, he wanted to know whether I could go at sixty miles an hour, and was quite disappointed because I couldn't.

"H. E. Levu R. T. Thakon, the King of the Fijians, is a fine specimen of a modern king. He is doing his best for his people. His father was a cannibal. He himself is a man of most polished and up-to-date manners, and he is gifted with excellent common sense. He still wears the bare legs and white apron of his country, but above them he has European dress, and he does not do his hair in the grotesque native fashion. He met me in an English check jacket and waistcoat, and cap to match, with white apron and bare legs underneath. For the instruction of his people he got me to take many of them for rides.

"One old aristocrat whom I drove about admitted to having travelled at no faster than forty-seven human beings in his earlier years. He looked it. He was not good at arithmetic, and there were no doubt many other festivals on human display which he did not count in with the forty-seven. Wherever his mind went back to those occasions, you could see that he was reviving pleasant memories with evident relish. He liked riding in my car, but I believe he would have liked better to see me nicely roasting. But cannibalism is out of fashion now in Fiji, and is only indulged in on the sly; the authorities have practically put an end to it.

The Sultan of Java and his Home.

"I have just left a different sort of monarch, the Sultan of Java. He only resembles the ruler of the Fijians in the length of his name. All I have of it is 'S. P. J. M. Tocan Bocanchoosman Police Boewono Soerbarta Adinigrant.' But that, I believe, is only what he is called for short. He did write the whole of it for me on a beautiful photograph of himself with which he presented me. By writing in a very small and cramped hand he just managed to get it all in in six lines. Each line is twelve inches long, and there is no waste of room by having spaces between the names.

"But the Sultan of Java has plenty of spare time on his hands. He can afford to have a name like that. He manages most of the affairs which are in any way involved with the religious ideas of his people; but the Dutch do most of the other work for him.

"We arrived at Soka, the capital, on a Friday, and His Majesty sent a prince to meet me and express his royal regrets that the day being the Mohammedan Sunday he could not see me until Saturday, but we could visit the palace. Our reception by him was one of the most wonderful ceremonies ever conceived. The palace of the Kraton stands in walled-in grounds four miles square. Out of those grounds the sultan very rarely goes. Until a couple of years ago he had never seen the sea, which is only fifty miles away. The queen had never been even the streets until she crossed them on her wedding day. The buildings of the palace consist almost entirely of columns covered with immense roofs and with great ornamentations in gold and silver.

"At the gates we were received by the prince, commandant of the native army. In the inner court we were welcomed by a chorus of girls chanting, and a band playing on the peculiar Javanese instruments, which sound like rubbing a finger on glasses. On the floor sat 2,000 royal attaches and servants. Mrs. Glidden and the wife of the commandant were put on the right of the sultan's chair; I and the Dutch assistant resident on the left. His Majesty entered with a slow and stately step, followed by ministers and servants, crouching down on their heels, and waddling along in that comical attitude as if all were doing a cobbler's dance.

An Empty Treasury but a Full Quiver.

"His Majesty shook hands cordially, and asked many questions through the assistant resident. Then he had the car brought into his presence and examined it. He asked the price, and on learning it sent at once for his treasurer, who came in crouching on his heels. In the royal presence only whites are allowed to stand upright. The Sultan told his treasurer the cost of the car, and asked if there was enough money in the treasury at the moment to provide that sum. Without looking up, the treasurer made a calculation, and replied that the unhappy treasury of his most gracious Majesty, might his fathers be ever blest, did not at the moment contain so large a sum.

"The Sultan was very sad. But he is always sad. He has 21 wives and 28 children. But his Queen, the No. 1 wife, is childless. I took some of the sons for short rides, and then nine of the Princesses, all of whom were about 18 years of age, entertained us by dancing the Court dance, a beautiful movement, which they kept up continuously for an hour and a half. Later, Mrs. Glidden was received by the Queen. In the evening, the Sultan obtained courage enough to go for a ride.

"My car will probably never have an odder load. To impress me with a sufficient feeling of responsibility, the King placed in the car his Queen, one of his daughters, two other wives, the Assistant Resident, and the Royal Umbrella Bearer. The umbrella is the sign of rank in Java. The Sultan's is gold. Aristocrat rank is marked by stripes on the top of the umbrella. 'Go slowly,' said the King, 'and keep to the centre of the road.' I wasn't sorry to go slowly, for I knew that if anything happened on that ride I should never get out of the island alive. Java is a glorious place for boars'at. Dutch engineers have made splendid roads. There are excellent hotels, and the cost isn't more than 10s. a day."

—Yesterday was almost as warm as any day the past summer, and to-day was much the same. The highest reading in the shade yesterday was 88 deg.

Pathetic Suicide of Canadian Girl in the City of Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 30.—Discouraged, footsore and heartsick, because of her failure to obtain employment, Blanche Haines, twenty-one years old, who came to Detroit three weeks ago from her home in Ridgetown, committed suicide here yesterday by swallowing enough arsenic to kill a dozen men. With her last ten cent piece she purchased the poison at a drug store late Thursday night and a few hours later was unconscious, dying at three o'clock yesterday morning. Her last words were: "Tell mother I love her."

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

Reports From Along the Path of Recent Manila Typhoon.

Manila, Sept. 30.—Reports now coming in from places along the path of the recent typhoon in the island of Luzon and the southern islands indicate great loss of life and property. In the waters surrounding Samar and other islands many coasting vessels and island transports have been wrecked.

The coast-guard cutter Leyte is a complete wreck, and eleven Americans and twenty-four natives were drowned. At the town of Sorsogon fifteen natives were drowned.

The loss on hemp plantations is estimated at $1,000,000. The army transport Juan Rodriguez is ashore at Legaspi. In the interior of the island of Samar thousands of natives are homeless, and the same report comes from many of the other small islands.

The army posts in the southern islands have been destroyed. The civil and military authorities are rushing aid to the suffering people, in the form of supplies of food and shelter.

Owing to the destruction of the telegraph system, reports received from other points are very meagre.

UNIVERSE IN COLLISION.

One Dredge is Sunk and Another is Badly Damaged.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—A collision occurred at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning in the harbor, whereby one of the harbor commissioners' dredges was sunk and another badly damaged.

The accident was caused by the Dominion Coal steamer Universe, in an endeavor to get out of the way of a downcoming steamer, the Bay State, which was moving outward with a tow of two whalebacks.

In pulling about in the stiff current opposite the city the Universe, which was coming in loaded with coal from Sydney, ran plump into one of the dredges and then into the other.

The nightwatchman, the only man on board the dredge at the time, fled for his life to the other dredge, and managed to get off the sinking vessel just in time.

FATAL GAS ACCIDENT.

Rochester Visitor to Toronto Found Dead In Her Bed.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Smothered by escaping gas, Mrs. Robert McAnnon was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of her son-in-law, E. H. Lasher, 478 1-2 Manning avenue. Mrs. McAnnon was a resident of Rochester, where her husband is a prominent lumberman. She was on a visit here and about 4 o'clock got up to attend to one of the children, lighting the gas to do so. The fatality was discovered at 8.

George Hoggart of Stratford was a guest at the Hotel Vendome, Yonge street and Wilton avenue, Thursday night. He blew out the gas. At 10.30 yesterday he was found unconscious, but was brought around at St. Michael's Hospital.

Canada Writes Australia For Preferential Compact.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—A Melbourne despatch states that the Australian Government has received a communication from the Canadian Government, asking whether the Commonwealth is prepared to establish a system of preferential trade relations with Canada. The Federal Government is considering the communication.

Mikado Was Forced to Come To Peace Terms

End of Financial Resources Almost Reached By Japan.

FEARED 6 MONTHS MORE WAR

Half a Year's Continuance of the Titanic Conflict With Russia Would Have Meant Very Hard Times Indeed—Rice and Cereal Crops Doomed to Failure. Through Unfavorable Weather.

Tokio, Sept. 30.—Notwithstanding the silence of the government, the real fact is disclosed that Japan made peace at Portsmouth in fear of a financial breakdown. The war proved more costly than had been calculated, and the rice and cereal crops seemed doomed to failure. Instead of sunlight and warmth during the month of August, when the crops ripen, there was continuous rain and exceedingly cold weather. While some improvement may still be in store, it is certain that the rice crop promises to be from fifteen to twenty per cent. below the average and far below last year's crop, when it was marvellously large. Six months more of war would have meant very hard times, for the masses of the people are very poor and rice is their bread and meat.

Should Have Taken All.

Tokio, Sept. 30.—Lieut.-Gen. Haraguchi, commander-in-chief of the Japanese military forces on Sakhalin Island, accompanied by his staff, arrived at the Uyeno Railroad station yesterday morning. The general said: "We are sorry that only one-half of the island has been taken, but that was no fault of yours," a statement which created much merriment.

HIGH HONORS FOR WITTE.

New Post Said to Be in Store For Portsmouth Peacemaker.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—M. Witte left St. Petersburg at noon by boat to meet Emperor Nicholas, who, with his family, is prolonging his yachting trip in the Finnish Gulf. M. Witte had not expected when he arrived here to be received in audience until the Emperor's return to Peterhof, but Thursday evening he received the Imperial command to come yesterday to Bjoerke on board a vessel which was sent for him. His Majesty desiring to hear immediately from his envoy's lips an account of his important and successful mission.

It has been reported that M. Witte will be made a count and receive the Order of St. Andrew, but a more substantial honor may be his nomination to the post of chief of the Cabinet of Ministers, the details of which are now being elaborated, and which would make him the first subject in the realm, with the right of naming all the Ministers except the court and war Ministers.

DEFEAT JAMES' BAY BONUS.

One Ward Defeats the Bylaw in Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, Sept. 30.—Voting took place yesterday on two money bylaws, one to the James Bay Railway for $25,000 to establish a divisional point here; also the erection of machine and car repair shops. The other bylaw was for $20,000 towards the improvement of the electric light plant. The vote resulted:

Electric light—For, 173; against, 60; majority for 113.

By the special act of incorporation of this town it is provided for money bylaws to be effective must be carried by each ward. In the present instance the majority in the east ward was against the James Bay Railway bonus. The general opinion seems to be therefore that that bylaw is defeated.

SWEAR BY HEATHEN GOD.

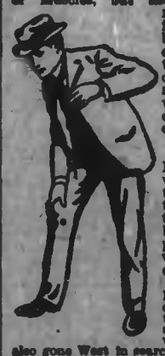
Bengalis Boycott British Goods For Recent Partition of Province.

Calcutta, Sept. 30.—Fifty thousand Bengalis assembled at the Temple of Kalighat have sworn by the Goddess of Kali to boycott British goods, as a protest against the partition of the Province of Bengal. The administrative work of the province, according to the views of the Home and Indian Governments, had grown to such unwieldly proportions as to necessitate a division of labor, hence the partition of the province into lieutenant-governorships.

The Bengalis are intensely resentful at what they characterize as an attempt to split the population and impair the Bengalis nationality. At scores of meetings throughout Bengal the people have pledged themselves to support the boycott, which has received the sanction of the priests.

A SUDDEN TWINGE

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.



Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous uric acid which is the cause of the disease.

"Your Golden Medical Discovery" cured me of rheumatism after I had tried a dozen remedies without relief and also gone West in search of health," writes Harry Ritter, of No. 1625 6th Street, Denver, Colo. "Only those who have suffered from this dread malady know the pain and misery I endured for over five years. Whenever the weather was damp or cold my troubles were increased and my joints would be so stiff and sore that I was hardly able to move about, and often unable to dress myself. I used a number of highly recommended medicines, but they had no effect whatever on me, and I came to Colorado hoping to regain my health, but failed to obtain the relief I had prayed for. A gentleman in the house where I lived advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and in four months and a half after I began using it I was a well man, and have had no touch of it for the past seven months."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets. These tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not forget the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor. Put up in vials; always fresh and reliable.

PRINCE LOUIS TO VISIT U. S.

The British Fleet's Trip to American Waters Not Called Off.

Washington, Sept. 30.—By direction of the President, the State and Navy Departments have begun the preparation of plans for the reception in the United States of Prince Louis of Battenberg.

The British Ambassador, Sir Mortimer Durand, has supplied the State Department with a list of the staff of the prince and of the captains who will accompany the prince on his visit to Washington.

The English squadron will arrive at Annapolis on November 1, remaining there until the 7th or 8th, when it will sail for New York, departing thence for Gibraltar on November 17.

JURY WAS OUT FIVE HOURS

Jurors Asked Explanation of Indian Constable Garlow's Evidence and in Five Minutes Thereafter Returned With a Verdict of Guilty — Prisoner Received Verdict Stoically —Judge Charged Against Him.

Brantford, Sept. 30.—The jury in the Bennett case, after being out for five hours, returned a verdict of "guilty." The charge of the judge finished at 5.30 last evening and the jurymen at once retired. At 11.30 they came back and asked for information regarding the evidence of David Garlow, who contradicted the story of Kick, the backbone of the alibi. This was given and a shudder passed over the crowded court room as a premonition was seen in this regarding the coming verdict. Five minutes later the jury returned with the verdict of "guilty."

While the foreman pronounced the fateful word, the condemned man sat with impassive countenance and never once betrayed his emotion. No scene was made by the crowd in the court room.

Justice Anglin declared the court adjourned until 9.30 this morning, when Doyle and Bennett will receive their sentences. In commenting upon the verdict, he stated to the jury that he did not see how any other verdict could have been reached by them. The afternoon was taken up with the speeches of the counsel and the charge of the judge. The judge charged heavily against Bennett.

Committed For Trial For Murder.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Charles De Marco was yesterday committed for trial for the murder of John Hoban, the magistrate incidentally remarking that he wished he could grant bail as there was evidence both for and against the accused. Eight witnesses were examined, but Arthur Lafferty, an important one, was absent in Port Perry.

Reckless Shooting at Windsor.

Windsor, Sept. 30.—Two colored men, employed at the race track, quarrelled Thursday night. One drew a knife and the other a revolver. The latter fired three shots, one of which struck a man named Ballentine, who was attracted by the row, in the hand. Another shot grazed his head. At this point Victor Baillargen, a motorman, who had just arrived with his car, seized the shooter and delivered the man, who says his name is Washington, to the police. Ballentine was taken to the Hotel Dieu.

Violate Fruit Marks.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Ontario apple growers are not the only delinquents who violate the fruit marks act by grading No. 2 apples as No. 1. Yesterday morning the fruit division of the Department of Agriculture ordered the prosecution of two Nova Scotia growers on this charge.

Poles Island Shut Off.

Leamington, Sept. 30.—There is no means of transportation between Pelee Island and the mainland and thousands of dollars' worth of produce have gone to waste. The Government has been asked to relax the coasting laws to enable an American steamer to call.

Gets $2,000 Damages.

Brockville, Sept. 30.—At the Assize Court just closed a jury awarded Harry Belmont $2,000 and costs for injuries sustained while in the employ of the James Smart Co. Belmont was caught in the shafting of the company's machinery while adjusting a belt.

London's New Lord Mayor.

London, Sept. 30.—Ald. Walter Vaughan Morgan yesterday was elected Lord Mayor of London for the ensuing year. Mr. Morgan is a septuagenarian, a banker and a bachelor. He is a prominent Freemason.

A Legislative Pool Has Been Discovered

Insurance Companies Divided Country For Control.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES

New York Life Undervalued Its Paris Office—Over One Million Was Charged Off Valuation on Books—False Minutes Revealed in Equitable Which Was a One-Man Power —Schiff's Evidence.

New York, Sept. 30.—Jacob H. Schiff, head of the firm of Kuhn, Lieb & Co., bankers, of this city, and formerly a director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was the first witness called before the Legislative Life Insurance Investigating Committee yesterday.

Mr. Schiff said that he had become a director of the Equitable Society in the latter part of 1893 or the first part of 1894. His firm had had dealings with the society for a quarter of a century prior to that time. The question of the propriety of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., dealing with the Equitable Society occurred to him and took counsel upon the matter, and he was advised that there was nothing to prevent his firm from properly maintaining such relations. He was a director of the society four or five years before he became a member of any committee of it. Then he was made a member of the finance committee.

Negligible Quantity.

Mr. Schiff stated that the position of director in large corporations in New York, and, he presumed, elsewhere, was a negligible quantity. If any executive officer wished to conceal anything from the directors he could easily do so, and the directors, under prevailing conditions, are powerless to prevent any irregularity.

Mr. Schiff testified that the Equitable was in the hands of the executive officers, and he had no way of knowing more than these executive officers chose to tell him.

He refused an election to the executive committee because of the relations of his firm to the society. This, the witness said, was because he thought it would be improper for him as a member of the executive committee to pass upon any dealings his firm might have with the society.

Minutes False.

Mr. Schiff said the minutes of a meeting of the finance committee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society in February, 1903, were false in recording the purchase of $250,000 of Union Pacific preferred stock for holding account. Mr. Schiff said he was present at the meeting, and no such transaction was made.

Mr. Schiff expressed the opinion that it was wrong for James H. Hyde to participate personally in syndicate transactions. He did not know, he said, that Mr. Hyde had done so until these disclosures.

"The Equitable," said Mr. Schiff, "was at the mercy of one man—either Alexander or Hyde. It seems to me it was all Hyde. Everything was Hyde.

"The vice of the entire insurance situation has been irresponsible power."

Schiff Defends Himself.

At the close of the direct testimony, Mr. Schiff asked and was granted permission to make a statement. He defended himself from various attacks which, he said, had been made against his firm and himself by the state superintendent of insurance and others.

In the past five years, he said, the Equitable had bought $197,000,000 of securities, and of these $33,000,000, or about one-sixth, were purchased from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Furthermore, he said that the present value of securities sold by his firm to the Equitable while he was a director is $1,600,000 greater than the price paid for them.

Mr. Schiff was asked if he had heard of any moneys being placed in the hands of any person for use in connection with legislation. He said he had not. In answer to another question he said such a thing might have been done without his knowing anything about it.

Pool in Legislation.

Alfred W. Maine, an associate auditor of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, disclosed the fact that the Equitable Life, the Mutual Life and the New York Life Companies had formed a pool to look after legislation between the various State Legislatures. Witness presented vouchers for monies paid by his company to Andrew Hamilton, and these showed that in eight years, from 1895 to 1903, the sum of $45,896 was paid to Mr. Hamilton for legal services. Mr Maine could not give any details of the duties performed by Mr. Hamilton nor of the committees he appeared before beyond the fact that Mr. Hamilton looked after legislative matters for all three companies in the States west of Ohio. He never heard of money being paid to influence legislators.

Company's Real Estate.

Edward I. Devlin, the real estate manager of the New York Life for the United States and Canada, was called to testify to the cost of building owned by the society in Paris. It was brought out that the Paris building was carried on the books of the company at a valuation of $1,102,604, whereas with the original cost and improvements of $2,532,104 actually was paid, over one million being charged off the valuation on the books of the company.

The committee adjourned till next Wednesday.

INFERNAL MACHINE FOUND.

At the Hotel of the Hungarian Coalition Leaders.

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 30.—A box filled with powder of some kind was found yesterday morning under the staircase of a hotel in which the coalition leaders were meeting. The box, which is alleged to be an infernal machine, was taken to police headquarters for examination.

Not So Near Revolution.

London, Sept. 30.—The Vienna correspondent of The London Times cables:—A milder wind blows yesterday between Vienna and Budapest. The royal summons to the President and the Hungarian House magnates has made a distinctly favorite impression in Hungary, where this is interpreted as showing that the Crown is not averse to a settlement of the crisis. Count Apponyi, indeed, has expressed his belief that a settlement is nearer than ever. The discovery that the King is anxious for a settlement is typical of the Hungarian state of mind. His Majesty's anxiety was apparent from the beginning, and nothing has been more characteristic of it than his unprecedented action in stating his views so sharply to the assembled coalition leaders and in reminding them to remember the tremendous responsibility they would assume were they not to heed his words.

A DUCK HUNTER SHOT.

Herbert Klotz, of Toronto University, Wounded in the Leg.

Peterboro, Sept. 30.—Herbert Klotz and Thomas Keyes of Toronto, who are students at Toronto University, have been duck shooting at Pigeon Lake. Yesterday a hammerless gun in the hands of Keyes discharged accidentally while the young men were in a boat, and the charge entered Klotz's thigh, passing through his leg. He was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital. His physicians think the leg can be saved.

A Chicago man with a $10.50-a-week income had temerity enough to become a bigamist. With a million dollar income what might he not have accomplished?

The fact that a Winnipeg girl recently secured a husband through a matrimonial agency leads to the belief that there is still hope for Port Hope young ladies, even though the bargain counter benedict was retained but one week. The young bride is entitled to her money back.

The Toronto "white-wings" are to be provided with white hoods for use in cleaning the dire dust from the streets. On the same principle Peterborough street-cleaners (if the last real live specimen has not been captured for museum purposes) might be supplied with rubber boots and mug-guards.

The New York Mothers will hold their annual meeting at Niagara Falls on October 3. Among other addresses will be one upon "Plans for the Extension of Mother Work in the Coming Year." The baneful influence of "Everybody works but father" is evidently spreading.

A "Fashion Note" recently published states that during the coming year "narrow bands of knife-pleated tucks will be worn upon the bottoms of ladies' skirts. A "just horrid" young man remarks that these will probably be known as "rubber" bands.

A New York man recently sold his wife for $5,000. If this gentleman a rate all other "get-rich-quick" schemes will fade into insignificance.

Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, has returned from a visit to Essex and Kent and announces the intention of the Government to encourage growers of the weed. A chronic grumbler, who is the possessor of acute nasal organs, urges that a bonus should be offered to the inventor of a smoke consumer.

Patent medicine fakirs will probably soon conclude that Peterborough is no place for them. The antiquated "bleeding" remedies are out of date.

A despatch states that "owing to the dight crop, few apples are being dried this year." It is now feared that a general rush on the part of boarding-house mistresses may create a corner in the prune market.

The Germans are reported to be enlisting Boers to help them in their protonged campaign against the natives in West Africa. Is it possible that Col. Sam. Hughes has been left out of the invitation list?

A Peterborough tot of diminutive proportions was visiting for a few days with relatives who are noted for their religious fervour. Family prayer was held as usual, and the rates familiar with the ab paten families with coat off was in the midst of an exhortation in which extensive requests were made on behalf of his family, when the little girl registered a vigorous protest. "Why don't you pray some for my family—they need as much as yours"—and without further delay or ado into a devotional exercise which would have done credit to a Georgia camp meeting.

A London, Ont., merchant has voluntarily returned to an agent, a cheque for $5,000 recently forwarded to him by a fire insurance company to cover losses in a recent fire. The merchant stated that he had since the fire found the loss to be trifling. That man evidently did not realize what a shock it might prove to the delicately constructed nerves of an insurance agent.

The church bazaar season — the bargain-hunter's annual paradise, will soon be in full swing.

A Chicago lady, who had read of the dangers involved in kissing arising from the possible absorption of microbes, refused to salute her

Rege lord in this manner a few days ago, until he had disinfected his moustache. That woman might be sured of her gallantation if she were called as a witness and given a chance at the Bible in the Peterborough Police Court.

The Hamilton cautton factors have gone on strike. The masters feared that the public would not stand for another increase in prices consequent upon the granting of a raise. It is very unkind of the journeymen to "press their suits" so strenuously, particularly at this season. Hamilton isn't exactly a Gardan of Eden, by a climatic sense, in the winter time. But there is still hope for the male inhabitants, even those who are not treated capitalists while all-wool, unshrinkable, unmentionables may be purchased at 39 cents—or the mountain.

A lady of a severe and resolute cast of countenance and many summers a few days ago visited the shop of a well know local undertaker and furniture dealer. Her business-like aspect compelled the prompt attention of the proprietor, whose countenance—now smiling—now grief-stricken, proclaimed the uncertainty as to whether he might expect a furniture sale or a funeral. The lady hesitated and looked about in a somewhat embarrassed manner. The ever polite director of funerals ventured to enquire suavely, — "Something I can show you—just step this way please if you wish to look at coffins,—nice oak casket here for"—

"I don't want a coffin, Mister," the lady broke in with a now wholly resolute countenance. "What I want is a marriage license, and I'm in a hurry too, because we have a cab hired by the hour." The director of funerals hastened to explain, as soon as he had sufficiently recovered his breath, that she had evidently entered the wrong place, and as he ushered her out, and directed her a few doors further on, muttered softly to the effect that "the results would be about the same anyway."

Good Prices At the Market

There was a large attendance this morning at the market, farm produce being offered in large quantities and selling at good prices.

Potatoes were much in evidence, and sold at 70 and 75 cents per bag. Apples were also plentiful and brought 60 to 75 cents per bag.

Considerable poultry was offered for sale, chickens being the chief commodity, and sold at 60 cents. Ducks were $1 per pair and geese were offered at $1. Butter was not so plentiful as in some previous weeks, and sold at 24-25 cents. Eggs were 20 cents.

Irish Guards Band a Wonderful Organization

Read what the papers say of the Irish Guards Band, which appears in Peterborough on October 11th:

Montreal Star, Aug. 29th: "The Irish Guards Band are masters of the art—Last concert of the season. — After giving four most enjoyable concerts in Montreal the band of the Irish Guards left last night for Toronto, leaving behind them however a host of friends and many pleasant recollections of the fine music they furnished. They are certainly the equal of any band that has appeared here in recent years, and have proved in various and difficult programmes their perfect mastery of the art. In the national music of their country, as well as in the most sublime compositions of the greatest composers, they have shown themselves equally at home, and have renewed their right to the proud title of the finest band in the British army."

Toronto Star, September 1st: — "Guards' Band Refuses Big Offer.—$8,000 to Play in Chicago! This is the astonishing offer which has been received by Bandmaster Hassell, of the Irish Guards. The tempting offer will be refused however, for the band has not been given permission to enter foreign territory. The United States people seem very anxious to hear the crack band of the Emerald Isle, for offers have been received also from New York, and other large cities on the American side."

Many Murder Cases Will Be Tried Soon

The fall assizes of Ontario include several murder cases. At Ottawa a French-Canadian is accused of killing a pedlar for his money. At Belleville there are two cases, the Lloyd case, in which the charge is wife murder, and the Diamond case, in which the accused is charged with poisoning his daughter-in-law. At Peterborough Charles Gow is to face trial for shooting the Hill boy, and there is the alleged murder of Fred Hudson to be cleared up. In Toronto little Josie Carr will be tried for infant murder, while the murders of Hoban and Marlow by Italians will bring suspects to trial in lesser courts. In Western Ontario the Rodney murder suspect, Willis, will face a jury. Then there is Dr. Roche who murdered his wife and daughter at Penetang. At Brantford, Joe Bennett, the Indian, for the murder of a squaw, and Felix Doyle, for the murder of his mother, are the prisoners; and a recent murder at Ingersoll may yet yield work for the autumn assizes.

A Bouquet For The Local Telephone Girls

The telephone girl as a rule has to accept many things which are not exactly pleasant, and there is a general feeling in the minds of a good many people that the only way to get good service out of the telephone system is to "call down" the operators over the 'phone, a practice, which to say the least, is somewhat cowardly.

The Peterborough telephone operators, however, seem to be better than the ordinary telephone girl, and an evidence of this was furnished on Thursday night. A local gentleman telephoned to the office of the Chief of Police; no answer was received, but the operator voluntereed information that she knew the Chief was in the city as she had heard him talking a few minutes before. This was just what the enquirer wanted to know, because the Chief had been out of town earlier in the day.

A few minutes later the operator heard the Chief talking over the 'phone again, and she immediately called up the gentleman who was inquiring, informing him that the Chief was in the city, and that she would get him for the first subscriber.

It will thus be seen that while in other places there may be complaints made with justification of lack of attention on the part of the operators, the same does not apply to the telephone girls of Peterborough, since they evidently prosecute their work with an intelligent interest in the wishes of their subscribers.

Elected The Delegates to The Convention

At Quarterly Business Meeting of Park Street Church.

The Progress Made During the Last Quarter Was Gratifying.

The business meeting of the Park Street Baptist Church for the quarter ending July 31st, was held Thursday night, the unavoidable delay being caused by the pastor's vacation. The attendance was good. Rev. A. H. Brace was in the chair.

The minutes of last meeting were read by the clerk and adopted.

The clerk's report showed a quarter of great activity and advancement. A net increase for the three months of ten —seven by Baptism, one by letter, and two by reference.

The report of the Finance Committee showed a total income for the quarter of close on to $200.00, the average per Sunday by envelope and plate being within a few cents of $13.00 and a balance of $42.50 on hand, a most gratifying report from the Dorcas Society was read by Mrs. Robt. Wright showing a balance on hand.

The Report of B.Y.P.U. was given by Mr. Alex. Haddow and was full of encouragement. Meetings were well attended and full of interest. An offering of $4.00 was taken at a recent meeting for a needy case, showing the young people's interest in practical Christian work. The Circle and Mission Band did not report.

Deacon Barrie was unanimously elected Church Treasurer, rendered vacant by the late Mr. John Reid.

At this stage of the meeting a resolution carried very heartily to present Mrs. Hay Juby with the Congregational Hymn Book used by her deceased husband.

The delegates were appointed to represent the Church at the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, holding its sessions in London from October 10 to 20 and were Mr. Alex. Haddow and the Rev. A. H. Brace and Mrs. Brace.

It was resolved that the Harvest Home Thanksgiving Services shall be held on Sunday, October 29th.

The thanks of the church were given Deacons T. G. Gillespie and A. Inkpen for their efforts in bringing to a successful issue, the scheme for the burning of the mortgage, the details of which will come in the next quarters' report. The above Deacons will not be released until the remaining pledges are honoured.

The singing of the Doxology and Prayer by the pastor closed a very profitable session.

A Hamilton street car quartook and crashed into a bunny last week. It is to be hoped that Peterborough motorman will take due warning—particularly with regard to funerals.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—For information of the Examiner and also your correspondent signing himself "F", I may say that there's a concrete crossing, same style as are now being laid, at the function of Park, Reid and Sherbrooke streets, and was laid over a year ago.

Yours truly,
"F".

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—A resident of the north end thus accounts for the excessive mud on that thoroughfare during the past summer. Someone in authority said to the man doing the street watering in the north end, "You can't put top much water on George street." The man who did the watering evidently determined to show him that he could. Result, puddles of water lying alongside the car track, while the street further north did not get near the amount that they will have to pay for.

Prospective City Rugby League

There is considerable talk in sporting circles with reference to the formation of a city rugby league and it is expected that the discussion will materialise into something more tangible during the present week, when it is hoped by the advocates that a joint meeting may be arranged to discuss the matter, which, if possible, arrive at an amicable agreement.

There are a number of teams available for the league should its formation be accomplished. This reporter is told, would be an important factor in stimulating a general interest in the game, which is not known as it might be with. The T. A. A. team, it is understood, has signified its willingness to enter, while in the event of the Rough Riders organizing, they will probably also take part. The Crescents of the west end might also be induced to enter a team. Those who have had some experience with the game declare that the early dates, before the season has become too far advanced, if possible, should be arranged by next week at the latest.

PHTOGRAPHS SHOWING HOW BASKET BA BENEFITS THE DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE BODY

BASKETBALL as a game for women is increasing in popularity each year. It was invented about twelve years ago by an instructor in a training school for boys. The students had tired of the monotony of regular gymnastics, and the teacher endeavored to plan a new game—one that would be beneficial to body and mind, and yet be interesting to the participants. Several things were tried, but basketball fell at once into popular favor.

For a while the men and boys monopolized the game, but instructors in physical training for women soon recognized its merit, and it was then adopted in women's colleges. It supplied a long-felt want, combining, as it does, the beneficial results of gymnastic exercise and the interest of competitive sport.

Interesting the game most certainly is both to the participants and spectators. There is very little expense attached to it, and it is very easy of comprehension, so that I cannot think of a better game to recommend to my readers who are looking for a healthful sport.

It has the advantage of being both an indoor and outdoor game, and girls who are thinking of getting up a team for the winter could not do better than begin practicing in the open air. The first cool days make playing delightful.

Besides a small plot of ground upon which to play, there are very few requisites. The size of the playing ground varies according to the available space, although the general rule is that it shall not exceed 5,000 square feet. The goals are at opposite sides of the field on the boundary line. These are baskets made of hammock nets of cord suspended from metal rings and placed ten feet above the ground.

The object of each team is to put the ball in the basket of its opponent and thereby make a goal. The rules are simple, and may be obtained from any dealer in sporting goods. The team is composed of not more than ten and not less than five players on a side. The game consists of two halves of twenty minutes each, with an intermission of ten minutes between.

When playing indoors the regulation gymnasium suit of bloomers and a loose blouse of some light-weight woolen material is usually worn.

A picturesque costume for outdoor play is short skirt of cloth, with sweater to match. Red, white or blue costumes are particularly good. Team work is the stronghold in basketball, and the sacrifice of personal glory to the general success of the team is an excellent lesson in self-control.

The woman or girl who goes in for basketball will find her most valuable assets to be speed, accuracy, strength, endurance and, above all, control of temper.

A game that requires these qualifications is bound to have a wholesome effect on mind and body.

VALUABLE HINTS ON RELIEF FOR YOUR BLEMISHES BY MRS. SYMES

Afraid to Use Remedy

I saw your remedy for a large bust in yesterday's paper and showed it to several people, who promptly told me it would only make the bust smaller by making it wrinkled and baggy, and also yellow. If this is true, can you recommend anything to keep the bust firm during the falling-off process? As my bust is not firm, I would be afraid to attempt to try anything to increase the trouble. I have great faith in your remedies, having used the eyelash answer, which worked like a charm. Do you think the bust reducer can harm me in any way?

FRANCHE.

The remedy for reduction of bust will have no harmful effect. During treatment frequent applications of cold water and brisk rubbing with a coarse towel will aid in keeping the bust firm.

Troubled With Blackheads

Will you please give me, through your valuable columns, a remedy for red blotches left by squeezing blackheads? I have persevered in squeezing, and sometimes that is the only cure, but I find even so it has left a nasty scar. They make my face look bad. I make up my mind not to do it any more, but blackheads come back, and I pick at them again. Please tell me how to get rid of them forever. I have a pretty good complexion, and would thank you to tell me how I can procure a smooth satin skin, like a baby's, as that is what I should like. I also seem to be losing my color, and would be grateful to know how to get good, rich blood. Please recommend something, thanking you in advance for this and past good advice which I have received.

DESPONDENT.

Try the following treatment for blackheads, and afterward use the lotion for which I am giving you formula. It will allay any inflammation, and is also very good for the enlarged pores which sometimes follow blackheads.

Treatment for Blackheads.

Get the correct camel's-hair face scrub brush, a liquid toilet soap, a little good cold cream or toilet cream of superior grade—there are many of them—and a few pieces of coarse muslin washing pads.

Have pores very distinct, press them well if not, scrub the face morning and night with hot water, into which you have put a bit of the toilet soap. Rinse in five cupfuls of hot water; soap the brush thoroughly as you would were you going to use it for your hands, and scrub the face thoroughly.

How to Use the Camel's-Hair Face Scrubbing Brush.

Immerse the brush in water as hot as can be personally borne. Soap it well, just as you would if you were about to use it for your hands. Scrub the face thoroughly, taking especial care of the places that need especial cleansing. Rinse the face with cooler steam water, so as to get all the soap out of the pores. Dry carefully and apply a cream or toilet lotion; any good emollient will answer.

Lotion for Inflamed Skin.

Boracic acid, 1 dram; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces; rosewater, 2 ounces. Use as a wash two or three times a day.

To Darken Blonde Hair

Kindly inform me if a hair stain can be used for blonde hair that will not be greasy, and what it may be? I have tried stain-tex, which answers for a while, but after continued use it looks on the hair a greenish shade. Can it be purchased even to suit blonde hair, not a reddish hue?

A. E. F.

Tea Hair Tonic.

Strong tea as a basis for hair tonic is successful in many cases. Formula:

Strong rum, 1 ounce; glycerine, 2 ounces; alcohol, 1 ounce; infusion of black tea, 10 ounces.

Mix and perfume to suit. The tea infusion should be made very strong, say at ounces tea to ten or twelve ounces of boiling water. Let it steep for twenty minutes, then stand till cool; strain and add the other ingredients; apply with a soft sponge to the roots of the hair. It will darken blonde hair.

I think you will find the black-tea tonic more satisfactory for your hair than the sage tea. Of course, all stains have to be repeated when the color needs renewing.

The Use of Pumice

I had been interested in reading the paper where you gave advice on pumice-stone head help. I am a girl of 20 years, and have been bothered this last year with hair growing on my body. I don't know what makes it grow, and don't know how to remove it. I would ask you to kindly assist me.

MATRON.

For the removal of superfluous hair on the body, try the plaster stick or pumice stone treatment, both of which have proved beneficial in many cases.

Pumice Treatment for Superfluous Hair.

Get an ordinary 5-cent cake of pumice stone. Wet it and rub [illegible] the regular [illegible] way. To remove the hair rub the skin afflicted with the superfluous growth and the pumice stone will wear the hair off. Be careful not to be too heroic and irritate the skin. In case the arms are [illegible] treatment, use a little cold cream. The pumice stone is best used [illegible] during.

Quinine Hair Tonic.

Sulphate of quinine, 4 dram; rosewater, 8 ounces; alkata wildhazia acid, 30 minims; peroxide of piprita, 2 ounces; mix, then further add glycerine, ½ ounce; essence royale or cologne musk, 6 or 8 minims.

Agitate until solution is complete. Apply to the roots every day.

Red Hands and Face

Will you give me a remedy for red hands and face? My face and hands are not sunburned, but are always very red, and I would appreciate some remedy which will make my face and hands whiter. If you will kindly help me in your columns I will certainly thank you.

GREENSBORO.

Red hands and face come from various causes, and are frequently constitutional, in which case they are very hard indeed to combat. Abstain from blood-making foods, and do not use water that is extremely hot or cold. It is better to use a good face cream. I am giving you lotion for whitening the hands. Wearing cosmetic gloves has been very successful in some cases of red hands, and I am giving you directions for making them.

To Whiten the Hands.

Lanolin, 120 grams; perfume (lemon), 2 grams; extract of vanilla, 2 drops; oil of rose, 1 drop.

Mix and apply when necessary.

To Make Cosmetic Gloves.

Use soft, large leather gloves three or four sizes too large. Rip them open and spread the inside with one of the following preparations, then sew up. The second one is the simplest, and therefore the best treatment, paste to match is this:

Cosmetic Glove Paste.

Ground barley, the white of an egg, 1 teaspoonful of glycerine and one ounce of lanolin.

Cosmetic Glove Paste—No. 2.

After boiling these together remove them from the fire and place adding: Spirits of wine, 1 gill; ambergris or some other perfume to the amount to suit the taste, always being on your guard not to scent things too highly.

Dandruff Causes Hair to Fall

I see another one answers to know if you can tell me what to do for my hair. It is coming out very badly, and more so at times. Am troubled with dandruff. Nothing does me good, for it is on bad to even

The Value of Pumice

I had been interested in reading the paper where you gave advice on pumice-stone head help. I am a girl of 20 years, and have been bothered this last year with hair growing on my body. I don't know what makes it grow, and don't know how to remove it. I would ask you to kindly assist me.

Agitate until solution is complete. Apply to the roots every day.

To Remove Wrinkles

I am a new reader of your paper, and ask some good advice on remove wrinkles, which are under my eyes, and one goes across my nose, connecting with the laughing wrinkles. I am 18 years old, and very glad. Please tell me how to remove them? P. C. T.

Massage with a good face cream, using the tips of the fingers gently, with a rotary movement upward and outward. This movement should be given fifty times each day.

Pores Too Large

I am very much troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. On my nose and cheeks the pores are very large, and I can squeeze a brownish matter out of them. I have used two bottles of the boric acid and witch hazel, but it did no good. Can you tell me something else to do? I will very much appreciate it.

A READER.

Try the following lotion on your face, and at the same time abstain from spicy, stimulating, greasy foods and sweets:

Astringent Lotion.

Dried rose leaves, 1 ounce; white wine vinegar, ½ pint; rosewater, ½ pint. Pour the vinegar on the rose leaves and let them stand for one week, then strain and add the rosewater, throwing the rose leaves away. The lotion may be used either pure or diluted by putting a tablespoonful into a cupful of rosewater. Do not keep in a metal vessel.

Harmless Rouge.

Will you please give me the ingredients of a harmless rouge? Please publish in your columns as soon as possible. Also, will you please tell me what I can do to remain my many freckles? I have worn rouge until a few months ago, but since that time have been very pale. I should be very grateful to you.

Yours truly,

I am giving you formula for a harmless rouge. Better try to bring the roses back to your cheeks in the natural way. Take plenty of exercise in the open air, bathe daily and eat good, wholesome food.

Strawberry Natural Blush.

Fresh, ripe strawberries, 2 quarts; distilled water, 1 pint. Place in a fruit jar and set the jar in a saucepan of water over a slow fire.

Let the water simmer for two hours, and strain through a fine hair sieve. When cold add pure alcohol, 12 ounces; best Russian isinglass (dissolved), 20 grains; pure carmine (first dissolved in the alcohol), 2 grains; attar of roses, 4 drops; oil of neroli, 3 drops; oil of cedrat, 3 drops.

Keep closely stoppered in a dark place, apply to the cheeks with a bit of absorbent cotton.

Troubled With Blackheads and Pimples.

As you have helped other people before, I thought I would write and see if you could help me. I have had blackheads and pimples for over two years, and they disfigure my face dreadfully.

DISFIGURED.

I am giving you formula for a lotion which is excellent for the removal of blackheads; also one for a cream which has been very successful in the removal of pimples. However, if they are from internal causes, this will not effect a permanent cure. The woman who is troubled with blackheads and pimples should abstain from all rich food—pork in every form, hot breads and sweets. She should drink neither coffee nor tea and drink plenty of water. Eat much fruit and steamed fruit and green vegetables. She should take a daily bath and a great deal of outdoor exercise if possible.

Blackheads of the Skin.

Pimple Cream.

Petrolatum, 1 ounce av.; lanolin (anhydrous), 1 ounce av.; hydrozone formalin, 1 gill; camphor, 1 scruple; fluid drachm.

This preparation, usually employed for the removal of pimples, may be also used for blackheads.

Complexion a Worry

My complexion is the source of a great deal of worry to me, and I feel most confident that you could help me. In the first place I have freckles—not large, but close—but I believe I prefer those to the kind I am afflicted with, for I call it an affliction; then, instead of my skin being yellow and very dingy together on the face of my face, I also have them on other parts of my body, and sometimes they are the same kind, just heavy spots, to be noticed. At times I feel quite discouraged, generally after I have tried to go without any kind of powder, which I might put on just before going out. Would you kindly advise me what to do, and if you will also suggest a lotion for the permanent removing of same. I am sure I will appreciate your kindness. Hoping you will favor me with an early reply, I remain, yours truly,

P. C. T.

I will suggest a lotion for the freckles. If this is not effective, see Dr. Shoemaker's bleach, which I am giving you below. To whiten your neck use peroxide of hydrogen. Pour a little in a saucer and apply to the neck with soft cloth.

Dr. Shoemaker's Bleach.

Wet tan, freckles and [illegible] discolorations with [illegible] Dissolve in [illegible] powder, 2 drams; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces; rosewater, 2 ounces.

Bleaching [illegible] obtained. Mop on the affected parts, keep out of the way of ignorant parties, and children.

To Stop Hair From Falling

I have had your prescription for blackheads—boracic acid, alcohol, rosewater—filled, and am applying it. My skin is very much inflamed. My hair is also coming out in the brush. If so please tell me some way to avoid or prevent it. I have had considerable trouble with falling hair, especially the last few weeks. My hair is also brown and dry. I enjoyed my face. When I use whisky and quinine it makes my hair stronger and darker.

I have no trouble with dandruff. I never have ratted my hair. For a few months I have worn it parted low over my forehead. Before I wore a [illegible] pompadour and a low knot. I brush my hair every night, and shampoo once every two or three weeks. I knew no cause for the falling.

If you can give me any information, please tell me how soon I should notice the effects.

M. A.

The lotion referred to will not injure the pores of the skin, I am giving you formula for bottom, which has been most successful in stubborn cases of falling hair.

Falling of the Hair.

Tincture of nux vomica, 1 ounce; spirits of rosemary, 3 ounces; alcohol, 3 ounces.

Apply several times a week to the roots of the hair.

To Remove Fullness Under the Eyes

Will you kindly tell me if olive oil when used on the skin, will cause hair to grow? I had it very successful, but am afraid to use it till I hear from you. Also, my eyes are very full underneath, and it makes the eyes look small. What kind I do to remove the fullness?

MADGE-HARRY.

When there is a tendency to superfluous hair on the face, using olive oil will frequently promote the growth. However, I have known of cases where it has not had this effect. To remove the fullness under your eyes massage as follows: Use both hands, place the finger tips directly beneath the eyes, press gently around the outer corners and upward, following the contour of the eye. This movement should be given about fifty times each day.

Brown Spots on His Face

There are a few things I wish you might help me a little about, and they are: first, I have several brown spots on one side of my face. There is no hair growing on them, but there are about six or seven, nearly small. I wish you would tell me something that might help them disappear or help to do so, especially as I am extremely nervous. I read some time ago [illegible] juice helped one, and I have consumed a great many bottles, but to no avail. Some exercise or something else should I go through to help this? This and last call, what will make the part of brown hair on my face, and the bottom at your collar [illegible] you. Sorry I am to [illegible] of your questions and hope you'll try, and give me a try. Tomorrow and what I've asked, especially the first.

BEAUTY SEEKER.

I am giving you formula for [illegible] that has been most successful in the removal of brown spots and freckles. Any open-air games, such as tennis, golf, etc., would be a good thing for your nervousness. If this is impossible, take a simple workout in your room each night before retiring. Be sure to have the windows open, so that the air will be pure and fresh. Peroxide of hydrogen is excellent to wash on your face. Pour a little in a saucer and apply to the skin with a soft cloth.

Whitening Paste for Freckles and Brown Spots.

Salicylic acid, 10 grains; bay rum, 10 ounces.

Apply night and morning with a small cloth or sponge. This lotion soon frequently of a light tan or brown. Pour a little in a saucer and apply to the skin with a soft cloth.

Pimples Leave Scars.

I am a young man, and have been a reader of your valuable columns for quite a while. Of late I have been covered with pimples, which have disfigured my face badly. I think you can help me greatly. Would you please answer this in your [illegible] column?

CHIEF.

Massage with the following ointment and use the lotion, and the [illegible] scars which I am giving you.

Witch-Hazel Cold Cream.

One ounce each of white wax and [illegible] of [illegible] Melt; pour into a mortar, which has been heated by being immersed some time in boiling water. Very gradually add 6 ounces of rosewater and 1 ounce of witch hazel, and assiduously stir the mixture until the ointment is cold. Perfume with [illegible] and put up in [illegible] jars.

Witch-Hazel Lotion.

Lanolin, 1 dram; ointment of bichloride of mercury, 1 dram. Rub in well once a day.

To Remove Superfluous Hair

I saw your recipe for removing superfluous hair printed several times in the department, and would like to [illegible]

I have never obtained that peroxide of hydrogen would remove superfluous hair. I frequently advise using it as a bleach when the growth is dark, as it makes it less noticeable, and in many cases [illegible] has been known to [illegible] very heavy, the constant use of peroxide of hydrogen in connection with a certain [illegible] of ammonia has caused the hair to entirely disappear. This can be applied [illegible] two or three times a week, if necessary.

Recipes Proved Helpful

I however, many [illegible] Dear Beauty Seeker, and would like to [illegible] can give me a formula for a bust [illegible] that receives [illegible] Thanking you in advance for this favor, I remain, yours truly,

[illegible]

I am sorry, but I do not know anything about the cream to which you refer.

HEALTH THROUGH HYGIENE---THE VALUE OF GOLF

By Emma E. Walker, M. D.

Copyright, 1909, by A. H. Barnes & Co., New York.

OUR English friend can teach us a most valuable lesson—the benefit that comes from outdoor exercise. When an English girl feels a little below par in body or mind, she recognizes Nature's signal, drops her work and indulges in some vigorous out-door game.

In this way she refreshes herself and comes back again in fine condition.

But we American girls are not apt to show such sound judgment under such circumstances. We go on the pale, tired brain and body with overexertion is carried far; then we upbraid ourselves for being dull, while we follow just the course to make ourselves dull.

You will rarely see an English girl who takes less than two hours of outdoor recreation daily. That is the great reason why she enjoys such glorious health, and such a beautiful, clear complexion.

Now, when you play golf, how will you begin? Will you ride or drive to the links, or will you walk? How many holes are you going to play, and what do you mean to do after the game? Naturally, all of these details will depend upon the girl, and upon her condition.

If you are playing the first game of the season you cannot do what you will be able to accomplish at your last game. If the links are not too far, walk. An average number of holes for one game is eighteen. However, as this may prove too exhausting for many, it is far better to begin moderately than to overdo. Indeed, nine holes will make a very fair beginning. If you feel tired after the game, you would better ride home than walk.

The game of golf is a marvelous test of nerve and temper. There is no other that is so likely to bring out characteristics that you never knew your best friend to possess before. You may find yourself exhibiting traits that you were not well acquainted with before you went on to the golf links. You must hold your muscles, nerves and brain [illegible] control, but patience, courage and self-mastery will bring their reward.

Golf is better than medicine, and will make over the poor, tired body and fagged-out mind.

There is an old saying that he who does not learn to play [illegible] when he is young lays up for himself a miserable old age. This is very applicable to golf. The physical exercise is invaluable—especially the swing of the body about the hips, and the motion of the arms and legs are all splendid developers.

Every [illegible] part of the body will be called to by a game of golf. One [illegible] quick [illegible] the links with a keen appetite, and the whole body is in a glow from perfect circulation. And with every muscle at its best. If you played more golf, there would be far less [illegible] spring from nervous exhaustion, depression—otherwise "the blues"—[illegible] indigestion, flat chests, shallow breathing and rheumatism. I know a girl who is free from all her winter or "city" ailments during the long summer in the country. She believes that this is due to her devotion to golf, for she plays [illegible]

Thos. Wilson Passed Away at Apsley.

Death of Highly Respected Resident Recently.

Other Apsley News—Memorial Poetry in Memory of Respected Lady.

Special to the Examiner.)

Apsley, Sept. 27.—The cold hand of Death has once more visited our community and claimed as its victim Mr. Thomas Wilson, sr., at the age of seventy years. The deceased had been suffering from a cancer in the throat for some time, but the end came quite unexpectedly on Sunday, September 17. The funeral took place on Tuesday, September 19, from his son's residence, Mr. Norman Wilson's, Burleigh, to the Church of England, Apsley, for service, thence to the Apsley Cemetery for interment. His six sons, Joseph, Norman Samuel, of Burleigh; Edward, of Young's Point; Thomas, of Apsley, and Bert, of Emily, acted as pallbearers. Besides the six sons, he leaves to mourn his loss a fond wife and five daughters, to all of whom we extend our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

There is a grief, the depth of which another
May never know;
Yet o'er the waters, O, my stricken friends,
To you I go.

I dean my heart unto you, sadly folding
Your hands in mine;
With even the weakness of mysoul upholding
The strength of thine.

I never know, like thee, the dear departed;
I stood not by
When in calm trust your angel mother
Lay down to die.

And on your ears my words of weak condoling
Must vainly fall;
The funeral bell which in your hearts is tolling,
Sounds over all!

I will not mock you with the poor world's common
And heartless phrase,
Nor wrong the memory of your darling mother
With idle praise.

In silence, on that dark and rainy morning,
Did grim Death come,
And in the shadow of your great affliction
Your souls are dumb!

God called his loved one, but you lose not wholly
What He hath given!
She lives on earth, in thought and deed, as truly
As in His heaven.

And she is with you; in your path of trial
She walketh yet;
Still with the baptism of your self-denial
Her locks are wet.

Up, then, my friends! to the fields of harvest
Lie white in view!
She lives and loves thee, and the God thou servest,
To both is true.

A FRIEND.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL.

Your little one may be well and happy to-day but would you know what to do if it woke to-night with the croup, or went into convulsions or spasms to-morrow? The doctor may come too late. Have you a reliable remedy at hand? Baby's Own Tablets break up colds, prevent croup, reduce fever, check diarrhoea, cure constipation and stomach troubles, help the obstinate little teeth through painlessly, and give sound healthful sleep. And they contain not one particle of opiate or poisonous "soothing" stuff—this is guaranteed. They are equally good for the new-born babe or the well-grown child. Mrs. Susan E. Sluggers Should Be Banished

Expelled from the C.L.A.—such was the sentence passed last night by the "wise old owls" of the C.L.A.'s Judicial Committee on Barber and Maundrell, the two Beaverton players who behaved so badly in their home town on Wednesday. That seems like stiff punishment, but it is none too severe. It will have a healthy effect in purifying the atmosphere of the lacrosse world. There have been too many instances of rough play and ungentlemanly conduct on lacrosse fields during the present season, and the expulsion for life of two such rowdy players shows that the Judicial Committee knows just the dose that's needed.

It should be possible for a team to go to another town and play a hard game and yet come back whole. It should also be possible for a referee to do his duties justly and fearlessly, no matter whether it is on home or neutral grounds. If the C.L.A. desires to have these things possible its best course is to put an everlasting ban on men of the Baker and Maundrell stamp; weed out the sluggers and the simulers.

Baptist Church Held a Rally

Yesterday at Park Street Baptist Church the annual Rally Day exercises were held, and were most successful.

The entire programme was profitable and full of interest. The Superintendent, Miss M. Mann, entered very heartily into the exercises and rallied her forces with the precision of an experienced general.

The responsive readings were very effective and the musical selections as they appeared on the programme were given. The duett by Mrs. Jewitt and Miss Edith Gillespie deserves special mention, and the Primary Department must not be overlooked and all were charmed to hear the announcement that fourteen names were on the Cradle Roll. In the address by the assistant superintendent, Mr. H. T. G. Gillespie, he welcomed the new teachers to the teaching staff and gave them as a word of encouragement Phil. 4:13 "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me". He also spoke words of cheer to the teaching staff and gave them St. Paul's Exhortation to thes church in Galatia, "Let us not be weary in well doing for in one season we shall if we faint not".

Mr. Alex. Haddow's subject was "A good start and his address, which was to be three minutes was very practical.

He said it would be a good start for the Superintendent to give timely notice to speakers, as the first intimation he had of his address was through the daily papers. He dwelt upon the importance of not only starting, but of constant application to the most sacred of all duties and concluded with the impressive lesson from the father and two sons of Matt. 21:28. The first said, I will not but afterwards repented and went. The second said "I go sir, and went not".

The pastor, Rev. A. H. Bruce, spoke on the subject in a five minutes' address "Five New Things I want to see in the School". These were five new things he wanted each boy and girl to have:—1, New heart; 2, New name; 3, New creation; 4, a New song; 5, the New commandment. The five new things he wished to see in the school were:—A new long list of candidates for church membership. He made the statement that sixty members of Sunday School were in the fellowship of the church. 2, new interest taken in increasing number of scholars. 3, That every class should be its own absentee visitor. 4, new missionary zeal excited. 5, a long list of new members for the Mission Band. He closed his address with an impressive incident. The question was asked by the whole school and repeated and again and again with great effect, "What kind of a school would our school be if every member were just like me?"

The "Mispah" all repeated together and the Benediction closed a most successful rally.—Com.

Where does your Heat go to?

Every stick of wood, every piece of coal contains a certain number of heat units, according to the size and quality of the stick or chunk.

Now some ranges let these heat units escape up the chimney. Heat units which go up the chimney do not heat the oven or the frying-pan. They are wasted. Every heat unit that is wasted is money lost, money burnt. The science of range building is the successful utilization of all the heat units.

The Pandora Range is the only range that utilizes all the heat units and sends none up the chimney.

You can't put your hand over the chimney when some ranges are in use, because so much heat goes up the chimney. Your hand would be burned. That is heat wasted, money wasted, time wasted, because it takes so much longer to do your work when a large part of your heat is lost.

The Pandora Range is built to keep all the heat units in the range—keeps them there till the heat is exhausted—it is the only range that does not waste heat. It uses all the heat there is in the coal or wood.

That's the kind of range you want in your kitchen—it is economical—it saves coal, wood, money, time. It makes kitchen work easy.

First-Class Material is Available

In Junior and Intermediate Lacrosse Series for Senior Company.

Cavanah, Morgan and Dillon of the Locals are Fast Enough, in "Wag's" Opinion to Play in Senior Series.

Mr. F. C. Waghorne, the well known referee, writes as follows to the Toronto Star, regarding lacrosse matters:—

The lacrosse that has been played this year in the country under the auspices of the C. L. A. has been something phenomenal; in fact, so good that the games have been superior to some of the senior ones, which goes to show that a good many of the players are fit to play in senior company. Therefore I do not think the senior management need go outside the C. L. A. to get players when such first-class material is available, men who are in their prime and are comers, who would be anxious to make reputations for themselves as well as to win for their clubs.

We only have to refer, for example, to the St. Catharines home division, namely, Barnett, O'Gorman, Kalle, Lowe, and Hagan, all home brews, and who have done such magnificent work this season, the first three of which were playing junior within the last two years. Take also Felker, Adamson, Marten, and Querrie of the Tecumsehs, whose playing has been of the best, and who came from teams in the C.L.C.

This proves clearly that on the field and on the home yards players who are ambitious and have grit and speed should be gradually introduced into this part of the field to help keep the game fast and scientific. In the forty-five games that I umpired in the country this season, I have noticed how the young players who have youth, speed, and staying power on their side, have made the game very fast, which resulted in the public (who have turned out in large numbers) seeing the best lacrosse in years; in fact, coming very near the senior game. In mentioning the following players on the different teams, who, I think, are ripe for senior company, I do so because they are just in their prime or are coming, and have years of good lacrosse before them. Men who have speed, weight, and stick handling ability combined. No doubt there are some older players on the teams but I must also have done excellent work for their club, but who know themselves that they will have to retire very soon. Probably I could pick as many as six players of a few teams who could strengthen some senior teams, especially from Brantford Juniors, six of whom could have been worked into the senior team. The players, now in junior and intermediate company, who are fast enough for senior, are as follows:

Peterborough—W. Cavanah, H. Morgan, E. Dillon.
Orillia—P. Quinn, D. McKinnon, O. Donaldson.
Shelburne—Kalbeck, Beckus, W. A. McKimm.

IT'S IN THE BLOOD.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Drive Out Rheumatic Poison.

Rheumatism is rooted in the blood—any doctor will tell you that. Nothing can cure it that does not reach the blood. It is a foolish waste of time, and suffering, to try to cure rheumatism with liniments, poultices or anything else that only goes skin deep. Rubbing lotions into the skin only helps the painful poison to circulate more freely. The one sure, and the only cure for rheumatism is to drive the uric acid out of your blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new blood, and the new blood sweeps out the poisonous acids, loosens the stiffened, aching joints, cures the rheumatism and makes the sufferer feel better in many other ways. Mrs. Jos. Perron, Les Boucheman's, Que., says:—"I suffered from rheumatism in a chronic form for nearly twenty-five years. I spent much money in liniments and medicines, but without avail, until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Some times I was so stiff I could hardly move. The trouble seemed to be growing worse, and finally seemed to affect my heart, and used to have pains in the region of the heart, and some times a smothering sensation. I grew so weak, and suffered so much that I began to consider my case hopeless, and then one day a little pamphlet, telling of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, fell into my hands, and I learned that they would cure rheumatism. I sent for a supply, and in about three weeks found they were helping me. The trouble which affected my heart soon disappeared, and gradually the pains left me and I could go about with more freedom than I had done for years. I still take the pills occasionally, as I now know it is wise to keep my blood in good condition."

It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood that they cure such troubles as rheumatism, anaemia, indigestion, kidney troubles, backaches, headaches and sideaches, neuralgia, erysipelas, and the special ailments that burden the lives of so many women and growing girls. But only the genuine pills can do this, and these always have the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People on the wrapper around every box. NIAGARA CAMP ROUND.

Historic Reminiscences Cited In View of the Fact That Champs de Mars May Be Sold.

There is some talk that the famous camp grounds at Niagara may be sold by the Government, and those who care for our history making environments are citing instances which should, they think, induce reconsideration. One of them says:

The importance of Niagara from the historic point of view cannot be overrated. This point was for years the key to the situation, in so far as the control of trade was concerned. The French explorers acknowledged its strategical value, for in 1678 they made it their business to occupy it, and to fortify it well. LaSalle and his colleagues were early on the spot, and their occupation of the site of the present United States fort gave the French control. The French position was not seriously contested until nearly a hundred years later, when Sir William Johnson, the New Yorker, who remained loyal in the States while others of equal rank were joining in the revolt, descended upon the fort with his friendly Indians and took possession. This was 1759. Shortly afterwards the possessions of France in the new world were ceded to Britain, and the fighting over such points of vantage as Niagara ceased for a time.

But the warlike attitude was resumed within less than two decades, for Britain and her separated colonies contested the possession of this point. The severest strain, however, took place in the War of 1812 and succeeding years. Then Niagara, or Newark, as it was called, was a centre of military activity. From it went expeditions to meet the Americans. To it the Americans came with offensive intentions. It is easy to understand that the gallant Brock, before going out to die for his country, had his troops, many of them Canadian volunteers, drilled on the spot now dedicated to camp purposes. While victory usually crowned the efforts of the defenders of the Canadian border, the American had their occasional triumphs. One of these was the burning of Niagara by Gen. McClure on December 11, 1813. That operation wiped out 149 houses, and sent 400 women and children into the winter woods to seek shelter. What solitary purpose the destruction of private property served nobody knows. All it did was to incite reprisals, which were very costly to the sufferers.

A great military centre was old Niagara. But it had been that for years before it became the capital of the Province. We are accustomed to regard the coming of Gov. Simcoe in 1792 as the beginning of Niagara. This is a mistake. Niagara was the naval, military and commercial capital before the first Governor arrived. Moreover, it was a species of gathering place for all sorts of business. Thus we read in the archives of Canada of the summoning there of all the Mississauga Indians, under Chief Potiquan, to make a treaty with Sir John Johnson on behalf of the great white father. This treaty set apart the Grand River Reserve, as we have it to-day. Thus, also, we are informed that land grants were made in the neighborhood on the authority of the Governor of Canada. Gov. Simcoe reached a town, we should call it a village, already doing business, and took up his residence in one of the military—or perhaps it belonged to the Admiralty—buildings known as Navy Hall. This was really a long shed, and was far from attractive. But the Governor was not very particular as to his housing, for when he afterwards removed to Toronto, then York, he lived for a time in an old tent which had belonged to the celebrated Capt. Cook. This was in advance of his settlement at Rosedale, then named by him Castle Frank, after his son.

There must have been accommodation at that time for the Legislature, for at Newark the first Upper Canada House met, under the guidance of the new Governor. Of this Legislature we have all been proud, owing to the fact that its first Act was the abolition of slavery. It was glorious to think that the initial work of the forefathers of Canada was the wiping out of this blot. But Governor Simcoe has left on record a story which somewhat dims the lustre of the anti-slavery legislation. He writes that there was great resistance to the bill, and many plausible arguments as to the dearness of labor were put forward.

"Some possessing negroes, having purchased several taken in war by the Indians at small prices, wished to reject the bill entirely. Others were desirous to supply themselves by allowing the importation for two years. The matter was finally settled by undertaking to secure the property already obtained upon condition that an immediate stop should be put to the importation and that slavery should be gradually abolished.

It was, no doubt, owing to the policy of reform by slow process that the Niagara Herald was able to publish as late as 1804 an advertisement reading thus:—

"For sale—A negro man slave, 19 years of age, stout and healthy; has had the smallpox, and is capable of service either in the house or out of doors. The terms will be made easy to purchaser, and cash or new lands will be received in payment."

The Assembly, however, passed a good deal of important legislation at Newark, and made a good beginning.

The story of Niagara is told in a measure through the ancient churches. St. Mark's (Anglican) was founded in 1792, and St. Andrew's (Presbyterian) two years later. These churches make in their records splendid contributions to the history of the celebrated town, and are themselves testimonies to the antiquity of Niagara. There can be no doubt that everything of a public character in this notable spot, the battle ground of Upper Canada, the first business centre, the pioneer seat of Government, the home of the first Legislature, should be reverently preserved. Certainly the camp ground, so famous for its great military gatherings at all periods in our history, should not be disposed of, but should be kept as a memorial of the defensive preparations that have been made sometimes on perilous occasions, and at other times, as now, in periods of peace, on behalf of our country.

New System of Checking.

The general baggage agents who were recently in session at Cleveland discussed an innovation on baggage checking that will be of great benefit to the traveler. It is proposed to check the baggage at the passengers' residence to the destination at the terminal point. If the railroads in Canada and the United States agree to the proposition it will be put into operation next year.

OUR OWN

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day
The words unkind
Would trouble my mind
I said when you went away,
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain;
But we vex "our own"
With look and tone
We might never take back again.

For though in the quiet evening
You may give the kiss of peace
Yet well it might be
That never for me
The pain of the heart should cease.
How many go forth in the morning
Who never come home at night!
And hearts have broken
For harsh words spoken
That sorrow can ne'er set right.

We have careful thought for the stranger,
And smiles for the sometime guest,
But oft for "our own"
The bitter tone,
Though we love our own the best.
Ah! up with the curve impatient;
Ah! brow with that look of scorn,
'Twere a cruel fate
Were the night too late
To undo the work of morn.

CANADIAN BORN.

Millionaire Contractors Who Tossed Timber in Lanark's Limits.

Despatches recently reported the capture of a $3,000,000 contract from the C. P. R., and a $7,000,000 one from the Grand Trunk Pacific, by the Foley Brothers of St. Paul. These brothers are natives of Lanark, having been born in Darling, says The Carleton Place Canadian. There were four—Timothy, Michael, John and Richard. The last is dead. These brothers began life in the humblest manner in the limits of Mr. Muir of Lanark. They were as poor as crows, except in the matter of intellect and energy. They were born with an aptitude to do things on a big scale. James L. Murphy knew them when they were in the chrysalis of the crow state—45 years ago. In a moment of blooming ambition he accepted a position in the camp where they were engaged. He saw Tim and Mike wielding the canthook and the hand-spike. Tim especially was powerful in the art of log-rolling; indeed, cash teased timber with skill and alacrity. Mr. Murphy was not enamored of that sort of life, having something safer at home, and left it in a few days; but his memory repaints the scenes with colors that enrich their tints with age. The brothers hitched their chariot to a star, which dropped in St. Paul, where they took deep root and began to spread with a rapidity almost sensational. Each is a millionaire and each lives in a mansion whose beauty and equipment are beyond the dreams of an Oriental potentate. Mrs. Murphy, when in Superior, some time ago called on her husband's youthful friends, accompanied by a sister, who also knew them in those distant days. Timothy Foley married Miss Guthrie of Darling, and she, with her husband, gave the Canadians a royal greeting. T. Foley lives in a home next that of James J. Hill, the noted railway magnate. The brother John is at present visiting in Europe.

Newspapers in Canada.

Is it true that some parts of Canada are over-served in the matter of newspapers? For instance, have British Columbia, with its population of 300,000, and Manitoba, with its population of 250,000, got too many newspapers? In the former there is a newspaper for every 2,598 people, and in the latter one for every 2,393 people.

When we consider the number of children and illiterate persons who never read newspapers, and the number of poor people who never buy them, it is apparent that the average newspaper has but a small field in which to circulate.

Figures for Ontario are almost as low as for Manitoba, being one paper for every 3,729 persons. The Territories have one paper for every 4,545 inhabitants; Nova Scotia one for every 5,479; Prince Edward Island one for every 6,476 persons; New Brunswick one for every 6,320; and Quebec one for every 13,938.—Printer and Publisher.

Uncovered 40 Skeletons.

While John Fallis, a farmer, living close to the United States boundary, ten miles south of Crystal City, Man., was digging a cellar, he happened upon a gruesome find. The spade of one of his workmen unearthed a human skull. At first it was thought to be from the lonely grave of an Indian, but, upon recommencing the excavation, other skulls were met. By evening forty-eight had been taken from the ground. Only two complete skeletons were discovered.

Considerably excited by his mysterious discovery, Mr. Fallis loaded the relics into a wagon and took them to Crystal City, where they elicited much curiosity. Doctors pronounced the bones to be those of white men in a good state of preservation.

The consensus of opinion is that the spot had been the scene of some battle with the Indians, and that the victims of the conflict were thrown into a common pit in the haste of flight.

Skulls of Dead Indians.

What is probably the site of an old Indian burying ground was revealed a few days ago when excavating a mound in the C. P. R. station yard at Myrtle, Ont., on the Toronto & Havelock division. The discovery was made by Contractor John Bescomb's staff. The ploughs used in reducing the mound uncovered ribs and leg bones, and soon sixteen skulls were upturned. Three of the skulls were sent to Ottawa for scientific examination, and one to Dr. Clendennan at Toronto Junction. Seven were retained by a Everyman at Myrtle, but they were stolen from his stable the same night.

Hospital For Sick Horses.

The Toronto Humane Society has decided to purchase a vacation farm for poor men's horses. Overworked horses, whose owners are unable to pay for a recuperative outing, will be given a week's gamboling in pasture. A shed where aged and tired canines may loll at ease is also contemplated. The first money toward the purchase of the farm was $327 raised at a Horse Show booth.

A Poke at Her.

Miss Knox—I don't like her. She's forever talking about herself.

Miss Wise (pointedly)—Well, that's better than talking about some one else.

Melissa chewed her pen staff in pretended meditation and kept one eye on Dicky Johnston.

Dicky had shown signs of wandering away from the fold and must be brought back. It was decidedly against Melissa's creed to allow another girl to receive even an iota of admiration from one of her coterie.

There was a girl belonging to the house party, a blond, Melissa thought contemptuously, who had received entirely too much attention from Dicky.

Therefore he must be disciplined. His lesson must be decided at once and to the point. Having decided upon this, Melissa gave her pen one conclusive nibble and commenced writing hurriedly. As there happened to be no one in the library at the time except Dicky and herself, his attention was soon attracted by the aggressive scratching of her pen.

"I KNOW IT WAS A JOKE," HE RESUMED.

"Why don't you stop and amuse a fellow?" he urged. "What are you writing?"

"Oh, just writing," she replied airily, her tone insinuating that there were subjects beyond his comprehension.

"To a man?" he asked sulkily.

"A very charming man," she assured him impressively. "It's rather an important communication," she continued. "I wish you would look over this page and see if it is too stilted."

Dicky took it up with relieved alacrity, but his face lengthened visibly as he read:

"I have decided that I will marry you. I don't know why I hesitated. If you can get away from town for a day take the Ederton local for Mrs. Wimberly's country place, and you can tell me if you are glad I didn't keep you waiting any longer."

Dicky handed it back and commenced a study of the library fire.

"I don't see how any one could possibly call that stilted," he growled.

Melissa signed the note, sealed it and directed it to Dr. John Hartly.

Considering the fact that Dr. Hartly was only a very casual acquaintance and had never asked Melissa to marry him nor had she ever dreamed of his asking her to do so, this literary achievement might be regarded as rather theatrical.

She gathered up her writing materials, slipped the letter into her writing pad and started for the door. Stopping a minute to fluff up her brown pompadour, she fixed a reproachful eye upon the object of her vengeance.

"I never would have thought, Dicky"—there were volumes of surprise in her voice—"that you would have cared anything at all for blonds." She went out and shut the door rather decidedly.

As she crossed the hall the letter slipped out and fell to the floor, making no sound on the soft rug. She went upstairs, unconscious of her loss, smiling in anticipation of the interview she would have with Dicky when his repentance had reached a proper depth. It was Melissa's theory, gained in her twenty years, that men needed to be taught lessons occasionally. When Dicky had learned his lesson she would acknowledge that she had not yet sent the letter, but was keeping it for further consideration.

The footman, coming for the letter bag a few minutes later, was unconscious of the inner workings of Melissa's mind. He picked up her letter and posted it with the others.

Two evenings later the maid brought Melissa Dr. Hartly's card. "I took him to the library, miss. He said he could only stay a few minutes—that he wanted to see you alone."

Melissa went downstairs, her forehead puckered into a wondering frown. She could not imagine why Dr. Hartly had come to Ederton to talk with her about anything.

He came forward to meet her, and she felt a little constrained in her greeting of this man of forty, who seemed so different from Dicky and the others.

"I'm so glad you decided to marry me," he said cordially, his eyes twinkling. "I hoped some woman would some day. You see, I have been so busy—I rather neglected it."

Melissa gasped with astonishment.

"Who said anything about my marrying you?" she finally managed to say, her eyes round with surprise.

He took her note from his inside pocket, adjusted his eyeglasses and looked at it carefully.

"I certainly hope I have not been mistaken," he said, handing it to her.

Two large tears rolled down her cheek. "I don't know how on earth—I thought this was upstairs in my writing pad," she said miserably. "It was just a joke to tease Dicky. I—oh, I never was so ashamed in my whole life!" she said, dropping into a big library chair and hiding her face against its back.

He walked behind the chair and, leaning on it, looked down smilingly upon the brown head that rose and fell with each sob.

"I knew there was some kind of joke connected with it, child," he said soothingly. "There was obliged to be some joke about the fact that a girl your age would dream of marrying an old man like me."

"I don't think you are—old," came in muffled tones from the padded back of the chair.

"I knew it was a joke," he resumed, "but it seemed rather—pleasant. Somehow I had an irresistible desire to come and see why you did it."

Melissa's face was still hidden.

"I wouldn't have you feel mortified about it for the world," leaning over until his lips touched a stray tendril of her hair that shone red brown on the black leather chair back. "I am twice as old as you, little girl, but I am young enough to understand a joke. Do you feel all right about it now?"

The brown head nodded in a comforted manner.

"And yet, Melissa, I can't help realising how nice it would be—if it were not a joke. If there ever comes a day when you could possibly mean it, won't you send it back?"

The figure was as still as the chair that held it, and Hartly sighed as he turned off.

"Never mind. Of course you could not. I'll say goodby now and catch the 9 o'clock train for town. Won't you make enough to show we understand each other?"

Melissa blindly held out a wavering hand that he grasped in his big one.

His expression changed with lightning rapidity, for there could be no doubt about it—the girl had gently pressed into his palm the note that had been concealed in her hand.

"Melissa!" he exclaimed unbelievingly, seating himself upon the arm of the big chair.

Prepared For Emergencies.

A well to do Kentucky farmer once invited an acquaintance from a neighboring town to dine with him. The recipient of this courtesy was a man well known in that region for his general crankiness and his propensity to use his gun at the least evidence of what he considered an affront. The farmer, well aware of the touchiness of his guest, with whom, for business reasons, he desired to remain on good terms, always kept a wary eye on his visitor. One afternoon the testy individual in conversation with his host remarked: "I can't account for the queer feelings and impulses that come over me at times. Do you know, the first time I took dinner here I had as much as I could do to master the impulse when one of your sons made a certain remark to whip out my gun and let go." "Oh, don't you worry about that," said the farmer. "I know all about your little failing in that line. My son Jake was standin' in the hallway just back of you with a shotgun. You did well to change your mind. At the first motion toward your hip pocket my son Jake had instructions to blow daylight through you!"

Other Ways to Get It.

"He doesn't seem to be much of a rustler."

"No?"

"Well, I saw him buying an umbrella."

She Believes It.

Because a fellow feeds his wife
A bushel of hot air
She thinks he leads the strenuous life
And has a load of care.
And when for him she heaves a sigh
He slowly winks the other eye.

Obliging.

"Johnnie, don't let me see you do such a thing again."

"All right, mamma. Will you please turn your head?"

Conditional.

"Are you hungry, Johnnie?"

"Yes, mamma, I terribly hungry if you have got any of that strawberry shortcake."

Fissures Opened, the Ground Sank, and Houses Rocked Violently

Gothenburg, Sweden, Sept. 28.—A severe earthquake was felt at 1.39 p.m Tuesday at Lundby, Hisingen Island. It cracked the walls of houses and fissured the surface of the ground.

Subterranean rumblings were quickly followed by the violent rocking of houses and the splitting of inner and outer walls, driving the inmates to seek safety in the open air.

In many places fissures a foot wide were opened up, while the level of the ground in the eastern part of the island sank appreciably. The disturbance lasted a minute.

London, Sept. 28.—(C. A. P.)—A Bombay newspaper of September 8 says: John A. Booth, a Canadian, sensationally ended his life in Calcutta police station by taking a dose of poison he had secreted on his person. Booth had been arrested for collecting subscriptions purporting to be for the Japanese Red Cross Society. Letters written by Booth, addressed to the commissioner of police, contained a confession of murder committed in Manila.

The fire broke out about midnight. The absence of a fire-fighting apparatus rendered the villagers helpless. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin. The rear door was found open by Edward Orr.

Mountain Splits in Two.

New York, Sept. 29.—A Rome despatch to The Herald says: A mountain near Ajello, called Pietra Calondia, 300 metres high, split in two Wednesday, owing to shocks of earthquakes, and threatens to bury the town. All the inhabitants have fled.

There was a terrible cyclone at Sparantise, in the Province of Caserta. All the trees and telegraph poles were uprooted, houses were damaged and several people were killed and injured.

QUEBEC SEIZES THE LOGS.

Canada Taking Steps Through Quebec to Have a Settlement With Newfoundland Re, Labrador.

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Feeling that it is desirable to have the boundary between the Province of Quebec and Newfoundland's coast strip along the Labrador Peninsula clearly defined, the Quebec Government, with the approval of the Federal authorities, will shortly take steps to have the subject threshed out in the courts.

Newfoundland has for some time been issuing timber licenses in the interior of Labrador. Premier Gouin's intention is to have some of this timber seized, after which the courts will be asked to say whether the island had any right to issue the license under which the lumbermen operate.

The case will be tried first in the Superior Court and no doubt appealed to the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

Over a year ago Canada proposed to Newfoundland a reference of the Labrador boundary dispute to the Privy Council, and enquired whether the island was prepared to accept the ruling of this highest tribunal in the British Empire. The Island Government never even replied to the question.

Canada admits Newfoundland's claim to the coast strip of Labrador from Cape Chidley, at the entrance of Hudson Straits, to Anse Taubion, in Belle Isle Straits. The dispute is as to how far the Island colony's jurisdiction extends inland.

Newfoundland counts her coast strip up Lake Melville, while Canada asserts that the latter is simply a salt water lake entirely within our limits.

Ordered Logs Seized.

The dispute arising out of Newfoundland's claims to territorial rights on Hamilton Inlet, on the coast of Labrador, came to a sensational climax yesterday, when the Quebec Government ordered the seizure of the logs cut under authority of the Newfoundland Government. The order of the Quebec Government, issued yesterday, brings the matter to a head and is likely to arouse considerable resentment in Newfoundland.

YEYTE SUNK IN HARBOR.

Manila Typhoon Destroys Malahi, a Military Post Near Manila.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The military secretary has received the following cablegram from Gen. Corbin, regarding the typhoon of Tuesday at Manila:

Another despatch to the Navy Department from Commander John B. Milton, commandant of the naval station at Cavite, was received later in the day and states that the hurricane did $80,000 damage to the buildings, plant, yard and craft.

"Manila, Sept. 27.—The worst storm of years obtained here yesterday, passing during the night. Considerable damage was done by the unroofing of buildings. The port at Malahi is reported totally destroyed. Further reports when facts are known."

Admiral Reiter, commanding the Asiatic fleet, cables the Navy Department as follows:

"The Yeyte, which was out of commission, was sunk in the harbor and lost in the hurricane of September 26." The Yeyte was a gunboat of 150 tons. She was one of the vessels formerly belonging to Spain, and it is said at the Navy Department that she was practically worthless. The port at Malahi referred to by Gen. Corbin is 31 miles from Manila in Laguna Province. The garrison consisted of four companies, 16th infantry, according to the last reports received at the War Department. There is also a military prison at Malahi.

OUR GRAIN FOR AULD SCOTIA.

Representatives of Co-Operative Concern Come to Investigate.

New York, Sept. 28.—Two visitors from the other side in New York this week are Director T. C. McNab and Commercial Manager W. F. Stewart of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, Limited, whose head offices are in Glasgow. These gentlemen are representatives of an industry which, last year, placed upon the market goods to the value of £6,081,272, and which gives constant employment to 7,000 persons. They are here primarily to look into the grain situation. They will visit all the larger grain-producing centres in the United States and Canada.

Discussing the purposes of his visit, Mr. Stewart said: "We are here to seek additional knowledge in regard to the production and marketing of grain in the United States and Canada. The society is the owner of three flour mills, with a weekly production of 10,500 sacks of 280 pounds each, and, as 95 per cent. of the grain consumed is foreign, it behooves us to keep in close touch with all markets."

Shorthand Inventor Dead.

Detroit, Sept. 28.—Mrs. H. M. Pernin, inventor of the Pernin system of shorthand, which is used all over the world, and who resided in Detroit for many years, is dead in Los Angeles. She was about 55 years of age and a Canadian by birth.

Labor Candidate in Calgary.

ALARM FELT IN RUSSIA.

Over the Terms of the New Anglo-Japanese Treaty.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—The first comment heard here on the Anglo-Japanese treaty can be conservatively characterised with the word "alarming."

It was fully expected that it would prove to be a very significant and important document. The first study not only confirmed this view, but strengthened it. It is too soon yet to give any full report of how it was received in Russia, and when officials were questioned on the subject yesterday the invariable answer was that it was too soon to express an opinion in such a weighty and important matter.

The use of the terms "protection of common interests," and "measures which should be taken," are regarded here as being open to any interpretation the signatories desire to give to them. Also coupled with the use of the words "East Asia," apparently applying to all Asia east of India, including the East Indian Islands and Indo-China, they are considered to prove clearly that the signatories purpose to act in the part of the word specified with the freest kind of a hand. This conviction cannot but create alarm in Russia.

As Viewed in Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance in its extended form is regarded by some commentators as tending to bring Russia and Germany closer together. Germany seeks close agreements with Russia and Russia may feel the need of such agreements in consequence of the extension of the British-Japanese alliance.

Does Not Displease France.

Paris, Sept. 28.—The Anglo-Japanese treaty was widely commented upon yesterday. The official view is that the treaty is conformable to French interests. It is pointed out particularly that France does not seek territorial expansion in Asia and therefore the status quo provisions of the treaty carry out French policies.

SEPARATE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

From Other Branches Advocated By the Zemstvos Congress.

Moscow, Sept. 28.—The congress of zemstvos and municipalities, at its session Tuesday, in addition to the program already cabled, adopted a special resolution on the subject of the judicature.

It declared itself in favor of the complete separation of the Department of Justice from the other branches of the administration, the irremovability of judges, the re-institution of the system proving for the election of judges, the trial of every case before a jury, the abolition of the capital penalty and punishment by administrative process and the abrogation of the laws legalising the proclamation of a modified form of martial law.

Troops Winter in Manchuria.

Godsyadani, Manchuria, Sept. 28.—A recent order of Gen. Linevitch to the army leads to the conclusion that the troops will spend the winter in Manchuria. Drills and target practice will continue and games will be organized to keep the men occupied.

THE FUTURE OF NORWAY.

Proposal In Storthing to Leave Things Until After Election.

Christiania, Norway, Sept. 28.—A resolution signed by ten deputies was introduced in the Storthing yesterday, proposing the summoning of a constituent Storthing before the middle of November to decide on the future form of the Norwegian Government, and that a final decision of the matter be postponed until after the elections of 1906.

Take Early Steps.

Paris, Sept. 28.—M. Leviand, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Norway, yesterday gave The Temps' Christiania correspondent an authorized statement.

He said Norway would take steps to secure an early recognition by the powers.

This recognition would cover Norway's independent sovereignty without reference to the question of the Government's status as a monarchy or a republic, which would be subsequently determined.

Bye-Elections in Quebec.

Quebec, Sept. 28.—Nominations for vacant seats in Quebec Legislature in St. Sauveur and St. Lawrence division, Montreal, will take place on October 7, elections October 14. Hon. Charles Langlier is returning officer for St. Sauvieur.

G. T. R. Takes Over C. A. R.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—The management of the Grand Trunk Railway announce that the Canada Atlantic Railway has been taken over by them, and that the following board of directors has been elected: Charles M. Hays, F. H. Fitzhugh, Joseph Hobson, W. H. Biggar, J. W. Loud, Frank Scott. The following named were elected officers: Charles M. Hays, president; F. H. Fitzhugh, vice-president; Frank Scott, secretary-treasurer; H. W. Walker, general auditor.

Conference Re. Thibet.

Washington, Sept. 28.—A conference will be held in the near future in Calcutta, English India, at which it is hoped that the difference between China and England in regard to the treaty of the latter country with Thibet will be adjusted. China never recognised the treaty Col. Younghusband made with the Thibetan authorities and protested against it as soon as the military expedition returned from Lhasa.

Y. M. C. A. For Railway Men.

Barrie, Sept. 28.—Charles M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, has signified his willingness to contribute from his company the sum of $4,500 and a free site for the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building at Allandale, to be used principally by the men working in the Grand Trunk shops there. He also proposed to give $90 per month for the maintenance of the building.

Fight in Express Car.

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 28.—John B. Ryan of Chicago, Pacific Express messenger on a Wabash passenger train, and Edward Green, also of Chicago, a former express messenger, fought with pistols in Ryan's car yesterday. Both were seriously wounded and may die. Jokes led to the quarrel.

Dad's Hope.

Oh, rarer than the days of June,
And sweeter than its roses,
More radiant than its mellow moon
And brighter than its posies—
Yes, softer than its morning air
That's o'er us kindly rushing—
Are brides of June, buds young and fair,
And, like the roses, blushing!

They come in clouds of lustrous white
And set our pulses dancing,
Their smiles are soft, their blushes bright,
And they are most entrancing;
Their thoughts are fixed on coming days
With roseate hues alluring;
They see things in a golden haze,
Their happiness assuring.

A sound of music in the air,
The rippling notes of laughter
From lips of maids who have no care—
A gentle sigh thereafter;
All speak of June and marriage time
And early summer bowers,
Of bridesmaids and of wedding chime,
Of antenuptial showers.

Back of the happy picture lurks
Old daddy with the dollars,
Which for the same he works and works
And very seldom hollers;
He hopes that when the other chap
Who helps to make the wedding
Shall pay his daughter's bills mayhap
Dad won't find such hard sledding.

Rapid Promotion.

"What is he doing now?"
"Promoting mines."
"Is he successful?"
"Well, the first week he issued a circular in which he promoted one from about the fifth class to the first class."

Raising the Price.

Go to the ant, thou sluggard,
The words of wisdom said;
The silly fellow took his watch
And went to his uncle instead.

One Way to Go.

"Politics sent him to the insane asylum."
"Terrible, isn't it?"
"Oh, it might be worse. He went as keeper."

The Potent Best.

"Was her father very emphatic when he refused to consider your proposition for his daughter's hand?"
"Yes, rather, he put his sole into his work."

The Early Frost.

In the festive summer garden
Life is something of a dream,
When the foam is on the soda
And the frost is on the cream.

Brought to Earth.

"They got married with only $15 to their names."
"How romantic!"
"Very, but it was realism next day."

Just an Incident.

"I think I will spend some time at the seaside."
"That will be the smallest thing you will spend there."

The City Suckers.

The mild moon shone with silvery light,
Her face was full of pity,
The fields were green with grasses bright
And boarders from the city;
The flowers were blowing in the air,
So was the farmer, too;
He bragged because he knew for fair
Those boarders he would do.

A Small Conflagration.

"My love for you is burning my heart out," sighed the persistent wooer.
"We might call out the fire department and turn on the hose," suggested the heiress.

DIFFERENT VIEWPOINT.

It really seems but yesterday
Since I was just a little lad
With not a thing to do but play
Or shout and get the neighbors mad,
And here I am—ah, lackaday!—
A dignified and grownup dad.

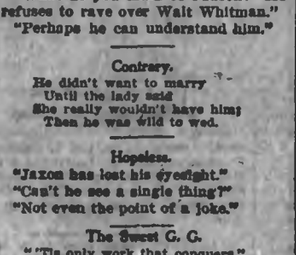
I went to school against my will,
Played hooky when I had a chance
To go in swimming by the mill
And watch the flying fishes dance,
But when my son does that, with skill
I warm the patches on his pants.

What seemed all right for me to do
Is not the proper thing for him;
I see a boy should have a few
Ambitions other than to swim;
Now that my schoolboy days are through,
No pattern they for my young limb.

Oh, if he only knew that I
Stole melons in the early fall
Or shook down apples on the sly,
A trespasser, when I was small,
When I chastised him he might try
My own shortcomings to recall!

But that's the way it is with men.
We laugh at our own youthful sport,
But do not thank the neighbors when
They come around to make report
[illegible]
On just where his old dad was short.

Furnished Some Help.



"Was he able to rise to the occasion?"
"Yes; a small boy had placed a tack in his chair."

So Easy.

Some men who cannot manage even the hired girl know just what they would do if they were the czar of all the Russias.

It looks easy to be boss of a few hundred million people to the man who has never hired out at the job at a salary of $3 a day, but when a fellow is there holding the reins of the reign he is certainly up against the real thing.

The man who is subject to headaches or cold feet would better cut out the job and devote himself to some easy task like digging canals or peddling sassafras.

The chances are that he would have had no practice acting as czar, and with so many things to look after he might mislay an army or wake up some morning and forget where he had left the fleet the night before, and while he was scratching his head and trying to get the run of things some rude young man might drift along and, with the pleasant salutation, "Ah, there, czar!" throw a bomb at him and make his escape.

Being czar may be all right to read about, but when you come right down to the routine of work the only attractive thing about the job is the salary annexed.

Has an Appetite.

The automobile eats no oats
Nor hay nor clover green,
But how the creature does devour
By gallons gasoline!

Reason to Be.

"Pa, what is a happy medium?"
"It is a lady fortune teller who has just found a sucker ready to cough up $5 for the purpose of finding out a lot of things that he already knows."

The Reason.

"What do you think of Judson? He refuses to rave over Walt Whitman."
"Perhaps he can understand him."

Contrary.

He didn't want to marry
Until the lady said
She really wouldn't have him;
Then he was wild to wed.

Hopeless.

"Jazon has lost his eyesight."
"Can't he see a single thing?"
"Not even the point of a joke."

As sweetly to the front she trips

Her father to a finish.

A Young Lady Transformed!

All the charm of Girlhood restored.

This is only one of hundreds of cases in which "Fruit-a-tives" changed Pale, Sallow Skin into the Rosy Bloom of Health.

Too many women have sallow skins—bad complexions—dark circles under the eyes—headaches—backaches—sick stomachs.

Too few women have the robust health and rosy bloom of girlhood—that "Fruit-a-tives" preserve.

Some women don't realize how surely Constipation undermines the health and brings premature old age.

The intestines do two things—give up nourishment to the blood—and carry off waste matter.

But—if Constipation keeps the waste IN the intestines, the blood takes up poison instead of nutriment.

It is this waste—carried all over the system by the blood—that causes Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Bad Breath, Headaches, Backaches, Sallow Skin, Pimples, Paleness and Thinness.

The woman who wants
—a fine complexion
—to be free of headaches and backaches
—to eat well, sleep well and look well
—to feel well ALL THE TIME
can have her wish if she takes "Fruit-a-tives."

Miss Jamison tells how she found the happiness of health in Fruit-a-tives or Fruit-Liver Tablets.

MASSON, P.Q., Nov. 16th, 1904.

Fruit-a-tives Limited,
Ottawa, Ont.

Gentlemen:—

I have much pleasure in reporting to you the great benefit I have received from taking "Fruit-a-tives"—and I feel that I cannot say too much in favor of a medicine which has done me so much good. I was a martyr to that distressing complaint, Chronic Constipation, accompanied by severe headaches, backache, sick stomach and all the symptoms of dyspepsia. I had also a dreadful complexion, sallow in the extreme and black under the eyes. I had every symptom of kidney irritation and I had been told by physicians that my kidneys were affected. I consulted a number of physicians and took various remedies but received very little benefit. Last May I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and when I began to take them I had little faith of getting anything to give me permanent relief, but after I had taken half a box, the constipation was relieved, the headaches left me, the pain in my back was better and I could sleep as soundly as when I was a child. Also, my complexion began to clear up again, all the sallowness disappeared and the black circles under my eyes went away. The pain in the back gradually left me and all signs of kidney disease disappeared by the first of August after I had taken three boxes. Since then I have continued to improve and now I have none of my old symptoms and my appetite is good, digestion splendid and my complexion as clear as when I was a young girl. Also the constipation from which I had suffered so long has been entirely cured and it is not necessary for me to take the "Fruit-a-tives" now as I am quite well in every way. I took no medicine but "Fruit-a-tives" but I followed faithfully the directions as to diet etc. given in the pamphlet which accompanies each box of "Fruit-a-tives."

To all persons suffering from constipation and indigestion, headache and backache, and particularly those with sallow complexions, I would strongly recommend them to try "Fruit-a-tives" and faithfully carry out the directions in the pamphlet, and I feel certain they will find this medicine simply marvelous. I might also say that the action of "Fruit-a-tives" is very mild and non-irritating, no griping is felt and the stomach is sweetened by taking them.

[Signed] FLORENCE JAMISON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are NOT cathartics.

They contain NO calomel, jalap, cascara, "oil," or "salts."

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form.

They are a discovery that deserves to rank with anaesthetics and vaccine.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a tonic for the bowels. They tone up the intestines, make them move regularly and naturally.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Constipation just as surely as chloroform deadens pain.

If you are suspicious of your health, don't wait for proof and sickness. Take "Fruit-a-tives."

All druggists have these health preserving, pleasant tasting fruit tablets.

50c. a box—and worth ten times 50c. to any woman who wants to enjoy the luxury of perfect health.

RECESSIONAL.

(1897.)

God of our fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle-line,
Beneath Whose awful Hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies;
The captains and the kings depart;
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

Far-called, our navies melt away;
On dune and headland sinks the fire;
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the Nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

If, drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe
Such boastings as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the Law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

For heathen heart that puts her trust
In reeking tube and iron shard,
All valiant dust that builds on dust,
And guarding, calls not Thee to guard,
For frantic boast and foolish word—
Thy Mercy on Thy People, Lord!

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; as while it may not be as easy to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old form" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poisons from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 26 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

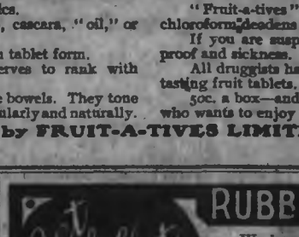
with the festive bunch of lilacs.

The reason of this stab, or, rather, cut at personal liberty, is that microbes have a way of traveling around in the doctors' whiskers to save car fare, jumping on when the doctor is busy mixing some drops for a patient and carelessly alighting when he makes a call at some place where they think they would like to board for a week.

Thus it will be seen that the whiskers are convicted not because they are guilty in themselves, but on account of the company they keep.

Good Rule For Others.



"Does he believe in early rising?"
"Yes, for his hired man."

Better Proposition.

The stories of a sunrise
A man will gladly lose
And feel ahead if in his bed
He can remain and snooze.

Still More Important.

"He can order his meals in three different languages."
"Yes, but he can't always pay for them in one."

Different Kind of Pressure.

"Why is he so anxious about having his suit pressed?"
"He wants to press his suit tonight."

Then She Tolerates It.

A mustache on her upper lip
Annoys a lady fair
Unless some horrid, awful man
Has slyly put it there.

A Mean Inference.

"When I was out west a fellow took a notion to me and gave me a room rent free all winter."
"That was nice. By the way, do they keep the jails warm in that country?"

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle.

De Miracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not scar or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does safe burn, scar or paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than depilatories, because it is not poisonous; therefore it will not cause blood poisoning, or produce soreness, which is so common with depilatories, nor does it break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray or depilatories are offered you on the bare word of the operators and manufacturers. De MIRACLE is not. It is the only method which is indorsed by physicians, druggists, electricians, medical journals and prominent men and women.

De MIRACLE mailed sealed in plain wrapper on receipt of $1.00. Your money back without question (no red tape) if it fails to do all that is claimed for it. Booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope, upon request. Write for it to-day to De MIRACLE CHEMICAL CO., 20 Queen St. West, Toronto. For sale by

Why Tea Quality Varies

YOU know how the quality of strawberries from the same patch will sometimes vary from one day to another.

One day sweet, compact, well ripened, well colored, richly flavored—next day it rains, is cloudy,—following picking is soggy, sour, green, coarsely-flavored, poor.

Tea, also, on account of its volatility of flavor, after picking and during the curing process is very susceptible to weather changes. A few hours of sunshine or bad weather after picking may make the difference between good and poor tea.

So that while one picking may be first class, the next from the same garden may be very poor.

I select only the pickings which come up to the Red Rose standards of richness and strength in Indian, and delicacy and fragrance in Ceylon teas, and thus that "rich, fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea is produced and maintained.

Red Rose Tea is good Tea

Royal Household Flour Is Always Uniform —Why?

It is one thing to make flour pure, well balanced and strong, it is another thing to have it uniformly so—to make flour that is precisely the same in purity and nutriment on Saturday as on Monday—in May as in November.

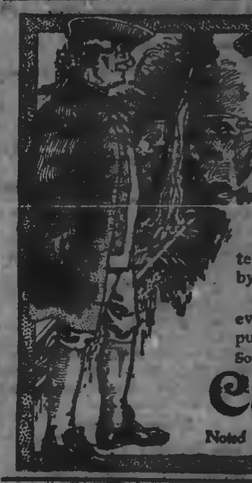
Because the "Royal Household" mills have the finest testing equipment available, and unlimited resources for securing perfect wheat, they can and do produce—every working day in the year—flour of precisely uniform strength, nutriment and purity.

That is why Royal Household Flour makes always the very best bread and pastry, year in and year out.

That is why Royal Household Flour is the most reliable—the most successful flour—and being scientifically purified by electricity it is the purest—the best of all flours.

The next flour you buy ask for "Royal Household"—and try it for yourself.

Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour.



If the water used in ale is impure, the best of equipment, skill and other ingredients cannot produce a pure, health-giving beverage.

The water used in Carling's brews is taken from Carling's private springs at a depth of one thousand feet, and never tested less than 99.08 degrees pure by Government Analysis.

Sold everywhere by all enterprising dealers.

Carling's Ale

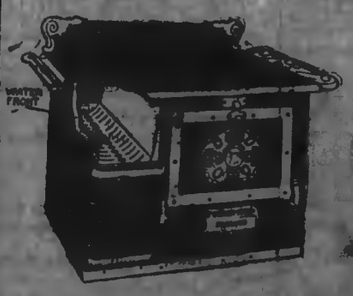
The Oxford Chancellor coal range gives a continuous and plentiful supply of hot water. This is a point that should instantly appeal to every householder.

The Oxford Chancellor is fitted with an extra powerful water-front which is so placed in the front of the fire-box that it gets the direct and immediate benefit of the fire.



Oxford Chancellor Range

Plenty of hot water is an excellent feature in a range, but it is only one of many that make the Oxford Chancellor do such excellent work. We would like to send some of our literature which tells the whole story. Won't you write for it? A post card will do.

Mr. Tooley's Badges.

An nice exhibition that attracted much attention was that of Mr. M. C. Tooley. This was an oak case, eight by three feet, fitted with handsome plate glass doors, containing what is perhaps the largest and most complete collection of badges that exists anywhere in the Dominion.

Mr. Tooley has been years collecting these many hundreds of badges, which include emblems of various societies, parties an dlodges; in short Mr. Tooley's collection contains a sample of nearly every badge of silk or metal that has been issued for any purpose. The show case, filled with many coloured silks, silver and polished brass badges, in contrast with the black velvet lining, makes a most beautiful and curious piece of furniture, well worthy of attention. Mr. Tooley, when he ocas returns from the fair, will give it a prominent place in his popular hotel.

A Local Man's Predecessor Beat His Employers

Oshawa Manager of Union Life Assurance Co. Skipped Lately.

A Local Man Was Appointed His Successor—His Methods.

The fact that a Peterborough man, a former manager of the local office of the Union Life Assurance Company, is the present manager of the Oshawa office, lends interest to this story, in which his predecessor is involved. The despatch from Oshawa, telling the story, says:

"Considerable interest is being shown here in the forthcoming trial of Dr. Belt, against whom the Union Life Assurance Company have laid several charges of fraud in connection with the sensational flight of Manager Emsley some time ago. The specific charges against Dr. Belt are that he, as medical examiner of the company, reported that he had examined a number of fictitious persons in order to swell the returns for his friend Emsley, and entitle the latter to the increased premium.

"The story, the Crown say, is as follows: Emsley would fill out a policy on some person, fictitious person, a bad risk, a dead man or some one in the town who had no intention of taking out a policy, and would send it along with the amount of the first payment to the head office in Toronto. he policy had to be accompanied by a medical examination of the supposed policy-holder. It is with the issuance of these that Dr. Belt is charged.

"No one accuses the doctor of having done the work for his own gain. fee — twenty-five cents—would not make it worth while. The officers of the insurance company who laid the information say that the doctor was inveigled into it by Emsley as a matter of friendship.

"The case will come up at the fall assizes unless the lawyers for the defence can secure an adjournment until the December session."

Toronto Water.

—Peterborough's city water is sometimes criticised, but it has never developed the startling phenomena of Toronto city water. The other day two "fair sized" mice were drawn from city water taps. Now, when somebody claims that Toronto city water is like Clemmer's wife, above suspicion, all the doubter has to do to give an effective answer is the use of the classic expression "Rats!"

Nervous Sick Headache

Mrs. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont. writes: "I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures, which did no good. About 8 months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with the headache since."

NOT ONE DETAIL WAS NEGLECTED

Care of Japanese Before Beginning Naval Battle.

Gunners' Eyes Examined—Clean Underclothing to Avoid Poisoning of Wounds.

The following showing to what extent and minute detail the Japanese adopted Kitchener methods of thoroughness of preparation, forms a very good explanation in part of the remarkable success of the Japs in the late war:—

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—Surgeon-General S. Suzuki, of the Imperial Japanese Navy, to-day, in his address before the convention of military surgeons, made what was declared by Medical Director Joseph S. Wise, of [illegible] for the most valuable contribution of modern times to naval surgery.

"Much of our success in the treatment of wounds," said Dr. Suzuki, "I ascribe to the fact that before every engagement I ordered each member of the crew to bath and put on perfectly clean underclothing. In many shot wounds fragments of clothing are carried into the body, and our insistence upon clean underclothing prevented many cases of blood-poisoning. Our experience during the war proved that the conning tower of a warship is a most dangerous situation. Fragments of shell penetrate through the slits in the tower made to furnish the commanding officer of a range of vision and do great damage. Realizing this fact, Admiral Togo, in all the naval engagements, directed his fleet from the compass bridge of the Mikasa, without receiving at any time the slightest wound.

"Before every engagement surgeons examined carefully the eyes of all gunners. Any found with slight impairment of vision were treated, and if the impairment was too grave to yield to treatment they were transferred to another station and their places were filled by men whose eyes were perfect. And, too, during engagements every battery crew was supplied with water, in which a 1 per cent. solution of boracic acid had been mixed, to wash out their eyes when they became affected by powder, smoke, or dust. We also issued to every man in the fleet before going into action cotton wool, with which to plug his ears, and thereby prevent rupture of the ear-drums by the concussion of gunfire."

Men Warmly Clothed.

Dr. Suzuki said that by the issuance of quantities of extra heavy clothing, gloves, and boots, the crews of the Japanese ships were so well fortified against cold that, despite the winter operations against Port Arthur, not one case of frostbite was brought into the surgeries of the ships. The issuance of large-brimmed straw hats during the summer also, he said, prevented sunstrokes.

Dr. Suzuki said that the Japanese surgeons had discovered that it is impracticable during action to attempt anything but the most necessary first dressing of severe wounds. After the action is over, he said, the surgery should be made ready for the absolutely necessary major operations, but in all cases where possible the wounded men should be hurried to a base hospital before being operated upon.

Discussing the location of surgeries on warships, he said that the Japanese experience had been that they had all better be located below the waterline, as locations above that point are too much exposed to the enemy's fire. He urged the necessity for removing from the decks of warships all objects not absolutely necessary to the operation of the ship, and described how 23 men were killed and wounded on the Mikasa by fragments of a semaphore which was struck by a shell.

Pleasant Moments.

It has been said with a great deal of truth, that you can never really become acquainted with a man until you have supped with him.

In order to ensure a pleasant time good tea must be used. During the past five years "Salada" has become a familiar word to every newspaper reader, and, judging from the immense consignments which are being sent out every day, "Salada" Ceylon Tea must be just as familiar in the homes. In the face of keen competition that has arisen since it was first put on the market in the package form, the fact that the demand is steadily increasing requires no comment; it tells its own story, "Salada" is king.

He then set a table with pies and cakes and other good things, to which the boys did full justice, and then, to cap all, he gave them a dollar bill to celebrate still further. The boys were so taken aback with such a welcome that they forgot all about charivaris. They even went away without giving one royal salute in honour of the event. However, they voted Jimmy a jolly good fellow, and wished him and his bride many happy years together.

Use Armour's Extract of Beef in the Right Way.

Those accustomed to ordinary beef extracts and fluid beef usually use three or four times too much of Armour's. If a recipe called for one spoonful of salt and you put in 4, the dish would be briney.

ARMOUR'S is pure Extract of Beef—highly concentrated. One-quarter teaspoonful is sufficient to make a cup of beef broth, bouillon, etc., etc.

By the addition of a small quantity of Armour's Extract of beef you can restore the juices to yesterday's roast or give a rich, beefy flavor and color to gravies, sauces and left-overs that will make them appetizing and attractive. Sold by all Druggists and Grocers.

ALIBI IS HIS DEFENCE.

Indian Joe Bennett Says He Was at Kick's House at the Time of Betsy Jacobs's Murder.

Brantford, Sept. 29.—The trial of Joe Bennett, accused of the murder of Betsey Jacobs, made considerable progress yesterday. The leading feature of yesterday's proceedings were the admission upon cross-examination of an Indian woman who swore she had been offered money to testify on behalf of the prisoner. In addition to this a surprise was sprung when the prisoner himself took the box and told his story in a clear manner. His account was substantiated by witnesses, who preceded him.

The Crown directed their efforts entirely to weave a complete net of circumstantial evidence. At the conclusion of the Crown evidence, Mr. Heyd, counsel for the prisoner, claimed that no case had been made, but his objection was over-ruled.

The efforts of the defence were chiefly to prove an alibi. This was done by means of witnesses, who swore that the prisoner was with one Elijah Kick at the time of the tragedy. This was corroborated by the woman who lives with Kick.

A verdict will probably be reached to-night.

Was This Man Murdered?

Ingersoll, Sept. 29.—Te Town of Ingersoll is excited over developments in the finding of the body of Isaiah Wright, colored, floating in the River Thames yesterday morning.

Chief of Police Wright scents foul play and yesterday afternoon caused the arrest of George Hartsell, George Dennis, George Bowers, Thomas Wilson, Ewart Bell and John Campbell, all of whom were drinking with the deceased when he was last seen alive on Friday night last.

The accused were brought before Magistrate Morrison last evening and were all remanded for a week, pending the result of a post mortem examination to see what caused Wright's death.

All were taken to Woodstock Jail for safe keeping.

While murder is talked of, accidental death is a plausible enough solution of Wright's end.

WITH BASEBALL BAT.

W. Harrington, Formerly of Newmarket, Kills Charles Martin.

Windsor, Sept. 29.—At an early hour yesterday morning, W. Harrington, formerly of Newmarket, Ont., was taken into custody by the Detroit police, charged with having caused the death of Charles Martin, a boarder in his house.

According to the story told by witnesses of the affair, Martin and another boarder in the house had been drinking heavily, and about midnight Wednesday night Martin attacked Miss Kitty Harrington, aged 16, as she was passing through the back yard into the house. The girl screamed, and Harrington, who was in bed, rushed out with a heavy baseball bat in his hand. In the half light, he saw his daughter lying in the yard, while Martin had his hands on her throat. Without a moment's hesitation, Harrington brought his club heavily down on Martin's head. His skull was crushed like an eggshell. Then the police arrived on the scene and took principals and witnesses into custody.

Harrington says he is sorry he killed Martin, but thinks he got no more than he deserved. A coroner's jury has been empaneled, but it is probable no proceedings will be taken against Harrington.

The first tragedy was followed by a minor one in the Harrington home a few hours later, when Miss Harrington, who is an exceedingly pretty and intelligent girl, gave birth to a baby boy. She declines to say who is responsible, but stoutly denies that Martin, who was killed, had anything to do in the matter. Harrington admits that he knew of his daughter's condition six weeks ago, and places the blame upon Martin.

Harrington is only 36 years old, and besides his wife, has a family of seven children, of whom Kitty is the senior.

WELCOME FOR WITTE.

Russia Grateful to Man Who Ended the Big War.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—M. Witte, the senior Russian peace plenipotentiary, returned to St. Petersburg yesterday, and the enthusiastic welcome accorded by the awaiting crowds fully demonstrates the great popularity of the statesman, and public appreciation of the services he has rendered his country at Portsmouth. Cheer followed cheer as the plenipotentiary alighted from the train, and when later M. Witte replied in an intensely patriotic strain to the address of welcome popular enthusiasm found full vent.

Will Sign Next Week.

The Russo-Japanese treaty will be signed early next week. M. Witte had a long interview and lunched with Foreign Minister Lamsdorff yesterday. He will be received at Peterhof and give the Emperor a report on the conference, but the treaty itself will be taken to Peterhof by Count Lamsdorff, whose counter signature will complete the execution of the instrument.

No Armistice Yet.

Seoul, Sept. 29.—Col. Oba and Gen. Cossanaffsy, the Japanese and Russian representatives in North Corea, met on Monday afternoon and again discussed the terms of the proposed armistice. The Russians would not agree to the Japanese proposal and the armistice has been postponed, awaiting instructions from Gen. Linevitch.

Stoessel Has Paralysis.

Moscow, Sept. 29.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis which affects his entire left side. The general's recovery is hoped for.

PEACE CELEBRATION.

Tartars and Armenians In Joint Processions and Services.

Baku, Caucasia, Sept. 29.—With the formal ratification of peace between the Tartars and Armenians here, the usual street traffic is being resumed. The masses of Armenians and Tartars are thronging the cathedral, and mosques, and are joining in processions to celebrate their reconciliation.

An investigation of the damage done showed that 1,996 out of 3,412 derricks were burned. When all the derricks were active the daily output was 17,500 tons.

The oilmen decline to resume pumping from the remaining wells or engage in the work of reconstruction until the conclusion of the naptha conference at St. Petersburg.

Admit Jews to Universities.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—The Council of Professors has voted in favor of the unrestricted admission of Jews to the university courses regardless of the regulation restricting Hebrew students to three per cent. of the student body.

Siberia In National Assembly.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—The inclusion of Siberia in the first national assembly is assured, the Solsky commission having determined on the allotment of fifteen Siberian members.

THERE WAS SOME DAMAGE.

Great Explosion of Dynamite Made in the Suez Canal.

Port Said, Sept. 29.—The wreck of the British steamer Chatham, which was sunk in the Suez Canal September 6, in order to prevent an explosion of a large quantity of dynamite, which formed part of the cargo while the ship was menaced by flames, was blown up yesterday morning.

No serious damage was done to the canal, and the authorities anticipate that the passage will be cleared of debris in four days.

The enormous displacement of water was visible from a spot five miles distant, whence the operations of blowing up the vessel were conducted.

A huge column of water, sand and the ship's wreckage was thrown 2,000 feet in the air, and in falling destroyed 600 feet of the east bank of the canal. Divers immediately commenced removing the debris.

HOTELMEN WARNED.

Hon. W. J. Hanna Gives Notice to Some License Holders.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Referring to liquor selling in New Ontario, Provincial Secretary W. J. Hanna said.

"If the liquor people are alive to their own interests they will not only strictly observe the law themselves in New Ontario, but will see to it that others do likewise. The matters referred to by Dr. Chown in The Christian Guardian have been brought to our attention from different sources.

"As to new hotels going up, I can only say that they have not the promise of a license in any case, nor have they any likelihood of getting one."

Allan Line Suspends Service.

London, Sept. 28.—The service of the Allan Line of steamers from Glasgow to New York will be suspended, at least temporarily, after the sailing of the Numidian from Glasgow to-day, in consequence of the expiration of the lease of their New York pier, and inability to arrange for its renewal or secure other suitable accommodations at present. In the meanwhile the managers are engaging to improve their service to Boston.

CAN CALL ALL ANIMALS

REMARKABLE INSTANCES OF THE USE OF A RARE FACULTY.

Manitoba Lad One of the Most Accomplished Imitators of Animals Ever Met By the Observant Lt.-Col. Andrew Haggard—Indians Best Teachers — Abyssinian's Imitations That Betrayed a Lion Hunter.

The art of decoying wild animals by imitation of their cries is a very primitive one, practised by savages in all countries as a means of procuring food. Many white men excel in "calling" animals and birds, notably the moose among the larger animals, but if inquiry could be carried far enough it would probably be found, writes Lt.-Col. Andrew Haggard in Forest and Stream, that the most skillful owe their aptitude in this respect to the teachings of untutored savages, whose lives depend upon the exercise of this gift.

An exception to this origin of the art of calling may, perhaps, be found in the art of using the "hare pipe," which imitated the voice of the hare. This was employed largely in England in medieval times and was made a penal offence in somewhat more modern days when utilised by poachers in the pursuit of their nefarious occupation.

A young lad in the wilds of Northern Manitoba was one of the most remarkable imitators of animals whom I ever met. My young friend had been instructed from his earliest youth by a Swampy Indian in the art, with the result that, at the age of 15, he could call any tame or wild animal about the backwoods settlement where the lived. His father, he and I used to drive together out on the prairie, to some rushy lagoons, in search of ducks and geese, which abounded. The animals harnessed to the buckboard were mares, each of which had a foal, and these mares used, as a rule to follow the buckboard, cantering along behind.

Never shall I forget my astonishment one evening when, after having driven a few hundred yards from the Hudson Bay post, his father suddenly stopped the mares, saying:- "Ras, the foals have stopped behind, call them." Instantly the lad commenced whinnying exactly like a mare. He repeated the cry several times, ending up on each occasion with two or three little natural snorts. The imitation was so exact that not only were the foals deceived and came galloping up to join us, but it was almost impossible to believe that it was not one of the mares that had called them.

One evening when out shooting prairie chicken night fell upon us before we got back to the wagon, to the wheels of which we had failed to attach the mares properly. One of them we found close by, the other had escaped, and as it was a wet, misty night, not a sign of her was to be seen anywhere. Then it was that the boy's accomplishment proved most useful, for while his father and I remained by the buckboard the youth sallied forth into the foggy darkness, making a sound to imitate the voice of a foal. He was absent for half an hour, but returned triumphant with the missing mare.

The way that boy could also imitate ducks and geese was simply marvelous. Well do I remember a trick he played one evening in the reeds. He had joined me, unknown to his father, who was standing about fifty yards away in the tall rushes, waiting for the wild fowl which did not come. Crouching down by my side, so that he could watch his parent, the mischievous youth several times imitated the cry of wild geese at a distance, then he made them seem nearer, until apparently overhead. The old sportsman was instantly on the alert, craning his neck and peering in all directions for the fowl. At last, frantic at not being able to see them, the old man shouted out to me, wildly: "Where are the geese? Where are they?"

"Here, father," answered the boy, rising from the reeds and bursting into a roar of laughter.

It was lucky for him that there was upon that occasion a deep pool between him and his outraged parent which enabled him to make tracks for home before the old boy could get around.

It was once my lot to come across a native in quite another part of the world who possessed similar accomplishments. I cannot say that while he was with me he put them to any useful purpose, although he certainly afforded considerable variety and amusement during a trying journey. I was traveling through the Abyssinian Province of Begie, with my Egyptian staff officer, an English servant and a bodyguard of rapscallions who called themselves Bashi-Bazouks. They were a mixed lot—Abyssinians Beni Ameer, Ameer Arabs, scoppos and all sorts, and a merry, undisciplined crew they were indeed. The native that I refer to was an Abyssinian, and he was the principal wag, or buffoon, of the crowd.

The country I was passing through was of the wildest description; it was, moreover, full of wild beasts of every kind. Apart from the troops of hideous grimacing baboons met with on the cliffs of the rocky passes, there were everywhere traces of lions, hyenas, wolves and jackals, and these animals, some of which we saw daily, used to make night hideous with their horrible howlings. My retainer, the Abyssinian, was, however, not content with letting us be disturbed by the real howlings of the actual wild beasts, for he would have his little joke.

On several occasions, when we least expected it and were marching along in some narrow jungle clad ravine, the whole cavalcade would be stopped by a terrible noise in the thorny bushes, which frightened the horses and camels and, at times, even the men. At one time it would be a wild dog, barking furiously, at another a hyena howling or leopard snarling, and upon a third occasion a sound would be heard as of two jackals fighting over a carcase. But nothing had been seen. It was not until one day I had discharged both barrels of my rifle into the thick scrub and nearly killed him that I learned the cause of these disturbances by my friend, the buffoon. resting out to me in Arabic, "Don't shoot any more, Bey," and then emerging with shouts of laughter, in which he was joined by all my savage following. Having discovered this man's wonderful talent for mimicking animals, I determined to employ him in a little joke of my own, merely as an act of retributive justice.

Upon one occasion, when we were lying on the sandy bed of a ravine, a lion had come roaring around my bivouacs at night, when the conduct of my Egyptian staff officer, who always talked very big about lions, had not been remarkably courageous.

There was not a man among my Bashi-Bazouks who did not laugh at Major Mustapha Effendi Ramzie, but his boasting was incorrigible. I therefore determined to give him a lesson that night when lying on the sand in the Khor Ansaba, which, as he well knew, was a famous place for lions. In fact, before dark we had seen their tracks, old and new, in all directions.

First, however, I warned the Turkish sanjak of my rascally bodyguard to see well to the picketing of the animals, for I did not wish to lose a horse or camel as the result of a joke. The sanjak, who hated the Egyptian, grinned from ear to ear and gave the necessary orders.

After supper, as we were sitting by the campfire in the shade of an overhanging bush-covered bank, I led the conversation to the subject of lions.

The Egyptian officer was boasting, as usual, when suddenly my English servant, who was in the plot, said, as if in alarm, while staring into the thicket: "What's that sound, Mustapha Effendi? Don't you hear something crackling in there? I hope it's not another lion, for I am not so brave about them as you are." We all listened intently. The crackling was plainly heard—it was coming nearer; it did sound uncommonly as if a lion might be approaching.

We all made ready to rise, but Mustapha Effendi was already on his feet when from this distance of only about three yards, in the darkness, a terrific and deafening roar burst upon the startled night. The roar was followed by the horrible gruff cough, several times repeated, which is still more terrible, as it usually precedes a kill.

So lionlike was the sound, although expecting it, I was momentarily alarmed myself and grasped my revolver. Others seized their weapons also, for it seemed impossible that such a volume of sound could come from any throat but that of the veritable king of beasts.

In the meantime, where was the great lion slayer, Mustapha Effendi Ramzie? The sound of flying feet rattling over the gravelly bed of the khor was all that was left of him now.

So we sent "the lion" in pursuit, which was continued with roar after roar, the sound reverberating on the cliffs and dying away into the darkest recesses of the ravine. Meantime every soul in camp was convulsed with laughter, as the men poured their favorite "todge" down their throats and drank to the courage of the Egyptian staff officer. But now comes the point of my joke. This practical joke came very near to ending tragically for either the pursuer or the pursued, for suddenly at no great distance up the lion renowned Khor Ansaba, was heard an answering roa, and then another, nearer at hand. A real lion had taken up the challenge, and it was now our turn to be alarmed. Seizing brands from the fire and firing off rifles as we went, a party of us rushed up the rocky defile after the two men; the rest, by my order, rushed to guard the picketed animals, for there was no knowing how many of the brutes there might be about, and lions often roar on purpose to make the terrified animals break away and then seize them. The reports of the rifles, the shouts and, above all, the roaring of the real lion, had soon had their effect in causing the flying staff officer to halt, terror-stricken, between us he imagined, two leonine foes and the sham lion, to come back faster than he went, all the roar taken out of him.

Fortunately by the time we reached poor Mustapha, to find him petrified with fear, the bathtub made by the relieving force had driven the lion, which had been all too successfully "called" back to the fastnesses of the hills.

When that time forward the crestfallen staff officer never mentioned the word lion, but the Abyssinian wag, whose imitative skill had called something more tangible than "spirits from the vasty deep" from the dark recesses of the mountains, became the hero of the expedition.

MARVELOUS CURE OF SORE EYES

Baby Treated at Two Hospitals Over a Year—Eyes Grew Worse—Doctor Said They Might Be Bad for Years.

ONE BOX OF CUTICURA MAKES COMPLETE CURE

"When my little girl was a few months old, her eyes began to get bad; thinking it was from her teeth, I lived in hopes of them getting better, but as they did not improve I decided to get medical advice. I took her to the —— Hospital several times, and subsequently to the Children's Hospital at ——, to which institution I took her for twelve months. The doctors were most kind and attentive, and did all they could for her, but her eyes seemed to be growing worse. One doctor told me they might be bad for years; I was very miserable at such a prospect. I was one day stopped in the street by a Mrs. Todd who told me that Cuticura Ointment had cured her boy, and advised me to try it. I commenced using it that very night. The cure has been marvelous. The eyes soon commenced to get strong, and they are now as healthy as if there had never been anything the matter with them. The cure was completed with less than one box of Cuticura Ointment. You are at liberty to publish this letter, and I trust it may be the means of others being cured as my little girl has been.—Mrs. F. Phillips, Grafton St., Waverly, Sydney, N. S. W." CHANGE AT NIAGARA.

River Water Let Into the Forebay—Beautiful Cascade Formed.

The completion of the first portion of the Ontario Power Co.'s works at Niagara Falls was marked by the admission of water to the forebay on June 29. The big wing dam, the construction of which was one of the most difficult and spectacular of the undertakings in connection with the development, was pierced and the water, which is fifteen feet deep outside, was slowly admitted.

The stream ran down over the great expanse of river bed, which has been bare for several years, to the astonishment of all visitors, and found its way through the screens, gates and sluices, which will hereafter guide the flow of water. As the tower works and powerhouse of the company are not completed, the head gates of the great conduit were closed, and the water stopped when it reached them and began to rise. A corps of engineers watched its progress eagerly, and all went along without hitch or difficulty. The water rose rapidly and filled the wide basin, lapping around the shores of the new islands and finding its way into many queer places which did not exist when old Niagara was turned out of his ancient pathway for a season. For the first and last time the river bed has been laid bare. Now the water has resumed its sway and the great expanse of rock bed is hidden forever. It took a number of hours for the water to fill the basin, but finally it came to the top of the overflow walls and began to pour over in a beautiful cascade, which will henceforth be one of the prettiest sights around the Falls. Visitors will be unable to comprehend the vast work that was necessary and the immensity of the walls and concrete and stone which had to be built to turn Niagara from its natural course and make it the servant of man.

MOOSE ATTACKS MAN.

Guide Gave Wrong Call and Bull Became Enraged — Priest's Story Was a Revelation.

After a long discussion the other day by members of the North American Fish and Game Protective Association as to whether moose under certain circumstances will attack human beings, the verdict of those present was to the effect that not only moose but the little red or Virginian deer as well will under some conditions assault a man.

A story told in perfectly sober language by a Roman Catholic priest was a revelation to many of those present. The priest, Father Gaynor, who is a well-known sportsman and naturalist, spoke from his own experience in the New Brunswick woods, near Ludgate Lake, within ten miles of the City of St. John, where, in company with an old sea captain, he went with John, his Indian guide, to watch the experiment of "calling" a moose.

The season was not yet open for killing big game, so it had been well understood that if by good luck a bull should be "raised" no harm would be done the animal unless the safety of the party demanded it.

"We had first to dispose of the captain," said Father Gaynor. "We had some difficulty in coaxing him into the forks of an ancient pine, but we did at length persuade him to it. John took his place on the top of a boulder within reach of a decaying birch, whose ragged, yellow bark shone in the moonlight, and I sat on the lower limb of the captain's tree. Then, drawing a long breath, the Indian sounded that first wheedling blast. John was a master player on the birch conch, and suddenly a familiar sound broke the stillness. Again he put the birchhorn to his lips. This time the call was soft, the mere coo of a dove in comparison with the previous effort.

"The effect was instantaneous. Away down on the lake bottom there was a rush and commotion, and out of the darkness came a series of hoarse grunts and the shaking of antlers like the rattling of ox bubbles in a [illegible]. Openly and with no attempt to [illegible] the shadows his lordship came out [illegible] the plateau of rock.

"It was now up to John to [illegible] to us. I expected to hear him give [illegible] cow-moose query, but he did [illegible] and herein lay the secret of our [illegible] fortunes. Instead of the coaxing [illegible] of the cow some demon tempted [illegible] to give out the hoarse cry of defiance of a bull. Then, without waiting [illegible] watch the effect, he began to tear the curling bark from the birch tree [illegible] which he had been sitting. He shook all the noise he could, and punctuated his gymnastics with subdued grunts from the bark.

"No self-respecting moose could resist this page of battle. With a snort and roar he charged up the hill. Now the bull was charging in upon us, believing evidently that our clump of trees concealed his enemy. As he swirled in among us I realized that a few more feet of altitude would help my cause most considerably. I hastened therefore to clamber beyond his reach which brought me close to the summit.

"Suddenly things began to happen. The Indian at the first onset of the moose had sought safety in the birch tree, but the lower stubs being rotten, they gave way with him. The crashing which his excited efforts to climb made attracted the attention of the bull, and he charged on John's tree without further ado.

"I could witness the Indian's frantic efforts to skin up to the lower branches where he could be beyond the reach of his adversary. He clung to his rifle, holding it out from him as he climbed. The split hoofs of the moose rattle viciously on the stones as he projected himself in John's direction, and the next moment [illegible] was beneath the birch.

"Then I saw an unusual sight. The Indian went up the tree as if some friendly hand had given him a hoist, and the moose passed out into the open. He afterward assured me that he found for a swift second a foothold on the antlers and thus gave himself the necessary lift upward. My own impression was that the moose did the lifting and that John only had the luck to travel in the right direction. The bull was not yet done with him, however. Circling, he came back to the charge, bellowing forth his peculiar battle grunt.

"Again the unusual happened. I had seen on the famous moose ground, known as the Pappie Knoll in Canaan, a herd of moose feeding in early winter, and I had watched them while the bulls reached up and with their forefeet drew down the birch sapling within reach of the young cows and straddled the trees to keep them down. Fool I had no idea the angry bull would adopt the same tactics to get at an enemy.

"That is just what he tried to do, nevertheless. Standing on his hind feet, his great head, with its long, horse-like muzzle pointing upward, he plied his forefeet in the attempt to reach John. John was now in real danger. He had by this time reached the highest branch that would sustain his weight, and yet the lunging brute all but struck him at each jump.

"Perhaps it was the novelty of the spectacle that held me spellbound, but the old captain found no entertainment in the sight. Snatching my rifle, which was near him, he blazed away perpendicularly down in the direction of the moose. Whether his aim was good or not we never had proof, for the bull toppled over as if her had been hit, and then, recovering himself, made off in the moonlight down the hill."

The funeral took place to-day from the residence of Mr. Moloney, and the remains were laid at rest in Douro cemetery.

Passed Away at Untimely Age

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, Ashburnham, will extend to them their heartfelt sympathy in their recent bereavement in the loss, by the hand of death, of their son, Francis Joseph, who passed away on Saturday at their residence.

Death resulted after a short illness of only about three days' duration from a bronchial affection. The funeral, which was private, took place yesterday to St. Peter's Cemetery.

St. Andrew's Has New Choirmaster

Mr. Forsyth, who yesterday played at both services at St. Andrew's church, has been appointed to the position of organist and choirmaster of the church. The position has for some time been efficiently filled by Mrs. P. A. Kerr, who consented to take charge of this portion of the music until such time as an organist and choirmaster might be secured.

Miss Mary Rush has been appointed as soprano soloist, and was heard with charming effect at yesterday's services.

A Revolution In Window Dressing

It seems quite proper to so call a window dressing, in which a turbine wheel is the central feature. The north window of the Peterborough Bookstore contains an unique decoration, constructed entirely of the illuminated title pages of a popular ladies' journal. The show window is floored with out-spread copies of these pages, and a beautiful, ingenious and striking effect is produced by the arrangement of the sheets, folded in tunnel form, to represent a turbine water-wheel. The result is unique and striking, and a decided credit to the originality, taste and skill of Mr. Ed. Manning, of the Bookstore staff, who is responsible for the idea and execution.

Campbell, besides papers and discussions on the various departments of our work.

Excellent Partridge Shooting.

Following is a report received from Oastler, Ont., on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, 163 miles east of Toronto, regarding Partridge Shooting in that section: "Prospects for partridge shooting in this section are decidedly favourable, and sportsmen take the trouble to go back from three to five miles off the station of the C. P. R. can find the birds with means and comfortable board can be obtained with the settlers at a very reasonable price. In November twelve miles further back there is good deer shooting, some very fine specimens having been shot last year." Copy of illustrated booklet, "Fishing and Shooting," will be furnished free on application to any agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway. 2d77

Distressing Accident at Swing Bridge

Robert Ferguson Sustained Painful Injury on Saturday.

Foot Was Caught and Badly Lacerated —Now at Nicholls Hospital.

A distressing accident occurred on Saturday afternoon at the C. P. R. swing bridge across the Trent Canal, in which Robert Ferguson, a bridge-builder in the employ of the C. P. R., sustained a severe and painful injury to his right foot.

Ferguson, who is a resident of Perth, Ont., was standing at the end of the track while the bridge was swung to allow a fleet of logs to pass through. He was unconscious of the fact that his foot protruded beyond the end of the rail, and as the bridge swung back to its position it was caught and crushed between the two rails, severing some of the tendons and inflicting a large lacerated wound.

Dr. Grey was at once summoned and the injured man removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where the fracture was reduced. Dr. Grey hopes to be able to save the injured member, though it was at first feared that amputation would be necessary.

Those who witnessed the accident speak in terms of highest praise of the action of the gentleman in charge of the bridge, and state that its motion was instantaneously checked when Ferguson's dangerous position became apparent, and much more serious results were only averted in this way.

There's a Place For Knox Church

The first communion service at Knox church held yesterday demonstrates that there's a place of usefulness in the south ward for Knox church and a promising future. It appears that at the first communion since the organization in June last, there have been an addition of twenty to the roll of communicants—nine by profession of faith and eleven by certificate. This indicates a pleasing prospect of future progress and amply justifies the establishment of the congregation as a distinct ecclesiastical entity.

Climbed Building 200 Feet High

New York, Sept. 30.—Clinging like a fly to the surface of the Flatiron building, John Garrick, a steeplejack, walked down the side of the tall building from the twentieth storey to the street and up again several times yesterday, while thousands below stood trembling at the daring feat.

Women fainted from the strain on their nerves; men turned white, while Garrick, as unconcerned as though he were strolling along Broadway, was rapidly ascending and descending, clinging all the while to the sheer wall with his fingers and toes in the inch and a quarter deep grooves that indent its surface. And all to earn a $2 bet. His hair-raising performance is unequalled in daring in the annals of steeplejack work.

The Flatiron building is 260 feet high, and from the window ledge where Garrick stood there was a sheer vertical wall below him with the pavement more than 170 feet away. A single false step or lost hold meant death.

Garrick did not hesitate an instant. Lowering himself carefully over the edge of the window, he felt with his feet for a hold in the grooves that run horizontally over the wall. These grooves are only an inch and a quarter deep and two inches wide.

Dredge Will Not be Raised

The Government dredge, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was sunk while being delivered by Poisons, last year, but was located near Newcastle some two months ago, will not be raised this year. Both the builders and the insurance companies are interested in this dredge. The delay in coming to a decision regarding wrecking operations and the necessarily slow communication between here and London has made it impossible to do anything this fall.

The dredge will not be impaired by remaining in its present position as it is beyond the action of the waves. Port Hope Guide.

A Charter For Toronto Elks

The growth of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Toronto has been so rapid and the membership is so strong that the Order is about to consider the erection of a club-house. To that end a business corporation has been formed under the title of Toronto Elks, Limited, and a Provincial charter has been granted to it. The objects of the corporation, set out in cold legal phraseology, are to institute and carry on a club for the members in good standing of Toronto Lodge, No. 4, and afford all the usual privileges, advantages, conveniences, and accommodation of a club. For that purpose it is given the power to purchase or lease lands and buildings. The capital is to be $75,000, divided into five hundred shares of $150 each. The charter is granted to Eric Norman Armour, solicitor; William Shearer Estar, jeweller; John Pearson, agent; James Dodds Bailey, jeweller, and Carl George Daniel manager, the first three of whom are named as provisional directors.

Choral Society Proposed For Peterborough

Mr. Alfred Davies, Professor of Music, is Taking Steps.

The Co-operation of Musicians and Singers Invited.

Mr. Alfred Davies, Professor of Music, announces in the following letter, the formation of a high-class choral society:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is my intention to form a Choral Society in Peterborough. I shall be glad to see or hear from any ladies or gentlemen desirous of joining, at my studio, 269 Mac Donel street, (corner of Harvey) this week.

A preliminary voice test will be made, and none but fair readers of music will be enrolled, as the society will have the practice and performance of high-class music.

The members of the various church choirs in the city are asked to join the proposed society, which will be entirely undenominational.

A meeting to arrange for the time of rehearsal, and other business matters, will take place as early as possible.

Yours truly,
ALFRED DAVIES.

Those interested in the promotion of the musical interests of the city, and in the development of the singing talent—so to speak—latent musical talent existent, and it is to be hoped, available, in Peterborough, will extend their best wishes for success to Mr. Davies' proposed enterprise, and efforts will be all the more pleasing of success from the fact that he is connected with no church choir. In view of the circumstance that the majority of the choirs material will naturally be drawn from church choirs it is probable that an attempt to be unencumbered with any choir fear will not develop the friendship and jealousy, which is seen in the rivalry present between church choirs, and would be intensified if the leader of a choral society were also the [illegible] particular church choir. With the co-operation of the best musical elements of the city there [illegible] difficulty in organizing a Peterborough greatly needed choral society.

Mr. Davies' intention as to the quality of chorus members is to be accepted is a promising augury; for the more advanced and capable a singer is, the better he or she will adapt to the musical discipline and practice necessary and indispensable to successful choral work.

Be not deceived. There's no "just as good" as the Happy Thought Range. The Best Ever Co.

"Lot" Was The Subject At Y. M. C. A

At Popular Meeting for Men Held Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Crothers Preached—Pleasing Vocal Solo by Miss Belleghem.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was the speaker at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. The attendance was good, especially in view of the fine weather out of doors.

Miss Clara Belleghem sang a solo with splendid effect.

The address of the afternoon was deeply interesting and forceful. The doctor said that he always liked to speak to the men, because he could speak plainly. His subject was "Lot," and he showed how appearances in every phase of life were very deceiving. Lot found this out to his sorrow, when he chose the cities of the plain and went to live in Sodom. Companionship is either going to mar or bless us. Young men who were strangers should seek the church, and Christians. Many young men were like Lot—they did not know until too late the evils of their choice.

The doctor then criticized severely the "Get Rich Quick" methods. Lot lost his self respect, and lost his life, in the sense that it was wasted. It can be said of many that they are saved souls with lost lives. The urged all young men to live lives for God—where they could grow, and help others.

The doctor speaks next Sunday on Esau.

Loss of Power To Digest Food

AMONG THE FIRST INDICATIONS OF EXHAUSTED NERVES—THE CURE IS

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The most important function of the organs of the body is the digestion, and assimilation of food, and in this process is consumed an enormous quantity of nervous energy.

As the result the moment disorders of the nerves arise digestion is impaired, and the very source of health, strength and vitality interferred with.

To prevent physical bankruptcy the nervous system must be built up by outside aid, such as the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, a preparation composed of the very elements of nature which go to form new blood and nerve cells.

Besides this restorative influence on the whole system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has an immediate and direct effect on the directive system.

It stimulates the nerves of taste and induces a good flow of saliva to aid digestion. It exites the glands of the stomach and produces a plentiful supply of the gastric digestive fluids. It sharpens the appetite and arouses hunger.

Especially where appetite and the ability to digest have diminished, as in nervous exhaustion, anaemia, the result of sickness, overwork, or worry, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is by all odds the most effective treatment that can possibly be obtained.

It insures good digestion, regular, healthful action of the liver, kidneys and bowels and the building up and fertilising of the whole system.

Mrs. J. Derocher, 85 Bethune street Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and sleeplessness, and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine, for besides steadying my nerves, it built up my system wonderfully, and enabled me to sleep and eat well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years, and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the Ointment cannot be equalled, and the Pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson Bates, & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Visit of Col. Kyle Yesterday

S. A. Chief Secretary Speaks of Army Work.

Arrived on Saturday From Millbrook—Conditions in the Antipodes.

Colonel Kyle, the Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army, in Canada, arrived in the city on Saturday evening, from Millbrook, where he, earlier in the evening, addressed a large and successful meeting.

Colonel Kyle, when seen by the Examiner yesterday morning, at the barracks, talked most entertainingly of Salvation Army conditions and prospects in different parts of the world, and he betrayed a thorough conversancy with the work in many quarters of the globe. As might be expected, after an eleven years' experience in the leading positions in Australia, he was able to give some interesting information with regard to the huge proportions of the Army work in the Antipodes.

Colonel Kyle arrived in Canada from Australia six weeks ago, to assume the position of Chief Secretary for Canada, being in this position second in command in the Dominion, the first officer being Commissioner Coombes. His headquarters are in Toronto, though the duties of the position necessitate much travel, including, as they do, visits of inspection to different branches of the Army corps, as well as a general business supervision of the work throughout the country. The present is his initial visit to Peterborough.

Before entering upon his duties in Australia, Colonel Kyle was engaged in the United States, first in connection with the work upon the Pacific Coast, and afterwards in Pennsylvania and Virginia.

During his eleven years' residence in the Antipodes, he was for six years Social Secretary for the island, this position, as may be readily understood, being one of by no means an easy character, occupying, as it does, such an important place in the work of the Army. He was also for a number of years, editor-in-chief of the Army's publications, including the War Cry, which is, of course, entirely different from the Canadian or English editions. The Army conducts in Australia a large and thoroughly modern printing office, over $600 per week being paid in wages to their printers. Printing of all classes is done, and among other publications turned off their presses is the Australian edition of W. T. Stead's Review of Reviews.

Questioned as to his opinion of the Army's work upon the island, Colonel Kyle exclaimed enthusiastically — "O, it is doing a great work!" His explanation of the work in which the reformatories and other similar institutions are conducted, was most interesting, and the extent of the work along these lines, it may be said, is most surprising. The reformatory inmates are received from the Government, and are maintained by means of a capitation fee received from them. The system has developed itself from a small beginning. Large institutions are situated in Sydney and Victoria. In connection is a large model farm, in which the boys are educated in up-to-date methods of husbandry, after which they are placed with farmers.

In West Australia is situated an estate of 20,000 acres devoted entirely to this work. The inmates are divided into three classes, according to age, the older boys up to eighteen years being placed in one home; a second home is provided for the younger boys, while the third is intended to serve as a preventive institution. The system has been in force now for fourteen years and began with one little home.

A second feature of the work is that of the Prison Gate Homes, which have met with strong endorsation at the hands of everyone familiar with the work accomplished by them.

This branch of the Army's work has been in existence for about eighteen years. Released prisoners are met at the gates of the prisons by representatives of the Army, and every effort is made to assist them socially and morally. The work is to-day more successful than ever before. A large shelter is situated in Sydney, which will accommodate seven hundred people. This is known as a "Metropole." Beds are supplied from six cents to $1 each, with meals at a proportionate rate.

Speaking with reference to Canadian conditions, Colonel Kyle was equally enthusiastic. The work here he said had been progressing fully as fast. Our country had taekn advantage of the flowing tide of prosperity which had swept in upon it. The remarkable industrial development, and consequent rapid growth in population, which has taken place in Winnipeg, was commented upon, and it was, in his opinion, only the foundation of the coming metropolis.

A large maternity hospital, the corner stone for which was laid by Premier Roblin recently, is now being erected in the Manitoban capital. The building is designed to accommodate 140 people, and will cost about $50,000. A property, to be devoted to a similar purpose, was also purchased recently in Toronto. The work has been forced upon the Army by the expansion resulting from its efforts, the smaller buildings of the past having been outgrown. In Montreal new buildings are in course of construction, among which is a Provincial Headquarters and an auditorium. New buildings will also be erected at St. Louis, the scene of the recent rioting.

Colonel Kyle also spoke concerning the colonization scheme upon which H. Rider Haggard has reported so favourably. The eminent novelist had submitted a proposal to the British Government, in which he urges that they lend financial assistance to the amount of $10,000. Commissioner Coombes is naturally anxious that the colonization work should be done in Canada. Several other countries, including Argentina, have expressed a desire to receive the immigrants. The Salvation Army, Colonel Kyle points out, has exceptional facilities for the handling of the immigrants, both in securing and placing them, owing to its organization throughout the rural districts.

The Otonabee Council Struck The Tax Rate

At the Meeting Held on the 18th September.

Other Business Transacted by the Council—Rates for School Sections.

Keene, Sept. 26.—The Otonabee council met here on the 18th. All the members were present except councillor Peters, who is visiting in the North West.

Application was made by John O'Keefe, John Hope, Jr., and J. G. Weir, for a grant for wire fence, on the road allowance, to prevent the accumulation of snow. On motion each was granted 25 cents per rod. Councillor Cameron was appointed to inspect the O'Keefe and Hope fences, and councillor Stewart, the Weir fence, to see that the posts were good substantial ones.

Thos. Fitzgerald made a request on his road list for 40 cents, for a broken shovel. No action was taken.

Councillor Howson was appointed to interview Daniel Hayes, with regard to claim for damages, for road through his lot, used for drawing gravel from the Kelly pit.

R. P. Carey was present, asking to have the established road through lot 18, concession 9, opened. Councillor Howson and the clerk were appointed to locate and stake out the road.

On motion the collector's bonds were approved, viz, Peter and D. F. Drummond.

The following communications were received:—

From Dumble and Johnston, that John Taylor claimed damages to the amount of $40.00, from the Township, for trespassing at the gravel pit, on the Indian Reserve, which he has leased.

From E. A. Peck, that some of the parties interested in the Beaver Meadow Drain were dissatisfied with the work and requesting the Reeve and Clerk to meet with the parties at the drain on August 28th. The Reeve reported that after going over the drain, that the objection was well founded, as the drain was not of the dimensions called for by the award, and the engineer, Mr. Heathcote, who was present, assured the parties that before granting the certificate to the contrator for the balance of the control, that it would have to be of the proper dimensions.

From Wm. McMahon, that as he had paid $1.00 in the City of Peterborough, he should not have performed statute labour in Otonabee, and requested a refund from Otonabee of $1.00. No action was taken.

The following rates were struck:—County rate, 13-10 mills, to raise $5,622.70; Township rate, 22-10 mills; Township general school rate, 12-10 mills; School Section No. 1, 21-10 mills, to raise $275.00; No. 2, 25-10, $275.00; No. 3, 22-10, $250.00; No. 4, 32-10, $400.00; No. 5, 2 mills, $260.00; No. 6, 16-10, $120.00; No. 7, 17-10, $350.00; No. 8, 12-10, $185.00; No. 9, 2 mills, $145.70; No. 10, 12-10, $175.00; No. 11, 13-10, $80 and 24-10 mills, debenture rate for new school house; No. 12, 4 mills, $350.00; No. 13, 12-10, $200.00; No. 14, 22-10, $215.00; No. 15, 28-10, $98.90; No. 16, 27-10, $300.00; No. 17, 2 mills, $133.00; No. 18, 15-10, $7.50; No. 19, 3 mills, $9.00; Peterborough Separate School, 37-10, $34. 377 dogs, at $1.00 each and 9 bitches at $2.00 each.

Sheriff Harrell said he thought the wrong man had been lynched, and that a man he arrested at the time of the lynching was the one who committed the crime for which Brown was lynched.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that troubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child, to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity. A neighbor who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headaches and backaches left me, I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it."

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

DOES YOUR SCALP ITCH?

Are Your Hairs Dropping One by One?

If your scalp itches you are doubtless suffering from dandruff. The dandruff germ is digging up your scalp in little flakes, called dandruff, and sapping the life of the hair bulb. No hair preparation that is a mere hair stimulant and tonic will cure dandruff, because it won't kill the germ that causes the trouble. Newbro's Herpicide is the latest scientific discovery; and it will kill the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect; kill the germ and you will have no more dandruff, failing hair or baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

Diversion and Devotion At The Y.W.C.A.

Entertainment for the Children on Saturday Afternoon.

Mrs. G. H. Williamson on Bible Study

Saturday afternoon over thirty children gathered in the gymnasium of the Y.W.C.A. for games and fun. They spent a merry time playing games with the clubs, basketball and apparatus and also enjoyed apples while resting.

They were all invited to return free of charge, to the first meetings of the junior clubs, either Wednesday at 4.15 or Saturday at 10 a.m. All girls are invited to attend the first lesson in physical culture at one of the above dates.

At the Gospel meeting at the Y. W.C.A. yesterday, Mrs. G. H. Williamson spoke on "Bible Study."

At the present time great attention is being paid to nature study—plants are minutely studied. So in the study of the Bible, not just one Book or even parts of a few Books should be understood but in order to receive all the Bible can give us, every portion of the Bible must be studied, and that continually. Bible study is a test of true discipleship, for we cannot live a true life apart from it. It is our only means of conquering the adversary. Many of the most prominent men have found and do find it necessary to give time to Bible study and prayer before undertaking the duties of the day. Christ knew the need of communion with the Father and we have many instances of His going apart to pray before meeting men. The Bible furnishes the food for our spiritual life. Without it this spiritual life dies even as will the physical if not properly nourished. Bible study is God's means of communication with us. In our study, to understand, we must seek to have the light of the Holy Spirit.

Tuesday at 7.15 p.m., Miss Potter will begin her Bible Study Class, on "St Matthew's Gospel." Thursday at 8 p.m., Mrs. Williamson, will begin her class on "Life of Christ." The leaders invite any young women to join the class, whether she is a member of the Y.W.C.A. or not.

Next Sunday Dr. Torrance will speak at the Gospel meeting.

Sunday School Association to Hold Convention

In London on October 24th, 25th and 26th Next.

The Departments of Work Which Will be Taken Up.

The 40th annual convention of the Ontario Sunday School Association, to be held in the city of London, October 24, 25 and 26, promises to be of more than usual interested. Situated in the heart of a district exceptionally strong in Sunday School activity, in a city of handsome churches, model Sunday Schools, hospitable homes and excellent railway facilities, the prospects were never more hopeful. The programme, which is now being issued, includes the names of a number of Canadian specialists, in addition to Mrs. Lamoreaux, a noted primary worker from Chicago, and Marion Lawrence, the international secretary from Toledo, Ohio. Seven open parliaments and conferences have been arranged, and will undoubtedly prove an attractive feature, and will embrace primary work, teacher work, home department, house to house visitation, parents' responsibility, and decision day. House to house visitation will no doubt receive special consideration, in view of the interest connected with the movement. During this present year visitations have taken place in Hamilton, London, Belleville, Sarnia, Dundas and Deseronto, with the most gratifying results, and it is expected that similar movements will be undertaken in Kingston, Woodstock, Eglinton, Pembroke, Port Hope, Berlin, Waterloo, the Township of Windham, in Norfolk County and Toronto in the near future. Teacher training will also receive special attention in view of the fact that this is the first year the department has had a secretary. He has already visited some thirty-eight counties, organized forty classes with an enrollment approximating nearly seven hundred students.

Dying by inches, from one of the rarest diseases known, Mrs. Ida Bloom lies at the City Hospital in Cincinnati, while her husband and sisters surround her, awaiting the end. Several weeks ago the woman, shortly after being married, contracted the strange ailment. Physicians and nurses alike were puzzled, but it was finally diagnosed as "complicus vegetans." Her body was covered with hundreds of wart-like excrescences. As they grew in size she wasted away until she was a living skeleton. Physicians state that the warts produce some subtle poison, which, entering the blood, causes the waste. The end is expected at any moment.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—As a resident of George street I would like to ask what our city is coming to? On Sunday, September 24th, I was surprised to hear a heavy waggon going up George street about six o'clock in the morning. I got up and looked out and what do you think I saw? A large waggon loaded with beer kegs and crates, which looked like beer and ale. I think it is a disgrace to the city.

Yours truly,

Huge Coal Pile Burning.

Belleville, Oct. 2.—For the past two weeks fire has been burning in a huge pile of coal at the Point Ann cement works, near this city, and a large gang of men have been turning the coal over trying to extinguish it. There are 9,000 tons of coal in the pile.

Steamer is Burned.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 2.—The steamer P. H. Birckhead, coal laden, from Ashtabula to Racine, Wis., was burned at a dock here Saturday. Her crew of 12 escaped uninjured, but lost all their effects. The Birckhead will probably be a total loss.

A WHOLE-CLOTH CREATION.

In the Ottawa correspondence of the Mail and Empire appeared a day or two ago a paragraph regarding the relations of Hon. G. W. Ross and Hon. J. R. Stratton, which contains as much untruth as could possibly be expressed in the words employed. The correspondent, whose imagination is of the most fertile and fungous variety, asserts, that the appointment of Hon. Mr. Ross to the Senate is blocked by the opposition of Hon. Mr. Stratton who is alleged to have expressed a desire for the honour for himself. Now this is pure, whole-cloth fabrication without an iota of justification either in fact or inference. Mr. Stratton has never asked or suggested that he should receive consideration in regard to the appointment suggested by the Mail and Empire. He has never asked the Ontario or Ottawa Governments for any personal favours whatever, though he has made demands on behalf of his constituents and others. Nor is he in any way opposed to the appointment of Hon. Mr. Ross, to a position in the Senate, if indeed that idea was ever entertained. On the contrary Mr. Stratton feels strongly that Hon. Mr. Ross would be an ornament to, and fill with credit, the highest office at the disposal of the Dominion Government. The distinguished services he has rendered the Province of Ontario and the Dominion, his unquestioned and conspicuous ability and his gift of oratory, and his capacity for effective service, render him so well qualified, that perhaps there is no man in public life in Canada who could more naturally and acceptably be called upon to fill any position of high trust that might be or become vacant. Mr. Stratton has not been offered, nor sought a senatorship, and the only possible ground upon which the senior organ of the Conservative party could base its invention is the desire to discredit Liberal public men, and on the principle that "misery loves company," foment like discord to that which is rending its own party in the fight over the spoils. What object the Mail and Empire has in view, or what it expects to accomplish by such a style of campaign, is difficult to understand. If the senior Conservative organ held a brief to accomplish the ruin of its party and its own self-effacement as an influence, it could take no more effective means that it has been and is employing. Being of human composition, the Liberal party and Liberal leaders have their faults and shortcomings—and these constitute legitimate grounds of criticism. But when a journal posing as the organ of a great party resorts to invention of facts upon which to base its denunciation or innuendo, its influence, its power to affect any but the baser element of public opinion, becomes non-existent. It has come to this, that public opinion, whether Conservative or Liberal, at once discredits anything which appears in the Mail and Empire in regard to its political opponents, so that the shafts of its malice fall short and harmless to any but itself and its party. For the cry of "wolf" persistently raised when there is no wolf, will be unheard, when the time may come that the organ stumbles into the truth, and wish to have something believed that may have some foundation. A man who establishes a reputation as a liar will not be readily believed, if, peradventure, he should speak the truth. The safe way in regard to what appears in the Mail and Empire in regard to its political opponents is to assume that it is not true.

SINGLE TAX IN NEW ZEALAND

A single tax experiment in New Zealand has been in operation long enough to afford some actual indications of its probable effect. We refer to the experiment in local taxation, which began in 1890 with the granting by the Colonial parliament of authority to all taxing districts, upon local referendum, to exempt real estate improvements from local taxation, personal property having been exempted throughout the Colony by act of parliament in 1891.

More than sixty taxing districts—towns, cities, counties, etc. — have availed themselves of the local option privilege granted by the act of 1897.

A comparison of 12 of these towns, ranging in population from 500 to 45,419, and aggregating 92,215, has been made by the Sydney Single Tax League, with twelve other New Zealand towns, ranging in population from 500 to 37,022, and aggregating 89 917, for the purpose of contrasting gain or loss of population in the Single Tax towns with gain or loss of population in towns that have not adopted the Single Tax. In the twelve Single Tax towns population has invariably increased, with a total increase of 17,315, or 23 per cent. On the other hand, in the non-Single Tax towns for the same period—1897 to 1903—several have actually lost, while the rest have increased but slightly, and the total increase is only 1,576, or less than 2 per cent.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. N. Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, has been making an automobile tour of Essex and Kent and is much impressed with possibilities of the tobacco industry in this province. He is taking steps to foster the cultivation of the weed in the northerly parts of Ontario. It is to be hoped that the Minister will be successful in promoting the success and industry which has the paradoxically quality of flourishing the better the more it fails—the more tobacco is burned the greater the profits of the growers. Tobacco may be made a commercial success in Ontario and no objection will be raised so long as Mr. Monteith doesn't ask us to smoke Canadian tobacco.

Miss Crawford's Collected Poems

The Montreal Herald of Saturday says:—

It is satisfactory to learn that at length, an adequate collection of the verse of Isabella Valancy Crawford, will soon be published. Miss Crawford's work is not as well known as it deserves to be. Her poems, "Old Spookse's Pass," "Malcolm's Katie," etc., deserve a place on Canadian library shelves. The work of preparing the collection has devolved upon Mr. J. W. Garvin, B. A., ex-Inspector of Public Schools in the town of Peterborough, himself a writer of verse of exceptional strength and quality. Mr. Garvin has long taken an interest in the work of this gifted poetess, the memory of whose genius is held with growing pride by the people of Peterborough, among whom the most of her all too brief life was spent. Gathering together all of her published and unpublished poems that can now be found, he, with the assistance of Miss Ethelwyn Wetherald, and others, has gone very carefully over them, selecting those thought most worthy of preservation — sufficient, happily, to make a volume of over three hundred pages, together with a portrait and a brief sketch of the life of Miss Crawford. The book, which will be ready early in November, will contain an appreciation of her work by Miss Wetherald, who unhesitatingly places her first among the women poets of Canada, and by the brilliancy of her genius challenging comparison with any of the poets that this continent has produced. The volume will be published by Mr. William Briggs, Toronto.

Association of Ticket Agents

The Canadian Ticket Agents' Association will assemble at Montreal on Oct. 14th, and proceed to Portland, Maine, where the annual meeting will be held. The meeting is a combination of business and pleasure, and the latter object influences the selection of the annual meeting place. Mr. W. Bunton, (G.T.R.,) one of the Vice-Presidents, and Mr. W. Mellroy, (C. P. R.,) a member of the executive, will attend the annual gathering. The members of the Association and the two Peterborough members are reminded that Maine is a prohibition State, and all concerned may govern themselves accordingly. But there is no danger of Maine shutting out the ticket agents — though they are a collection of choice sprits. They all have through tickets wherever geniality of jovialty and jolly, good fellowship are appreciated.

Howard Peters Was Remanded

Howard Peters, charged with stealing a sum of money from Rennie, the trustee of a Belmont township school section, appeared this morning before Judge Edmison, at the Court House, and was remanded until Saturday, October 7th, at Havelock.

Constable Ellis Williams last night arrested Jas. Gilligan, of Havelock, on a charge of trespassing on C. P. R. property at that place. The prisoner was brought to Peterborough this morning and was remanded by Judge Edmison until Wednesday next. The prisoner is charged with stealing a ride and of breaking into a railway car.

JEWS CELEBRATE THEIR NEW YEAR

Saturday Began Year 5666 In Hebraic Chronology.

Ten Days of Repentance Set Aside—Faithful Will Attend Service Each Day.

Two local merchants of the Hebrew faith announced that their shops would be closed on Friday and Saturday as these days were Jewish holidays. In explanation of this specific incident and for general information it may be interesting to give the following in reference to the conditions in Toronto where there are many representatives of the Jewish religion:—

Saturday was the Jewish New Year's Day, and special services were held in all the synagogues of the city of Toronto to celebrate the event. This year just commencing is to be known as the year 5666 Anno Mundi, which is Latin for the year of creation. Saturday, the first day of the month Tishri. There were special services on Saturday and will be during the succeeding nine days, which are known as the Ten Days of Repentance. During these ten days there will be special morning and evening services in all the synagogues and all the devout Jews will attend regularly each day. The predominating thought of this period will be the calling of Abraham, the blessing of Abraham and the sacrifice of Isaac. These three thoughts formed the subject of a special sermon on Saturday, (Sabbath) morning by Rabbi S. Jacobs in the Holy Blossom Synagogues. The services on Sunday began at 9.30 o'clock, and the sermon began at about 10.15. The first early morning service began at 8 o'clock, but the most impressive part, in which the organ, choir and cantores took part began at 9.30. In the evening the service began at 6.15. The approach of the New Year was celebrated in the synagogues Friday night, when special services were held.

Recital of Ancient Prayers.

Sunday's services were of a beautiful and solemn character. A special feature of the Liturgy was the prayers which have been set aside from the earliest days of the Jewish church. The prayers announce the sovereignty of God, His mindfulness of all creation and a solemn call to repentance. Three different functions are seen in the prayers known as "Maichoth," "Zichronoth," and "Shophroth." The services in the Holy Blossom Synagogue were particularly impressive. The choir has been under special training. One of the most interesting features was the reading of the old law, which was performed by the Rabbi. This is sung according to an old musical setting, which takes a great time to learn. The ocustom of sounding the Shophar or Ram's Horn did not take place, as, according to an old custom, it must not be sounded on the New Year's Day, but was sounded at the services on Sunday, and at succeeding services.

Meaning of the Services.

The New Year is one of the most important days of the Jewish year. How it is considered by the faithful can best be appreciated from the following, which is taken from a book entitled "Judaism as Creed and Life," by Rev. Morris Joseph:—

"New Year's Day, then, is a solemn occasion, though not a mournful one. Unlike the ordinary new moon, it is not marked by the recital of the joyous Hallel; but, on the other hand, the prayers with which we mark its advent have little in them which is sad. A day of chastened memories, a day for reflecting upon our frailty of frame and character—that is the aspect in which the Prayer Book presents it to us. But beneath this sombre sense of weakness, both physical and moral, there lies in the worshipper's heart the serene certitude of God's justice and mercy. If we rush away He will redeem us, if we have sinned He will help our resolve to sin no more. We are not morbidly to fix our thoughts upon ourselves alone; we are bidden to turn them also to God. Our littleness, but His greatness, too, is to be the theme of our meditations. And so among the most impressive, as well as the most ancient passages of the New Year Liturgy are those which celebrate the Divine majesty, which tell of the Kingdom of Heaven to be established on earth—at some future time—as well as of God as the searcher of hearts, and as the Great Sovereign who has revealed His will to mankind. Sublime conceptions all of them, and they clothe both the Liturgy and the day with grandeur.

"With the New Year commences a sacred period known as the Ten Days of Repentance, so called from the especial duty to which they are consecrated. The last of these days, the Day of Atonement, is the most solemn of them all; nay, more; it is the most solemn day in the whole year."

Cured Kidney Disease.

Mrs. Fred Hills, Walton street, Port Hope, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for some time with kidney disease, and though I tried a great many different remedies I never succeeded in obtaining relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By the regular use of this preparation for a time I was completely cured of kidney disease."

Two Boys Sentenced This Morning

Primeau Will Receive Fifteen Lashes With "Cat."

Herbert Taylor Given Three Years at St. John's Industrial School.

Taylor, who appears to be an incorrigible, was arrested on Saturday here, on his return from Havelock, where he broke jail. The misguided youth was sentenced to a term, not to exceed three years, in St. John's Industrial School, Toronto, the city to bear the expense.

Leo Primeau, who has made several appearances, charged with a bestial crime, was sentenced to one month in the county jail. The penalty includes fifteen strokes with a "cat" fifteen days before his discharge.

A particularly touching sight to many who witnessed it to-day about noon was the removal of the two boy prisoners sentenced this morning, from the police court to the jail. The boys, who were handcuffed together were Herbert Taylor and Leo Primeau.

"The Sabbath Was Made For Man"

The Subject of Four Special Sermons by Rev. J. G. Shearer.

The Danger to the Sanctity of the Lord's Day, a Call to Christian Co-operation.

On Sunday, Rev. J. G. Shearer, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, preached four sermons in the interest of the organiza... ... ... presents, in as many city churches. On Sunday evening his first discourse was delivered at St. Paul's church, the order of the service having been changed to permit of his early departure to preach another sermon the same evening in St. Luke's church, his dual sermons having been preached in the Murray street Baptist church and the Charlotte street Methodist church in the morning. ...v. Mr. Shearer has his subject well in hand, and, like all specialists, is enthusiastic in the cause he is advocating.

In opening his address in St. Paul's on Sunday night he said that the greatest words ever written on the subject were those of Christ, "The Sabbath was made for men." It was made for men from the beginning of all things. Not for the Jew only, but for the gentile as well, since it was made before there were Jews. It was made for all men, and for the whole men—physical, intellectual and spiritual. For his physical and intellectual well being, so that his powers would receive the fullest development for the exercise of the spiritual functions of his nature. The sanctity of the Sabbath was essential to the greatest good of man individually, of the state, and above all, of the church. The preacher was not prepared to say that the Sabbath was essential to salvation, but it was an almost indispensable auxiliary to salvation, in that it afforded opportunities for making available the means of grace the Christian Sabbath afforded. In view of the essential character of the Sabbath Day, it was well to make every effort to guard it from the perils which environed it, and never more than at the present time in this country, in the east and west, and in this fair Province of Ontario. The two prime factors in developing disregard of the sanctity of the Sabbath Day were the love of money and selfish indulgence, which were responsible in various ways for the assaults upon the integrity of the Sabbath Day. In this age of stress and progress and development there was a great influx of capital, and this led to abnormal love of money, the greatest of all corrupting influences. The spirit of Sabbath-breaking was concerned greatly for the interests of trade and commerce, and for the interests of labour, etc., adopted many specious guises and employed unscrupulous devices, of which graphic instances were given. Another potent influence for evil was selfish indulgence. The first influence mentioned was great corporate interests like railway and steamship companies, but the second was much wider, and affected the people at large, who demanded Sunday services in the interest of the indulgence of their pleasure-seeking desires which required the labours of others. Through these causes there were 150,000 persons in Canada, the speaker asserted, who had no Sabbath rest, but were compelled to work 365 days in the year. They were industrial slaves, who were robbed of the inalienable right to one day of rest in seven. The Lord's Day Alliance was organized ten years ago and had done, the speaker said with gratitude, good work, among which were one hundred efforts at legislative improvements of the law, which had all, with three or four exceptions, been successful. In one year alone there had been two hundred cases of Sabbath-breaking dealt with by the various agencies of the Alliance. The speaker concluded by forcibly pointing out that the work of retaining the threatened sanctity of the Sabbath had a claim upon the responsibility of every Christian to the measure of his or her ability and influence, and earnestly exhorting all to co-operate with the Alliance in its important work.

Tried To Poison Her Mother

Walkerton, Sept. 30. — Priscilla Beesan, 14 years old, is in jail, charged with trying to poison her foster mother, Mrs. Philip Strauss, Carrick township. The latter was sick, and the girl was asked by Mrs. Strauss' daughter to spread cream on a slice of bread.

She did so, but the daughter did not like the colour of the cream, and sent for a doctor who pronounced it to be Paris green. Before Judge Barrett the girl pleaded guilty, but said she only wanted to make Mrs. Strauss sick. She will be sent to the Mercer reformatory.

Good Football Story by Rev. Father Fallon

Former Ottawa Priest Narrates Story of a Game.

How Riley, of Ottawa College, Played Heroic Game in Red Tights, When Togs Were Ruined.

A writer in the Buffalo Inquirer says:—

I recently met that energetic, athletic and respected priest of the Roman Catholic faith, who came to Buffalo, some four years ago, an entire stranger to nearly every person in Buffalo, but, to-day, one of the best known orators and church men, if withal a promotor of clean amateur sport, in all this big Queen City of the Lakes, there is hardly any necessity of saying further in words just who this gentleman is, but in order that there may be no misunderstanding at all, I will add that I refer to the Rev. Father M. P. Fallon, rector of Holy Angels' church in Porter avenue.

He was making the rounds of his parish and was about to call upon a young man who is quite ill. If there is one thing more than another that Father Fallon is interested in it is the upbuilding physically of the hundreds of youths in his parish. He organized the O. M. I. cadets and one of the best football and baseball clubs in the city has for three years been under his watchful eye. Father Fallon himself, when a student in Ottawa College, was one of the best gridiron stars in America and all one has to do to-day to interest this healthy minded gentleman is to start a conversation in which football is a central object.

A Phenomenon.

"The best football player I ever knew in my life," said the priest to me yesterday, "was a young man named Riley, who played on the same team with me in my college days in Canada. Never yet was there a man who could do the work that Riley could when he got the ball. Woe to anyone who tried to cross his path at the same time. He was a phenomenon, a wonder. Yes, sir, I remember the day well we played against the yard's famous eleven. Riley in one of the mix-ups tore his padded trousers and was forced to retire to the dressing room to don another pair. Well, sir, when he reached the room he could find none of any kind. But Riley wanted to continue to play and we also would be lost without him. Finally he espied a pair of old bright red trunks which were in the room and he hastily donned them. I will never forget the sight of Riley when he again came out on the gridiron. Every one had to laugh and Riley laughed louder than he ran and then he began to play. Well, there never was another man like Riley. In fact, all you could hear from the captain of the Harvards and all the coaches was:

Look Out for Riley.

"'Look out for that fellow there, with the red tights.' But Riley was looking out, too, and he was everywhere. You could easily see how the game was going by watching the red streak break through. Well, the game is over. It has been played this many a year and poor Riley is dead and dust by this time, but none of those who saw that game that day will ever forget the game. Riley afterward became a prominent business man in Lynn, Mass., but died a few years ago."

Father Fallon was a classmate of Frank Nelson, the well-known sporting editor of the Toronto Globe and the racing judge who has officiated at Fort Erie and Kenilworth ever since the tracks were built.

He will soon have one of the finest schools in America built on the Holy Angels' property in West avenue, and this fall, he will personally see to it that the young men of his church and school will have everything that goes to make them strong and healthy young men. It is expected that the football eleven alone will be one of the best ever turned out in this city.

To Bar Horses That Win Prizes

A correspondent who wants to appeal to Horse at Agricultural Exhibitions the same rule that Mr. Hughes Charles, President of the Peterborough Industrial Fair applied to quilts and fancy work, writes as follows:—

I hope you will allow a few lines in your valuable columns in the interest of horses. I have been more or less interested in high-class horses for a number of years, both buying them and judging them in the ring. During the past year or two I have noticed frequently a number of horses shown in the ring that have been exhibited for a number of years, and in almost every case winning first prize. I know of a few that have taken as many as sixty first prizes. Would it not be well for the agricultural societies or the directors of large Horse Shows to alter their methods of distributing prizes? I may be wrong, but think it would be in the interests of horsemen, buyers and exhibits, and breeders, if all horses would be barred from the show ring who have taken first prize, say, two years in succession, unless it be for high jumping, or something very special. There are several reasons for this. One reason is, I think, it prevents the amateur horseman from showing in many places. He has his mind made up that there is no use of his going, as prizes will go to such men as the Hon. Adam Beck, Crow & Murray, Geo. Pepper, and other well known horsemen. Each of these firms have now in their possession first-prize winners, and have been shown for years. By some change of this sort, it would force these people to dispose of these good animals and put them to practical use, and encourage the amateur or small dealer to fit horses up for the show ring. On the whole, I think there is plenty of room for improvement. I would like very much to hear from others on this same subject. Hoping the horsemen of the country will take enough interest and start a general correspondence. I write these few lines solely in the interest of horse shows and horsemen generally.

Maud Keswick Is A Coming Horse

The Toronto News of Saturday has the following referring to Maud Keswick, the fast little mare formerly owned by Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald and bred by Mr. Elmhirst, of Oshawa:—

O. B. Sheppard's sweet little mare, Maud Keswick, has been one of the most constant performers in the harness horse world this season.

She has won some good purses for her owner and has been in the money in most of her races. When Mr. Sheppard first purchased this mare not even he expected such good results, while others thought that he had a white elephant on his hands.

Next season Maud Keswick will be one of the contenders in the big events.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CHECK FOR THE UNITED STATES

President Castro's Latest Move On Troublous Chessboard.

AS PLAYED IN VENEZUELA

Compromises Britain and Germany In Certain Contingencies That May Arise—How Debt Unification May Help South American Republic —What Might Occur If U. S. Made Demonstration.

New York, Oct. 2.—The Herald has the following Washington special:

Has a new Venezuelan complication arisen? Some persons with an intimate knowledge of developments within the country dominated by President Castro aver that a situation has developed within recent months which is of far greater importance to this country than anything which has as yet arisen out of the asphalt company dispute or the French Cable Co. case.

Gen. Castro, according to these persons, has played a trump card and has succeeded in uniting Great Britain and Germany in a common interest in the greatest of all Venezuela's outstanding obligations. Debts previously separate and distinct, one owing to British subjects and the other to Germans, have been consolidated and unified. A large proportion of the customs receipts of all Venezuelan ports have been alienated to meet the interest and sinking fund charge.

That it is a quasi Government affair, so far as Great Britain and Germany are concerned, is indicated by the fact that the funds necessary to meet the interest and sinking fund charges are to be paid over, every fifteen days, in their proper proportions, to the English and German Ministers at Caracas.

Would Stir Up Trouble.

According to the extreme view of the case, this debt unifying arrangement is the outcome of a carefully considered plan on the part of Gen. Castro to place Great Britain and Germany as a buffer between this country and France on the one hand and Venezuela on the other. What, say these persons, can be done, even upon a joint demonstration against Venezuela? If we seize the custom houses of La Guayra and Puerto Cabello, it is only to find that by solemn treaty thirty per cent. of the revenues are already assigned for the payment of debts to England, Germany and Italy and other powers. If we seize other custom houses it is only to find that by lawful contract sixty per cent. of the revenues are the property of England and Germany.

Would Not Stand Idly By.

A moiety of money, to be sure, over and above the assigned percentages of customs receipts, is left at each port, but is it likely, in view of the situation created, that England and Germany will stand idly by, in the event of the United States and France seizing customs houses in order to coerce President Castro? These two countries have now a vital interest at stake in all the customs revenue of Venezuela arising out of any port whatsoever. A blockade, "pacific" or warlike, would disturb the natural business of Venezuela and upset the flow of revenue.

It is not at all impossible, therefore, that a demonstration upon the part of this country would bring a strong protest from Great Britain and Germany, and send the war ships of these nations to the Caribbean Sea to protect their own rights.

Young Farmer Dies On Road.

Peterboro, Oct. 2.—Word reached here Saturday morning from Lake Hurst of the sudden death of Thomas Easton, a farmer of Harvey Township, from heart failure. He had been assisting a friend with his threshing all day Friday, and started home about 8.30. Before he had gone a mile he fell off his wheel and died almost instantly. Easton was 26 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

Miners' Strike Settled.

Nanaimo, B. C., Oct. 2.—The miners Saturday night sustained the committee's negotiations with the colliery company by a vote of 239 to 93. The strike which for the last four months was waged bitterly, was consequently called off Saturday. The nature of the settlement is in the nature of a compromise.

When life's autumn comes, women, worn out by the burdens of motherhood, yet shrink from that second "change of life" which will banish these burdens forever. They fear a change in form, in feature, in personal attractiveness. Such fears are largely warranted by the effects which this change produces in many women. But no woman need let these fears fret her.

Those who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription do not suffer from the change of life either in face, form or feelings as do other women. This fact is due to the intimate connection of the general health with the health of the organs peculiarly feminine. By preserving the health of these organs, and relieving the system from the debilitating drains, ulcers and inflammations which sap its health, "Favorite Prescription" paves the way for this natural change to come in Nature's way, without the loss of capacity to please others or personal inability to enjoy life.

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' brought me safely through that difficult period, called 'change of life,'" writes Mrs. Mary Emmitzer, of 264 E. Ankeny St., Portland, Oregon. "This change made a very unpleasant disturbance through my entire system. I had hot and cold flashes, sick headaches, became excited, frustrated, nervous and irritable. My appetite was fitful and for days I was unable to eat a fair meal. My aunt recommended me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it made a great change for the better. Within two weeks the unpleasant feelings had disappeared. I have a husband and eight children so have the care of a large family but was able to attend to my household duties without any difficulty and passed the period without any more trouble. I can recommend your 'Favorite Prescription' as a grand medicine for women."

You may be willing that somebody else shall say that their baby is "just as good" as yours, but you don't want that baby substituted for yours. Let dealers say what they like about other medicines being "just as good" but don't let them substitute anything for "Favorite Prescription." It is absolutely unequaled.

One woman is dead and five persons were seriously injured, while a score or more were slightly cut and bruised, among them Mrs. Thompson and R. S. Moore of Montreal. It is feared two or three of the injured may die.

The direct cause of the accident was the failure of the air-brakes on the stock train to work.

King Leopold to Stay.

Brussels, Oct. 2.—King Leopold, at the banquet of the congress on colonial expansion last night, gave emphatic denial to recent reports that he intended to abdicate.

IN RAGE FATHER SHOT DAUGHTER

Brantford Street the Scene of a Tragedy On Saturday.

VICTIM OF PARENTAL SPLEEN

Failing to Secure His Daughter's Marriage to a Wealthy Armenian the Father Shoots Her and Then Turns the Weapon on Himself—Suitor Said to Have Encouraged the Shooting and Is Arrested.

Brantford, Oct. 2.—In less than an hour after the two murderers, Bennett and Doyle, had received their death sentences, and within two blocks of the Court House itself, a double tragedy occurred Saturday morning, by which a father shot his daughter and then turned the revolver on himself.

Both were shot through the heart.

Friday evening a young Armenian girl, Vartanoosh Kasparian, married Vahan Sefarian. The ceremony was objected to by her father. Saturday morning the couple were walking out on Wellington street, near the Goold, Shepley & Muir wind mill works, accompanied by a boy 5 years old.

When half way up the hill the father of the girl, Kaspar Kasparian, who had been walking on the opposite side of the street, ran across and fire twice at the girl. One bullet pierced her side and the other her lungs. He attempted to fire at the other man, but the revolver only snapped, and this gave Sefarian and the boy time to run around a corner and escape.

The father then turned the revolver on himself, shooting himself through the heart.

"Oh, my God! that was my father," cried the girl in her awful agony, but the terrible injuries soon took away consciousness as she lay on the ground with her life blood staining her white blouse. She was removed to the hospital.

Sefarian, the husband of the murdered girl, was arrested shortly after, as was also a companion of the father named Slamosian, who egged on the father to do the deed.

It is alleged that the father was angered because the girl married Sefarian against his wishes, Slamosian being the favored suitor in the father's eyes because of Slamosian's money.

Murderer King Hanged.

Edmonton, Oct. 2.—Charles King, the American from Salt Lake City, Utah, who killed Charles Hayward, a young Englishman, and burned his remains, and whose execution was delayed a month owing to the celebration attending the birth of the new province, was hanged Saturday morning in the Mounted Police barrack yard. He had two trials.

Double Hanging on December 15.

Brantford, Oct. 2.—Justice Anglin Saturday morning sentenced Felix Doyle and Joseph Bennett to be hanged on December 15 next. A reserve case was asked for Doyle, but the judge refused to grant it, stating that the plea might be taken to the Court of Appeal. Doyle broke down under the sentence, but Bennett was immovable. Both prisoners asserted their innocence.

Is Acquitted of Murder.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Charles Kernick, who was accused of the murder of H. Mitchell, while on a picnic some weeks ago in Dorval Islands, was acquitted Saturday evening in the Court of King's Bench, the trial having lasted several days. The parties had been drinking, and the evidence was so conflicting that the jury gave Kernick the benefit of the doubt.

Bites Father's Chin and Lip.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—William Little lives with his father, John Little, at 52 Stafford street. On Saturday night the son came home drunk. The father remonstrated with him, and in return William assaulted his father, throwing him down and biting his chin and lip. The father was taken to the Emergency to have his wounds dressed, and the son to No. 3 police station.

Pleads Guilty to Forgery.

Kingston, Oct. 2.—John Hartnell pleaded guilty Saturday morning to passing a forged cheque for $190 on the Bank of Montreal here on September 1st. He was remanded to look up his record.

Parades Called Off.

Budapest, Oct. 2.—The prefect has issued an order prohibiting the torchlight processions which the coalition parties and the Socialists respectively announced Saturday would take place October 3.

Roman Catholic Bishops to Meet.

Ratepayer Hits Out And Counters on Taxpayer

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Seeing in your issue of the 29th, a letter concerning short hours, long wage, and high taxes. I think the writer of the letter is a great deal wrong in his statement of wages and work. I think that the writer of that letter must be a man of the past, otherwise he would not be looking for a ten hour system. I know that there is a fair day's work done in nine hours. As far as the teamsters' wages are concerned, there is not a man receiving $2.50 a day on the corporation for nine hours. How would the writer of that letter feel if he were not able to do a heavy day's work? Would he rather sit in the house as a city pauper or would he rather go and earn his living. I would like the writer to understand that these old men are not receiving the highest wages. The roads of the city when they are put into good condition, the Waterworks come along and tear them all up again spending all summer and entering the edge of winter before they are through. I might say that the men employed under Evans and Fitzgerald can do more work in nine hours than any other gang the Waterworks have had.

Why didn't the writer of that letter sign his name?

Yours truly,
FRED. KNAPP,
Ratepayer.

Beware of The Toadstool In Selecting Mushrooms

The mushroom season is now getting into full swing. In various parts of the country, in meadows, woods and marshes, the regular crowd of mushroom-gatherers will soon be out — some of them with scarcely any knowledge of how to distinguish some poisonous toadstools from the non-poisonous toadstool which mushrooms really are.

A well-known expert on the mushroom question, a gentleman who has spent years in the scientific practical study of fungi, assured a reporter yesterday that the attempt to educate people at large is useless. He, himself, is able to distinguish any sort of poisonous from a non-poisonous toadstool, or mushroom. He cultivates mushrooms in his cellar and regularly buys his spawn from a well-known dealer who understands these things practically as well as he does.

Dilettante is Dangerous.

"There are so many fad notions and distinctions about these things," he said, "that one hesitates to say anything for fear of giving wrong impressions. It is a case of where a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. It really comes to a choice between the total ignorance which shuns all toadstools, or mushrooms, as one would avoid a venomous reptile, and accurate scientific knowledge which enables a man to distinguish without the suspicion of a blunder the poisonous from the non-poisonous toadstool."

This gentleman went on to say that a year ago he had read in a local newspaper some comparisons on this subject, wherein a self-styled expert in a western town laid down certain infallible rules for distinguishing edible toadstools. One of these so-called infallible rules was the presence of a ring around the upper part of the stem of the edible toadstool.

Deadly Toadstool.

"And now," he said, "I will show you how completely fallacious — in fact what a direct and dangerous lie that was."

He produced a box from a drawer in his office, containing specimens of a dozen toadstools both edible and poisonous.

"There," he said, 'picking out a sample, "is the deadliest toadstool known to the human stomach. It is the 'amanita'—so often taken for an edible toadstool. For the poison in this toadstool there is no known antidote. To take it into the stomach is certain death. It is seductive in taste and the stomach does not throw it off. This increases the danger. But you see," he said earnestly, with his finger on the stem, "that deadly ring around the upper part of the stem? Well, that is the very ring declared by the western correspondent to be the mark of the edible toadstool.

"No," he concluded, "I shall not attempt to give any rules. There's no use. My advice is to everybody, shun all mushrooms and toadstools as you would contain death — unless you are prepared to make a scientific study of them, the only kind of study that is absolutely safe.

"Where do the vendors of mushrooms get their supplies?" asked the reporter.

"From people who make a regular business of cultivating mushrooms and from people who make a practice of gathering them wild in the meadows," was the reply. "The former are absolutely reliable. The latter—well, you know what I have already said. It's infinitely easy to be fooled."

Good Rugby Work-Out On Saturday

T. A. S. Won From Peterboroughs by Score of 18-15.

Alterations in Lineup Were Made a Half-Time—An Interesting Practice.

An interesting rugby workout was held on Saturday at the Riverside grounds, when a practice game between the Peterborough and the T. A. S. teams took place.

The score at half-time stood 10-5 in favour of the Peterboroughs. A change was then made in the personnel of the teams, and the game continued, the final score being 18-15 in favour of the T. A. S. The line-up was as follows:

The Quietest Room.

In one of Kipling's railroad stories the manager of a great freight terminal was described as moving tranquilly about, humming the words of an old hymn which told of green fields and murmuring brooks, while trains rolled in and out a hundred tracks subject to his direction, trainmen besieged him for orders and explanations and swearing trackmen crowded around him for orders and privileges. His was the blessed calm of a May morning amid distractions and responsibilities which would drive some men mad. He was a man of self control.

We need, some of us do, more of the railroad manager's calm in the life of the home. The wife, of all places, should be free from contention and fret. The stomach of the angry person, the worried or the unhappy, does not perform its work well. The person who is possessed of a "grouch" should be obliged to take his meals alone until his malady is cured.

Why not, in every home, a quarreling room, set apart for those to go who are ill natured and a severe penance demanded from each and every one found "grouchy" outside of it? And for the settlement of family disputes? The walls should be padded—no windows or frail furniture, and, of course, no bric-a-brac. Some comfortable but stationary chairs like those in a dentist's office would make the room both safe and habitable.—Good Housekeeping.

Boiled Cream Dressing.

Many families do not like olive oil, and for those who do not eat salads on this account boiled cream dressing made as follows will be found delicious: Add a tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a teaspoonful of white pepper, a teaspoonful of mustard to half a cupful of vinegar; place in a granite ware basin over the fire, and when hot beat in a cupful of cream or milk, two eggs, a tablespoonful of butter; let become cold.

Wrong and Wright.

Our Aylmer correspondent says in yesterday's issue that Mrs. Wright is visiting her brother, Mr. Wrong. We presume it is wrong to make a comment upon the above personal, but still our intentions are right. It is remarkable that when Mrs. Wright was Miss Wrong she took advantage of the offer to become Mrs. Wright and refused to be called Wrong after she was once Wright. We say right here that this is right, but most women persist in believing themselves right when they are wrong.—St. Thomas Journal.

Wright went right in seeking the Wrong. Wrong was right in accepting Wright. So Wrong was made Wright, and we all right. We should also like to write that it was the marriage rite she made Wrong Wright.— St. Thomas Times.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

IT'S HERE AGAIN.

Vacation time is here at last;
Placeforth the small boy owes the town,
And he will see that time is passed
In ways that add to his renown.
No doubt he has a project vast
To paint the place a deep, rich brown.

No longer will his lessons fret,
No more clean fair books will he soil,
And it is very safe to bet
That he will by the rules of Hoyle
With diligence seek dare-forget
All that he learned by patient toil.

No longer must he in disgrace
Stay after school to learn to spell;
No longer must he wash his face
And hands and neck and ears as well
And trot to his appointed place
That seems so like a prison cell.

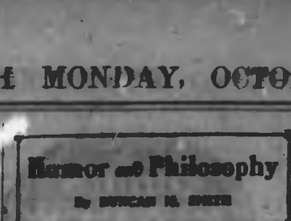
Now Willie is from bondage free,
From book and pencil, desk and class;
So watch him crack his heels in glee,
Just like a colt turned out to grass,
As happy as a tar at sea
Or as a traveler with a pass.

Being a Pretender.

Although there is no salary attached, it must be quite a pleasant job to be a pretender to a European throne. The lucky mortal need only comb his whiskers and pretend throughout the livelong day. There is no pretenders' union to limit him to eight hours' pretending each day, so he may pretend until the lights are turned out at night. Then he can crawl into bed and as he lays his near royal head on the pillow can wonder if his bluff has impressed any one.

To an American who has to make his living sawing wood it might look like a snap, but the job has its drawbacks. The pretender may be pretending away at the rate of forty miles an hour when all of a sudden some one may come up and present him with a laundry bill, and it is enough to make a bystander weep to think that he cannot order the executioner to cut off the offender's head.

As Advertised.



"See here, landlord, your circular says there are no mosquitoes at this resort, and I have been all but eaten alive."

"Well, that circular was written last winter, and you couldn't find a mosquito at that time with a spyglass."

As It Was In the Beginning.

When the lady of our love
Says that we must do things so,
Then we swear by stars above
We will out the game and go.
But beneath our breath we swear;
Low but deep our whispering;
Nothing louder do we dare—
Then we go and do the thing.

Shy on History.

"Pa, what was the doge of Venice?"

"I don't know unless it was the lookout man who warned the players when the coppers were approaching."

Touched His Vanity.

"How did you manage to sell the New Yorker such a bill of goods?"

"Told him I assumed from his accent that he was English."

"Do pirates confine their operations strictly to the seas?"

THE PORT HOPE OUTLET WAS INSPECTED YESTERDAY BY
HON. H. R. EMMERSON

Ministerial Party Visited Port Hope and Was Taken Over the Proposed Route---Peterborough is Recognized as the Coming Metropolis of the Midland District--One of the Strongest Claims the Port Hope People Make is That It Will Give Direct Connection With Peterborough--Minister Given a Banquet---Magnificent Harbour Visited.

That the city of Peterborough is considered to be an important factor in the Trent Canal project was demonstrated yesterday at Port Hope, when the Hon. Minister of Railways and Canals visited that town in response to invitations rom the Port Hope Canal Association for the purpose, as far as the Minister was concerned, of obtaining information, and from the standpoint of the Port Hope advocates of the canal's completion, for the purpose of convincing the head of the Department of Railways and Canals of the fact that the Port Hope outlet is the more feasible.

One of the strongest reasons advanced by the advocates of the Port Hope route for the completion of the canal with its Lake Ontario connection at that town was the fact that it would afford easy transportation to the towns in the Midland district, "all centring at what is going to be the great metropolis city of the Midland district, the city of Peterborough." The quotation is from the address of Mr. Barlow Cumberland, who, at the luncheon tendered the Minister yesterday afternoon, proposed the toast to "The Port Hope Outlet."

This is a marked tribute to the importance of this city at the present time, as well as a practical admission that in the opinion of the speaker, who is one of the best informed transportation men in the country, Peterborough is destined to become what its citizens have long recognized, the dominating city of the great Midland District. The fact that the advocates of the completion of the canal by the Port Hope route urge it as a means of securing connection with Peterborough is a very pleasing evidence of the recognition of this city's commanding position, and will be learned with great satisfaction by all Peterborough people.

A First Visit.

Yesterday, for the first time in its history, Port Hope was favoured by a minister of the Crown visiting it in his official capacity, and it is a circumstance of considerable, in fact, absorbing, interest to the residents of that progressive town, that the object of that visit was an investigation of the merits of the claims advanced by the advocates of the Port Hope outlet for the great Trent waterway. Although as early as 1835 the Port Hope route was projected, and in that year a survey made; in all the years that have intervened, no Minister of Railways and Canals has ever visited the town or gone over the proposed route until Hon. Mr. Emmerson did that yesterday, and the fact that the present head of this Department of the public service has interested himself sufficiently in the question of the outlet to personally inspect that proposed by the Port Hope Canal Association, and believed by them to be the best, has inspired its advocates with the hope that at least their claims are to receive what they consider well-merited consideration at the hands of those in charge of the transportation interests of the Dominion. With the optimism for which the Port Hope people are proverbial when it comes to local matters, they believe that now since the Minister has seen for himself the situation, and has driven over the proposed route, with its ten or twelve miles of distance to Lake Ontario, and the natural advantages with which it has been endowed, the battle has been practically won, for in their opinion the engineer's reports of the surveys will show that the route offers no engineering difficulties, and with the information which the Minister has become possessed of during his visit, he will be able to judge of the question intelligently, and, if justice is given, the Port Hope people profess to feel no fear as to the result.

An Energetic Association.

The mere fact that the Port Hope Canal Association has succeeded in getting the Minister of Railways and Canals sufficiently interested in the matter to come and see for himself has in itself been a great satisfaction to the members of that association, for in the past their greatest difficulty has been in inducing the people to seriously consider the Port Hope proposals, the general attitude towards the Port Hope proposals be-

A Charming October Social Event

Nuptials of Miss Loretta Clancy and Mr. Frank Dwyer.

Wedding Solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral This Morning—Many Guests Were Present.

A pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Miss Loretta Clancy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clancy was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Dwyer, of Toronto, a former Peterborough boy, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, by Rev. Father McCall. The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk, with bertha of chiffon, and white velvet picture hat, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her going away dress was navy blue with white ruff. The bridesmaid, Miss May Clancy was beautifully attired in cream serge, trimmed with Limerick lace, with black toque, and carried pink roses.

The groom was supported by Mr. James Mulligan of the Provincial License Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. The music at the ceremony was of a charming character, an Ave Maria being sung with beautiful effect by Miss L. Shillahen, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Doherty.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the residence of the bride's parents, 123, Stewart street, where a dainty and recherche wedding breakfast was served. The contracting parties were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts and congratulatory favours, which included a beautiful fasp-dish from the members of the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, of which the bride was a member.

Many out-of-town relatives and friends were present at the ceremony, among these being, Mr. and Mrs. and Master Vincent Whitty, of Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Reilly, of Norwood, and Mr. S. and Miss Fanny Redmond, of Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer left on the 5.10 o'clock C.P.R. train for Toronto, where they will take up residence, Mr. Dwyer occupying the position of storekeeper at the Asylum at that place.

An Oratorio by St. John's Choir

The Oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," will be given by the choir of St. John's church early in December under the direction of Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot. A practice will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, when every member is requested to be present.

TWO SOUTH MONAGHAN YOUNG MEN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT AT CHARIVARI

The Deadly "Blank" Cartridge Again Brings Serious Results—Edward McGregor and Thomas Parrotte Were Shot in the Arms by Discharge of Breech-Loading Shot Gun, Fired by Stephen Jackson--Patients Now at Nicholls Hospital.

A distressing shooting accident took place last night in South Monaghan, in which two young men, Edward McGregor, and Thomas Parrotte, were shot in the arm and painfully injured. The shooting took place at a charivari, at the farm of Andrew Huggins, about five miles from Bailieboro.

A large party of young men and boys of the neighbourhood assembled, it appears, and in the manner peculiar to rural districts, started out to serenade Mr. Huggins and his bride, who were married yesterday.

Armed with the usual paraphernalia, consisting of shot guns, tin pans, etc., they were proceeding down the road in the direction of the house when, one of their number, Stephen Jackson, discharged his weapon, a double barrelled, breech-loading shot gun, in the direction of the two young men who were injured. Jackson was under the impression that the shells in the gun were blanks.

A double fatality, needless to say, was almost the result of his action, and it appears almost miraculous that such was not the case. The shot took effect in the right arm of Parrotte, and in McGregor's left. The two injured men were removed to the Nicholls Hospital as speedily as possible, and necessary medical attention secured. Numerous shots were removed from the arms since, and it is hoped that unless blood-poisoning or other serious complications ensue, that the patients will not be permanently injured. They are resting now easily, and doing as well as may be expected under the circumstances.

"England expects that every man
This day will do his duty."

Inspired by this ringing cry, the Englishmen composing Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, are mindful of their duty in celebrating Trafalgar Day, which, as intimated, falls on October 21, and gains additional importance from the fact that it is the hundredth anniversary. The celebration of this event under the auspices of Lansdowne Lodge will take the form of a grand concert, to be held on the night of the 21st, on which occasion the programme will be contributed by Mr. Reohab Tandy, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Mr. James Nax, Humourist, Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot and Miss Helen Davies. It is expected that Mr. Tandy will sing "The Death of Nelson," which he is fitted to do, in a peculiar sense. He has the voice and vocal culture, and having stood on the spot on the desk of the Victory, where Nelson fell, and stood in the cock-pit to which his body was borne, he is thus well equipped to sing this heroic ballad, "with the spirit and the understanding also."

This entertainment, aside from the splendid musical features which such a formidable array of talent promises, should possess a patriotic interest which should assure a generous patronage, the music especially since it has been announced that the concert do not go into the coffers of the lodge, but will be devoted to the funds of some local charitable institution.

To fittingly signalize Trafalgar Day—the day of a victory and a Victory which meant so much to the consolidation of British power and influence—other places are making preparations, and one feature of the day's observance will be the decorations by citizens of their homes and places of business with flags and bunting.

An Interesting Social Event This Afternoon

Miss Ida May Greer Becomes Bride of Mr. R. J. McClellan.

Both Young People Are Well and Favourably Known in This City.

This afternoon at two o'clock, a pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Johnston H. Greer, 704 George street, when his second daughter, Ida May, was united in the bonds of matrimony, to Mr. Rupert J. McClellan, son of the late Jas. McClellan, in the presence of about fifty friends of the bride and groom.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, evergreens and palms, the bridal party standing under a floral bell, and the the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. Dr. Crosthers, of the George street Methodist church.

The bride's dress was of white voilte, trimmed with lace and silk applique, and she carried white roses. Miss Violet Greer, sister of the bride, attended her as bridesmaid, and was gowned in white crepe de chine, also trimmed with lace. She carried pink roses. Mr. G. L. McClellan, brother of the groom, performed the duties of groomsman.

After the impressive ceremony, the party sat down to a dainty breakfast at which the health of the bride was proposed and responded to by the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. McClellan, after receiving the felicitations of their friends, left on the 5.15 C.P.R. train for Toronto and other western cities, and on their return they will reside in this city.

The bride's going away dress was of green ladies' cloth, with hat to match.

Among the invited guests from a distance were Mr and Mrs. George Greer, and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Greer, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fisher, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fisher, Cold Springs; Mr. Frank Noble, a cousin of the bride, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ashe, and Miss Mabel Ashe, Cold Springs; Mr. W. D. McClellan, brother of the groom, Ottawa; Messrs. Elmer and Larmour Smith, Lewiston, Idaho; Mrs. Samuel Pickett, Neepawa, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. Washington Huffman, Palouse, Wash; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Clarke, Clora; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jordan, Brampton; Miss Gertrude Braithwaite, Toronto; Messrs. Joseph and Joshua Wallace, Lakefield.

The bride and groom were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and useful presents, evidences of the general esteem in which they are held.

Taxpayer's Rap At Mr. Knapp

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — In yesterday's Examiner a letter appeared signed by Fred Knapp, in which he replies to "Taxpayer," incidentally defending his employers. He makes a considerable point of "Taxpayer" not signing his name. It strikes me that "Taxpayer" is as brave as the officials who employ another man to take the responsibility of expressing their sentiments, and making statements not quite in a straight line with the facts. Mr. Knapp boasts of the quality of the men employed on the streets, and as much as says that they are the best in town. That may be, but there are others, and if they are the best, I must say, and and the whole city will agree with me, that the state of the streets doesn't show it. The proof of the quality of a pudding comes when the eating stage arrives.

Yours, etc.,
TAXPAYER.

A Suggestion For a Name

The following letter from Mr. Arthur W. Beall, of Peterborough, appeared in last night's issue of the Toronto Star:—

Editor of The Star, — Victoria, B. C., the westernmost point of the C. P. R., was named after our late great Queen. What more fitting and Empire binding, as far as nomenclature is concerned, than that the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific should be "Edward," in honour of our King, who will go down to posterity as Edward the Peacemaker? Victoria and Edward, the twin termini of our great continental lines will commend themselves to loyal Britishers the wide world over.

ARTHUR W. BEALL,

PORT HOPE OUTLET WAS EXAMINED

ing one of good-natured indifference. Persistence has at last, however, received its reward, at least partially so. The campaign of education which the association, formed here for the propagation of the gospel of the Port Hope outlet of the Trent Canal, has waged is beginning to bear fruit, and the public is beginning to appreciate that the claims of the advocates of the Port Hope route may have something to recommend them to favour.

The members of this association, the majority of whom are among the town's most influential and solid business and professional men, have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in defence of their proposals, and, while it must be admitted that for the most part in the past their words have fallen upon ears that have not been particularly friendly, at last there seems to be a disposition on the part of a great many to view with greater favour the proposals which they make.

Inspecting the Route.

Climatic conditions yesterday were not very pleasant, in fact they were most unpleasant, and for this reason the trip of the Minister over the proposed route for the outlet was not taken under as pleasant circumstances as would have been the case had the weather been more propitious. But in spite of this drawback the day's programme was most successfully carried out, and though it did rain practically all the time that the trip from Port Hope to the head of Rice Lake and return was being taken, this fact did not have a noticable depressing influence on the members of the party.

The arrangements made by the officers of the Association for the pleasure and comfort of their guests were most complete and it showed that no trouble could be too great to insure their being an enjoyable day. They were assiduous in their attention and the information they dispensed to those in search of it, made the latter's task easy.

The official car, with the Minister and his assistants, arrived in town about 10 o'clock from the west, was immediately connected to the train going north, and left for Garden Hill at 10.20. Those who yesterday were the guests of the Canal Association and the deputation were, besides the Minister and party: Mayor Chalk, F. Outram and Thomas Long, representing the town council; Dr. L. B. Powers, president, and J. F. Clark, vice-president of the Port Hope Canal Association; Barlow Cumberland; R. A. Mulholland, chairman of the harbour board; Alf. Long, secretary harbour board; Senator McHugh, Robt. Kennedy, president Board of Trade, and G. H. Wilson, editor of the Post, of Lindsay; J. H. McClellan, superintendent Trent Valley Canal Association; D. Hughes Charles, manager Bank of Commerce, and M. J. Hutchinson, the Examiner, Peterborough.

The party made the trip to Garden Hill, four miles from the head of Rice Lake, on the regular train, and on arrival at that station a number of carriages were waiting to convey the party on the tour of inspection. This was the most interesting part of the day's programme, and only the fact that the rain fell in torants during the whole drive lessened the pleasure of what on a fine day would have been a most delightful drive.

Ocular Demonstration.

The principal object of the drive was to convince the members of the party, and the Minister especially, that the "hill" about which so much had been heard from those who were opposed to the Port Hope route, rested largely in the imagination of those persons. This fact was not hard to convince, and the recognition that the cutting at the deepest part was only 65 feet, and that within two and a half miles of Rice Lake, the level of that body was again reached, was learned with considerable surprise by the great majority of the visitors, who had, perhaps, involuntarily shared in the misconception that there was a big hill to be cut through. It was pointed out also that what cutting there was would be through earth, which would be inexpensive, compared to rock cutting. The fact that for a greater part of the distance a natural ravine could be utilized, was also learned with great surprise by many, and pointed out with pride by the enthusiastic Port Hopers.

The head of the lake, Bewdley, was visited and the Minister expressed his satisfaction at seeing that the outlet from the lake was practically a natural one.

The return journey to Port Hope was then made, and the character of the soil through which the canal would run, as well as the facilities which nature had provided were all taken note of by the Minister and his deputy.

Luncheon and Eloquence.

On arrival at Port Hope, at two o'clock, luncheon was served in the St. Lawrence Hall, where about 50 persons sat down to a well cooked and efficiently served meal, to which all did ample justice, and at its conclusion a short toast list was given, the first to be honoured being the King, proposed by the chairman, Mayor Clark.

In response to the toast to "Our Guest," Hon. Mr. Emmerson gave an address on transportation matters, which delighted all who heard him. No extravagant statements were made in reference to the Trent Canal or its outlet, the speaker saying he had come to Port Hope, and the other places he had visited, in search of information, and in order that he might have a better idea of the transportation situation in Canada. He made no promises, but said that he doubted if the Trent Canal had a warmer advocate, or a more staunch friend in Parliament, than himself—a statement which was received with hearty cheers. The Minister spoke in a patriotic vein, and he referred at some considerable length to the Intercolonial Railway, the people's railway, and he said that he could easily produce a surplus from its operation if he wished to raise the freight rates, a course which he did not wish to pursue; he did not believe that it would be in the interests of Canada. He said that the deficit accruing from the operation of the Intercolonial Railway, should not be considered as such, since, in reality there was no deficit, because the country as a whole reaped the benefit derived from low rates.

The Minister's address was frequently interrupted by loud applause from his hearers, who appreciated the broad, patriotic spirit which characterized his remarks.

Port Hope's Hopes.

Mr. Barlow Cumberland proposed the toast to "The Port Hope Outlet," in a short, comprehensive speech, in which he advised that the name of the canal be changed to the "Midland Waterway," which he said, was a more correct name than the Trent Canal. Speaking of the Intercolonial Railway, Mr. Cumberland supported the view of the Minister, and declared that there really was no deficit.

Replying to this toast, Dr. Powers, H. A. Ward, M.P., and J. Clarke spoke, each advocating the claims of the route. Dr. Powers said that he was confident that justice would be done, which was all that they asked.

Mayor Chalk, on behalf of the people of the town of Port Hope, thanked the Minister for visiting the town and hoped that his next visit would be on the occasion of the opening of the Port Hope outlet of the canal.

After the luncheon, the party again took carriages and drove to the splendid harbour, where in electric launches they made a tour of the magnificent work, of which the people are justly proud, and afterwards visit was made to the Ideal Sanitary Company's works, which was also much enjoyed.

The visit of the Minister to Port Hope will doubtless have the effect of giving him a better conception of the merits, or demerits, of the route as proposed by the Port Hope people, and the latter are confident that now, since the Minister has seen for himself, the advantages of the route, the matter will be dealt with intelligently.

Several Outbreaks of Meningitis

Outbreaks of spinal meningitis are causing anxiety to a number of medical health officers throughout the Province. There were six cases of the disease and two deaths in Eganville, Renfrew County, in August. Several cases are now reported from Powassan, among the school children there.

In Nipissing Township two girls in one family have the disease, and in one of the adjoining unorganized townships every member of two families is down with it. The medical health officers for Powassan and Nipissing have written to the Provincial Health Department asking if quarantine regulations should be enforced. The Department has replied that such a plan is the safer to pursue.

Canadian Cheese Best in the World

It is evident that our dairy products continue to improve in the estimation of the British consumer. George Hall, a prominent member of the Liverpool provision trade association, declared at a meeting in that city recently that ours was the best and most uniform cheese in the world. He paid a high tribute to our butter as well, though, as is well known we have a long way to go before we reach the first place with this product. It is necessary to study what has led up to Denmark's success in this line of work. Mr. Ruddick, the Canadian dairy commissioner, and the Canadian commercial agents have done good work in tracing up instances where poor cheese and butter have been placed on the market in the Old Land. Recently two very serious cases were brought to the attention of Mr. McKinnon, the agent at Bristol. First he found twenty cheeses received from Montreal, all of which contained a lump of hard immature curd, quite useless to the consumer, and entirely foreign to the remainder of the cheese. The weight of the lump averaged from four to five pounds. It was decided after thorough examination that the maker, having made a failure of one or more cheeses, cut them up and distributed the portions amongst other cheeses which were made subsequently. The second complaint referred to by Mr. McKinnon is a very curious one, and was in all probability quite accidental. Among a consignment of two hundred cheeses a large percentage were found to be swelling, many having forced the lids off the boxes, one cheese having risen two and three-quarter inches above the top of the box. The swelling appears to have been caused by the formation of gas, altering the texture of the cheese and forming small holes, similar to those in Gruyere, but irregular. The cheese is said to have been kept in a reasonably cool temperature, so that the damage could not be due to over-heating. Mr. Ruddick favoured the idea that a lack of acidity was the cause of the phenomenon, which was apparently quite new to the produce merchants of Bristol. The remedy is believed to be a requirement that each factory in the Dominion shall have a distinguishing mark. This will ensure a greater sense of responsibility.

The Difference Between Expert and Unskilful Tea Blending

THE qualities of different teas prove that there is a distinct difference between expert Red Rose blending methods and the usual methods.

Several kinds of teas may be blended, but if unskilfully selected they will not combine to make a perfect blend; they will retain their original individual characteristics with their roughness and harshness emphasized.

Such tea is bitter, poorly flavored in the cup (and there is much of it in bulk and package form on the market). It emphasizes the result of inexperience, lack of knowledge of combining qualities of different teas, imperfect blending, poor selection, and the hundred and one other causes of poor tea.

But my expert Red Rose blenders select the right grades of strong, rich Indian teas and delicate fragrant Ceylon teas, and produce Red Rose Tea with entirely new characteristics—a tea with that "rich fruity flavor"—a tea so exquisitely different and better than any brand of Ceylon alone, that no one who once tries it ever goes back to Ceylon again.

Canada Has Most Valuable Diamond Fields

Precious Stones Long Known to Exist Here.

Great Wealth Lies Hidden Between Great Lakes and Hudson Bay—Many in Rainy River District.

Old mining men and prospectors in Northern Ontario need not to be told by Dr. Ami, of the Geological Survey that great diamond wealth lay hidden in that part of Canada between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay. In the Rainy River district, and in the auriferous valley of the the Seine, many diamonds have been obtained from Indians, and French Canadian voyageurs, who had picked them up in their wanderings, without any idea of their character and value.

At the hamlet Mine Centre, in the Seine River country, George B. Douglass is the resident agent and assayer for the Rothschild interests. Mr. Douglass was long a resident of South Africa. He says the geological conditions of the Rainy River and Seine territories is almost identical with that of the Kimberley district, which has given to the world the famous diamond mines.

Forty miles from the mouth of the Big Fork River, which empties into the Rainy from Northern Minnesota, are many ancient mounds, whose origin extends beyond the traditions of the Ojibways. Until recently these mounds were inviolate, for they were in a wild region but little visited by white men, and reached only by canoe.

One summer, however, a party of scientists from the University of Toronto, came out to explore them. From one of the mounds on which a sturdy oak was growing a large human skeleton, perfectly preserved, was exhumed.

It was not that of an Indian, and in the cavity where it was taken were evidences of prehistoric civilization, in the form of articles of pottery, some stamped with unique and beautiful designs. Around the skeleton's neck was a massive band of pure copper and on its bosom rested a curiously wrought necklace of the same metal into which were interwoven shells and coloured stones.

What arrested the attention of the exploring party, however, was a stone which gleamed from the centre of a pendant to the necklace. At first it was judged to be nothing more than a clear piece of quartz, but closer examination and testing proved that it was a diamond.

Although half a dozen mounds were opened up before the party left the region, and copper ornaments and pottery were found, with skeletons in all of them, no more diamonds were unearthed.

On their return the party met a band of Ojibways, to whom the articles found in the mounds were shown in the hope of obtaining traditions concerning their origin. As to the copper the Indians were ignorant, but they granted disdainfully when the pottery and the diamonds were shown.

Specimens of the former, they said, could be obtained in almost any quantity from the remains of an ancient pottery works that once existed on the banks of the Big Fork, near the Big Falls, a few miles up the stream, while in the same region glittering stones of the sort the palefaces seemed to regard so highly, had frequently been found.

Startled by the information, the Toronto party pushed on to the Big Falls, which marked in old days the disputed boundary between the Hudson's Bay Company and John Jacob Astor's American Fur Company. There they found an old hermit squatter, Dan Campbell.

He took them to the ancient pottery field opposite his cabin, and, what was more, brought from a pouch which he carried three stones which in purity and brilliancy greatly exceeded the one found by his visitors. These stones he had found in the course of his thirty years living by the Big Fork while scratching the surface of the pottery field with his hunting knife.

Old Dan had no idea that his finds were anything more than quartz, despite the care with which he had preserved them. So skeptical was he of his visitors' assertions that the stones were diamonds that he entrusted them to their care to be appraised in Toronto and their value sent to him. Nor were the party mistaken in their judgment. The four stones were pronounced to be read gems of an aggregate weight of twelve carats and worth $2,500.

Mr. Douglass was sitting in the trading post at Mine Centre, one afternoon when a young buck and his squaw entered to exchange pelts for provisions. They had come by canoe fifty miles down the Seine Valley.

Strapped to a birch bark frame the mother carried a pappoose on her back. She took off the frame and leaned the mummified looking youngster against the counter while she joined in her husband's dickerings with the storekeeper.

Mr. Douglass noticed that the young redskin held something firmly in his hand, which every now and then, after gazing upon it, he attempted to put into his mouth, but was prevented by the vigilant mother. Curious to see what kind of toy the Indian baby had Mr. Douglass pried into his little brown fist, and there lay scintillating a diamond as large as a hazel nut. There was no mistake about it.

In astonishment he inquired of the squaw where she found the gem.

'Oh, it,' she replied contemptuously, in her guttural tongue. 'My man picked it up when he was getting the poles for our tepee up the river.'

Douglass pulled out a twenty-dollar bill and offered it to the squaw for the stone. But paper money has little significance for the Ojibway in the wilds.

A gleam of avarice shot into the squaw's eyes and tightened the corners of her mouth as she saw how anxious the white man was to get her baby's plaything.

She shook her head and granted a decided negative. Douglass smiled, for he knew the Ojibway character.

'Give me all the chicken feed you've got,' he said to the trader.

The storekeeper emptied a sack on the counter, containing about $10 in small change. The squaw's eyes and those of the buck glittered.

'Here,' said Douglass, as he shoved the coins toward them, 'give me the stone.'

In a trice the mother snatched the gem from the pappoose and tossed it over to Douglass. The diamond was taken to Toronto and appraised, valued at nearly $1,000.—Correspondence New York Sun.

Petewawa Now Permanent Camp

Petawawa, on the C. P. R., near Pembroke, has at last been chosen as the site for a permanent training camp for the militia. The ground comprises 2,500 acres and the price paid was $30,000, or at the rate of about $14 an acre. This is considered very reasonable from the Government point of view, as there are some five farms and substantial buildings on the property. The purpose of the camp is to train officers and non-commissioned officers and a few men from the regiments in every branch of the service in drill and tactical exercises. The ground is so extensive as to permit of long-range artillery and rifle fire and cavalry manoeuvres. The necessary improvements to enable the ground to be fully utilized as a permanent camp will be carried out as soon as possible. Kazabazua, on the Gatineau Valley Railway, was also spoken of as a likely site for the camp, but the Militia Department has notified the Quebec Government, who own the land, that it does not need the property.

Mr. Patterson Writes To School Board

Suggestion With Regard to Manual Training.

Thinks Educational System is Behind the Times as Compared With the U. S. Methods.

At the meeting last night of the Board of Education the following communication was received:

From Mr. E. G. Patterson, general superintendent of Electric Works, as follows: May I suggest to you and your board that it is time that the School Board seriously considered the advisability of installing manual training in the various schools in the future. I don't like to say anything that would discredit your educational system, but as an employer of labour I am fairly well posted on what makes young men more valuable. I think that our educational system is far behind the times as compared with the up-to-date methods and equipments furnished by the United States schools. "I think I am safe in saying that the eastern provinces do not expect to excel in agricultural products, but do expect, and succeed fairly well, in upbuilding of large industrial establishments, and one thing that will help to build them up will be the proposed education given to the youth. I hope I am not presumptuous in offering this suggestion to your Board.

Yours truly,
E. G. Patterson,
Gen. Supt.,
C. G. E. W.

The matter was discussed by the Board, which, as a whole, appeared to take the view that nothing could be done in the immediate future with regard to the suggestion of Mr. Patterson, owing to the lack of sufficient facilities in the way of school accommodation. It was felt, however, that the suggestion was one of value, and that when it becomes practicable the matter will be dealt with.

The secretary was instructed to convey to Mr. Patterson the thanks of the Board for the suggestion.

BREAKING THE LICENSE LAW

The Conservative Government of Ontario has specifically claimed the public confidence on the score of its policy of rigid enforcement of the License Law. It has, however, made a dangerous departure from its attitude on this question, and opened wide a door to, practically, serious infraction of the Act. The last number of the Ontario Gazette contains the announcement of the incorporation, as a club, of Toronto Lodge, No. 2, Canadian Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and to afford the members "all the usual privileges, advantages and accommodations of a club." That is to say, that the members of the club, or any members of the Order of Elks, "may purchase and consume upon the premises of said club, wine, beer and spirituous liquors." The privilege of guzzling all the beer and whisky desired in granted during legal hours, after hours and on Sundays, and there is no inspection, nor supervision by the License Department, though it appears that the Provincial Secretary, under whose Department the incorporation of clubs comes, and who is also charged with administration of the License Law, has the power to refuse new clubs the right to sell liquor. The incorporation of the Elks Club furnishes another means for evading the License Law, and is also dangerous in this sense that it opens the door to wholesale disregard of the restrictions of that law. The incorporation of the Toronto Elks constitutes a precedent, which cannot, logically be disregarded. In fact, lodges of the Elks at Chatham and Ottawa have applied for charters permitting the sale by them, to their members, of strong drink. Here lies the dangerous character of the precedent established. There does not seem to be anything to prevent, if it were so desired, any Masonic or Oddfellows' Lodge, or any Court of Foresters, or the C. M. B. A., to become incorporated as a club, with the privilege of selling strong drink to members without restriction as to hours or regard to Sundays. This condition of things does not seem consistent with the rigid enforcement of the License Act, which can thus be evaded. In case of the establishment of such clubs, by incorporation, with power to sell liquor to members, it is easily possible to see with what facility there may be large increase of membership, and, if it is so desired, unrestricted drinking. The Provincial Secretary, in incorporating new clubs, may absolutely refuse to them the right to sell or dispose of liquor on their premises; so that the Provincial Secretary, who is charged with the duty of rigid enforcement of the License Act, is under no compulsion to grant privileges which practically outrage the spirit of the License Act in the matter of absence of inspection, unlimited hours of sale, and Sunday sales.

WILL HARDLY APPLY.

Everything the Whitney Government does is not wrong, not at all. But if the head of that Government had not abandoned nearly every promise he made while in Opposition, he would have done a great many wrong things. He was going to repeal the tax on corporations; abolish the Succession Duties; do without a Minister of Education; wipe out the Department of Public Works; make Niagara power free as air, and several other nonsensical things that he dare not do now that he is in office.—Brockville Recorder.

Similar charges can be made against any political leader who passes from Opposition into office. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is accused of having forgotten his platform. If Hon. George P. Graham, editor of the Brockville Recorder, should become leader of the Liberal Opposition in Ontario for a short, lively and brilliant period, and should then overcome Mr. Whitney in a general election, it would be found that Premier Graham would be accused of not doing some things when in office that he in Opposition thought should be done.

It is not only the way of politicians. It is the way of the world. Conditions change, and that which seemed advisable one year is found on the inadvisable two or three later—if it ever was. The responsibility of office, too, hampers the daring of the public man. He gets a deeper and more intricate acquaintance with affairs of which his previous knowledge was superficial and theoretic. The permanent officials who do the actual work carry lamps through the departments and show the new ministers a thousand and one things they did not know before.—Toronto Star.

In addition, the Star argues, and not without considerable reason, the Brockville Recorder points out, that a man or Government is judged by what is done in office, rather than what was said or done while in Opposition. There is no doubt a great deal of truth in that, but if on the very verge of an election, a leader of a party makes certain announcements, and goes so far as to divide the Legislature to put his party on record, surely it is a sign of weakness or insincerity if, after that election, that leader abandons as a principle what he so strongly favoured before as a vote-getter. Mr. Whitney's attention was called to his rash promises, and instead of retracting, he reiterated some of them with renewed vigour. Surely it is not verging on unfairness to show from the record that Mr. Whitney in the Government is doing just what his opponents said he would have to do, and is refraining from doing the things they said he would not dare to do if he were in power. On the questions indicated, Mr. Whitney has absolutely accepted the policy of the late Government. This proves that Mr. Whitney was wrong; but it proves something of greater importance, that the late Government was right in its policy, and that their successors are acknowledging this by accepting it. Surely it is legitimate political warfare for a supportor of the late Government to call attention to the fact that notwithstanding the verdict at the polls, the policy of that Government is being adopted and carried out by its successors. The policy of the Ross Government is being vindicated every day in its adoption by the Whitney Government.

PERMANENCE OF INFLUENCE.

Politicians are fond of declaring that public office is a public trust. Not less true is it that great wealth is a great trust. It is well worth while to make money—not for the mere sordid pleasure of possession but for the possibilities of doing good. Hon. Senator Cox's donation of $100,000 to build a memorial wing to the new Toronto Hospital buildings, in memory of the late Mrs. Cox, is a case in point. It also disproves the general notion of Shakspere that the good that men do is often interred with their bones. The late Mrs. Cox, was known during her life, as abundant in works of charity and goodness. Though now absent in the body the influence of her spirit still remains, and is silently working to the accomplishment of continued benefaction. The influence of her life in connection with the work of the memorial wing of the hospital will operate for many years to come.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

The gist of the nature of the new treaty of alliance between Japan and Great Britain leaked out some time ago, but probably no one outside the two cabinets had any idea of what Russia, at least, is likely to consider the brutal bluntness of the terms. Indeed, the Journal fails to recall any international alliance of modern times which has set forth in short and simple words the determination of two great nations to declare war together if certain interests of either be attacked:—

"Article II.—Should either of the High Contracting Parties be involved in war in defence of its territorial rights or special interests, the other party will, at once come to the assistance of its ally, and both parties will conduct a war in common and make peace in mutual agreement with any power or powers involved in such war."

The previous treaty was blunt enough, using also the words that the two powers would make war in common; but this was only in case after one of the two nations had gone to war with some power, some other power were to attack it. Most radically different is the new treaty, by which if either Britain or Japan finds cause of war in Asia, the other nation must start with it, whether merely one enemy be involved, or more.

As already remarked, the Journal does not recall any international treaty of modern civilization, say for a hundred years, so positive and blunt as this—none since the time of Bonaparte's dictated alliances. And surely this is the truest wisdom, seeing that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is purely a defensive one. No other power is injured or threatened, which does not contemplate aggression; and the plainness of the wording of the new treaty rendering misconception impossible, is the best preventive of either careless or wilful misconception, and the best guarantee of peace.

Of course, Russia is badly hit by the treaty. The only real danger to the interests of either Japan or Britain in Asia is from Russian ambition. That ambition, whatever of it is left from the war with Japan is hopelessly checkmated while the Anglo-Japanese treaty endures. Compelled now to cease from gorging on her neighbours in Asia, Russia will have more time and reason to look after her internal affairs, and her statesmen may realize that greater and worthier national strength can be developed by reform at home than by conquest abroad.

Apart from the question of war, the treaty is a noble addition to international records as regards the common sense and liberality of its provisions regarding the vast Chinese empire, practically the greater part of Asia, in setting forth the pledge of the alliance to maintain—

"Consolidation and the maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India.

"The independence and integrity of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations in China."

Millinery Individuality
And Finely Tailored Hats

Millinery has become elevated to it's true position in this "Twentieth Century". The one aim now is to emphasize "Individuality" and a very worthy ambition it is too. What has been done in the past in Millinery Art has merited special praise to this store, and stamps it, inseparable, for the welfare of it's customers.

True success has crowned every effort in our ambition to elevate the plane of Millinery and educate to the Highest Standard.

We feel confident of the patronage of Millinery Seekers, on the standard of our goods and this month will be a final test of Correct Millinery.

Regarding Ready-to-wear Hats

We simply state we have them in all the numerous styles, from the popular "Polo" and "Military Turbans" to the larger Sailor, varying in price according to value, from the cheapest to the higher priced lines.

New York Tailored Hats

Is what we want to talk about, in our own Exclusive Line of New York Tailored Hats. One of the most distinctive of these being a Feather Hat, with high rolling side, covered plainly with green Panne Velvet, with brim and side crown formed of Pheasants breasts in those rich tints, shading from the new Puce shade, to a dark brown,

Price $15.00

Another attractive style is the new "Glengarry" the most noticeable feature of which is its severity of outline. The crown of this hat is covered plainly with Panne Velvet and is finished with a finely fluted silk ribbon around the brim. The only trimming being one long wing completely covering its left side.

Price $8.50

These are only two of many styles, each style carrying its stamp of individuality and good workmanship.

"Taxpayer" Comes In For More Hard Knocks

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Reading my paper of Friday issue I was surprised to see a letter from one styling himself Taxpayer, saying that a good deal of the city's money was wasted. Granted that there is a sum of money wasted, but not in the way that Taxpayer would have us believe, that is in the nine hour system. Now for my part, Mr. Editor, I don't think that Taxpayer can have studied much the ethics of labour, or have very much sympathy for his fellow man, especially if he happens to be among the labouring class. Then Taxpayer goes on to say about the Teamster's [illegible] money for less hours of working than formerly. Does Taxpayer think that the Teamster's should work the same number of hours for the same amount of money he was paid a season or two ago, when every commodity of life was about one-third less than it is at the present time, when he could also get horse flesh much cheaper than he can get it at the present time. Then he has a "but" in about the results, not getting a corresponding value for the price paid. But don't you make any mistake, Mr. Taxpayer, the council may fool a little money away, but let me tell you it doesn't go in the price of labour. They might pay a union price but no more. Then Taxpayer goes on to say that the council employs men that are not physically fit to do a fair day's work. Of course, I don't refute that statement, for I think it would be a job to understand what Taxpayer would call a fair day's work, as 9 hours doesn't seem long enough according to his letter. He says he is not complaining about the motive, then I think he should shut his row on that score even supposing that the council has got two or three old men in their employ. I am sure that Taxpayer does not believe in the religion of live and let live or he would not pass such reflections on grey hairs that have spent the marrow of their lives practically in the town's service. I suppose to please Taxpayer's whim he would have the old heads pauperized and then pride himself on our twentieth century enlightenment. Then again I feel rather sorry for our friend "Taxpayer", for I fear he must be rather short sighted, or he must be very biased in his opinions as regards business and business methods, that is when it has to do with the council. He talks about reforms. Well, Mr. Editor, if Taxpayer is so talented that he can see ways and means of giving the labouring man a living wage, and get more work done than is being done at present, he is the sort of man we want in office. But I am afraid when it came to the practical part of the work he could fill the bill, but poorly. And finally, Taxpayer says if the city would get as much work out of their employees as the Water Superintendent or the Sewer Contractor get from their men, the Tax Collector would tell a different story. Yes, I certainly think he would too, but I rather think it would be a story that Taxpayer would kick about a little harder than he is kicking now. For since the council has been putting in their own sidewalks for instance, we are getting more sidewalks down at a lesser cost and of better quality than when let out by contract. And another thing, Mr. Editor, if Taxpayer thinks that city employees have got such a cinch,—well, for mercy's sake, let him go and get that cinch, with Mr. H. Evans. I am sure he would only be too glad to oblige him, and I for one, would be very much surprised if he did not have a very rude awakening. I have watched the three classes of men at work that he mentions, and I think of the three gangs the city men are kept at it the closest. Now, Mr. Editor, the system might be wrong, but I am afraid that Taxpayer's system, if he has one, would be far worse for the working classes.

I remain,

Yours, etc.,

F. J. GANDY,
Ratepayer.

Orchestra For St. John's Y. P. Association

New Musical Organization of Great Promise.

Meeting of Association Last Night—Social Will be Held on Oct. 16th.

There was a fairly large attendance at the opening meeting of St. John's Young People's Association held last night at the school room. President J. Patte occupied the chair.

The annual report and usual routine business was not proceeded with as it was considered advisable to hold it over until October 16th, when the opening social will be held.

These only matters of business discussed were the improvements and extensions to the work of the society during the coming season. Many suggestions were offered, and one which it is practically assured will take concrete form in the near future is that of the formation of an orchestra among the members of the society. There is an abundant supply of musical talent to create the new organization, which should add much to the pleasure of the meetings throughout the winter. Preparations for the social are now being made and it is the intention of the Executive to make it a record-breaker.

St. Paul's Young Men's Guild

To-night St. Paul's Young Men's Guild will hold a meeting in the Sunday school room of the church, at which a number of addresses will be given by persons who have during the last few months visited the Canadian West. Mr. J. A. Fife, F. W. Kelly and others will speak on the subject which, to a majority of people, is one of absorbing interest at the present time. The meeting will be one of special interest.

Defender of Lodge Work Was Honoured

Dr. Young Made Recipient of Gold Ring Last Night.

Members of Lansdowne Lodge S.O.E., Make a Presentation

Last night an interesting event took place at the regular meeting of Lansdowne Lodge S.O.E., when Dr. T. W. H. Young, the lodge physician, was presented with a gold emblem ring in recognition of his services to the Society in the past, and particularly in recognition of the stand which he took on the question of lodge practice in the Medical Association when the proposal was made to abolish that practice.

At the meeting last night Mr. F. J. R. Mitchell read the following address to Dr. Young, and Mr. J. P. E. Downing presented him with a handsome gold ring with the S.O.E. emblem:—

Dear Sir and Brother,—We, the officers and members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, wish to express our gratitude to you for the kind attention and for the consideration which you have shown to the members, and to the Lodge as a Body during the time you have held the office as Lodge Physician; and particularly during the last few months when if it had not been for the stand taken by you, we as well as other societies of like character would have been deprived of the services of a Lodge Physician, and the great work for which we are banded together would have been greatly hindered and we as members put to much inconvenience.

We ask you, therefore, to accept this ring as a small token of our appreciation of your services, and we one and all hope that you may be long spared to wear it as a remembrance of the services rendered by you to the members of this lodge.

Signed on behalf of the members.

C. F. KITNEY, W. P.
A. KINGSCOTE, W. S.

To T. W. H. Young, M. D.

Peterborough, October 2nd, 1905.

In acknowledging the gift Dr. Young thanked the doners for the honour which they had done him, and expressed his deep appreciation of the kindness of his fellow fraternalists.

Excellent Partridge Shooting.

Following is a report received from Ountain Grove, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, 163 miles east of Toronto, regarding Partridge Shooting in that section: "Prospects for partridge shooting in this section are decidedly favourable, and if sportsmen take the trouble to go back from three to five miles of the station of the C. P. R. they will find the birds still more numerous. Comfortable board can be obtained with the settlers at a very reasonable price. In November twelve miles further back there is good deer shooting, some very fine specimens having been shot last year." Copy of illustrated booklet, "Fishing and Shooting," will be furnished free on application to any agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway. 2d77

Pretty Wedding Last Evening

A quiet, though pretty wedding was solemnized last night at 7 o'clock at the residence of Rev. Dr. Torrance, when Miss Hulda Moore, of Eganville, Ont., became the bride of Mr. Charles Mitchell of the Snowden House.

The bride was charmingly attired in a cream silk dress with picture hat to match, while the bridesmaid, Miss Maggie Sullivan, was similarly gowned. The wedding was of a quiet character, only a few immediate friends of the contracting parties being present.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the party drove to the Snowden House, where a charming dejeuner was served and a pleasant hour spent, during which many friends offered congratulations. (Apleasing feature was the presentation of a purse of gold by a number of personal friends connected with the the Snowden House. Mr. Mitchell made a suitable reply.

The happycouple left on the 9 o'clock G.T.R. train for Port Hope, Toronto, and other points, and will, on their return take up residence here.

The plan for the Irish Guards' Band Concert opens to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Ormond & Walsh's Drug Store. Do not wait until the last moment to arrange for your tickets, but get the best seat by having it reserved for you now.

Special trains are being arranged for from different points, and the rink will be seated for 3,000 people.

The Iris hGuards, it might be mentioned, were organized on the suggestion of Field Marshal Earl Roberts, immediately following the last trip paid to Ireland, by Her Late Majesty, Queen Victoria, the battalion being established in recognition of the splendid services rendered by the Irish regiments in South Africa and elsewhere in defence of the Empire, and out of compliment to the people of Ireland in recognition of the enthusiastic reception that Her Majesty met with. It is the only regiment in the British Empire that is confined to one nationality, the requirements being that every member must be an Irishman or the son of an Irishman.

George Fowler, a young man, who has been engaged as a bell boy, at the Oriental Hotel, was arrested last night by P. C. McGinty, charged with the theft of a gold watch from a guest at the Arlington Hotel, Toronto, during the exhibition.

Fowler, it appears, was working as a bell boy at the Arlington, at the time, and has since removed to Peterborough, though he worked here for some time before going to Toronto.

A Toronto officer came down today and returned with the boy, whose case will be heard in Toronto.

Communications.

The following communications were received:

From R. E. Hall, M.P., as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th inst. I am sure that I appreciate very much indeed the resolution that was passed by the Board in reference to the trouble I had taken in interviewing the Hon. Mr. Hyman in reference to the Separate school buildings. I am sure, so far as I am concerned, to do my duty. I am particularly anxious to have the subject matter of my letter to the chairman, of the school board, disposed of as early a date as possible, so that we could get the plans and specifications out for the erection of the new armouries. We certainly want to have the contract let this fall, if it is possible, but we must first fix definitely on where the site will be."—Received.

Discussions.

Dr. Burnham inquired as to whether it was true, as had been reported, that it was the intention of the officers of the 57th Regiment to tear down the separate school as soon as armoury contract is let.

Considerable discussion took place over the matter, and ended with reference to the proposal that the Board confer with the town council with reference to the site.

Mr. Eastwood inquired as to the account of Wm. Mansell for preparing the plans for the heating of the Central School, introducing a resolution providing for its payment.

A rather warm session onsued, Mr. Jos. Stevenson was strongly opposed to the payment on account of the unsatisfactory nature of the work, and gave vent to certain allegations regarding the plans as submitted, to which exception was taken by Mr. Hartley, Mr. R. Fair expressed the opinion that if the man who had prepared the plans had failed to prepare a plan which had resulted in satisfactory results, that the account should not be paid. He thought that the public would not justify them in paying the full amount when the work was so unsatisfactory.

Mr. V. Eastwood took exception to the statement that the plans were not satisfactory. The heating of the school was highly satisfactory and economical. The Board had also accepted the plans.

Mr. W. H. Hill thought that the matter should be referred to the Property Committee.

The matter was on motion referred to the Property Committee with power to act.

Mr. R. B. Rogers gave notice of motion to have the regular meeting night of the Board altered from the first Monday in each month until the second Tuesday, in order to avoid conflict with the town council.

JAPAN CONSIDERS LOWER RATES

Like the Dominion Japan is Considering Lower Rates.

MAKE IT EASY FOR FOREIGNER

What Ministry Expects From Business Men of the Country—To Increase Export Trade to Cope With Japan's Indebtedness Abroad—Government to Consider Extension of Communication.

Tokio, Oct. 2.—Baron Kiyoura, minister of agriculture and commerce, addressing the Associated Chambers of Commerce to-day, said the government was considering the improvement and extension of the means of communication, and carrying power by land and water, and also lower transportation rates.

He dwelt on the importance of the introduction of foreign capital, and said it was possible the facilities for that purpose would be extended.

Lower Transportation ... ...

M. Sakatani, the assistant Minister of Finance, at the same meeting called attention to the fact that the amount of Japanese loan bonds taken by foreigners already reached $500,000,000 interest, on which will be paid in hard money.

The business men, he added, were expected to exert their best efforts to increase the export trade, maintaining the credit abroad and encourage frugality so as to cope with Japan's increased indebtedness abroad.

Business Activity in Japan.

Tokio, Oct. 2.—A sharp rise in prices took place again yesterday morning in the local stock market, with every indication that business activity will gradually overcome the depression caused by the treaty of peace.

The new alliance with Great Britain has inspired a feeling of perfect confidence in the future tranquility of the situation in commercial circles, and that activity is expected soon in all lines of business.

A New Loan Probable.

London, Oct. 3.—Koretiyo Takahashi, the financial agent of Japan, who shortly returns to America, says there is no definite project for a new Japanese loan, nor have steps been taken for the conversion of the old loans. He anticipated, however, that the financial program to be submitted to the coming session of the Diet will propose a new loan to liquidate the high-priced bonds now outstanding. The last loan is still intact, and will suffice to repatriate the Japanese armies in Manchuria, and defray the expenses of their demobilization. Regarding pensions and compensation to widows and others, they will be paid in Government bonds, which are more likely to remain in possession of the beneficiaries than cash.

AN ARMY OF DELEGATES.

International Tuberculosis Congress Will Hear 300 Papers.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The International Tuberculosis Congress was opened yesterday at the Grand Palace, in the presence of President Loubet, the Cabinet Ministers and the Ambassadors. Over 3,500 delegates were present.

The opening address was delivered by Dr. Herard of the French Academy of Medicine, who was chosen president of the congress. The report of Dr. Letulle, the secretary, said that the 33 nations representing the entire civilized globe had united to consider the most effective means of combatting the worst human malady.

Three hundred papers will be presented to the congress, which will last five days.

THE POWERS AND THE SULTAN.

In Deadlock Over the Financial Affairs of Macedonia.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—The Porte persists in its unyielding attitude in regard to the financial control of Macedonia. Replying to the collective note of September 26 from the six powers (declaring that their decision to assume international control of the finances of Macedonia is unalterable) the Porte reiterates what it regards as insuperable objections.

A deadlock has thus been reached, necessitating fresh measures on the part of the powers.

STOMACHS ON STILTS.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature. He only feels taller. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward.

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It contains no alcohol or whisky. It cures the weak, foul stomach with its attendant bad smelling breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and kindred symptoms.

"In the year 1899 I had an attack of indigestion and got so bad that my home doctor said he could not do me any good," writes Mr. G. Trent, of Gordonville, Texas. "I wrote to you and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, so bought six bottles, and when I commenced using it I was so weak could hardly walk about the house. By the time I had used one bottle my stomach and bowels commenced to heal. There were strips of the lining of my stomach or bowels (I don't know which) as large as a man's two fingers passed and I had a good deal of misery in my stomach and bowels, and also in the rectum especially. I could not eat anything without having much distress afterward, but by the time I had taken eight bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was sound and well, and could eat anything I pleased without suffering in the least. Could also do as much work in a day as I ever could. I have not suffered from the trouble since, and it was four years ago that I was so sick."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

INVESTIGATING EQUITABLE.

The District Attorney Will Make Announcement on Thursday.

New York, Oct. 3.—District Attorney Jerome announced in court yesterday that he would make public next Thursday his decision in regard to the necessity for an extraordinary grand jury to consider Equitable Life Assurance Society matters.

The accountants yesterday began investigation of the books of the New York Life Insurance Co. in behalf of the insurance commissioners of the States of Tennessee, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kentucky and Nebraska.

The examination will take two months and nothing of the details will be made public until it is ended.

Claims Title is Imperfect.

The transfer of the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society from James H. Hyde to Thomas F. Ryan was attacked in an amended plea filed on Saturday with the attorneys of the society by counsel representing Herbert G. Tull of Philadelphia.

Mr. Tull's suit was to determine the ownership of the surplus of the Equitable Society. The amended plea stated that Mr. Hyde could not give a good title of the 502 shares of stock to Mr. Ryan because it was merely held in trust for him until he was 30 years old, which age he has not yet reached.

Thus, it argues, Mr. Ryan was unable to give a good title to the stock to the trustees, Grover Cleveland, Justice Morgan, J. O. O'Brien and George Westinghouse.

INDIA DEFENCE SCARE.

Major Vanderzer Says He Has Been Robbed of Important Plans Between Toronto and Buffalo.

Buffalo, Oct. 2.—Major H. Vanderzer of the Indian diplomatic corps, who arrived here yesterday, has announced that important plans for the defence of India had been stolen from him while he was on his way from Toronto to Buffalo.

It is reported that the plans had been given by Gen. Kitchener to be conveyed by Major Vanderzer to the imperial government.

Verification of the story, which was "carried" exclusively by one of the morning papers, could not be had today. Vanderzer could not be located.

Winnipeg News.

The heavy wheat movement to the lakes continues.

Several fires at threshings are reported from the Portage Plains.

A ninety-pound turtle, alive, has arrived all the way from Baltimore to provide dainty soup at the vice-regal dinner next Tuesday, given by the Manitoba Club members.

For the month of September the Canadian Pacific land department disposed of 112,728 acres of land for $561,407.52, which gives an average price of $4.93 an acre.

Gives Ten Millions to Education.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The $10,000,000 gift of John D. Rockefeller to the general education board, which was announced last June, was paid to the board by Mr. Rockefeller in cash yesterday. Cheques for $10,000,000 were delivered to the executive committee of the board while in session. They were made payable to George Foster Peabody, treasurer of the board. Six of the cheques were for one million, and two for two million each.

Death From Natural Causes.

Ingersoll, Oct. 3.—In spite of the fact that five men have been arrested and charged with the murder of Isaiah Wright, colored, the mystery is still far from being solved.

Coroner J. A. Nett of Ingersoll, who has investigated the case, and has received the report of Drs. McKay and Coleridge, who made the post-mortem, stated to-night that death was not occasioned by natural causes. Further than this, he would not state until brought before the court on Thursday.

Wealthy Lumberman Dies.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 3.—William Murray of this city, one of the leading lumbermen of the province, and one of its wealthiest men, died yesterday at the age of 73. Mr. Murray was born and first did business in York County, but afterwards came here and established the business now operated by Murray and Gregory. Mr. Murray was never married. It is supposed that he has left property of half a million.

To Revise Geneva Convention.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 3.—The Federal Council has accepted the invitation of Russia to participate in the second peace conference at The Hague.

The official note issued on the subject, says the question of the Red Cross is reserved and that Switzerland will seek the earliest opportunity to take up the revision of the Geneva convention.

Royal Bank to Pay Off Cuban Army.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—The Royal Bank of Canada has been again chosen as agent of the Cuban Government to pay the balance to the soldiers of the Army of Liberation. The total amount was $60,000,000, and the Royal paid out $32,000,000 some time ago. The work was so well done that the Canadian bank has again secured the contract.

Is 3,000 Cars Short.

Detroit, Oct. 3.—General Traffic Manager Mitchell of the Michigan Central Railroad System said yesterday that his road is 3,000 cars short of meeting the orders of the shippers in spite of the fact that the road has 50,000 cars of double the capacity of the old ones and 2,000 locomotives to its equipment inside of the past three years.

GUARDS ORDERED TO BREAK STRIKE

To Help Break Strike of Berlin's Electrical Workers.

GUARDS ARE ORDERED HOME

How Germany's Army System is Expected to Aid in Domestic Situation—Torpedo Battalion Engineers Will Be Put at Strikers' Duties—Stoppage of Service on Half the Car Lines.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—The negotiations between the electrical companies and their employes for higher wages were broken off to-day and a general strike in the works manufacturing electrical apparatus and supplies has been ordered for to-morrow. Part of the employes of the power and lighting works went out on a sympathetic strike to-day without awaiting the result of the conference of the labor leaders with the employers. Consequently one-third of the street cars were stopped.

The municipal government, acting on the principle that unlighted streets are a danger to the public, has ordered fifty engineers from the fire companies to the various power houses.

As the army contains many thousand of trained workers in every trade, the company has applied to the minister of war for temporary details of engineers and stokers. These have been refused on the ground that it is unnecessary at present, but arrangements have been made to bring 150 engineers from the torpedo battalions at Kiel.

The war ministry has also declined to issue an order announcing to discharged soldiers, about 200,000 of whom have served out their terms, that engineers and stokers could find employment with the electrical companies, but the army administration will offer no objection to battalion commanders giving out such notices.

Two guard regiments now manoeuvring in the country have been ordered to return immediately to Berlin as a precautionary measure against strike excesses. They will arrive here to-night. Half the street car service is now stopped.

RECIPROCITY WITH AUSTRALIA.

Victorian Chamber of Commerce On Canada's Proposal.

London, Oct. 3.—(C. A. P.)—The Victorian Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution requesting Mr. Deakin, the Federal Premier, to take immediately into his serious consideration the communication recently received from the Canadian Government, asking whether the Commonwealth is prepared to establish a preferential trade arrangement with Canada.

Australia is Silent.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—The announcement that Canada had invited an expression of opinion from Australia as to reciprocity trade arrangements, is confirmed here, but no answer has been received to the invitation which was sent some time ago.

MUTINY ADVISED.

Radical Coalitionist Makes Appeal to the Hungarian Army.

Buda-Pest, Oct. 2.—Deputy Zoltan Lengyal, leader of the Radical wing of the coalition party, in an open letter published to-day, calls on all the Hungarians in the army to lend their aid in supporting the nation's desires.

All Hungarian-born officers of the reserve and all non-commissioned officers, he contends, ought to resign, while the Hungarian soldiers henceforth should refuse to obey orders issued in the German language. The deputy also proposes a social boycott of German and Austrian officers by the Magyar population.

The punishment of the mutinous troops, he points out, is impossible, as there would not be men enough left in the army to deal with the Hungarian protesters.

The independence party is beginning to be convinced that Emperor William has had a hand in the opposition to their demands.

BOTH PRETTY LOW.

Armenian and Daughter at Death's Door in Brantford Hospital.

Brantford, Oct. 2.—(Special.)—At 2 o'clock this morning both victims of Saturday's shooting affray were still alive. To The World the matron of the John H. Stratford Hospital said it was only a matter of time for either, as they were both pretty low. The girl is in better condition than her father.

A statement was taken from both patients by the county crown attorney of Brant Monday evening.

At the police court Monday morning the Armenian, who was charged with inciting the father to shoot his daughter, pleaded "not guilty" and was remanded.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—The Treasury Department has received a cheque for $12,000, being the amount of the succession dues upon the estate of the late Mary Thistle of Ottawa.

Roosevelt and Quarantine.

PANDORA GRATES

The Pandora Range has more labor-saving features than any other range. Its labor-saving features are practical, real, muscle-saving devices.

The grates are triple, that is, there are three instead of two as is usual in common ranges. The grates are geared into each other at the shaker. Because there are three instead of two wheels gearing into each other, the leverage is twice as great and the effort of turning them is just one-half, so that is why the labor of shaking down a Pandora Range is just one-half of that in common ranges.

Then, when a grate burns out you can remove it in half a minute with a ten cent piece for a screw-driver.

In common ranges it takes an expert mechanic and a big plumber's bill to renew the grates, because the common range must be practically taken apart to get the old grate out. That is one big reason why the Pandora is the best range ever used in a kitchen, and it has dozens of other good parts. It actually does

"make kitchen work easy."

JAMES MURTY, Sole Agent, Peterborough

WHEN buying a range the oven construction should be your first consideration. Its baking and roasting qualities are of the utmost importance to you. A poor oven means ruined food, waste of coal, late meals and many heartaches. The Imperial Oxford Range is the result of years of experience and scientific study. It has taken years to evolve it, and years of use have proven it without a peer. There are a number of exclusive features in the construction of the that give it advantages found in no other. Of these exclusive features the most important is the heat-diffusing oven flue. This flue draws the cold air in from outside the range, superheats it and distributes it through perforations in the top of the oven. This insures fresh, heated air evenly distributed throughout the oven, the moist vapors of the oven being drawn off by openings provided for the purpose.

The Imperial Oxford Range, by this construction, gives a dry, even heat, which roasts or bakes an article thoroughly and evenly, the heat in all parts of the oven is equal, the fire side being no hotter than the other side.

If your dealer doesn't handle the Imperial Oxford Range, write to us and we will send you our catalogue and tell you where you can see the range.

MAKE NERVOUS, WEAK, DISEASED MEN.

THE RESULT of ignorance and folly in youth, overexertion of mind and body induced by lust a nd exposure are constantly wrecking the lives and future happiness of thousands of promising young men. Some fade and wither at an early age, at the blossom of manhood, while others are forced to drag out a weary, fruitless and melancholy existence. Others reach matrimony but find no solace or comfort there. The victims are found in all stations of life—the farm, the office, the workshop, the pulpit, the trades and the professions. Nervous Debility and Sexual Weakness are guaranteed cured by our New Method Treatment or No Pay. You run no risk 25 years in Detroit. Bank security.

CURED WHEN ALL ELSE FAILED. No names used without written consent.

"I am 33 years old now and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's Disease. Married life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. They treated me six years ago. They are honest, skilful and responsible financially, so why patronize Quacks and Fakirs when you can be cured by reliable doctors."—W. A. Belton.

ROY CAVANAGH WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED AT KEENE FAIR YESTERDAY

Son of Mr. T. Cavanagh, of This City, Thrown From His Horse Yesterday—An Accident in the Running Race--Feared That His Injuries May be of a Serious Nature--How It Occurred--Spectator Ran Across the Track--Injured Youth is Now at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Yesterday at the Keene Fair, an accidents which may yet have fatal results, and which, in any event, will be very serious, occurred.

The unfortunate victim is Mr. Roy Cavanagh, son of Mr. T. Cavanagh, the proprietor of the Phelan House, of this city. Mr. Cavanagh was riding Mr. Kennedy's horse, Crazy Jane, in the running race, and it was just at the conclusion of the first heat that the accident happened. Crazy Jane was finishing hard, and was just under the wire, when a young man named Plunkett ran across the track, thinking, evidently, that the horses had all passed, and not noticing Crazy Jane, ran right in front of her path.

The rider was unable to stop the horse or to change his course, and the result was that the two men and the horse were soon rolling in a heap on the track. Young Cavanagh alighted on his head, and was most seriously injured. In addition to the shock which he received as he fell, the horse kicked him behind the ear and also struck him in the chest with his knees. Plunkett, however, was uninjured, and the horse also was unhurt.

The rider was rendered unconscious by the fall and was carried to Dr. Shaw's surgery, where his injuries were attended to. It was found that he had sustained no internal injuries, but it was feared that the base of the skull had been fractured.

Dr. Shaw, Dr. Hayden, of Roseneath, and Dr. Harold Kindred were with the unfortunate youth for some hours, and the services of three nurses were brought into requisition and everything possible was done for him. During the time intervening between the accident and his removal to Peterborough in the ambulance, the young man only regained consciousness once for a few moments. His only remark was that he felt very sick. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and inquiries at that institution this morning elicited the information that he was still unconscious. During the night he was conscious for a short time, but soon lapsed again into an unconscious state.

Everything possible is being done for him, but it is feared that the injury he sustained was so serious that he may not recover. However, he is young and strong, and may live, and his many friends earnestly hope that he will recover.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson Goes Over The Trenton Route

During the past week Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, has been on a tour of inspection of the Trent Canal system, and on his return from the west yesterday morning, visited Trenton, the western outlet of the system. The Minister arrived on the Government steamer Alert, and was accompanied by Messrs. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals; Collingwood Schreiber, consulting engineer for the Canadian Transcontinental Railway Construction Commission; J. L. Payne, secretary to Mr. Emmerson, and F. McCord, secretary to Mr. Butler. The Minister saw at a glance that Trenton appreciated the honour of his visit, for he was met at the wharf by Mayor Jaques and the members of the Corporation, the Board of Trade and hundreds of citizens. Steamers and tugs in the harbour sounded a welcome also. After the party had disembarked, introductions all around followed. The Minister and Deputy Minister and Mr. Schreiber then drove up the Trent River towards Frankford, a considerable distance, accompanied by Mayor Jaques and Messrs. R. Weddell, J. H. Campbell, J. H. Dickey, S. J. Young, T. Bigelow, A. E. Bywaterand others. The party drove up on the west side and came back by the east side, and had the satisfaction of seeing a magnificent river, with great water power, and lined with busy industries representing untold capital. The Minister was much impressed by all he saw, and put many questions to the gentlemen accompanying him. The immense power possibilities of the river struck him forcibly, and he seemed desirous of learning all about that matter, as well as getting information about the industries all along the route to Rice Lake. Every information was vouchsafed him. When Mr. Emmerson returned he was urged by the Mayor and others to remain and partake of the hospitality of the town, but he was obliged to decline on account of his anxiety to reach Ottawa as soon as possible. The citizens regretted this decision very much, as they were most anxious to do honour to a Minister who seemed so ready and willing to meet the people and study the work of his important department. Before going on board the Alert the Minister expressed himself as delighted with all that he had seen of the harbour, the River Trent and the town, and trusted to have the pleasure of again soon visiting Trenton. The party then embarked on the Alert, and steamed out of the harbour, accompanied a considerable distance by Mr. R. Weddell's steamer Amelia, carrying a number of citizens.

Fifty Shantymen Create Disturbance at Station

About fifty shantymen arrived this morning at the G.T.R. station, upon the Belleville train, and in the mental exhilaration incident to the transition from the sleepy hamlet to the south, they proceeded to announce their arrival in no uncertain manner. Just what distillery they had been favouring with their patronage is as yet unknown, but if the gigantic capabilities in an indiscriminate mass can be imagined an idea of the scene which ensued at the station, may be gathered.

How the affair originated is unknown but it is supposed to have been the outcome of an encounter between and Englishman and a son of the Emerald Isle, and it was only a few minutes until the melee became general. The "mix-up" took place during the interim between the arrival of the Belleville and the departure of the Lindsay trains, the latter being somewhat late, and causing the scheduled fifteen minutes' interval to be extended to twenty-five. The men were destined for the Playfere Lumber Company's shanties at Midland, and there were evidently few in the crowd who had not formed an affectionate acquaintance with the house "when it was red."

Chief Round, who was "on the job," took a hand in the game, but so far as any perceptible effect of his presence in the struggling mass was concerned, he might as well have tried tossing pennies. The affray spread quickly and the bag-shakers were soon occupying all available space, some even clambering over the top of the cars, and the effect of the scene was indescribably ludicrous. The struggling men struck out right and left, some blows being aimed at the Chief, but the effect of the whole was in one sense beneficial, as the men were imposed the stage where they could seriously injure each other. The curtain was lowered upon the scene of carnage by the arrival of the train upon which they took their departure.

OTONABEE'S ANNUAL FAIR AT KEENE VILLAGE SURPASSES PREDECESSORS

Yesterday the Most Successful Exhibition in History of the Society Was Held--Attendance Was Large and Exhibits More Numerous--Some Good Races--Live Stock a Particularly Noticeable Feature--The Inside Exhibits Were Good--Keene Public School Was Well Represented.

Yesterday the Keene Fair was favoured with good weather, a quality which last year was conspicuous by its absence, but, as if ashamed for his bad behaviour for a year ago, the weather man was particularly good this year, and as a result the fair of 1905 will be recorded as one of the most successful and most largely attended of any in the history of the Otonabee Agricultural Society, under which auspices it was held.

Not only was the attendance much better, but the list of entries was larger, and it is probable that had Monday been a fine day there would have been even a greater number of entries than there were. Those who visited the fair yesterday, and there were a great many from this city, have no hesitation in declaring that it was in many respects the best they had ever seen. This is a tribute to the efficiency with which the directors of the society have performed their duties, and, with a continuance of this able management, and the assistance of the favourable weather conditions of yesterday, there is no reason why the fair should not continue each year to be more successful than that preceding it.

The officers of the society are greatly encouraged as a result of the fair of yesterday, and feel that while there may be a danger of some fairs falling into decay, there is no immediate prospect of the Keene fair meeting that undesired fate. There is a general interest being taken in the annual exhibition on the part of the farmers of the township, and this alone is sufficient to insure its continued success.

The live stock was a special feature of this year's fair, and the display of horses particularly was very large, and the quality of the animals shown was above the average, an indication that the farmers of the township are paying greater attention to the breeding of a higher quality of stock than has been the case in the past, and the effect is very noticeable. In the livestock section the display of horses predominated, and some really splendid animals were shown, the competition in the majority of classes being very keen. The exhibits of cattle, though they were not large, were quite satisfactory, and some good specimens of bovine flesh were shown. This feature of the fair was fully up to, if not superior to, former years.

In inside exhibits there was also a noticeable improvement, the building being well filled with a large variety of exhibits which were most interesting, not the least of which were the exhibits submitted by the Keene public school, including a collection of mounted plants, thirty-five varieties being shown, and one entomological exhibit, both of which were prepared by the pupils of the school, under the direction of Mr. P. Pilkey, the principal. These exhibits created widespread interest, and many complimentary references were made to them. The ladies' section, too, was also a most interesting feature, and some fine specimens of art were to be seen.

The receipts this year, from the fair alone, will be in the neighbourhood of $375, and in addition to this there will be the Government grant, and this will place the society in a good financial position. The direct receipts from the gate will this year be considerably above those of former years, and as a result of this satisfactory state of affairs the directors are feeling in a particularly happy mood, a position which, in view of the splendid success of their efforts, they are quite justified in taking.

As usual there were a large number of Peterborough people on the grounds, and in addition, there were many there who were then paying their first visit to the beautiful village of Keene, and, judging from the many expressions of pleasure which were heard, this will not be their last. The steamer Rainbow, loaded to the gunwale with passengers from the lake district, arrived at the wharf in the morning.

One of the most interested spectators of the proceedings of yesterday was Mr. R. Hope, of Villiers, who, at ninety-four years of age, is the oldest man in the township, and who for many years has been a regular visitor to the Keene fair. His opinion of this year's exhibition is that it is good, and coming from a gentleman of his years of experience, it should be accepted as truth, particularly when one's observations lead one to the same preponderance.

Since last year the grounds have improved very materially. Just prior to last year's exhibition the directors purchased considerably more land, and a new track was laid out, as well as a space inside the ring for spectators. At the fair in 1904 this space had not yet been added, and as a consequence the

Buggy Was Hit By The C.P.R. Local

A Narrow Escape of a Manvers Farmer on Saturday.

Caught on a Dangerous Crossing and Landed in Fence Corner.

Mr. Barney LePage, of Lotus, Manvrs, is congratulating himself upon his narrow escape from being an inmate of a hospital. He was returning to his home about 7.00 p. m., last Saturday, after spending the day in Lindsay, and was accompanied by Mr. Patrick Welch as far as the latter's place near the crossing. Mr. Welch had no sooner got inside than he heard a crash.

It seems that Hick's crossing is a dangerous one, and that occupants of rigs going south cannot see the train approaching. Mr. LePage was fairly upon the crossing when the C.P.R. local from Toronto to Peterborough, came bowling along and struck the east side of the buggy, tearing it off. The rig was filled with a number of parcels and somewhat crowded, and had the top up, and how Mr. LePage escaped being seriously hurt is a wonder. He was thrown out upon the road-side and landed against a wire fence nothing the worse of his accident, barring a badly bruised pair of shins. The horse, which also escaped injury, ran for about a mile before being stopped.

LePage and Welch say they never heard the whistle blow for the crossing, but Conductor Hartley, who stopped the train as speedily as possible, says the customary signal was given, but the buggy top being raised and the men engaged in conversation, it was quite possible for them to miss hearing it.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Takes a Trip In Old Days

Our town clerk has taken a holiday, and although a young man of 70 years, he skipped off like a young colt, and enjoyed himself immensely. Last week, with Mr. R. A. Jones of Cobourg, he went to St. Catharines, Port Dalhousie, Niagara Falls, etc. He visited many fruit farms, and was most hospitably entertained by the owners as well as the citizens of the above places. He visited the Niagara Falls power houses and got much information that will be of benefit when Mr. Culverwell introduces the Healy Falls power. He returned on Monday evening feeling greatly improved in his health and having a profitable and pleasant trip.—Cobourg Sentinel Star.

License Will Be Transferred

Mr. John Clancy, proprietor of the Peterborough House, Hunter street, for nearly a quarter of a century, will, it is understood, retire from the hotel business, and take up his residence on his farm in North Monaghan. The hotel will be taken over by Mr. Jas. Heard, who is at present connected with the Crown Inn and who will assume control in a few days. The License Commissioners, it is understood, will meet shortly, to transfer the license. The hotel under its changed ownership should prosper—it will have a good head anyway.

St. Paul's Guild Form Mock Parliament

Interesting Meeting Was Held Last Night.

Returned Tourists Describe Interestingly Their Western Experience.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church last night, the chair being occupied by the new president, Mr. R. F. Williams.

The report of the special committee on providing a programme for the season's meetings was presented by Mr. D. Downey. It recommended that a mock parliament be established with Mr. R. F. McWilliams as leader of the government, and Mr. Van Blaricom leader of the opposition. The report of the committee was adopted. Mr. McWilliams will proceed with the selection of the members of his cabinet, the personnel of which, together with his policy, will be announced a week or two before the first meeting, which will be held on November 7.

The executive and the officers of the mock parliament will be as follows: Lieut.-Gov., E. F. Torrance, D. D.; Speaker, W. M. Mackay; Clerk of the House, Reginald P. Thompson; Assistant Clerk, W. Graham Ferguson.

An interesting programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered. Mr. Thomas Dawson rendered two vocal selections which were very much enjoyed.

Mr. Fred. Kelly, of East City, delivered a most instructive address on the subject of the Canadian West. Mr. Kelly gave some very interesting facts which he gleaned from his recent trip to the new provinces.

Mr. J. A. Fife also spoke on the Canadian West, giving an account of two trips made by him into different sections of the country, including Arcola, Portage La Prairie and the district east of Edmonton. The speaker gave a most interesting explanation of the system of surveys and the methods of naming lots, townships and ranges in the N.W.T., illustrating his remarks by diagrams.

A Good Price For Cheese Was Reached To-day

Prices Fluctuated to 11 5-8c.—Salesmen Reluctant to Sell at Lower Price.

This morning's meeting of the Cheese Board saw a slow sale, of the 4,291 boxes which were offered, and at the close of the sale five factories still remained unsold. The top price received was 11 3-4c, and the low, 11 5-8c, though the salesmen parted with their cheese at that price with great reluctance. Some of the factories had to be called six times before the salesmen could make up their minds to sell at 11 5-8.

The buyers present were:—Messrs. Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Whitton, Gillespie, Rollins, Wrighton, Morton.

The number of cheese boarded was as follows:—

Mr. Collins opened the bidding at 11c, which Mr. Whitton raised to 11 1-16 cents; Mr. Wrighton offered 11 1-8c and Mr. Rollins 11 1-4c. Mr. Cook raised to 11 5-16c, and Mr. Gillespie to 11 3-8c. Mr. Wrighton offered 11 7-8c, and Mr. Fitzgerald 11 1-2c.

Other bids were Wrighton 11 9-16, Fitzgerald 11 5-8c, Wrighton 11 11-16, and Fitzgerald 11 3-4c, the top figure.

Mr. Fitzgerald at 11 3-4c called Buckhorn, Myrtle, Westwood, all accepting. At the same price Mr. Wrighton called Bemfort, Central Smith, Long, Indian River, which sold and at 11 11-16c bought Mount Pleasant.

Mr. Whitton also at 11 3-4c called Ormonde, Villiers, Norwood, Dartford, Shamrock, all accepting. Mr. Whitton offered 11 11-16c for further selections, and at that figure called Keene, Warminster, Oakdale, Fleetwood, none of the salesmen accepting, however, the offered 11 5-8c for further selections though, and called North Smith, Warsaw, Daisy D, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Fraserville, East Emily, Trewern, Crown, Hope, Brickley, all refusing excepting Daisy D.

The same buyer raised 1-16c and at 11 11-16c bought Crown, Hope, Fleetwood, Keene, Shearer, Oakdale and Fraserville, and offered 11 5-8c for the balance of the board, or selections. He called Warminster, Warsaw and Maple Leaf, neither accepting.

At the same price Mr. Fitzgerald tried to buy some cheese, and called North Smith, East Emily, Cedardale, Lakefield, Warsaw, Warminster, Trewern, Maple Leaf, Peterborough, Otonabee Union, Young's Point, Pine Grove, all refusing except first three factories, and Peterborough and Otonabee Union.

Mr. Whitton again tried at 11 5-8 to buy, and called Warminster, Warsaw, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Trewern, but the salesmen could not see it and refused.

Mr. Cook took a trial at the same price, and called Missing Link, Trewern, Maple Leaf, Warminster and Warsaw, but only the first two salesmen accepted.

Mr. Kerr at the same price called Ballyduff, Warminster, Warsaw, but only Ballyduff accepted.

Mr. Whitton again took a hand in and called Warsaw, Warminster, Brickley, Pine Grove, Lakefield, Maple Leaf, all accepting.

This closed the meeting, leaving Young's Point, North Dummer, Stony Lake, South Burleigh and Brickley unsold.

MOTHERHOOD

How To Gain The Happiness Of Children

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and most holy desires. Yet thousands of noble women, through the derangement of the female generative organs brought on by female weakness and disease, are unable to produce children!

Ninety-nine times out of every one hundred Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will so restore and strengthen the female organism as to make child bearing possible, easy, and safe.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

with its record of thousands of cures, is the remedy for women. Thousands of women are happy mothers of beautiful children to-day because in time of need they took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No matter what your female weakness or disease, it will afford you speedy relief and cure. Every woman who desires to become a mother should read these letters:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I had been married seven years and had no children, owing to a female weakness and womb trouble, which caused me severe suffering each month. A lady advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did so, and now I have no more pains and am perfectly well, besides having a fine baby boy. Mrs. Rosa F. Karel, Ravenna, Neb.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Before my baby was born I was in very poor health, and life did not seem worth living. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to get better; in fact, I feel that this medicine really saved my life and the life of my child, for it not only helped me during child-birth, but made me well and strong after the child came. I wish every expectant mother would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. M. Kreger, Hebron, Yarmouth, N. S.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all would-be and expectant mothers. Her letter will give you valuable information.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures Where Others Fail

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last if FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 15 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

FERROZONE, THE ONE SURE CURE.

Otonabee's Annual Fair

grounds did not present nearly as good an appearance as they did this year, when the whole grounds were nicely grassed.

As usual, the races at the fair were an important and most enjoyable feature, and but for the fact that a serious accident occurred in one of the races yesterday, this feature of the day would have been most successful. Some good races were run, however, and they afforded considerable sport.

Mr. Martin Connor's horse, Blucher, was an easy winner in the free for-all, and a green trotting race and a running event furnished some good heats. The judges for the races were Mr. H. Winch, of this city, and Mr. Jas. Battle, of Springville. The summary of the different events follow:

Free-for-all—

Blucher	1	1
Little Will	2	2
Little Rob	3	3

The last heat in this race especially furnished some good amusement, and was a splendid race for first place, Little Will giving Blucher a good run for the money.

Green Race—

Little Girl	1	1
Duke	2	2
Little City	3	3
Black Dick	4	4

Running, two-thirds of a mile—

Bonny Pat	1	1
Fly	2	2
Crazy Jane	3	x
Rotterdam	4	3

In the first heat of this race the accident reported more fully in another column occurred, and as a result, Crazy Jane, upon which the injured boy, Roy Cavanagh, was mounted, was withdrawn from the race.

Another interesting feature of the fair this year was a football game between Highgate and Keene teams, resulting in a victory for the latter by a score of 3-0. Great interest was taken in this contest, which, in spite of the apparent ease of the victory, was warmly contested, and afforded considerable amusement for the crowds of spectators.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

Mather's Horse Made Buggies.

An exhibition which merited, and received, great attention, was that made by Mr. W. T. Mather, carriage manufacturer, of Mathers' Corners. As a demonstration of our own bounty home made buggies and wagons, it was by far the best that has ever been shown at the Otonabee Fair. Mr. Mather showed two well designed buggies, built with the swell Stanhope seat and piano body; also one smart looking runabout, with movable seat, in upholstered leather; also a splendidly-finished farm wagon. The buggies and runabout were fitted with cushion tires, and well-designed covered tops. One of the buggies and runabout were left partly unfinished to show the quality of wood used; the spokes, wheels and gearing also being left in the raw state, before painting, and showing the high quality of material used by Mr. Mather. A ladies' ornamental spring curtain was one of the latest and cutest wrinkles introduced for affording protection to the face from the rays of the sun. The workmanship was a highly creditable showing of the general everyday rigs turned out of Mr. Mather's shop.

McFarlane and Howson's Display.

The popular agricultural implement agents and carriage dealers, Messrs. McFarlane & Howson, showed two attractive, comfortably-built cutters, manufactured by the Palmerston Carriage Company, for whom they are the local agents. These cutters were closely inspected and much admired by the visitors.

McFarlane & Howson also showed the "Ueeda" Cream Separator, for which they are the local agents. This separator, which enjoys so large a sale among the farmers and dairymen of Canada, has the honour of being made in Canada, by Canadian workmen. It is easy to operate, has the low-down milk supply can, and possesses valuable improvements which no other separator can boast of. Some of the best known farmers in the district, who are using the "Ueeda" are: Benj. Kindred, near Keene; John Dickson, Zion; J. Coward, near Hiawatha; and Mr. Richard Hope, Allendale. McFarlane & Howson are agents for the McCormack Harvesting Company, and do a square, straightforward business.

Grafton and Company Limited Clothing Manufacturers.

As usual, Grafton's High-Grade Clothing occupied a conspicuous section in the entrance to the building. A very effective exhibit was tastefully arranged, showing graduated tiers of their fine tailored clothing, sample suits, in single and double-breasted styles, made from genuine Scotch tweed of nobby patterns, with all the style one might expect to see in the merchant tailored garments. A handsome gravenette raincoat in olive shade, and several light weight tweed overcoats for fall wear were particularly noticed. The new overplaid Scotch tweed effects were quite swell and the general lines accorded for them special attention from careful dressers. There were also shown two smart little patterns of Russian blouse, one in cardinal and the other in black.

Mr. Herb. Conway, of the Peterborough branch store, was in charge of the exhibit, and very creditably arranged the exhibit. He was assisted by Mr. Robert Howland, the firm's hustling handy-man and by the well known Peterborough decorator, Mr. A. W. Kingscote. The exhibition grounds was ablaze with the attractive bulletin boards of the Company.

George Gall's Interesting Exhibit.

Mr. George Gall, one of the most enterprising merchants of the village, made a very effective display in the centre of the building, where everybody was sure to see it. He showed samples of specimens made by the International Stock Food Co., Minneapolis and Toronto — a medicated stock food for horses, cattle, sheep and poultry, which is fast growing into the confidence of dairymen and farmers. "Three feeds for one cent," explains how remarkably cheap this food is offered at. Their Heave Cure, Colic Cure, Healing Oil, and other medical preparations fulfill all that is claimed for them.

An improved washing machine, for which Mr. Gall is agent, and for which he has filled many orders, was also shown, and well handled and explained.

The Ever Popular Singer.

"Nothing succeeds like success," is particularly true in the case of the ever-popular Singer Sewing Machine. It holds its own steadily against all competition and sales keep growing every year. The woman who has a "Singer" in her home is well equipped for her household sewing, and once used no other sewing machine can take its place.

Mr. W. W. Swart, the district agent for Peterborough, was present at the fair, and assisted Mr. Gall, the local agent, in demonstrating the intrinsic merits of the Singer. Mr. Swart is an all-round sewing machine man, having sixteen years successful experience as salesman in the Welland Counties for the Singer Company. He assumed charge of the Peterborough shop, 347 1-2 George street and the district agency a little over three months ago. In that short time he has put up a record of sales highly satisfactory to himself as well as to the Company. The intelligent manner which he explained the merits of the "Singer" to the crowds of ladies at this fair, who flocked round the three machines shown, was proof of his commanding ability as a practical salesman. A five and a seven-drawer cabinet machine and an extension leaf with cover, were displayed and were much admired.

Lang and Maher—The Daylight Clothiers.

This aggressive young firm of Peterborough clothiers are prolific advertisers. They never lose any chance of making themselves known to the farmers of the county. It may safely be said that they were never better advertised than they were at this fair. The representatives of the firm arrived in the village on Monday evening, and started at once "billing the town." After a house-to-house delivery of their printed circulars announcing a remarkable purchase of "Good Clothes" to be made the occasion of a great cheap sale at their store on George street, they commenced placarding the fair buildings, fences, etc., with their attractively printed enamel signs. They created sixty of these, covering every conspicuous corner where the crowd congregated. The variety and attractiveness of these brilliant signs eclipsed all previous attempts at fair advertising, and caused unusual comment. Mr. Jas. Lang, the senior partner of the firm of Lang & Maher, was on the ground and personally attended to the details. He was assisted by Mr. Wesley, one of the firm's salesmen. Hundreds of aluminum combs were also given away to the visitors, on which the firm's name and address were stamped.

In Class D, Messrs. Lang & Maher offered a valuable special for the best pair of horses in carriage, under 15 1-2 hands, as follows: 1st prize, pair of trousers, value $5. It was won by William Kemp, of Keene.

The enterprising way this live firm is bidding for a share of the clothing trade of Peterborough should be productive of speedy results. The recent sensational purchase by the firm of a manufacturer's stock of high-class clothing at a "wind-up" price will afford a splendid chance to the farmers of this section as well as to the whole of the East and West Peterborough, to secure phenomenal chances in Fall and Winter Clothing seldom presented to them by a reliable firm.

PORT HOPE'S POINTERS FOR PETERBOROUGH.

A gentleman who has long taken an interest in advancing the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, says that, after having read carefully all the speeches at the Board of Trade banquet, tendered to Hon. Mr. Emmerson, he found no reference to a most important element in the advantages that would accrue to Peterborough from its completion, and that was the large increase of water power for electrical development. Whatever force there may be in this in relation to the effects that would be produced, there is no doubt that if Peterborough continues to grow in industrial importance to the extent that is hoped, and is probable, we shall need to make a draft upon outside sources of power supply, and, in this view, the omission referred to was a very important one. However, it was not surprising, because the banquet was hastily arranged and, possibly, the social element to some extent took precedence of the business aspect of the affair. Neither of these causes, however, should have prevented a reference to every topic bearing upon the importance of the canal. If the Peterborough people kept themselves as well primed as the Port Hope people, who stand ready, with spotted guns, and the decks cleared for action, they would be always ready to talk canal intelligently.

The spirit that characterised the action of the Port Hope people in their reception and exploitation, so to speak, of the Minister, was a striking object lesson to the Board of Trade, and the leading citizens of this city. They are fighting for the terminus at Port Hope; they believe in their cause, and show their faith by their works. We don't find them coming to the speech-making stage of a luncheon unprepared, or loaded only with glittering generalities. They have their brief ready and their argument prepared. They are as thoroughly saturated with canal, as if the terminus were already at Port Hope, and the canal overflowed the town fathoms deep. They are ready to talk Port Hope terminus all day at the drop of the flag. They have their arguments at their tongue's end, and are ready to unload their arsenal of arguments at a moment's notice — in the shop, in the street, in the highways, in the byways, or at the banquet board. They are in earnest about the Port Hope terminus. Of course it is easy for them to talk up the Port Hope end, if they have their arguments by heart — always ready — and talk is cheap. But they go further. They are willing to do work, and spend money, and be alive. On the occasion of the Minister's visit they certainly made hay while the sun of the ministerial presence shone — they not only loaded the Minister to the oesophagus with their view of the matter, but they did more; they spent money to load up the country similarly. They arranged that the report of the Minister's visit, and the arguments in favour of Port Hope as the terminus of the canal, should be read all over Canada. They arranged for the presence of a representative of every daily Toronto newspaper, except the Telegram. They had the Peterborough and the Lindsay papers present.

There is nothing so contagious as enthusiasm, and the Port Hopers are enthusiastic, to the verge of infatuation, but then their enthusiasm is infectious and will have its effect. If the Peterborough Board of Trade, and the prominent citizens of Peterborough, had one-tenth of the enthusiasm over the completion of the canal, the Minister of Railways and Canals would have many a sleepless night, and, like the unjust judge of Scripture, with the importunate widow, he would complete the canal to get rid of them. Peterborough may jeer at Port Hope as Sleepy Hollow, but the leading citizens of Port Hope, and the Canal Association, can give their Peterborough neighbours pointers in the way of booming a project for benefitting their town. On the canal and canal terminus question, the Peterborough people can't afford to assume any patronizing airs towards the Port Hopers.

FOOLHARDINESS.

When will people who use guns, show some common sense? Never, perhaps, so long as mothers suckle fools in relation to the careless use of firearms. It is astonishing that, after the repeated lessons, written in blood, which the average man sees before him, from his cradle to his moustache, there will still be found men, possessed of normal sense, in other respects, who become fools in the use of guns. We had a few days ago, a man shot dead at a charivari, near Berlin, through fooling with firearms. We have fresh in our minds the South Monaghan incident of Monday night, in which two young men narrowly escaped death by the criminally careless discharge of a gun, which the holder thought—how much thought was given the matter?—was charged with blank cartridges. No man is justified, under any circumstances, in pointing a firearm at anybody, whether it is loaded or not. It is a very dangerous sort of foolishness, and liable to yield a tragedy in many cases. The safest way is to use common sense, and if young men must discharge firearms at a charivari, let them shoot into the ground at their feet, where no harm can be done.

One cannot wonder at persons thus risking the lives of others when they are so reckless of their own lives. A veteran railway conductor was recently heard to say that in an experience of forty years, he has seen thousands of persons, as if they were on a life and death errand, make rush-and-go crossings in front of rapidly moving trains, and, when, by fools' luck, they got safely across, stand at their leisure, and watch the train go by, after having idiotically, and without excuse, risked their lives. The man who acts thus, the man who points a firearm at another, the fool who rocks the boat, are all of one family of fools, and as dangerous in a community as a madman with a homicidal mania, at large, and more so, because the latter is known, and watched, and can be taken in charge. But one never knows when the others may break out into some fatal act of foolishness. It appears useless to call attention to these matters, for it seems that no warning, however loud, will have any effect, but such a warning may possibly save one life; for many of these actions referred to, arise from want of thought in cases where the perpetrators are, by chance, endowed with brains.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The verdict of history, and of all dispassionate and disinterested critics, will be, says the Prince Albert Advocate, that the Lieutenant-Governor could not constitutionally have taken any other course than he did in looking elsewhere for some one of ability and experience, appearing to possess the confidence and support of a majority of the electors and willing to undertake, without prejudice, the administration of the fundamental law of the Province. In Walter Scott he found a person possessed of these three requisites and he was therefore justified in calling upon him to assume the task of forming a Government.

There does not seem to be much room for complaint as to the quality of the immigration which is adding to the population of Canada. In the fiscal year, 1904-5 out of 146,266 immigrants coming into Canada, 66,376 were from the British Isles, and 43,652 from the United States. That is, out of a total of 146,266, 119,028 were of Anglo-Saxon origin, or brought up under Anglo-Saxon influence and the civilising conditions that implies. The power of assimilation of the present population of Canada should relieve us of the fear that a third of our total immigration, representing foreign elements, should imperil our free institutions and corrupt our social conditions. This fear will be the more groundless when it is mentioned that of the third of our total immigration containing the foreign element, were such unexceptionable classes as French, Swedish, Norwegian, Dutch, etc., to the number of 61,-142—[illegible] which will make as good citizens as the Anglo-Saxon element.

The British importers, says the Canadian Dairyman, are ever ready to find fault with our Canadian cheese and butter and to offer suggestions as to how improvements can be made, but it is time for them to make improvements at their end of the line. Every dock in the Great Britain, at which our cheese or butter is received, should be equipped with warehouses, in which this perishable product can be kept at proper temperatures. In Canada we have spent large sums improving factory curing rooms, securing refrigerator cars and in bettering the steamship service from Montreal. The only result, in many cases, has been that our cheese and butter has been landed on the docks in Great Britain where it has remained, sometimes for days, without proper protection from the heat. The loss to Canadians on this score has amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars. If the chain is to be made complete the sooner an improvement is made in this respect the better.

The Promise Of New Ontario

The construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through Northern Ontario will open up to settlement a vast country having a farming area almost as great as that of Southern Ontario, besides mineral areas of unknown value, which may yield even greater wealth to the Canadian people than the farm lands. Prosperous communities will soon grow up in that region, and those manufacturers who are the first to supply their wants will get a strong foothold there, provided the goods sold to settlers are satisfactory. It will pay our manufacturers to study the wants of these new communities and endeavour to supply them. It will be worth while also to consider what the railway contractors and the men employed by them will require. There may be articles not now made in Canada which will be in sufficient demand to warrant the establishment of new industries. There should be no excuse for going abroad for anything that can be supplied in Canada, but if our own manufacturers do not offer what is wanted the contractors are not likely to make any special effort to get their supplies in Canada.

Canadian Mine's New Manager

Mr. Kerr has given up the management of the Canada Corundum Mine. Mr. Haultain, a former Peterborough boy, is the new manager. He has a scientific education and a wide experience in mining. He will do all any man can do to make it a success. The company have expended so much capital that the interest has almost become a burden. The ore is rather low grade which makes it difficult to make a large output of pure product. With careful management and provided the ore continues plentiful the mine may be made to pay.—Marmora Herald.

Successful Recital Given Last Night

Charming Musical Evening at Murray Street Baptist Church.

Organ and Vocal Recital Given by Mrs. T. J. Mowat, Under Anspices of Ladies' Aid Society.

The available seating space at the Murray street Baptist church was scarcely more than sufficient than to meet the demands upon it of the appreciative audience which assembled at the organ and vocal recital given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, through the kindness of Mrs. Mowat, who is chiefly responsible for the inception, and successful issue of the entertainment.

Almost the first concert event of the kind held in Peterborough this season, it may nevertheless be safely stated that as a genuine musical treat it will scarcely be surpassed, and possibly be unequalled by any of those which may be expected to succeed it during the long winter season. The programme was, of course, of a sacred character, and was selected with judgment and discrimination, its numbers being arranged to secure a pleasing variation. Mrs. Mowat is deserving of the heartiest congratulation upon the result attained, and in giving them an opportunity to enjoy the charming programme presented last night, she but further emphasizes the appreciation felt towards her, for her efforts in the past, by the music-loving public of the city.

The opening number was an organ solo, Gavotte, by Scharwenka (arranged by Shelly), which was rendered by Mrs. Mowat with fine technical ability, taste and execution. The three numbers which she contributed were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, which gave expression to its appreciation in hearty applause.

The programme was as follows:

Part I.

1—Organ Solo, "Gavotte," Scharwenka, arranged by Shelly.
2—Vocal Solo, "I'm a Pilgrim," Johnson—Master Herbert Mowat.
3—Vocal Solo, "Babylon," Stephen Adams—Miss Florence Hall.
4—Vocal Solo, "The Ninety and Nine," Campion—Maurice Van der Water.
5—Violin Solo, Ninth Concerto, De Beriot—Miss Hope Miller.
6—Vocal Solo, "With Verdure Clad," Handel—Miss Helen Davies.
7—Organ Solo, "Torchlight March," Guilmant.

Part II.

1—Vocal Solo, "O Divine Redeemer," Gounod—Miss Clara Belleghem.
2—Vocal Solo, "The Better Land," with violin obligato, Mrs. G. B. Miller.
3—Vocal Solo, "Song of Thanksgiving," Allison—Maurice Van der Water.
4—Organ Solo, "At Evening," Dudley Buck.

They at the trellised window loiter, Deferring their "good-night" with blissful words."

(Allingham)

"God Save the King."

The second number, the vocal solo, "I'm a Pilgrim," was rendered by Master Herbert Mowat, the clever young vocalist excelling himself.

It will be unnecessary to more than say that never, perhaps, has Miss Florence Hall been heard to better advantage than in her vocal number, "Babylon," by Stephen Adams, last night. Her charming voice quality which has won for her such distinction while upon her recent trip, never gave more thorough pleasure in Peterborough than in her performance last night.

Mr. Maurice Van der Water, the noted lyric baritone of Toronto, and, it may be mentioned, a member of the faculty of the local Conservatory of Music, made his initial appearance in "The Ninety and Nine," by Campion. Mr. Van der Water is the possessor of a resonant voice, of which he displays a perfect control. His enunciation is good, and his numbers last night were treated with musicianly interpretation and expression. His second number was the "Song of Thanksgiving," by Allison, which was substituted for the one originally chosen, "Come Unto Me." Mr. Van der Water's work last night, although he laboured under the disadvantage of a severe cold, justifies the expectation that a second appearance in Peterborough will be looked forward to feelings of pleasure.

A most charming number was the violin concerto by Miss Hope Miller, a pupil of Mrs. Drechsler Adamson, Toronto, this talented young artist betraying excellent technical ability combined with the power of expression. Her bowing was executed in a manner displaying a considerable mastery.

The next number, which concluded Part I of the programme, was, needless to say, heard with great pleasure and appreciation. This was a vocal solo, "With Verdure Clad," from Handel's "Creation," by Miss Helen Davies, whose singing never fails to elicit the most unstinted admiration wherever she appears; and last night was no exception to the rule. Miss Davies' voice, admirably cultured and controlled, her capital intonation and her interpretative insight combine to give a charm to her singing, which never fails to please.

Miss Clara Belleghem was also in good voice, and her rendering of "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod, gave thorough delight. The selection was in every respect suited to her clear rich voice, which was heard to full-est advantage.

A most charming number was that by Mrs. G. B. Miller, the vocal solo, "The Better Land," with violin obligato by Miss Hope Miller. The selection was rendered with beautiful shading and expression, and won a genuine appreciation from the audience.

The accompaniments of the evening were played by Mrs. T. J. Mowat with sympathetic expression and musicianly taste.

New Business For Peterboro'

A long-felt want is about to be supplied by the establishment of the Peterborough Typewriter Agency, the object of which is to carry on the business of public stenography and typewriting. In the large cities this business is an important one, and it is felt that in Peterborough there is a demand for an office where typewriting may be done at short notice.

The manager of this new concern is Mr. Frank Searight, who has lived in this city city for the last three years, and is himself an expert stenographer and typist. In speaking of the business Mr. Searight said to the Examiner:—

In addition to being prepared to do typewriting, we also carry a full line of typewriter supplies handled by the United Typewriter Co., in fact in this end of the business we are practically a branch of the United Typewriter Co., of Toronto, and intend to look after repairs of machines. We also have machines to rent and for sale. The machines we have for sale are the High-Grade Underwood and the useful Empire, two machines well known in Peterborough. This office will be of special benefit to Commercial Travellers and all other parties wishing typewriting done on short notice.

The office of the agency is in the Bank of Commerce Building, upstairs, from the Water street entrance.

Surest Cure for Colds

"It is with pleasure that I certify to the wonderful success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for colds. It is the best and safest treatment for coughs and colds that we have ever been able to find."—Mrs. George Good, Tichborne, Addington County, Ont.

Y. W. C. A. Travel Club.

—To-night at the Y. W. C. A. the Travel Club, conducted by Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, and the dressmaking class taught by Madame Lee, will meet. The members of the Travel Club will take a tour through Japan before Christmas, and through Russia after. The trip will be delightful. All who care to take it come and register to-night.

Mr. Forsyth Will Take Charge On Nov. 1st.

Will be Valued Acquisition to City Musical Circles.

Miss Bryce Will Remain Until Nov. 1st—Other Changes and Retirements.

As was noted by the Examiner several days ago the Music Committee of St. Andrew's church has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Cecil C. Forsyth as choirmaster. Mr. Forsyth has attained a high degree of excellence as teacher in piano, organ, voice culture, composition, etc., and will make a decided acquisition to the musical force in this city. He is a brother of Mr. W. O. Forsyth, of the Metropolitan School of Music, Toronto.

In organ playing and church music Mr. Forsyth was for some time a pupil of Mr. T. C. Jeffers, now organist of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, and of the late Mr. Alf. Burns, of New Richmond Church, Toronto, and was organist of Knox Presbyterian Church, Perth.

In voice culture he was a pupil of Signor Lon Sajous, of New York, himself a pupil of the celebrated master Lempert. Mr. Forsyth comes highly recommended by many foremost musical authorities, among which is the following from Mr. Edmond L. Roberts, secretary of the Metropolitan School of Music, Toronto, and well known to many Peterborough people through his annual summer holiday sojourn at Stony Lake:

"During the four years Mr. Forsyth was connected with the Metropolitan School of Music he proved himself to be a very competent musician in the domain of practical piano playing and teaching as also in the various branches of musical theory, and not the least admirable of Mr. Forsythe's many attributes is that he can be implicitly relied upon for whatever he undertakes."

His duties will begin November 1st.

Mrs. P. A. Kerr, who has presided at the organ with much grace, great acceptance and appreciated efficiency by special request took charge of the organ on the retirement of Mr. H. M. Lloyd, (now of Winnipeg,) until a successor should be appointed.

Owing to the resignation of Miss Margaret Bryce, as soprano leader, Miss Mary Rush has been appointed her successor. Miss Bryce has an extensive practice through Otonabee as teacher in piano and organ, and has found the city work interfering with her increasing professional duties. The congregation have from time to time expressed their appreciation of her able services.

Recovery Is Now Hoped For

A Peterborough gentleman this morning received from a friend in Edmontoin, N.W.T., a letter under date of Friday last. The writer states that on Thursday the condition of Mr. Archie Froude, who has been suffering from typhoid fever, showed a slight improvement, the patient resting somewhat easier, and it was at that time felt that, unless untoward complications ensued, recovery, which was previously despaired of, might be hoped for.

Mr. Froude's many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to learn of his improved condition.

Another October Wedding

Nuptials of Mr. J. O'Donnell, and Miss Mary Holland.

Rev Father Fitzpatrick Performs the Ceremony in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at St. Martin's church, Ennismore, when Mr. Jas. O'Donnell, of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Miss Mary Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holland, of Ennismore, by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The wedding procession entered the church promptly at nine o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Galvin.

Miss Emma O'Connor of Ennismore acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Thos. O'Brien of this city, assisted the groom.

After the ceremony was performed the happy young couple, accompanied by the guests, returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a choice wedding breakfast was served. The remainder of the day was spent very pleasantly in games and other amusements, and in congratulating the happy young couple. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and valuable presents.

In the evening the bride and groom were accompanied to the city by a large number of the guests, and escorted to their new home at 681 Stewart street, where they will in future reside.

Bible Club Elects Officers

There was a lively interest on the part of the charter members of the Social Bible Club, who met for organization at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

This club is composed of employed boys, and, as its name indicates, it aims to combine Bible study and social life.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Director, Robt. E. Harding; Director, Mr. Geo. H. Raper; Vice-Director, Arthur Dawe; Secretary and Organist, Fred. Hall; Treasurer, John Evans; Executive, O. Pedlar, Ant. Hall and C. Thornton.

The club meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Travels of Paul will be the Bible studies taken up.

A highly encouraging start was made in the senior gymnasium classes at the Y. M. C. A., which opened last evening, when the attendance of men was larger than it has been at the opening for the past three years.

The leadership of Mr. E. E. Lord is proving very popular, and his ability to make the class interesting will no doubt bring largely attended sessions.

The men were delighted last night with the programme.

Eddie Mann Wins Cross Country Run

Made Record Time by Covering the Distance in 17 Min. 30 Sec.

Beat Last Year's Record by Over 30 Seconds—Six Boys Started in Race.

The cross country run, the first event of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute annual field day of sports, was run off yesterday afternoon. The course was the same as that covered last year. The start was made at the corner of Water and Murray streets, across Central Park to McDonel street, along McDonel to the creek, through the fields to the concrete bridge in Jackson Park, across the bridge to Smith street, to Weston street, down Water to the corner of Murray. The distance covered is reckoned to be over three miles, and the best time made was 17 minutes, 30 seconds, beating last year's record by over 30 seconds.

Six boys started in the race—Eddie Manse, Howard Moore, Lincoln Brace, Ed. Wood, Leonard Girodx and E. White. The first to pass over the line was Eddie Mann, Howard Moore being a close second, and Lincoln Brace third.

Those who officiated were:

Judges—Dr. Burnham, Dr. Morrison, D. Walker, R. Fair, R. B. Rogers, C. Fessenden, L. M. Hayes.

Starters—W. H. Hill, W. Pringle, J. Jeffries, A. W. McPherson.

Timekeepers—A. Gibson, H. P. Kennedy, J. Crane.

Clerk of the course—J. A. Fife, E. C. Grigley.

The annual field day of sports will be pulled off on Friday afternoon on the Nicholls oval. All friends of the Collegiate Institute are cordially invited to be present. Should the weather be unfavourable, a postponment will be made.

Hockey Player Goes to Ottawa

Mr. Harold Armstrong, formerly of the local staff of the Ontario Bank, and more recently of one of the Toronto branches of that institution, is in town for a few days. It is understood that Mr. Armstrong will leave shortly for Ottawa, having joined the staff of the Bank of Ottawa.

Mr. Armstrong will be welcomed by the hockey-loving public of the Capital, and will no doubt figure in Stanley Cup games this winter.

Prospects For a Winning Team

There is splendid material in Peterborough for a winning rugby team. There are a number of new men in town who are turning out with the boys and together with the greater interest being shown in the game this season than formerly, prospects are exceedingly bright for landing the championship. It is now up to the officials of the different clubs to get together and form a city league to develop the young material which will be available for next season. Some of the youngsters are showing up in excellent form and before the season ends they will be making a hot bid for the ranks of senior company.

RUGBY.

There was a fairly good turn-out of the rugby players at practice last night on Central Park. The boys had a likely work-out, after which they were drilled in punting, tackling and catching the ball.

Secretary Horace Walkey, of the Peterborough Rugby Club has received word from the O.R.F.U. that the Marlboros, of Toronto, have dropped out of the intermediate series. This knocks Saturday's game on the head as the withdrawal of the Marlboros leaves Peterborough the only team in district No. 2. It is possible that St. Michael's College, Argos, H. and Peterborough will be formed into one section. The members of the Peterborough team are working with this end in view and secretary Walkey expects definite results in a few days.

Collegiate Institute Events To-morrow

Events 10 to 18 on the programme issued for the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Field Day of sports to be held on Friday afternoon, will in all probability be run off to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. There are so many events on the programme that it will be impossible to clear the sheet Friday.

Seats Being Taken Rapidly

Dear Sir,—Letters and papers addressed Chemong Park are still coming to our post office. The changing of the name of the post office to Curve Lake, did not do one bit of good. They should have changed the name of Chemong Park, instead of that of our post office. If the cottage owners at the park wanted an Indian name, we could have given them the original and appropriate name. Our grandfathers used to portage from what is now called Bridgenorth to Little Lake, Peterborough, and to this day our old men speak of Bridgenorth as "Nigemeeng"—meaning portage.

Magistrate Reverses His Own Decision

Appeal Made To-day in Case of Jeremiah Clary.

And Question Now Arises as to Who Will "Settle."

Chief Roesel and Town Solicitor H. D. Hall, returned this afternoon from Lindsay, where they today argued an appeal before Police Magistrate Jackson against his own decision in the case of Jeremiah Clary, a boy who was sentenced by him to a long period in St. John's Industrial School, Toronto.

The Lindsay Magistrate in his original decision assessed the County of Peterborough with the costs of Clary's maintenance.

It wa sproven conclusively in the evidence submitted by the Peterborough representatives that Clary had resided here for only five or six weeks and that this county was therefore not liable for the costs. The boy, who is twelve years of age, left Peterborough, it appears, in the month of October last, and before going to Lindsay resided in Monaghan and Omemee.

The Magistrate granted the appeal against his own decision, and the question now naturally arises as to who will settle. This will be decided at a later date.

Hymenials At Hastings

A wedding of local interest took place this afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Stinson, who lives about two miles below the village of Hastings, when his daughter, Ida, was united in marriage to Mr. Ed. Wilcox, district manager of the Montreal Life Assurance Company. The happy couple will reside in Hastings, but Mr. Wilcox, who has an office on Water street, will be a very frequent visitor to the city.

"Is Dr. Chase Your Doctor"

Have You Learned to Cure Biliousness, Indigestion and Constipation With

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills?

A medicine like a physician, is selected because of the actual results it is known to bring about. Most people are slow in choosing either physicians or medicine until they know of cases in which they have proven successful.

In calling your attention to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills it is only necessary to point to their success in the past for they are known in nearly every home.

By means of their direct and specific action on the liver in causing a healthful flow of bile—they regulate and enliven the actions of the bowels and ensure good digestion in the intestines. At the same time they stimulate the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

This cleansing process set in action by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, means a thorough cure of biliousness, intestinal indigestion, torpid liver, kidney derangements and constipation.

It means a restoration of health, strength and comfort where there has been pain, weakness and suffering. It means a removal of the conditions which lead to backache, rheumatism, lumbago, Bright's disease, appendicitis and diabetes.

Mrs. H. TreHope, 359 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I have used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them an excellent medicine. I had very severe pains across the back, which came from my kidneys being out of order, and after using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for a time I began to feel a wonderful improvements in my health.

"I have no more pains in my back now and am feeling as well as ever I did. Consequently I am glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

"NOT GUILTY" IS THE VERDICT

Premier Whitney Talks of the University Commission.

REPLIES TO CRITICISMS

Corrects Misapprehensions As to the Object That the Government Had In View—There Is No Church Representation In the Commission, He Declares, and Regrets Animadversions In This Regard.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—The new University Commission was formally appointed yesterday afternoon by order-in-council. The chairmanship will be offered to J. W. Flavelle, when the committee meets for organization and he will accept. The secretary is I. H. N. Colquhoun.

The personnel of the commission as officially appointed is: J. W. Flavelle, chairman; I. H. N. Colquhoun, secretary; Sir William Ralph Meredith, Prof. Goldwin Smith, Rev. Canon Coady, Rev. J. B. MacDonald, Byron E. Walker.

Mr. Whitney's Explanation.

Mr. Whitney said:

"I wish to emphasize the fact that the commission is not expected, and has no power, to deal with what has occurred in university circles in the past, or in other words, "investigate the university." The past is a closed book, so far as the Government is concerned, and the instructions to the commissioners are simply to remove the existing scheme of management and government of the university, and recommend another in its stead.

"As the days go on it becomes more clear that the choice of the individuals to serve on the commission was an admirable one. Of course there are many very estimable gentlemen of culture and experience in the Province who would have done good work on the commission, but it was absolutely essential to success that the number of members of the commission should not exceed six or seven.

Why Are They Called.

"No reason need be given for the choice of Mr. Goldwin Smith.

"It was thought well to have one gentleman, namely, the chancellor, to represent the university. Several reasons could be advanced in favor of this idea, some of which are obvious. Then it was thought desirable to have some representative business men, and Mr. Flavelle and Mr. Walker were chosen, both of whom have taken great interest in university matters and have given more or less time to the consideration of them.

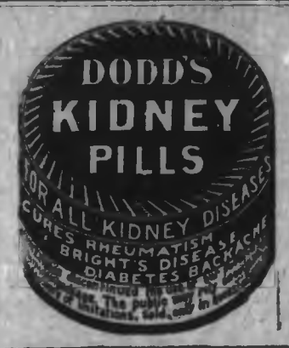
"It was also thought proper that the younger graduates of the university should be represented and Messrs. Coady and MacDonald were chosen from that class. Both of these gentlemen are well-known as taking great interest in the welfare of the university. Mr. Colquhoun was chosen as being a graduate of McGill University, and a man of wide information and knowledge on educational matters and subjects of a similar nature. He was assigned also to the position of secretary of the commission.

"The commission is to let the past severely alone, and having regard to the various systems of management in force in other similar institutions, as well as the conditions surrounding our university, to devise or formulate a new system of management and government for it. It goes without saying that in doing this the commission will avail itself of the knowledge and experience of a large number of gentlemen in Canada and the United States, who may be called experts on the subject.

Regrets Creed Cry.

"I regret exceedingly to have seen it suggested that a certain church should have more than one representative on the commission. I desire it to be distinctly understood that no church has any representative on this commission, and that the members of it were chosen without any reference whatever to their church connections. It is satisfactory to know that so far no objection has been heard from those churches that have no apparent representation whatever on the commission.

"I regret more than I can express that a question like this should be brought up in a way calculated to seriously damage the usefulness of such a body. I certainly hope that the public mind is not in the condition which this suggestion would seem to indicate."



THE INSURANCE FRAUDS.

Policyholders Suing For Restitution of Money Paid the Party.

New York, Oct. 4.—Permission to begin suit against John A. McCall, president, and George W. Perkins, vice-president, of the New York Life Insurance Co., for the restitution of $150,000 contributed to Republican campaign funds, was asked of Attorney-General Mayer yesterday by Wm. Hepburn Russell, acting as attorney for several policyholders. Under the law of this state the sanction of the attorney-general is required in order to bring a suit of this character.

Hyde Files His Demurrer.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Attorney-General Mayer yesterday received a copy of a demurrer filed by James H. Hyde, former vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, to the blanket suit brought by the state against the old directors of the company to compel restitution of money alleged to have been wrongfully converted by the board.

Nevada Acts.

Carson, Nev., Oct. 4.—State Contoller and Insurance Commissioner S. P. Davis yesterday revoked the license of the New York Life Insurance Co. in this state.

ELECTION APPEALS.

Shelburne and Queen's Must Go to Trial—Wentworth Election is Void —Steamer Canada to Blame.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—The Supreme Court rendered judgment yesterday in six election cases that had been heard before it last term, and in the appeal arising out of the collision in the St. Lawrence River at Sorel last season between the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co.'s liner Canada and the S. S. Cape Breton.

In the Wentworth Federal election case, where the seat was claimed by both candidates, Smith and Sealey, the Supreme Court dismissed Mr. Sealey's appeal with costs, and directs that the order declaring the election void is to stand, Sedgewick and Idington dissenting.

In the King case, which involved the validity of Sir Frederick Borden's election, the petition against Sir Frederick is dismissed, which confirms him in his seat.

In the Queen's-Shelburne case the preliminary objections raised on behalf of Hon. W. S. Fielding, the sitting member, were dismissed, and the Supreme Court sends the case back to the lower court for the trial of the petition against the Finance Minister.

In the Cumberland, North Cape Breton and Pictou election cases the appeal is allowed with costs as to the tenth preliminary objection and the cases remitted to the lower courts to have evidence taken under this objection.

Judgment in the Cape Breton-Canada case goes against the Richelieu & Ontario Co., the court holding that the steamer Canada was alone to blame for the collision in question. The case is remitted to the Exchequer Court, Quebec Admiralty district, for the assessment of the damages to be paid by the Richelieu & Ontario Co. to the owners of the Cape Breton.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

Electors of Charlevoix to Mr. Rudolphe Forget—The Member's Glowing Promises Did Not Materialize.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Rodolphe Forget, the millionaire M. P. for Charlevoix, has been asked by a large number of his constituents to resign in one of the most extraordinary letters in the history of politics.

Mr. Forget's constituents reminded him that last October he secured election by boasting of his immense wealth which he was anxious to spend for the benefit of Charlevoix. They remind him that he promised to build quays, railways, and all sorts of public works, Government subsidy or not, if only they would elect him and if he did not start things before July he would resign.

Not only did Mr. Forget not keep these promises, but he only attended Parliament ten days during the six months' session recently ended. His constituents tell him that his boasts of carrying business into politics merely meant that he put his own affairs first and those of Charlevoix far in the rear. The letter concludes "we use our own incontestable right in demanding that you keep your word and repair in some measure the injustice you have done us by resigning your seat."

After reading the letter Mr. Forget said: "If they do not want me to represent them in the House of Commons all they have to do is get up a petition with the legitimate signatures of a majority of the electors, and I will resign."

Navigation Is Dangerous.

Vladivostock, Sunday, Oct. 1.—The first freight steamer left this port today for Chefoo, thus re-opening regular commerce by sea between Vladivostock and other ports.

A Russian troopship sailed simultaneously with relief stores for the people of Kamschtkan coast.

Navigation is still risky, owing to floating mines, four of which were sighted by small craft yesterday within fourteen miles of the harbor.

Berlin Strike Spreads.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The strike of the electrical workers has extended to two more factories. The total number of men out is 23,000. No disturbances have occurred. Enough men have been obtained to supply a current sufficient to keep two-thirds of the streets cars going.

TIRED OUT.

There's many a wife sits in the growing gloom of an evening, knowing what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But if healthy she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. She feels acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves.

Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am pleased to inform you of the benefit I received from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oswold, of 45 Brant Street, Windsor, Essex Co., Ontario, Canada. "Was quite discouraged when I wrote asking your advice, as the physicians here told me I could get no relief except by an operation. Suffered for four years from irregular and profuse menstruation, had sick and nervous headaches most of the time, and at times could hardly walk across the floor from weakness. I thank God there is such a remedy as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for suffering women. Before I had taken the first bottle the headaches had left me and it was not long before regularity was established and still continues so. Have just finished house-cleaning which I never expected to be able to do again, and can truly say I never felt better in all my life. Gladly recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all who suffer from female weakness. It has cured me and made me stronger in every way. Neither my husband nor myself can say enough in its praise."

The selfish seller who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

Shooting At Ingersoll Justified By the Jury.

MRS. ROBT. KYLE ACQUITTED

"You Are Discharged," Said Judge MacMahon to the Prisoner, After He Had Announced His Concurrence In the Jury's Verdict — Shown That Magee Had Taken Liberties In the Kyle Home.

Woodstock, Oct. 4.—After three hours' deliberation the jury in the Kyle case returned a verdict of not guilty at 9 o'clock last evening.

"We believe the woman was perfectly justified in doing what she did," were the words of the foreman.

"I thoroughly concur in your finding," said Judge MacMahon, who, turning to the accused, said: "You are discharged."

With spontaneous applause the large audience present showed their approval of the verdict.

Throughout the entire day Mrs. Kyle faced the ordeal with a calm, almost defiant air, but the verdict brought to her face a look of relief.

The trial presented no sensational features. Magee was proven to be a worthless character and a betrayer of women.

It was shown that he had taken liberties in the Kyle home and had received no encouragement from Mrs. Kyle.

Judge MacMahon's address was strongly in favor of acquittal.

Sentence Day at Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Yesterday was sentence day in the Court of King's Bench, the most important cases being Richard Davis, three years for robbing mails, and Rocco Caporelli, manslaughter, two years.

Gave a Worthless Cheque.

Windsor, Oct. 4.—Daniel B. Odette, a well-known local politician, will appear before Magistrate Bartlett on Thursday, to answer to a charge of having uttered a worthless cheque in favor of Daniel Toussigan, a Sandwich grape grower, upon the Windsor branch of the Bank of Commerce for $350.

Aged 75, Gets Five-Year Term.

Belleville, Oct. 4.—Herbert Conley, who is about 75 years of age, was tried here before Judge Fraleck, charged with a serious crime, was found guilty and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

One Year and Ten Lashes.

Hamilton, Oct. 4.—Alfred Saunders, a Barnardo boy, 16 years of age, who worked for a Beverly farmer, confessed to Judge Monck that he had criminally assaulted Edith Camp, a young girl, near Harrisburg last Sunday as she was returning from Sunday school. He sentenced the boy to one year in Central Prison, with ten lashes.

Gaynor and Greene Leave.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Gaynor and Greene were yesterday preparing to leave on the journey to Savannah, Georgia, tonight.

Explodes Murder Theory.

Ingersoll, Oct. 4.—Inspector Murray of the criminal investigation department, after investigating the death of Isaiah Wright, whose body was found in the river, is satisfied that death was purely accidental. Dr. McKay's post-mortem does not bear out a murder theory, and when the men are brought before the magistrate on Friday the charged will probably be withdrawn.

Suicide Admits Murder.

London, Oct. 4.—(C. A. P.)—A Calcutta paper of September 14 says at the inquest it was found that J. A. Booth, the Canadian, who suicided in the police station on September 7, left a letter stating his right name was John Alfred Victor Delotbiniere Booth, and confessed to the murder in Manila of Capt. Hingleton of the 22nd Minnesota United States army, on July 27, 1899. Booth asked that Governor Otis be sent a copy of the letter.

Lamented Death of Miss Humphries

The death occurred at the residence of her uncle, Mr. J. H. Cameron, 13 Elm street, last night, at 9.30 o'clock, of Annie Humphries, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Humphries.

The deceased was 19 years of age, had been a sufferer for some time from the ravages of tuberculosis, and was for some time at the Gravenhurst Sanitarium, in the hope that relief might be effected. She sank gradually in decline, however, until her demise resulted.

She was the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Humphries, both of whom pre-deceased her, the former by about two years, and the latter by a longer period. One brother, Joseph H., who resides in Ashphodel, survives her.

The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed but will probably be held to-morrow to a private family cemetery in Asphodel township.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SORE HANDS

After Most Awful Suffering Ever Experienced.—Eight Doctors and Many Remedies Failed to Do a Cent's Worth of Good.

THANKS TO CUTICURA IT IS ALL OVER NOW

"I was troubled with sore hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh get hard and break, with blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. Words could never tell the suffering I endured for three years. I tried eight different doctors, but none did me any good, as my hands were as bad as when I began. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heartsore. I would feel so bad mornings, to think I had to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours. I often felt like giving up my position. I would have to wrap every finger up separately, so as to try and keep them soft, and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. I had to wear gloves at night; in fact, all the time. But thanks to Cuticura, that is all over now. After doctoring for three years, and spending much money, a single box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings. It's been two years since I have known what sore hands are, and have never lost a day's work while using Cuticura.—Thomas A. Clancy, 310 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, N. J."

ONE NIGHT TREATMENT For Sore Hands and Feet with Cuticura.

Soak the hands or feet at night in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure. Wear on the hands at night old, loose gloves, or bandage the feet lightly in old, soft cotton or linen.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston. Cuticura Soap, 25c. Ointment, 50c. Pills, 25c. per box. Complete External and Internal Treatment, $1.00. Post-free, "The Great Skin Book."

PETERBOROUGH WILL BE PLACED ON DIRECT GRAIN ROUTE TO EAST

C. P. R. Makes an Important Announcement in Reference to New Line of Railway to Connect at Peterborough --Will be Used for Transport of Grain From Victoria Harbour to Montreal--This City Will Probably be Chosen as the Diverging Point.

Peterborough is in all probability to secure in the near future, an important addition to its already extensive railway connections, and if the projected line is constructed, as it will undoubtedly will be in the near future, this city will be placed on the direct line of communication from the Georgian Bay to the Atlantic ports. The Toronto Globe, in referring to it, says:—

A strong link in the chain of transportation from the Canadian Northwest to the seaboard will be forged when the Canadian Pacific Railway completes its line from Victoria Harbour to a junction with the Ontario and Quebec Division at Peterborough or Havelock. Surveyors who are out on this work now, report that a three-tenths of one per cent. grade may be secured, though admittedly only by the expenditure of a large sum of money. To cut down the elevations to secure for all effects and purposes a level line, is a vast undertaking, and yet considering all these competitive elements that enter into the situation, the C. P. R. can hardly afford to pass upon any other proposition than that which will give them the easiest possible gradient east from Georgian Bay.

Speaking of the line from Victoria Harbour eastward, Mr. J. W. Leonard, superintendent of construction, said yesterday that a large sum of money would be required to do the this work. The selection of Peterborough or Havelock as the point of junction would depend wholly upon the suitability of the location as reported upon by the engineers. A short route with the easiest grades, that would afford a rapid and economical line for the handling of grain, was what the company aimed at, and bonuses would be sought.

SILENT NUPTIAL FUNCTION AT EIGHT O'CLOCK THIS MORNING AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Mr. Wm. O'Rourke and Miss Nellie Derocher United in Marriage--Both are Deaf Mutes--Interestingly Unique Occasion--The Bridal Banquet and Speeches--Beautiful Array of Beautiful Presents.

The voice that breathed o'er Eden,
That earliest wedding day,
The primal marriage blessing—
It hath not passed away.

The popular formula, which is often employed to characterise the actions of a newly-wedded pair—"they have tied a knot with their tongues which they can't untie with their teeth"—does not apply to a uniquely interesting wedding ceremony which took place at St. Peter's Cathedral at 8 o'clock this morning, when the first marriage of deaf mutes was celebrated there.

The occasion was of more than usual interest to the congregation, of which the bride was a member, for the ceremony attracted a large congregation of witnesses. Before the church three carriages drawn by white horses, with white favours adorning the whips, indicated to the passer-by that something unusually festive was going forward. The happy bridegroom had taken every precaution to give the smartest effect to the occasion, having explicitly stipulated that all the carriage horses should be white.

The principals in this happy affair were Mr. William A. O'Rourke, foreman of the Oakville Star newspaper, and Miss Mary Ellen (Nellie) De Rocher, daughter of Mr. Israel De Rocher, 260 Murray street. Both, as remarked, are deaf mutes, and though both will be silent partners in the matrimonial firm formed this morning, there seems to be no room for doubt in the minds of spectators of the festivities, that the union will be attended with as much success, so to speak, and as much happiness, as the ordinary matrimonial union.

At 8 o'clock precisely the carriage containing the bridal party reached the church, and as the bride and her attendant entered the church and passed up the central aisle, the organ pealed forth Mendelssohn's Wedding March, performed by Prof. Denyes, of the Belleville Institute. To say that the bride looked charming is no mere façon de parler — a petite brunette, with heavy masses of black hair dressed modestly back, a very pretty face lit up with a speaking pair of dark gray eyes, she was modestly and beautifully attired in navy blue Louisine silk and lace trimmings, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended in the capacity of bridesmaid by her sister, Maggie De Rocher, gowned in blue Venetian with lace trimming, and carrying a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by Mr. Leo De Rocher, brother of the bride, and the duties of ushers were performed by Mr. J.
